Calls Convention Just Financial Battle

MOSCOW (AP)—The Communist party newspaper Pravda today described the Republican party's national convention in Chicago as a battle betweeh immense corporations and financial interests.

Senator Robert A. Taft's support, it declared, is largely from the midwest and Chicago financial circles and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's principally from Wall Street and the east.

Neither Taft nor Eisenhower, in any event, express the wishes, hopes or needs of a people which is striving for peace and struggling for its rights," Pravda said.

Woman Injured Man Jailed

Raymond McIllmoyle, 32, 531 Braidwood Ave., was convicted of assault occasioning bodily harm and sentenced to two months in jail by Magistrate W. R. Philp in police court today.

McIllmoyle conducted his own defence and denied that he struck and kikced Velma Jacobs on the evening of July 2.

Both Miss Jacobs and Mrs. Geraldine Clarke who said she witnessed the assault claimed that McIllmoyle knocked Miss Jacobs down, then kicked and hit her with his hands.

Mrs. Clarke said one of Miss Jacobs' eyes was badly swollen after the beating she received and that her face was bloody.

Police matron Kathryn Shadgett who examined Miss Jacobs shortly after the alleged assault said Miss Jacobs also had a bruise on her hip and denied McIllmoyle's assertion that Miss Jacobs was "very drunk."

Witness Tells Of Conversation On Telephone

HAMILTON (CP)—A telephone conversation concerning the loan of an unregistered automatic pistol was described by a witness at the preliminary hearing of Harry Lee, 37, Hamilton, in magistrate's court at Dundas, today. Lee is charged with the murder of Mrs. Mary Rosenblatt on June 2.

The witness was Bruce Dennis, son of accused's landlady. He said accused had lived at his home for 14 years.

He said he telephoned home on the Saturday night before the fatal shooting of Mrs. Rosenblatt, and that Lee answered the telephone. He was told his mother was not home. She had gone to Cayuga.

Dennis said accused asked him if he had an unregistered automatic "which could not be traced back to you." He asked what the pistol was wanted for and told the court that Lee told him: "I've been getting the run around and I'm going to fill somebody with lead."

HEARD VOICE

During the conversation, he said accused drew his attention to noise in the background. Dennis believed accused was talking about cats, rummaging around in the kitchen, but then he said he heard a woman's voice calling: "Harry, Harry."

After the conversation, witness said he telephoned his mother at Cayuga and his mother told him to go to the house to see what was going on.

He said Lee seemed to be alone in the house when he got there, and that he asked him again about an automatic. Then he said: "Well, if I can't get one from you I'll use my own."

He said accused went to his car at that time to take it to a service station for gasoline, and that he followed for several blocks. There was no other person in the car with him.

Young Filly Takes Thirds In First Trial

Dr. Arthur Johnston's three-year-old filly Lady Victoria J. finished third in two races at Thorncliffe Tuesday. She was making her first appearance away from home after only three starts in 1951 in which she won two and finished second in the other one.

In the first heat at a mile, the winner was Donna Harvester, owned by E. H. Dewart, Toronto, in 2:11 1/5. Lady Victoria finished in front of Worthy Baker from the R. J. Speers Stable of Winnipeg, in fourth place. Coming out again in the fifth race at a mile and 1/16, the western three-year-old paid $24 to win. This Dr. Baker colt was cleverly driven by Hon. Earl Rowe, M.P.

Lady Victoria paid $3.40 and $3.20 in her two third slots. Peterborough harness racing fans were rather largely represented Tuesday. Many of them went up to see Dr. Johnston's filly, and most of them had a ticket or two on her chances. Several of the exceptions liked Worthy Baker in the fifth race, and collected at the longest odds of the program.

Harry Ingles of Brighton took the first heat with the eight-year-old gelding Larry Wayne. Stan Crossett of Port Hope was out of the money twice with his Elgin mare, Miss Port Hope. She was in the same company with Lady Victoria. Stan Blewett's "Gadabout" did not show in his two heats that were taken by the favorite Williamsburg in the two feature races.

J. J. Crowley's Jimmy Forbes finished third in its two heats. Peterborough fans had a lot of running interest in the Tuesday card.

Russia Vetoes Germ Resolution

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Russia's Jacob Malik today vetoed a United States resolution declaring the Russian germ warfare charges false and condemning their circulation throughout the world.

The Security Council voted 9 to 1 for the American resolution but the single negative vote of the Russian delegate constituted a veto. The 11th council member, Pakistan, abstained.

The American proposal was put before the council by Ambassador Ernest A. Gross last week after Mailk had vetoed an earlier U.S. resolution calling for an impartial investigation of Communist charges that the U.S. and the U.N. are waging germ war in Korea and China.

After the vote today Gross said the council had exposed the campaign of "lies and hate" for what it is.

Union Denies Strike Date Set At Stelco

HAMILTON (CP)—Union officials in Hamilton today discounted reports that a strike deadline has been set because of failure to reach agreement with representatives of the Steel Company of Canada.

The reports hinted that "there would be an August walkout by 10,000 Stelco workers who probably would be joined by another 6,000 at Algoma Steel Corporation, Sault Ste. Marie and Dominion Foundries, Hamilton.

Larry Sefton, area supervisor for United Steelworkers of America said today that no strike deadline had been set, that no strike vote had been taken, and that no date could be set until members had voted on strike action.

ISSUES STATEMENT

In a statement issued today from a conference of delegates representing the 10,000 Stelco workers, however, the national Stelco advisory committee emphasized "unless settlement is reached within two weeks, or boards of conciliation are set up, the union will not feel itself bound to delay consideration of effective economic action."

The conference charged the steel company with "lack of real effort to come to grips with contract proposals of the union" in negotiations to date.

The statement adds: "Despite the fact that negotiations had broken down with the company in all plants and conciliation had been applied for on March 19 neither the Quebec nor the Ontario Labor Department has yet effected a satisfactory settlement, nor had either government yet set up a board of conciliation, despite statutory time limits requiring such boards to be established shortly after conciliation has been applied for."

Involved are plants at Hamilton, Brantford, Gananoque, Swansea, Toronto and Montreal.

WHO ARE DELEGATES?—While representatives of the Republican party from every state in the union mill about convention hall in Chicago, the real business of selecting a candidate for the presidential election was put off by wrangling over who were to be official delegates authorized to vote.

Col. H. A. Mullins Once Senator, Livestock Man

TORONTO (CP).—A champion of diversified farming and a former senator, Col. Henry Alfred Mullins, 90, died yesterday at the home of his daughter, Forest Hill.

Born in England, Col. Mullins came to Canada in 1871 with his parents who settled at Lindsay. He attended school there and studied law for a time, but a chance meeting with Frank Langrill of Eglinton, an outstanding livestock man, started him on his career to which he devoted most of his life. He married Mr. Langrill's daughter, Anne, and entered her father's employ, later moving to the Southern Alberta range country. In time, he became one of the best judges of beef cattle in this country and began to export stock to Great Britain. He also managed the 66,500-acre Cochrane ranch.

MOVED TO MANITOBA

About the turn of the century he transferred his export business to Manitoba and in 1900 was elected to the legislature there as Conservative member for Russell. In 1925 he was elected to the House of Commons as Marquette representative, but was defeated the following year. Five years later he was again returned, receiving the largest majority in any rural Manitoba seat.

In 1935, Prime Minister Bennett appointed him to fill a Manitoba vacancy in the Senate. He resigned from the Senate in 1950.

Col. Mullins was an advocate of cattle on every Canadian farm for many years. Nearly every speech he made in the Commons contained a plea for the cattle-raiser. There was no country in the world like Canada for feeding cattle out-of-doors, he once declared in a speech in which he condemned shipping cattle to the United States for finishing.

Many measures he advocated for improvement of the livestock industry were put into effect.

At the outbreak of the First World War, he was one of the first to offer his services. He became a colonel in 1915 and served as chief inspector of supplies and transport from 1915 to 1918.

FOUGHT FOR MARKETS

When the war ended and he returned to his cattle business he found exports had been restricted by a British embargo. At his own expense he went to England in 1922 to do something about it. With the committee working for free importation of cattle he waged a strenuous campaign and finally won his point.

Col. Mullins announced his retirement from active business in 1926. He settled on a 1,000-acre ranch west of Winnipeg where he purchased 200 or 300 steers each autumn for winter feeding. He later negotiated the sale of his Cochrane ranch to the Mormon Church.

As an M.P. he became interested in penitentiary conditions in 1933 and he met Norman (Red) Ryan on a visit to Kingston Penitentiary. He was so impressed with his reformation that he made personal representations to the justice minister on Ryan's behalf.

"Ryan, I am willing to buy a ranch out west, stock it and place you there," the senator told Ryan. "I'll supply the money and you'll supply the work. What do you say?"

Ryan refused the offer and less than a year later he was killed by police during an attempted hold-up. Col. Mullins said his faith in human nature had been dealt almost a knockout blow by Ryan's duplicity.

Yankees Cross Up Ball Experts Again

By RIP WATSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Those pesky New York Yankees are making the so-called baseball experts look bad again.

Not only are the Yankees leading the American League, despite the Associated Press' pre-season poll which clearly showed that the Yankees' proper niche was second place behind Cleveland Indians. The New Yorkers are winning consistently without a star of the Babe Ruth-Joe DiMaggio magnitude.

The records show that the New York American League entry was something less than a menace to first place for the first 20 years of the century.

About that time Babe Ruth came to the Yankees and they won six pennants in eight years from 1921 through 1928. The Babe and his mates were temporarily eclipsed by Philadelphia Athletics for a time but came on again to win it all in 1932. That was Ruth's last winning effort, however, and the once-proud New York team failed to win again until DiMaggio arrived on the scene in 1936.

Sparked by the jolter, the Yanks ripped off four pennants in a row, missed by a whisker in 1940 and then came back for three more in succession. They floundered through the latter part of the war years, won in 1947, missed out in another close finish in 1948 and then came on for three more pennants in 1949-51 as DiMag closed out his career.

Those who place faith in pre-season polls can find some measure of solace in Brooklyn Dodgers, who were awarded first before the season started and are occupying the designated berth at the half-way point.

Pinay Gov't Strengthened By De Gaullist Resignations

PARIS (Reuters)—Premier Antoine Pinay's save-the-franc administration was strengthened yesterday by the mass resignation of 28 members of Gen. Charles de Gaulle's Rassemblement du Peuple Francais.

The Gaullist rebels, who have set up a new parliamentary group, had earlier helped Pinay win a vote of confidence 267 to 216 on government proposals for a sliding wage-scale.

With further resignations likely during the next few days, Gaullist strength in the Assembly is expected to slump from 115 to about 85 deputies, putting the party behind the Socialists, Communists, Moderate Conservatives and Mouvement Republicain Populaire.

The Socialists, with 106 deputies, now will take the Gaullists' place as the strongest single party in the National Assembly.

Main reason for the revolt were new strict rules on voting discipline which party leaders slapped down on the deputies. The rebels complained the new rules were incompatible with their "parliamentary dignity."

Pinay's victory in the vote of confidence gives his government a respite at least until the end of the summer recess. His government then will have lasted seven months—longer than any of the three previous administrations.

Belgian Congo Developing In World Trade Now

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

"Darkest Africa" is having a boom.

The dream of a native of the Belgian Congo is to own a phonograph, a bicycle and a radio; or, in the more practical realm, a a sewing machine.

His dreams are broadening and, in growing measure, he is earning the money to realize them.

Robert Bodson, a Belgian who has spent some years in the Congo and now is attending New York University, told these things and many others yesterday to a joint luncheon in Toronto of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

WILD THINGS ABOUND

From Mr. Bodson's remarks, and from the film which he showed, one judges that one may still find most of the things associated with "Darkest Africa"—jungles, lions, elephants; colorful native tribes, from pygmies four feet tall to the remarkable Watutsis, seven feet tall.

But one will also find a country embarked upon one of the most remarkable advances of the times, and one which is prepared both to buy and sell a wide range of goods and natural products.

W. J. Weldon, first vice-president of Canadian Exporters, expressed it:

"Development in the Congo in recent years exceeds anything I have seen in 32 years in the export trade. It is one of the few markets in the world which is not hamstrung or hogtied with restraints."

The Belgian Congo is in central Africa, with a narrow outlet reaching to the Atlantic. It is about one-quarter the size of Canada and straddles the Equator. It has some 14,000,000 natives and about 55,000 white persons.

CAPITAL UPTODATE

Its modern, sleek-looking capital Leopoldville, has wide boulevards, tall white buildings and swimming pools in which happy-looking native Congolese children play like children anywhere.

There are 3,000 miles of railway, 6,300 miles of roads and 7,900 miles of navigable water in the Congo River and its tributaries, the vast water artery which lays open the country to development.

The Congo is the world's biggest supplier of cobalt, industrial diamonds and uranium, and a large supplier of tin, copper, zinc, gold and agricultural products. Apparently there is no "dollar problem" as there are large dollar earnings from sales to the United States.

It has been in Belgium's hands since 1885, apparently on the understanding that all countries shall have equal rights there. Accordingly, there are no preferential tariffs. Only 39 per cent of its imports are from Belgium.

The administration is appointed by the Belgian government but operates the country as a separate economy.

TRADE GROWING

All this is within 36 flying hours of Eastern Canada. Canada's trade with the Congo is not yet great, but it is growing.

In 1939 we sold goods there worth only $108,000. In 1951 this had risen to $4,217,652. In 1939 our purchases from the Congo barely got on the books at $469. In 1951 they were $3,052,447.

Council Accepts 2 Resignations

Resignation of two top officials of the city's health department was accepted by the council Monday night.

Dr. Harold Worton, dairy and food inspector, is leaving at the end of the month to accept a provincial appointment, and Dr. R. A. Kelly, Medical Officer of Health, is going to Kingston.

Council gave no evidence of being perturbed by this major loss of health bureau personnel. Resignations were accepted in routine expressions.

In the board of works report was this clause: "That the resignation of Dr. R. A. Kelly as Medical Officer of Health be accepted most regretfully."

In the other instance Ald. John A. Dewart, chairman of the Board of Health, moved that the resignation of Dr. Harold Worton be accepted "with regret".

One of the buses is used for local sightseeing, and it is hoped that Mayor Waddell, members of the council and others will take a short trip around the city on that double-decker.

Another bus is equipped as a workshop for maintenance, and the third is an information booth. They are 14½ feet high. The staff includes nine drivers and two officials of the London Transport Commission who will be guests of the Rotary Club at their luncheon July 21.

Six Miners Killed Under Atlantic In N.S. Explosion

GLACE BAY, N.S.—(CP)—Six coal miners working deep under the Atlantic died yesterday when a sudden explosion blasted through the depths of No. 20 colliery here. Rescue workers toiled dangerously for six hours to rescue the one man who survived at the scene of the blast and bring up the bodies.

Herb Demond, the survivor, was reported in "poor condition" in hospital today. The big pit was idle, along with nearby No. 1-B where 1,400 miners stayed away in sympathy. No. 20 will probably remain idle until Monday, after the funerals and an inquiry by Mines Department inspectors.

The searing blast rocked the 1,200-foot level shortly after the night shift of some 400 men began operations in the mine, owned by the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation and one of Cape Breton's top producers.

"It was hot as hell down there," said veteran miner Michael Chordas, who was working some 1,500 feet away. "I felt a slight bump and the next thing I knew the whole section was engulfed in smoke."

Rescue workers told an equally grim story.

"Everything was blown to pieces, including the timber used to prop up the working area," said one worker. "We found the Desmond brothers together, Billy, on top, was dead and Herby, underneath, was alive. He talked to us as we brought him to the surface.

"We found the driver, Buddy Bonar, near the coal box he was handling. The two horses he had were found dead, blown quite a piece away from the accident. Billy was found in one room and overman John Harris in another."

Others killed in the blast were John Gould, 26, and Pat Gabriel, 29. All were from Glace Bay.

Don McLelland, 50, a veteran of 33 years in Cape Breton's submarine mines which slope for miles under the ocean, was among the first to reach the scene.

FINDS BROTHERS

Armed only with a can of water and a damp cloth over his face, he found the Desmond brothers in a scorched room, eerily lit by flames from burning timbers.

"I gave Herby a drink of water and wet his brows, then told him to keep calm," he said.

It was Nova Scotia's second mine disaster this year. Nineteen miners were killed in Stellarton's MacGregor mine Jan. 14 while sealing off a gaseous section.

The pithead is not far from the business section of this Eastern Canada mining capital, populated by some 25,000 persons. But word of the tragedy was kept secret for three hours until mine officials learned more about the blast.

THOUSANDS AT PIT HEAD

The whistles—time-honored signal of disaster—were silent. Then, as word leaked out, highways became clogged with cars. People came running from every direction. Some 3,000 persons, standing in unbelieving silence, crowded about the mine.

Below the surface, the first squad of draegermen, professional rescue workers equipped with gas masks and oxygen tanks, toiled for six hours before finding the first body.

First reports, in the confusion at the pit head, said about 50 men were trapped but these were soon discounted as miners hurriedly were brought to the surface.

Anxious workers read the story in the pegs where miners hang their lamps as they come from the pit. A vacant peg meant a man

32-Foot Yacht Sinks In Trent, Four Rescued

CAMPBELLFORD — (ENS) — A 32-foot pleasure yacht, the "Lady Minto" owned by E. N. Nourse of Toronto, is resting on the bottom of Bradley Bay following a mishap Wednesday in the waters of the Trent about six miles south of Campbellford. The vessel is believed to have strayed from the channel and struck a rock or some other submerged object causing it to take water.

The boat was once owned by the late James Kerr of Campbellford and former owner of the Gilbert House in Trenton. It was purchased some time ago by A. M. Nourse of Toronto. Aboard the boat were Mr. and Mrs. Nourse and another couple, Mr. and Mrs. Stamford Warrington also of Toronto. The craft is a modern pleasure yacht equipped with many conveniences and the fact that a two-day radio is installed in the boat proved its worth on Wednesday.

STARTED EMERGENCY PUMPS

After striking the submerged object Mr. Nourse immediately started the emergency pumps but they were not able to handle the water and the engine room was soon flooded, allowing the boat to drift helplessly. The four occupants began bailing as the boat drifted into more shallow water. Mr. Nourse spotted an R.C.A.F. plane from the Trenton airbase and succeeded in contacting the pilot by radio. The plane flew low over the craft and immediately began making signals at a couple of other smaller motor boats whose occupants were fishing some distance away. The pilot succeeded in directing Frank Fort and William Jacobson both of Cleveland, Ohio, to the stranded yacht which was rapidly sinking. The yacht went down in a weed bed near the shore of Bradley Bay one mile east of Hendrick's summer resort. Fort and Jacobson took the yacht's dinghy and its crew back to the Hendrick's resort, where they are now staying until plans can be made to salvage the "Lady Minto."

Eleven Penguins Ill In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—Eleven sick king penguins, brought from the Falkland Islands in the antarctic last week, today were housed in a refrigerator at Stanley Park zoo.

Food poisoning took the life of one of the rare birds Tuesday night, another is not expected to live and the other 10 are "very sick."

Zoo Director Alan Best blamed tainted frozen smelt food for the poisoning.

Another factor is the present heat wave, he said. The mercury was nearing the 80 mark when it was decided to move the birds into a big, walk-in refrigerator where the temperature is maintained at 34 degrees.

They are the only penguins in Canada.

Mother Dies Two Days Before Son Is Home

SARNIA (CP)—A Sarnia mother died last night, two days before her son was due to arrive here on rotation leave from Korea.

Mrs. Pearl Wellington, 59, suffered a stroke and died while her son Ronald was on board a train eastbound from Vancouver. A second son, Henry, arrived home six weeks ago from Korea.

Army authorities are trying to intercept the troop train and have Ronald flown to Sarnia for the funeral Saturday.

Steel Shortage Curbs Motor Vehicle Output

DETROIT (AP)—This week's motor vehicle output will hit the lowest level in 2½ years because of steel shortages, Automotive News said today.

The paper added that July output will be the poorest month's production in four years. It estimated this week's output at 47,588 cars and 10,679 trucks. Last week 64,070 cars and 15,825 trucks were built.

The steel strike has lasted so long, Automotive News said, that its impact will be carried over for the auto industry into 1953.

Head-On Truck-Car Crash Kills Woman On Highway 28

ONE FATALITY and one injury was the toll in this pileup of two trucks and a passenger car, Wednesday afternoon. Dead of a broken neck is Mrs. Berniece Hardy, 52, of Darlington township. She was wedged in the shattered windshield on the passenger's side of the car and died instantly. Her son Ronald, 21, driving the car, is conscious and in good condition today in Civic Hospital. Above is a general view of the accident showing the southbound truck on the east side of the highway where it met the Hardy car almost headon. A light panel truck, driven by W. J. Horton of Brock St., crashed into the rear. Right is 21-year-old Toby Voth of St. Catharines, who was snapped while telling police how he happened to be over on the east side of the highway.—(Parks Studio Photo).

Passenger Suffers Broken Neck, Son Has Concussion

Mrs. Berniece Hardy, 52, of R.R. 2, Bowmanville was killed instantly Wednesday afternoon when the car in which she was riding as a passenger collided with a five-ton truck on Highway 28, four miles southwest of Peterborough. The impact threw Mrs. Hardy partly through the windshield on the passenger's side of the car and her neck was broken. She was the widow of a former Peterborough police constable. Her 21-year-old son, Ronald, was taken to Civic Hospital with slight concussion. He has a cut forehead, body cuts and bruises and he is suffering from shock. His condition today was described as good.

Coroner Dr. Herbert Young said there would be an inquest.

The southbound Quinn Transport, driven by 21-year-old Toby Voth of St. Catharines, swung over onto the left side of the highway and crashed almost headon into the northbound Hardy car.

STORIES DIFFER

Voth told provincial police that he saw a truck parked on the highway, partly over the centre line, and he applied his brakes and swung to the left to avoid it. He then met the oncoming Hardy car and collided with it.

Other witnesses say the truck to which Voth was referring was in motion and Voth was trying to pass it.

The two vehicles smashed together on the east side of the highway. Mrs. Hardy was thrown partly through the windshield; Ronald was also thrown against the windshield, shattering it, but slumped back on the driver's seat.

Voth was not injured.

A panel truck closely following the Hardy car was unable to stop in time and it plowed into the rear of the car. W. J. Horton, 32, of 368 Brock Street, the driver, was also uninjured.

Mr. Horton, seeing that it was a serious accident, immediately went for help.

Arthur Goodfellow, of 29 Herman Avenue, Toronto, a passing motorist, parked his car and went back to be of what assistance he could.

WEDGED IN

"We had to spring the doors open," said Mr. Goodfellow. "Mrs. Hardy was wedged in the windshield, partly in and partly through it. I had to lift her out and put her on a cushion on the back seat.

"Another car stopped and a woman who identified herself as a nurse stepped out. She looked at Mrs. Hardy and said she was

Radio Operator Sentenced To Five Years

LONDON (CP)—William Marshall, 24, a Foreign Office radio clerk, today was sentenced to five years in prison for passing confidential information to a Russian agent.

The jury had asked for the "utmost leniency" for the 24-year-old Marshall who could have been sentenced to a maximum of 14 years on each of the four counts.

"We feel he has been led astray," the jury said before Judge Sir Patrick Barry pronounced sentence.

Marshall, who said he was a "misfit" in the British Embassy in Moscow when he was stationed there, declared "I am still innocent."

Judge Barry said he would have been inclined to pass a longer sentence had not the jury recommended leniency.

He said to Marshall: "To you and any others who may think like you it must be made plain that conduct of this sort cannot and will not be tolerated in this country or any other civilized country."

DANGER TO COUNTRY

"You may not and probably did not realize to the full the danger to your country which might be involved in the material recorded in exhibit one in this case.

"I do not know the motives which may have led you to commit these grave offenses, but I am prepared to assume that you did not commit them for the purposes of any gain for yourself. You are entitled to hold your own views but not to hand over your country's secret information for the benefit of some potentially hostile power."

Says General France's Friend

PARIS (AP)—Gen. Eisenhower is still a friend of France despite his remark that French "moral fibre has disintegrated," the independent newspaper Le Figaro said today.

The general, in an extemporaneous talk Tuesday to the Nebraska delegation at the Republican national convention in Chicago, said the French had "gone astray" and had become "50-per-cent agnostic or atheistic." Most of the French press printed the statement, but made no comment.

Nicolas Chatelain, Le Figaro's correspondent at Chicago, said in his dispatch today that "it is clear that he cited his example without thinking." The correspondent quoted this further statement from the Eisenhower headquarters:

"The general's friendship for France is not in question. He has proved it by uncountable declarations. Put yourself in his place. He doesn't speak French. The external appearances of French life are completely strange to his strict Presbyterian and military formation.

"He gets his inspiration from the Bible. And then, don't forget that we are up to our ears in this convention. It's a question of winning votes and getting a majority. We don't have either the leisure or the possibility to be diplomatic."

Eisenhower Wins Georgia, Texas

CHICAGO (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's jubilant partisans strove today to turn smashing test-vote triumphs over Sen. Robert A. Taft into a victory bandwagon for the grand prize of this Republican convention—the presidential nomination.

They claimed it was all over but the balloting as a result of Eisenhower's decisive edge in the turbulent floor battle with Taft at last night's session—stretching into the early morning—over contested delegates from Georgia and Texas.

Taft was not conceding a thing. He said: "I expect to be nominated on an early ballot."

SEE CHANCE OF DEADLOCK

And supporters of Earl Warren and Harold Stassen said they still saw a chance for an Eisenhower-Taft deadlock that could deny the nomination to either of the two front-runners.

The big decision may come tonight. Convention managers mapped out a schedule which left that possibility.

In the wake of last night's rough and tumble, there was more talk about Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Some of the Taft supporters were saying privately that MacArthur might be a good man if it developed that Taft could not make the grade.

Taft's top aides were insisting, however, that there was no reason yet to question that Taft could make it.

BEATEN BY "COALITION"

Paul Walker, chief of delegate relations for the Taft camp, said it was a "coalition" that beat Taft on the Georgia and Texas contests. The Warren and Stassen delegates stood with the Eisenhower camp on that.

Governor McKeldin of Maryland, tapped to put Eisenhower in nomination, gave the bandwagon

Mayor Admits Arena Unsafe, Unsatisfactory

AURORA (CP) — Mayor Dr. Crawford Rose said today that charges that Aurora Memorial Arena is unsafe and an $80,000 addition unsatisfactory are true.

The mayor said an explosion which ripped open the asbestos ceiling in the furnace room in February has not been repaired and a second explosion in March might have set fire to the entire arena.

House Approves Raise For Queen Elizabeth

LONDON (AP)—The House of Commons last night approved a pay raise for the Queen, giving her 475,000 pounds a year to run the royal household.

The decision increasing the royal budget by 65,000 pounds over that of the late King George came despite outraged demands by a score of Labor members of Parliament for a cut to 250,000 pounds.

After the Conservative government's majority defeated Labor amendments to trim the budget, the House approved it without a vote. Acceptance by the House of Commons of a bill covering the new budget is only a formality.

ATTACK POMP, PAGEANTRY

In a lively debate, Socialist members attacked the whole pomp and pageantry of the monarchy and said it was time for a change. Left-winger Emrys Hughes even suggested, amid shocked cries from Conservative benches, that Buckingham Palace be turned into an apartment house.

R. A. Butler, Chancellor of the Exchequer, retorted that the idea would be opposed by a majority of Britons. Arguing for the budget increase, Butler said simplification of the Queen's official functions would be welcomed. But, he added, "we feel this must be left to the discretion of the sovereign."

Among other items, Labor members fought unsuccessfully against a yearly increase of 9,000 pounds for Princess Margaret when and if she marries. Young Labor member Ernest Fernyhough called the marriage allowance "insulting."

The budget also gives the Queen's husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, 40,000 pounds a year for life instead of his present allowance of 10,000 pounds, and sets aside one-ninth of the revenues of the Duchy of Cornwall—about 150,000 pounds a year—for three-year-old Prince Charles, the Duke of Cornwall.

Rule Voluntary Surrender Doesn't Cancel Insurance

OTTAWA (CP).—The Ontario Supreme Court has ruled that voluntary surrender of an insurance policy does not automatically cancel the insurance. Chief Justice James C. McRuer, in a judgment made public yesterday, ruled that an insurance company can cancel a policy only after giving the policy-holder 15 days' notice in writing by registered mail.

The judgment was given in a $21,406 damage case involving the London-Canada Insurance Company.

The suit arose out of a motor-car collision at Almonte, in July 1950. Mrs. George W. Ellis of Kinburn, was killed and her husband was injured. Driver of the second car was Charles W. Gillan of Pakenham.

Mr. Ellis brought suit against Mr. Gillan and won judgment of $20,000 for his own injuries and for the death of his wife.

POLICY CANCELLED

At the original trial it was understood that Mr. Gillan had no motor-car insurance; that his policy was cancelled some time before the accident.

Subsequently it was found that Mr. Gillan had voluntarily surrendered his policy only a few days before the accident.

Chief Justice McRuer's ruling meant that Mr. Gillan's policy still was in effect even though he had surrendered it voluntarily to an insurance agent.

Huge Sun-Spot Now Developing

LONDON (Reuters)—Greenwich Observatory today reported a huge sun-spot is developing which threatens to upset long-range radio communications.

Officials said it covers an area of more than 1,000,000,000 square miles, equivalent to about 20 times the cross-section area of the earth. They said it will be visible to observers early next week, looking like a pinhead when viewed through dark glasses.

The spot was first noticed on the edge of the sun's disc yesterday and should reach the centre by Tuesday.

Science as yet has no explanation of sunspots, but they are believed to be tremendous eruptions of gases which shoot out far enough from the sun to distort the earth's atmospheric layers which control shortwave radio transmissions.

Planning To Erect Barricades In Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—The West Berlin city government said today the Allies have approved the erection of barricades at danger points leading to the surrounding Soviet occupation zone. The idea is to prevent Soviet kidnapping forays.

An anti-Communist German lawyer was whisked from his home into the east zone on Tuesday. Maj.-Gen. Lemuel B. Mathewson, the American commander here, has demanded the man's return.

Teen-Agers Holding Nude Bathing Parties

TORONTO (CP)—Reports of nude bathing in the Etobicoke River and wild teen-age drinking parties were heard last night by the suburban Long Branch council.

Richard Scott told of seeing boys and girls swimming nude in the river recently and of one 17-year-old girl who "passed out" nude in the gutter near the scene. He said the girl was picked up by three boys and carried off into a field.

Canada Planning Loan To Britain

TORONTO (CP)—The Financial Post, in a dispatch from Ottawa, says that "A substantial new dollar loan by Canada to Britain—of perhaps $2,500,000,000 to $3,000,000,000—now is in the cards." The Post story adds:

"Such a move is regarded by top officials who have the whole sterling problem under close and constant study, as the only ultimate solution to the chronic difficulties faced by the sterling area—difficulties of as much concern to Ottawa as to London.

"The loan—if it is made—would be made jointly by Canada and the United States for the sole purpose of enabling Britain, as the sterling area banker, to set sterling free.

"It would not be in the nature of a reconstruction loan to Britain as the U.S. and Canadian loans in 1946 primarily were.

"Several important conditions will have to be met, and a much healthier economic climate within the sterling area will have to be fostered, before such a loan can be made, in the view of Ottawa officials concerned . . ."

Stokes Urges Gov't Ask Gold Revaluation

LONDON (Reuters)—Richard Stokes, former Labor minister of raw materials, today urged the government to press for the revaluation of gold.

He said in the House of Commons Britain should make the move because more than 75 per cent of the world's gold is produced in the sterling area.

Sir Arthur Salter, minister of state for economic affairs, replied that any question of a general revaluation of gold will have to be decided by the International Monetary Fund.

Stokes said "the reason why the United States will not agree to increase the dollar value in gold is because it might increase Russia's purchasing power."

Gold at present is worth $35 an ounce.

Doctors Fighting Dramatic Battle

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The life of an unborn child hangs on the outcome of a dramatic 30-day battle which doctors have launched at Victoria hospital.

The battle centres around a young woman who lies critically ill in a hospital bed and whose life the medical men are trying to extend—for at least one month.

The woman, wife of a district farmer, has been unconscious since she underwent a brain operation 10 days ago—and doctors say her recovery is a "touch and go" proposition.

But the woman is seven months pregnant. If she dies now, doctors say there is every chance the baby will also die.

The doctors are trying to save her life and if that is not possible, to keep her alive for one more month. By then they feel they can remove the baby alive by a Caesarian operation.

The woman underwent surgery for a brain tumor after she lapsed into unconsciousness in her home.

Although the tumor was removed her condition has remained critical.

Fear Girl Kidnapped From Toronto Theatre

TORONTO (CP)—Police today were ordered to watch for nine-year-old Marie Sweeting, feared kidnapped from a downtown theatre yesterday.

Relatives told police a man met Marie and her girl friend in the movie. They refused to accept his invitation to visit his home in west Toronto but Marie stayed to see another show after her friend left and has not returned home since.

Decision Reserved On Decertification

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Labor Board yesterday reserved decision on whether a union can be decertified after a company has delayed negotiations for more than a year while it questions the certification.

A group of employees of Beaver Furniture Company of Kitchener applied to have revoked the certification of the International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) as their bargaining agent.

Labor act regulations give employees the right to have a union decertified if no agreement is signed within a year after certification.

Union counsel John Osler said the question of the original certification had been kept in a state of constant ferment by the company for more than a year.

Earlier the certification was twice upheld.

Four Million Dollar Fire Sweeps Film Studio Lot

BURBANK, Calif. (AP)—A second disastrous fire in less than two months whooshed across the Warner Brothers movie lot yesterday. Studio spokesmen roughly estimated damage at $4,500,000 to $6,000,000.

Spectators who remembered the May 16 blaze had that feeling they got at the movies: This is where we came in.

The fire swept in a giant arc through 25 studio back-lot acres, destroying nine streets of scenery. It razed a storage shed containing a collection of some 2,000 acting props. A shed 1,200 feet long and two stories high containing stores of scenery was razed.

It gutted and collapsed a corrugated iron hangar housing an undetermined number of planes used in movie scenes. Wind-driven embers leaped a street and burned 200 acres of scrub oak and brush on a nearby mountainside.

Broderick Crawford and Claire Trevor were recording a song for their movie when somebody yelled "Fire." "Oh, yeah—quit kidding," growled the actor, thinking it was a gag based on the previous blaze.

Eighteen studio workmen suffered minor burns, cuts or bruises fighting the fire. Two had heart attacks.

Arson investigator Ed Hatcher said there is "every indication" the fire could not have started accidentally, and must have been incendiary.

24 Prisoners Injured In Battle At Camp

PUSAN, Korea (AP)—Twenty-four prisoners were injured Wednesday when club-wielding Communists fought each other in a stockade at Nonsan, the Army said today.

A platoon of United States guards restored order without firing a shot or using tear gas, the Army said. About 130 prisoners were involved in the demonstration.

Nonsan is about 22 miles southwest of Taejon in southwestern Korea.

M.P.'s Demand Red Dean Fired By Queen

LONDON (AP)—The 'Red' Dean of Canterbury's findings on germ warfare brought an angry demand in Parliament yesterday for his immediate dismissal.

Nine Conservatives asked the Commons to petition the Queen to dismiss the 78-year-old dean, Dr. Hewlett Johnson, who returned Monday from a tour of Communist China. Dr. Johnson is known as the "Red dean" because of his leftist views.

The dean called a press conference Tuesday to present what he described as irrefutable evidence that the United States has used bacteriological weapons in the Orient—a long scroll written in Chinese and a story of children fighting germs with chopsticks.

Pictures of the dean and his 12-yard scroll were splashed across Britain's newspapers yesterday with indignant demands for his dismissal.

"What used to be Dr. Johnson's comic act has now taken a sinister turn," the London Star said. "He cannot be allowed to get away with it."

DELEGATES CONTROLLED by Governor Earl Warren of California and still uncommitted delegates from other key states of Pennsylvania, Michigan, Maryland and Minnesota at Chicago appeared to be swinging toward support of General Eisenhower and seemed likely to give Ike the nomination as Republican candidate for President.

$1,000 Bail Set On Theft Charge

Charged with stealing a quantity of potatoes, William Reynolds 26, 139 Stewart Street, was remanded on bail of $1,000 until July 14, when he appeared before Magistrate E. A. Goe today.

The quantity of potatoes was not stated in the charge other than they are valued at more than $25.00. Reynolds is alleged to have stolen the potatoes from Ronald Pace.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw at first opposed bail because he said "other people are implicated and other matters are being investigated."

Stock Market Prices Mixed On Exchange

TORONTO (CP)—Stock market prices turned mixed today in steady early afternoon trading after a mild advance.

Activity quickened from the dull pace of recent sessions in early trading but slackened by mid-session. Volume for the three hours was 1,040,000 shares.

Utilities, refining oils and banks retained a majority of fractional advances but steels, foods and retail stores slipped. Papers, constructions, textiles, manufacturing companies and miscellaneous issues were mixed.

Western oil leaders showed strength but lower-priced issues declined. Central Explorers, Central-Leduc, Federated Petroleum and Home Oil edged upward while Britalta, Pan Western and Fargo dipped.

Base metals were firm. Consolidated Smelters, Falconbridge, Hudson Bay and United Keno Hill added fractions. Golden Manitou and United Asbestos eased.

Senior golds climbed slightly as Hollinger and Sigma turned upward. Secondary issues were mixed. Holding companies were strong.

The exchange's 1 p.m. indices showed industrials down .21 at 318.46, golds up .53 at 91.67, base metals up .81 at 188.30 and western oils up .48 at 136.47.

dead and nothing could be done for her. Then the woman drove away."

Volunteers and other truck drivers kept traffic moving past the three smashed vehicles on the east side of the road. Even so a crowd of nearly a hundred people gathered to look at the accident.

VIOLENT IMPACT

The impact was so violent that the front of the car and the grillwork of the truck were meshed together. The engine block of the car was knocked loose and rested on the ground.

Inside the car the radio was torn loose and Mrs. Hardy's purse was sprung open, scattering the contents on the front seat.

Nesbitt's ambulance made two trips to the scene of the accident, the first time taking Ronald Hardy to hospital within a few minutes of the time the accident was reported by Mr. Horton.

Investigating the accident were O.P.P. Corporal Fred Rawlings and Constable Harold Armstrong.

PORT HOPE CHIEF

Mrs. Hardy was the widow of Gordon Knight Hardy who was a police constable in Peterborough from March 1939 to September 1942. Afterwards he was chief constable of Port Hope. He died nearly two years ago.

Mrs. Hardy was the former Zillah Berniece Emmerson, daughter of the late James Emmerson and Adeline Weldon. She was born in Taylor's Corners, Victoria County.

Left are four sons: Ronald, Donald, James and Gordon, all living at the family home in Darlington township; two daughters, Myrtle, at home, and Mrs. Reginald Burns (Jean) of Peterborough; three sisters, Mrs. Victor Wilson (Myrtle) of Peterborough; Mrs. Harold Thomas (Phyllis) of Brighton, and Mrs. Robert Byers (Fern) of Rochester; and two brothers, Glen Emmerson of Buffalo, and Jack Emmerson of Bowmanville.

The funeral will be Friday at 2 p.m. at the Morris funeral home, Bowmanville, the Rev. R. R. Nicholson officiating.

Eisenhower

effort a push with a prediction that the general will win on the first ballot.

He declared he is confident that Maryland's 24 votes will be cast unanimously for Eisenhower.

But Maryland's Senator John Marshall Butler, a Taft Supporter, told reporters he feels Taft still is in the running.

"I think he is still very much in the fight," Butler said.

HOLD LINE FOR WARREN

The California delegation had a caucus and its chairman, Senator William F. Knowland, told the members to hold their 70-vote line firm for Governor Earl Warren.

"If we are not swayed by rumor," Knowland said, "we have the opportunity to nominate Earl Warren for president."

That meant, in Knowland's view, a distinct possibility of an Eisenhower-Taft deadlock.

Harold Stassen told a press conference he is staying in the race. He has 25 committed votes.

Around Eisenhower's headquarters in a downtown hotel, there was a general atmosphere of confidence in victory.

By the strength his forces displayed, the general appeared to have pulled within striking distance of the first presidential nomination for a professional military man since Ulysses S. Grant won the prize and the presidency in 1868.

607-TO-531 VOTE

Taft fought a valiant rear-guard action against the seating of pro-Eisenhower delegations from the two states. But he lost Georgia by a 607-to-531 vote. It was the first time a Republican convention had overruled its credentials committee. That Taft-dominated group had recommended, 29 to 22, the seating of a delegation heavily weighted for the Ohioan.

The Eisenhower allies developed such power that Taft's supporters elected not to oppose the seating of a Texas delegation favoring the general. Previously the committee had approved a pro-Taft group.

This made the new line-up in the Associated Press tabulation of delegates:

Eisenhower 514, Taft 486, others 110, uncommitted 96. Needed to nominate—604.

This picture could shift quickly on the first nomination ballot, when the uncommitted must join the ranks of those publicly tabbed for one candidate or another.

SHOWDOWN TOMORROW

But the convention seemed unlikely to get around to any such showdown until tomorrow. Delegates faced action today on the party platform, followed by the tedious business of nominating candidates.

Governor John S. Fine of Pennsylvania cut down the uncommitted list sharply by a belated announcement that he is supporting Eisenhower. The 52-to-18 poll of his delegation in favor of seating the Georgia Eisenhower group seemed to reflect similar support there for the general in the nomination battle.

Although Taft's strategists conceded he had suffered a setback, they promised grimly to continue the fight. Taft reiterated he expects to be nominated "on an early ballot."

SLEEPS THROUGH VOTE

Eisenhower, who slept through the convention's midnight vote on the Georgia test, earlier had declared he would win the nomination.

In the Georgia contest, the convention's action seated a delegation listed as 14 for Eisenhower, two for Taft and one undecided. The credential committee approved group would have given Taft all 17 votes.

Eisenhower's Texas victory gave him 33 votes, Taft five. The credentials committee had voted for 22 Taft and 16 Eisenhower delegates.

In the Georgia contest, Taft showed he has rock-bottom support of about 531 delegates toward the 604 votes needed for the nomination.

Eisenhower's strength was more difficult to pinpoint. Although his side polled 607 votes on Georgia, these included 101 committeed to Governor Earl Warren of California and former Governor Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota.

Plan Cut Cost Of Training Pilots In R.C.A.F.

MONTREAL (CP) — R.C.A.F. pilots in training will soon learn to fly F-86 Sabre and CF-100 Canuck jets at speeds verging on the supersonic in planes which will never leave the ground.

The pilot will climb into the cockpit, close the canopy and roar down the taxi strip, but his aircraft won't be going anywhere.

If the pilot muffs his landing, fouls up his approach pattern, loses himself between Montreal and Toronto or freezes at the stick in bumpy weather, he'd better watch out.

The new gimmick, the F-86 and CF-100 flight simulator, is built to simulate the performance of a plane. The cockpit will duplicate that of the F-86 Sabre jet and the CF-100 Canuck.

A contract has been obtained by Canadian Aviation Electronics Limited from the Curtiss-Wright Corporation and the trainers will be built for the R.C.A.F. as soon as negotiations are completed.

EXPENSIVE APARATUS

Although a single simulator will cost about $275,000, officials say its use will cut the cost of training to a fraction of what it now is.

While the pilot sits at the controls a row of electronic brains houses in a metal cabinet outside the cockpit of the simulator instantly solve flight and engine power problems.

In the rear of the simulator's cockpit will be a "hell box" designed to produce flight difficulties ranging from fires to abnormal fuel consumption.

The simulator is designed to teach pilots to fly one particular type of aircraft with emphasis on its peculiar problems. Some of the major problems it overcomes are complete cockpit familiarization, procedures and characteristics of the plane and how to meet emergency situations through endless repetition and solution of the problems.

Radio Operator

Sir Patrick told the jury to disregard one of the five charges against Marshall—that of obtaining information. The other four charge him with recording secret information and passing it to Pavel Kuznetsov, second secretary at the Soviet Embassy here.

Marshall pleaded innocent to all charges. Yesterday he claimed he was not the author of a page of notes found in his wallet when he was arrested with Kuznetsov in a London park last month.

What the notes contained has not been made public, but prosecutor Sir Reginald Manningham-Buller said the information came from notices hung in the room where the Foreign Office radio operators worked.

Marshall swayed slightly in the prisoner's dock as the verdict was pronounced. He showed no other sign of emotion. He waved to his parents as he left the dock, and his mother shouted to him: "Chin up!" Then she burst into tears, saying "There is no British justice."

The jurors in London's famous Old Bailey—where Klaus Fuchs got 14 years for betraying atomic secrets to Russia—was out 63 minutes.

Marshall had admitted that an 11-month stay in Moscow while working for the British Embassy in 1951 had sold him on the Soviet way of life, but he denied passing any secrets to Kuznetsov. He said their frequent meetings were to discuss cultural affairs and current events.

unaccounted for. The number unaccounted for. The number rushed happily into the arms of survivors.

Tight-lipped Dosco and union officials prevented newspaper men from gaining an immediate account of the situation. Reporters were manhandled and police seized a photographer's camera—with the only picture of the rescue activity.

All but rescue workers and doctors were barred from the pit as Harold Gordon, chief of Dosco's coal operations, led his squads through the smoky tunnels.

Doctors later said that even if the men had been brought to the surface alive, their chances of survival were slim. "We had only a few pints of blood and plasma—hardly enough for one man."

Among the company and union officials at the pit head was Clary Gillis, C.C.F. member of parliament for Cape Breton South, who, in 1939, headed an extensive safety program for Cape Breton's mines.

Report 336 Reds Battle Casualties

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—United Nations soldiers killed or wounded at least 336 Communists Wednesday and early today in sharp, small-scale actions all along the 155-mile Korean battle front, the United States Eighth Army reported.

Allied casualties were not estimated, but briefing officers said they were low.

Overcast skies dampened the ground fighting and limited the air war to bomb strikes against the Reds' North Korean supply system. Allied light bomber pilots reported they destroyed 21 Communist supply vehicles. B-29 Superforts Wednesday night blasted the Huichon rail yards on the main Communist supply route from Manchuria.

An outnumbered Allied patrol came out almost unscratched after engaging about 100 Chinese soldiers south of Pyonggang on the west-central front. A briefing officer estimated 15 Reds were killed and nine wounded.

The officer estimated the Communists lost 92 killed and 12 wounded in forcing U.N. soldiers off a newly-captured hill west of the Pukhan River in a bitter 27-hour central-front battle Tuesday and Wednesday.

Allied soldiers almost encircled an enemy position on the eastern tip of the battlefront. When they pulled back at nightfall yesterday, they left an estimated 42 Communist dead and 55 wounded.

British Papers Believe Ike Will Win

LONDON (Reuters)—British evening newspapers today all but concede the Republican presidential nomination to Dwight Eisenhower.

All three London papers headline the success of pro-Eisenhower delegates at the Chicago convention. The Evening Standard proclaims: "They are hanging out the flags for Ike."

John Gordon, the paper's correspondent at Chicago, admits that "a surprise is always possible" but says the view of the experts is that Eisenhower is certain of nomination.

He says the hullaballoo of the convention was overshadowed by the fact that "across the town there swept a wave of certainty that (Senator Robert) Taft's ship was on the rocks and nothing could save it."

The Evening Star says: "Ike in the lead by 20 votes—'almost certain' to be nominated."

The Evening News headlines: "Ike gains big victory."

Valuable Oyster

CAPETOWN (CP)—Gavin Peterson, 13-year-old schoolboy, found three pearls in one oyster he picked up on a beach. One was valued by a jeweler at 200 pounds.

Muskie Betters 24 Pounds

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS). — American visitors to summer resorts in the Campbellford area have landed several big fish during the past few days. Besides the 36¾ lb. 52-inch Muskie landed on Monday night, several others have been taken.

One party of four visitors from Alliance, Ohio, comprising Walter Nelson, and his two sons, Earl and Walter Junior, and Harry Kirby who have been fishing each year in the waters of Bradley Bay since 1937 landed the biggest prize so far taken on any of their expeditions on Wednesday afternon when they caught a 24½ lb. 'lunge. The fish battled and defied the combined efforts of Harry Kirby and Earl Nelson before they succeeded in boating it. The fish measured 44 inches long. The four men are staying at the Potts Resort on Bradley Bay.

Another American visitor, Mrs. Earl Meyers of Elizabeth, Pa., caught an 18 pound 'lunge.

Major Jailed Two Years In Army Thefts

PEMBROKE (CP)—Major Allan Ross Elmer, an officer of the Royal Canadian Regiment, today pleaded guilty to six charges of theft in connection with large-scale stealing of equipment at nearby Petawawa military camp and was sentenced to two years in penitentiary.

The 35-year-old native of Kingston, was commissioned in the army in 1941.

The third—and most senior—army man to be charged in connection with the Petawawa thefts, Maj. Elmer was arrested in Pembroke a few hours before he appeared in court.

Maj. Elmer was sentenced to two years on each of the six charges. The sentences run concurrently.

He admitted theft of the following amounts of money on various dates since 1949: $1,500.56; $847.92; $50; $1,088.90; and $250. He also admitted theft of a refrigerator.

When he appeared in court today he was not represented by counsel. The case for the Crown was presented by G.B. Cooke of Renfrew, assistant special Crown prosecutor. His arrest followed investigation by R.C.M.P. and Canadian Army officials.

Previously tried and convicted in connection with the Petawawa thefts was Staff Sgt. J. M. Young of Fredericton, who was sentenced to two years in penitentiary. His conviction is being appealed.

Reach Fire Agreement With Hamilton Township

COBOURG— (ENS)— Climaxing several conferences between the town council and the council of Hamilton township, a working arrangement has been arrived at whereby Cobourg fire department will respond to fire alarms in the township and for this service the township council will pay the town of Cobourg $2,000 per year.

Under the agreement, the town will supply one pumper and three men and extra help will come from the immediate area where the fire is located. To facilitate the answering of fire calls, the township has been divided into sections which are numbered for reference by the fire department in order to prevent any delay caused by failure to locate the fire promptly. The agreement can be cancelled by either party by giving 60 days notice.

Co-operation From The Railways

Citizens of the city complained to the Council about the noisy shunting of trains at all hours of the day and night. The Council passed the complaints to the Canadian National Railway divisional office. It has replied that it shunts as quietly as possible, that none is unnecessary, and that the railway's location in Peterborough "places us in a very bad position as far as public relations with the community are concerned". There is little comfort to the distracted citizens in this reply, except the assurance that crews have been instructed "to switch as quietly as possible".

* * *

The reply, assuring co-operation rather than compliance, serves to point out the worst feature of the railway companies as they affect Peterborough: the sites of stations and lines of both companies. The stations are in the centre of the city; their lines cross and recross dozens of streets in the residential and business sections, and occupy some of the potentially prettiest sites in town. To get rid of noise, smoke, inconvenience and squatting on our best land, a new union station is needed, and a re-routing of the lines, as suggested in the City Plan. The time when the companies can be persuaded to change their courses is far distant. Meanwhile, the companies should realize that they have a special obligation to the citizens of Peterborough, because they are "in a very bad position", actually and figuratively, "as far as good public relations with the community are concerned."

* * *

We hope that both companies realize this fully and take extraordinary measures to make themselves less of a nuisance to the people of Peterborough. (An example of their co-operation is being given at the Sherbrooke Street crossing of the C.N.R., where yard men will wave traffic on whenever it is safe to do so, even though the warning bell is clanging for an engine a block away.) The companies should be constantly mindful of the noise they make and of the smoke they make. We are convinced that they can do more than they now do to reduce both. The noise is especially irksome in some neighbourhoods. The smoke is noisome all over the city, especially in the central area. We are not convinced that it is necessary for engines at either station, or near them, to stand for ten minutes belching black smoke and soot all over the place. A lot of smoke is supposed to be an indication of inferior firing or of inefficient engines. If the trains must relieve themselves of smoke occasionally, why cannot they do it outside the city? Often Charlotte Street down town is blacked-out by smoke pouring from an engine at the C.N.R. station, and from another at the C.P.R. tracks east of the Town Clock. Such besmirching is a disgrace to both the cities and the railway companies.

U.E. And Taff Vale

A letter from the Peterborough headquarters of Local 524 U.E. appears in our correspondence columns today. It would be unfair to judge from its tone that Local 524 officials are angry, resentful or in the sulks because of the arbitration board's decision about an affair at the Toronto C.G.E. Davenport Works. Our experience of letters from U.E. is that the tone is always high-pitched and the content querulous, no matter what the subject. As a matter of fact, we wonder why U.E. officials keep on writing letters to us, when, according to their own statement, they should be directing their complaints to the company. In a pamphlet which appeared in December, 1949, U.E. accused this newspaper of taking dictation from the C.G.E., and referred to a "C.G.E. inspired censorship" of what appears in The Examiner. If U.E. officials really believe that this newspaper is under C.G.E. domination, why do they not carry their quibbles and protests against what appears in The Examiner to the company, instead of bothering us?

The Toronto Arbitration Board assessed U.E. $9,208 damages, payable to the C.G.E. company, because of a wildcat strike at the Davenport Works, Toronto, in 1949. This order to pay $9,208 damages to the company is undoubtedly galling to the Union at any of its local headquarters; it represents a sizable chunk out of Union funds— that is, if the Union decides to abide by the Arbitration Board's decision and pay up.

In commenting on the award we said that it provided a precedent long needed in industrial relations; it placed on a union responsibility for the privileges and power it has as bargaining agent for a whole plant. In that editorial we incorrectly said that U.E. had a closed shop. Two days later we acknowledged this mistake of fact in an editorial as long as the first, and maintained that unions which have the legal right to make contracts, must also take legal responsibility, as must the company, for seeing that the contracts are carried out. The damages which the Arbitration Board assessed against U.E. were an assertion that unions have this responsibility. There is nothing in the letter today which warrants our changing our opinion on this.

A union which is authorized to be bargaining agent for all production workers in a plant is presumed to have power to negotiate for all; it must also be presumed to have responsibility for this power.

The U.E. contract with the Canadian General guaranteed that there would be no strike within the contract period. There was a strike at the Davenport Works. The Arbitration Board awarded damages to the company because of this strike.

Whether the Taff Vale case in Britain is a precedent legally applicable in Canada, we do not know; U.E. might be interested in making the test. The letter is in error in its statement that the Taff Vale judgement in 1901 established that a union could not be sued or made liable for damages. The court's decision in 1901 was exactly the opposite. In 1900 railway workers employed by the Taff Vale Railway Company in South Wales (not Taft Vale as the letter spells it) came out on strike without any authority from their union, although the union later granted them strike pay. The company brought action for damages against the union and won its case. The union paid out damages amounting to £23,000, and appealed the decision. But in 1901 the Lords upheld the original decision of the courts. The mistake in the U.E. letter may be due to the fact that this celebrated case resulted, in 1906, in a change in the law: the passing of the Trades Disputes Act which nullified the precedent of the Taff Vale judgment.

A Good Politician

Adherents of all political parties will mourn the premature death of Senator Gordon Fogo, the president of the National Liberal Federation. Of his political convictions there could be no doubt, and neither could it be doubted that he was thoroughly honest and broad-minded in his adherence to them. It was entirely possible to disagree with him, but many who disagreed heartily with all that he stood for politically were fond of the man himself, and admired his qualities as a political organizer.

It is one of the great virtues of our political system that feeling generated by politics usually confines itself to politics. Liberals and Conservatives and C.C.F. hammer away at each other in the Commons, but they may be seen an hour later, eating peaceably together in the Parliamentary restaurant; they have even been known, outside the House, to admit that there is much that is reasonable in what the other side has to say. Their points of agreement are more numerous than their points of disagreement. In such a political system it is fortunately possible for a man like the late Gordon Fogo to be sincerely missed by men who often wished that he were a less capable worker for his party.

Dear Old, Poor Old C.N.E.

The soiled and tattered linen of the Canadian National Exhibition — Toronto's pride and joy—that has been exhibited during the last several months is not particularly good publicity for the C.N.E. In fact, many people outside Toronto may think that the show is over before August; that these exposes by Mayor Lamport and others, and the parade of leading C.N.E. personages have been the exhibition for this year. Or they may think that the C.N.E. is no longer a show at all, but a display of facts and figures, profits and losses, accusations and counter-charges.

Some of the statements now being published make it seem that the C.N.E. has already had its 1952 sessions, for instance, this: "The report (of auditors) recommended that an effective budget system should be installed as a control over revenue and expenditures. This system was used this year, and economies totalling more than $200,000 were effected."

Poor old C.N.E.; you do have your troubles. If it is not a squabble about a painting in the art exhibit, or bingo on the midway, or whether a Canadian is fit to occupy the spotlight in front of the grandstand, it is a row in back rooms, overheard by people in all parts of the Province from whom the C.N.E. used to get a big chunk of its gate receipts.

NOTES AND COMMENT

We hear a good deal about the amount of U.S. money which is invested in Canada, and it is wise to remind ourselves now and then of the $1,828,000,000 Canadian dollars which are invested in the U.S.A.

---

We extend our sympathy to the family and friends of the late Lewis Hervey Dingman, president and publisher of the St. Thomas Times-Journal and the Stratford Beacon-Herald. For seventy years he had been in the newspaper business, and was unquestionably the dean of Ontario publishers.

Mr. Hansard Of Hansard

By J. C. TREWIN

TWO CENTURIES ago a boy called Luke Hansard was born in Norwich. For years the name meant to me nothing but the title-page of the Official Report of the Houses of Parliament. Little was known about the founder of the printing dynasty, though Robert Southey once described as "Hansardic" the odd, knotted phrasing of old Luke's letters, at once courteous and candid.

✧ ✧ ✧

THEN ONE DAY I opened a box of papers, manuscript diaries and account-books. From it rose the form of Luke Hansard. A boy of fourteen tugged at a printing-press in a Norwich attic while his master played a home-made violin, pigeon wings brushed in a corner, and outside bells were ringing across a city of names that rang like the bell-metal: a place of dark bricks, red tile, tall black flint towers, and a Cathedral's sky-piercing spire. Since that evening, in trying (with the expert collaboration of Mr. E. M. King) to re-create Luke's life and the life of his sons, the shadow of a man has become a living personage. Yesterday was the 206th anniversary of a friend.

✧ ✧ ✧

FIRST, then, imagine young Luke with his roystering, pigeon-fancying, violin-playing master, Stephen White: the boy, straight from school, was (he said) "proud of being compositor and pressman, corrector and manager, copper-plate printer and shopman, book-keeper and accountant to this chequered business." In 1769 he was in London, a lad of seventeen, with the experience of a man of thirty, and in his pocket only a borrowed guinea. On a summer morning he reached a printing office in Great Turnstile, a cleft between Holborn and Lincoln's Inn Fields. Nearly sixty years later he was there still.

✧ ✧ ✧

AT TURNSTILE he worked first as journeyman compositor, and—when only twenty-two—as supervisor of the operatives in John Hughs's office. The master, succeeded by his son Henry, was Printer to the House—printer, that is, of the Parliamentary Papers and the Journal of the House of Commons. By the turn of the century, Luke, as head of the firm, himself held the title.

✧ ✧ ✧

HE MET many politicians, Burke for one. But Samuel Johnson would lumber up to Turnstile; Porson, the Greek scholar, himself from Norfolk, described Luke as the most accurate of Greek printers; and Jonas Hanway, who lived a few steps away, in Red Lion Square, would descend on the office with a medley of ideas about the new umbrella, the case for solitary confinement, the pernicious habit of tea-drinking.

✧ ✧ ✧

LUKE HAD his major professional success with William Pitt the younger. The Prime Minister, after drafting the report of the Secret Committee on the French Revolution, wrote the document in his own script, which was "not remarkably legible," and demanded proofs by next morning. It seemed impossible; the manuscript was a printers' terror. Luke, summoned to Downing Street, was equal to it. At once he read the entire document aloud to Pitt; he undertook to copy it himself, to ensure secrecy by dividing it in small 'takes" among a number of workmen, and to bring the result to Pitt next morning. He did so; his fame was won.

LUKE WAS ON GUARD at Turnstile for nearly forty years after this. During half a century, indeed, he was out of town for only six weeks; never for one day while Parliament sat. As a man about the House he was known as "Hansard the printer," a sturdy, punctilious craftsman with a Norwich burr he never lost, a strong Tory, a hard driver but a fair one, and a family patriarch.

Presently (and this has baffled historians) two Hansard firms were working side by side. Thomas, Luke's eldest son, set out on his own, became an associate of William Cobbett, and with him was sentenced (though only for three months) as the printer of Cobbett's seditious article in the "Weekly Political Register." Thomas bought later the "Parliamentary Debates" which Cobbett had started in 1803 as a collection of newspaper reports quilted by Members' manuscripts and discreet revisions; this grew through the years into a semi-official report, and at length into the elaborately organised "Hansard" of the present day.

AT TURNSTILE, LUKE—followed by his second and third sons and their descendants—continued to print the Journal of the House and the Parliamentary Papers. Both firms, independent of each other, worked on, along parallel lines that never met, until, towards the end of the nineteenth century, no printers of the Hansard name were left.

Still, when Luke was an old man at Turnstile in the late eighteen-twenties, he could say that his family name was known as well as any in the records of St. Stephen's. His own rugged strength gave way suddenly in 1828, and he died in October of that year in his seventy-seventh year.

✧ ✧ ✧

TODAY his name lives throughout the Commonwealth. Unknowingly, the boy of the "Bible and Crown" in Magdalen-street, Norwich, gave a new word to the language. He would not have believed it in the quiet seventeen-seventies as he tugged at the press, and Stephen White, grumbling, "Now, Luke boy! Now, Luke!", lifted his fiddle for the tune of "The world out of nothing was made."

The French Fact

(Le Devoir, Montreal)

In the eastern part of the country the French fact is a constant reality. But in the Ontario peninsula, in the Prairie Provinces and in British Columbia it is scarcely more evident than the Ukrainian and Polish facts. t is not easy to get an English - speaking Canadian in the west to understand why French - Canadians refuse to do like the immigrants and quite simply assimilate themselves with the Anglo-Saxon society. Abstract reasoning does not take hold on the English brain which obeys, rather, the logic of facts. That is why the extension of the French language radio service to Edmonton has an inestimable symbolic value. The French voice will be carried across the whole country just as English is. French will no longer be a foreign language like German or Russian, but in truth one of the two national languages carried from the Atlantic waves to the Rockies with the prospect of reaching the Pacific in a few years.

An American Opinion: HOW TO NEGOTIATE

Letters To The Editor

U.E. VOICES OBJECTION

Sir: It appears necessary to again voice objection to the very incorrect and unfair policy you adopt in writing on matters concerning the U.E. Union.

On more than one occasion your paper has carried editorials in connection with the U.E., which clearly demonstrate the proof of your complete lack of knowledge on the matters covered, as well as extremely biased opinions.

The editorial of July 3rd, 1952, "The Responsibility of Union Power," conveys a completely distorted account of the status of our Union, U.E., in the C.G.E. plant in Peterborough.

It furthermore carried a wrong and incorrect accounting of what was actually involved in the arbitration case in question.

Therefore, to print a somewhat corrected version as you did on July 5th, 1952, does not undo the harm caused by your policy of writing at length in an incorrect and unfair manner about our Union, U.E.

The bias of your paper on these matters has been shown in the lack of comment on the many refusals of the Canadian General Electric Company to honour and abide by arbitration rulings.

In 1949 the 3,600 C.G.E. workers stopped work in protest against the Company's refusal to abide by an arbitration ruling that called for the restoration of prices on certain jobs, and the payment of thousands of dollars in back pay to a group of workers in the plant. The whole city was naturally concerned about the fact that work had ceased in this large industry in Peterborough, but your comments on the Company's actions were conspicuous by their absence.

In the above case, the Company wrote to all employees on October 14th, 1949, and there, over the signature of Mr. I. F. McRae (Works Manager at that time) stated in part:

> "In other words, the Company has not refused to abide by an arbitration award. It has stated that the award appears contradictory and would like to have it clarified so that it can be properly put into effect."

The Union and the Company jointly requested the Arbitration Board to clarify the award. The following clarification telegram was received from the majority of the Board:

> "Re Motor Winding Arbitration the award of the majority of the Board reads as follows: 'We must find in favour of the the change of the rates out of which this Union and direct that all work done since grievance originated shall be paid for at the former rates.' This means that the standard rates previously in effect shall be re-established as of November, 1947, and paid for on that basis.
>
> (Signed) Judge A. Cochrane, > Drummond Wren."

The Company absolutely refused to abide by this award and as a result it owes the workers affected thousands of dollars.

Further, the Company has flatly refused to honour and abide by other arbitration awards—all of which is common knowledge to the public of Peterborough and particularly to the staff writers of your paper.

In all of these instances your paper has been silent in any editorial comment on the Company's actions. The workers and citizens can therefore see no impartial stand taken by your paper on these matters.

You, too, joined with the Companies in hailing the judgement against the U.E. as a great victory.

There was no mention in your columns of the fact that this ruling of damages against a Union sets a bad precedent for the labour movement as a whole, and is contrary to a long established legal tradition in labour as established in the famous Taft Vale case in England in 1901 by His Honour Judge Cannon, namely that a union cannot be sued or made liable for damages.

Nor did you mention that this principle has been always upheld by the courts both in Britain and Canada since that date.

Much more could be said on this subject. However, in closing, we want to state that the good record of trade union movement in honouring agreements and arbitration awards, by far exceeds the record of managements in this country.

Further, let me repeat our opinions on your writing about UE, namely, if you must pose as an authority from time to time on UE affairs, please have the courtesy to consult those qualified to give you the facts needed, and thus prevent a recurrence of the past distasteful practices in this regard.

Yours very truly,
GEORGE WALLACE,
President, Local 524 UE.

YOUTHFUL VIEW ON CRIME AND PUNISHMENT

Sir: Recently in many newspapers and magazines the public has read of several penal institutions on our continent which have been subject to riots by convicts living in them. These riots take place due to a number of reasons. I do not profess to be an expert in this field, but I simply state the way in which I (and certainly many others) view the situation.

1. For the first thing, the riots should be nipped in the bud by having adequate guards placed in strategic places such as cell blocks etc. But the big shots seem to think that guards aren't needed until after the prisoners are living the life of Riley. After that, prisoners like their easy-going life so much that guards aren't needed. You have to practically kick them out of jail when they've served their time.

2. Petty criminals such as pickpockets in the majority live a hard life in terms of food and shelter, except when they make a particularly "good haul". But in jail they do fine. They get free meals, free board, get spending money for doing assorted jobs, free entertainment and they don't have to pay taxes. And yet, when they're in they want more of everything and stop at nothing to get it as has been proved by the recent riots.

3. The word penal is derived from the root penalty, meaning punishment. Therefore, penal institutions should be places of punishment and not a "union man's" paradise. They should be made into places where an ex-convict does not want to return. By being a criminal he'll flop right back in jail again. By "going straight" he has an excellent chance for obtaining a good job and a good name for himself.

Let's make our jail be places of real punishment. Give the inmates eight hours a day of hard work for scanty pay. Give him enough food to keep him in a good physical state, but no luxuries. Make him so that he won't want to come back to jail and ten to one he won't. He'll reform and very likely turn into a useful citizen of our fine country.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

I am the Lord, and there is none else, there is no God beside me: I girded thee, though thou hast not known me: that they may know from the rising of the sun, and from the west, that there is none beside me. I am the Lord, and there is none else. . . .

Woe unto him that striveth with his Maker! Let the potsherd strive with the potsherds of the earth. Shall the clay say to him that fashioneth it, What makest thou? or thy work, He hath no hands? Woe unto him that saith unto his father, What begettest thou? or to the woman, What hast thou brought forth?

Thus saith the Lord, the Holy One of Israel, and his Maker, Ask me of things to come concerning my sons, and concerning the work of my hands command ye me. I have made the earth, and created man upon it: I, even my hands have stretched out the heavens, and all their host have I commanded. (Isa. 45:5, 6, 9-12.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And call no man your father upon the earth: for one is your Father, which is in heaven. (Matt. 23:9.)

I Am Now Convinced

(Montreal Gazette)

In May, 1947, Hon. Antonio Barrette, Minister of Labour in the National Union Government, was speaking in the Legislative Assembly. He was speaking about a strike among the textile workers at Valleyfield—a strike that had been characterized by unusual bitterness, and violence, and by its unusual length. The leaders of that strike were Kent Rowley and Madeline Parent.

Mr. Barrette said he was convinced that Kent Rowley and Madeline Parent were Communists, and that their interest in the labour movement was ulterior, and that they were out to cause strife and disorder in the province of Quebec.

Yesterday—just five years later—the same conviction was expressed by Lloyd Klenert, secretary-treasurer of the United Textile Workers of America (T.L.C.-A.F.L.). In announcing the dismissal of Rowley and Parent (together with similarly provocative leaders in the United Textile Workers elsewhere in Canada) Mr. Klenert said: "Charges and counter-charges over the years regarding alleged Communist leadership of the U.T.W.A. in Canada have presented a serious problem to our organization. I am now convinced these charges were well founded."

The highest authorities of the United Textiles Workers of America have undertaken a drastic clean-out. The action is well taken. But how much better would it have been if it had been taken years ago. The Rowley-Parent type of leadership, with all its ugly bitterness and violence, has long exceeded the normal methods of procedure by labour.

Gen. Ridgway Confers With U.K. Chiefs

LONDON (Reuters)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway arrived here yesterday with the usual Communist "Ridgway-go-home" welcome and went into conference with the British chiefs of staff.

Police quickly squelched a small band of Communists who broke away from the welcoming crowd. Cheered by the bystanders, burly bobbies subdued the Communists. Some resisted but were quickly floored.

Later there was a mutual exchange of views between Ridgway and the three British chiefs of staff at a one-hour meeting.

Ridgway gave his initial views on the operation of the Atlantic Pact headquarters and his impressions during his recent tour of the capitals of West European Atlantic Pact countries, sources said.

Ridgway will have a private meeting here today with Defence Minister Alexander.

The General and Mrs. Ridgway later will be received in audience by the Queen at Buckingham Palace. They will dine with Prime Minister Churchill tonight.

Three women today were fined one pound each for chalking "Scram Ridgway" on a wall of an American bank and on the pavement outside the American Embassy.

Petes Defeat Owen Sound In 13-8 O.L.A. Game To Hang On To Second Place

One big period paid off for the Petes' Timbermen here last night as they yanked out a 13-8 senior O.L.A. victory over Owen Sound Crescents. Down 2-1 in the first period, the locals roared in for an 8-3 margin in the second to lead 9-5 at the half. Crescents edged them 2-1 again in the third, but the Petes finished a bit stronger with a 3-1 fourth-quarter drive. It was a hard-fought, close contest all the way but for that big splurge early in the second. Play was fairly fast and pretty clean, despite some rugged checking in every quarter. Ross Powless and Harry Kazarian threw punches in the second to draw majors.

SMART CHORE — Curly Mason turned in a neat chore for the local Timbermen here last night as they beat Owen Sound 13-8 in a tidy senior O.L.A. game. The chunky forward banged in two goals and aided on three more for five points to lead his side scoring.

GOALIES GOOD

Both goalies were good and they had quite a bit to do from start to finish. The Crescents played a canny game, waiting for breaks but moved fast when the occasion demanded. The Petes battled in furiously and held their own in the bumping department, Wipper, Powless, Fitzgerald, Nickle and Hildebrand being especially prominent on stiff checking.

The feature of the Timbermen's attack was when they caught fire in the second heat and blasted home six straight goals against close checking and a good goalie before the Sounders could stop them. Before that and afterward, it was strictly a dogfight, though the Thorpe team had a little margin toward the end of the keen tussle. Somewhat more than a thousand fans viewed the scrap on a suddenly chilly night.

IKE GETS THREE

In the goal scoring department, Ike Hildebrand slapped in three to lead his mates, Curly Mason and Harry Wipper being next with a brace each, as Ross Powless, Don Ashbee, Grant Burns, Lou Nickle, Bob Thorpe and Dootch Vitarelli clicked for one apiece. Mason had three assists in a fine showing, Wipper getting two, as singles went to Russ Slater, Nit O'Hearn, Thorpe, Nickle, Vitarelli and Hildebrand.

Don Campbell, Johnny Lumley and Tony Capulo showed the way in lamp-lighting for Owen Sound with two goals apiece, Jack Hauart—a newcomer—and Norm Shortridge denting the hemp once each for the northerners. Lumley and Doug Gillespie each had two assists, with singles going to John Mathewson, Grant Gillespie and Harry Kazarian.

The win kept the Timbermen in second place in the senior standing and left Crescents just a game out of a tie for the cellar. Teams:

Owen Sound: Goal, Taylor; defence, McLeod and Davis; centre, Marchant; wings, Kazarian and Campbell; rover, D. Gillespie; alternates, Hauart, Lumley, Mathewson, Capulo, Shortridge, D. Gillespie and Whitstone.

Petes: Goal, Wootton; defence, Wipper and O'Hearn; centre, Mason; wings, Slater and Powless; rover, Hildebrand; alternates, Fitzgerald, Nickle, Vitarelli, Ashbee, Robinson, Burns and Thorpe.

Cobourg Takes 11-8 Win Over Lindsay

Cobourg girls downed Lindsay 11-8 in intermediate Girls' Softball League playoffs here last night, finishing strong to earn the duke. They banged out 14 hits to 10 for the losers, and had but one miscue afield as Lindsay booted four. It was a keen enough contest right to the finish, with S. Slater having a little edge on the mound for the lakeshore lasses.

H. Davis led the winners at bat with three for three, one of them a double. N. Hart and B. Fisher turned in a good fielding job for the Cobourg crew, while Britnall and Walling stood out defensively for Lindsay. The former cuffed out four for five at bat, one a double, Vanstone also hitting a two-bagger. Davis was hit on the wrist in the ninth and was replaced by Fisher. Teams:

Juniors Drop Tough One To The Saints

ST. CATHARINES (Special)—St. Catharines Athletics staved off a last period Peterborough Filter Queen rally here last night to score a close 11-9 victory in a scheduled Ontario Lacrosse Association junior "A" game. Athletics took a 3-1 lead in the first quarter, increased it to 7-3 at the half and 10-6 in the third but two consecutive goals by Roger Smith and another by Bob Batley brought Petes back to within two goals of the second-place Athletics.

With two minutes left to play, Capt. Gerry O'Reilly hit the crossbar with a hard drive which would have cut the Saints' margin to one goal. Due to suspensions received in a recent game at Dundas, Peterborough was forced to use three juveniles in their lineup: Tiny Hunt, Roy Mullen and Junior Daniels, but the entire trio came up with good lacrosse in their junior debut.

Ron Winterbottom paced Athletics to their win with three goals, singles going to John and Les Howard. Bob Daniels, Pete Conradi, Fred Martin, Murray Cox, Doug Baldwin and Ron Labatte. Petes' Indian ace, Roger Smith, scored three goals, Carl Brioux and Gerry O'Reilly two each with singles by Tiny Hunt and Bob Batley.

Lineups—Petes: Goal, Hickson; defence, Brioux, O'Reilly; rover, Gray; centre, Batley; forwards, Fitzgerald, Groves. Alternates — Daniels, Hunt, Morrissey, Mullen, Smith.

Burtol's Erase Marines In Senior Play

Burtol's defeated Marines 11-3 at the Bowl last night to eliminate the Outboards from senior city playoffs in the Girls' Softball League. Burtol's now meet Ashby's Monday to start city finals. They had a 14-9 hitting margin and but one error to four for the losers in a fair fray. It was the third of a best-of-three series, each team taking one previously. The winner of the senior city finals takes the local trophy and proceeds into P.W.S.U. intermediate "A" playdowns later this summer.

Doris McFadden fanned seven of the Marines and had good backing, especially from B. Morrow and J. Dunk, the latter hitting for five for five for a large evening. M. Hawthorne clouted a double. J. Hart and B. McMahon were best afield for the losers. V. Paige and M. Behan each hit three in five tries, one of the former's being a triple. D. Dunk banged out a two-bagger. Teams:

Dr. Stanton has won one division of the Canadian Cup Pace—Canada's richest harness race—in each of the last two season and is the world's leading money-winning pace gelding.

Petes Trounce The Redmen With Dadson Pitching In 8-1 Central Loop Game

BELLEVILLE (Special)—Taking full advantage of Redmen infield errors, the Peterborough Petes won their second straight game here last night defeating the Quinte league leaders 8-1 in a Central Ontario Baseball League fixture.

It was the first victory of the season for the Petes over the Redmen and the latter's second loss in C.O.B.L. competition.

The Redmen outhit the Petes 14-11 but failed to come through in the clutches while they tossed the ball around six times for errors while the Petes were in scoring position.

On the other hand the Petes came up with a flawless fielding exhibition, executing two smart twin killings when Red rallies threatened.

"Lefty" Bill Dadson allowed the Reds but one run but was touched freely over the route giving up 14 hits, one a double by Vern Goyer, striking out three and walking one.

Johnny Mowatt started on the mound for the Reds, giving up eight hits for five runs before he was relieved in the eighth by Bobby Bunton. The latter was touched for three clouts in the ninth but was the victim of two errors that paved the way for three runs. Mowatt was tabbed with the loss.

"Poosh-em-up" Tony Pettitt was again the star of the Reds' hit parade with three clouts. Vern Goyer got himself a double and single and Huck Reeves was good for a trio of loners. Gilmour had a pair.

EDGER LEADS

Edger paced the Petes' pack with three singles with Lowrey hitting a double and single. Al Menzies blasted two, with Garvey, Stewart, Young and Pagett good for one each.

The Reds got their lone run in the first inning after Gilmour and Fitzpatrick went out. Tony Pettitt hit a single and galloped home on Goyer's ringing double. Wardhaugh grounded out.

The Petes went one up in the third when Dadson was safe on Reeves' error. Lowrey, who doubled in the first, came up with a single sending Dadson to third and taking second on stolen base. Both runners scored on Wardhaugh's juggle of Edger's infield hit.

Two singles by Young and Edger after Stewart was hit by a Mowatt pitch were good for one in the sixth. Two hits and two more Redmen bobbles in the seventh sent two more Petes across the plate. Errors again paved the way for a trio of Petes markers in the ninth when Bunton and Reeves made bad throws aided and abetted by three singles two of them scratch bunts.

MINARD'S "KING OF PAIN" LINIMENT

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Sports were quite quiet here a decade ago. Local sports pages of the summer of 1942 didn't have too much Peterborough copy. Mostly activity by kids or by the oldsters in curling, golf, lawn bowling, etc. Our pages then had to depend considerably on N.H.L. stuff in the winter and major ball in the summer, and these sports weren't up to par, but they did operate. Right here, there was some softball summers and hockey winters — till the rink was sold — of an intermediate "A" or possibly senior "B" classification, hockey switching later to the Omemee rink. Apart from these two sports, there was little or nothing. Baseball, lacrosse and football folded for the duration.

* * * * * *

Nor was the calibre of these few surviving sports high — it was down considerably from other years and from what it is today. Though, of course, there were a few individual stars of considerable stature still around, but not enough to make for good competition. Most of the good athletes of junior, intermediate and senior sports' age were in the armed services. A number of our good clubs like the baseballers and lacrossers — enlisted almost en masse. In fact, our junior puckists did, along with their manager and coach. So it put quite a crimp on the local sports scene, as those pages testify. But that was a decade back; and things are perking okay here today.

King and His Corps

King Howie and his Corps — if we're not being too facetious — emulate Eddie Feigner and his four-man softball club around here this summer and have been winning some games. Not up to the class of the King and His Court, they nevertheless put up a nifty exhibition. Howie Dalton pitches with Tom Walton catching. There's George (Red) Sullivan for the infield and Jack Mackness in the garden. Buck Legrow is not expected to be ready to play with 'em this Saturday eve at the Bowl as part of a twin bill in aid of Jack Larkman, player who broke his ankle some time ago. The quartet plays Lakefield, after an oldtimers' game at seven. Lots of prizes and fun for all.

* * * * * *

Cobourg turned back Lindsay lasses 11-8 at the Bowl last gloaming as Burtol's beat Marines 11-3. The lakeshore girls lead their intermediate city series, while Burtol's now go against Ashby's for the senior city title and the right to proceed into provincial playdowns. They tangle here Monday, but we haven't heard of a second game as yet. In both cases last eve, the winners had steady twirling with fine fielding, and they hit the apple hard when at bat to earn the victories in fairly decisive fashion. Cobourg came on late to win their tussle, while Burtol's unloosed big attacks in the fifth and sixth stanzas to wrap it up.

Take Owen Sounders

Down at Miller Bowl last p.m., the Petes got redhot, despite the sudden chill of the evening, in the second quarter to blast in eight goals and they went on to beat Owen Sound 13-8 before a fair crowd. A right lively struggle, with the Crescents outscoring 'em in the first and third chukkers and making it close enough in the fourth. Neat goaltending on both sides, and some rugged checking. Just one fight, Powless and Kazarian tossing a few punches ere cooling off for five minutes in the penance pew. Curly Mason, Ike Hildebrand and Harry Wipper stood out on the attack and also checked well, with Lou Nickle showing plenty as he improves every time out. Saturday they're in St. Catharines and on Tuesday trek to Toronto, not being home till a week from this Friday.

* * * * * *

It fell to the lot of Lefty Bill Dadson of the senior ball-playing Petes to pitch the locals' first C.O.B.L. win of the semester o'er the Quinte Redmen last p.m. in Belleville. An 8-1 verdict. 'Twas a free-hitting affair with the Petes coming through with perfect fielding, including two snappy double-plays. Redmen booted the cabbage all over the garden for six miscues as the visiting squad racked up the count. Bill Edger hammered out three for five to lead the Petes at bat, and Joe Lowrey smacked out a double and single, while Al Menzies hit two singles. Tony Pettitt topped Belleville batsmen with three safe blows. The same squads clash here on Monday night.

Belfast Golfer Leading Open

LYTHAM, England (Reuters)—Fred Daly, a cheerful Irishman from Belfast, yesterday took over the lead in the British Open golf championship with a first-round 67.

Daly, out for his second Open title—he won in 1947—said playing conditions were easy.

In second place was Peter Thomson, the young Australian, with 68, followed by South Africa's Bobby Locke, with 69.

Bill Coggin of Montclair, N.J., led the American contingent with a 71. Amateur Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., took a 73 and 50-year-old Gene Sarazen, Britain Open winner 20 years ago, a 74. Sarazen was tied with Daly with 32 after nine holes, but slowed up on the home nine, taking a seven on the 17th hole.

Belleville Pair Captures Lawn Bowling Tourney And Liftlock Gold Trophy

G. Edwards and G. Hyde, of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club, won first prize and the Lift Lock Gold Trophy at the open doubles tournament held on the local greens Wednesday.

W. Fenton and J. Young, Toronto, were the runners-up. So completely did the visitors dominate the games that only one local rink reached the winners' circle, H. Williamson and M. Fletcher coming third. There were 21 prizes in all.

Play began yesterday morning under weather conditions that were anything but favorable—in fact the tournament did stop for about an hour around 12 o'clock due to a heavy shower. To the credit of the bowlers, visitors and local, not one pair of the 96 entered defaulted. They all stayed right through till the finish.

A GOOD JOB

It was a grand tournament and R. Gamble and his committee did a big job in a big way. They deserved all the nice things said about them.

The ladies came in for their share of compliments also. They looked after the inner man in good style.

At the presentation of the prizes Chairman R. Gamble paid tribute to all who had helped to make the tournament the success it was.

Mrs. C. Graham, donor of the trophy, presented it to the winning pair from Belleville and said how pleased she was to be able to make this presentation for the eighth consecutive year and Mrs. Graham was presented with a bouquet of flowers by the chairman.

Cardinals Hottest Club Now In National League

By JOE REICHLER, Associated Press Sports Writer.

The next two weeks should decide the fate of Eddie Stanky's St. Louis Cardinals. Beginning tonight, the red-hot Redbirds take on Philadelphia, Brooklyn and New York in succession before closing out their home stay with Boston in an 11-game stand against the eastern clubs.

By then, the sizzling Cards may either have blown a fuse or have established themselves as a solid pennant threat on an even footing with the Dodgers and Giants.

Currently the hottest club in the National League, the Cards are riding a nine-game winning streak, with 18 triumphs in their last 22 games. Wallowing in the second division a month ago, they have pushed into third place, 9½ games behind Brooklyn.

Stanky, though well aware of the Dodgers' healthy 13-game edge on the decisive defeat side of the standings, refuses to concede a thing to Brooklyn and New York.

"We've still got an outside chance for the pennant," the scrappy little infielder said. "We're going good right now. There is no reason why we shouldn't continue. . . This race isn't over by a long shot."

Stanky's optimism is based on the fact that his team has shown it can beat the Dodgers. The Cards hold a 6-5 margin over the league-leaders.

A.L SCRAMBLED

While the Cards are threatening to make a three-team affair of the National League race, the American continues to resemble a fox hunt with Cleveland, Washington, Boston and Chicago chasing New York's Yankees. The White Sox last week moved into the runner-up spot, three games behind the Yankees. The Indians, Senators and Red Sox are not far behind.

The Yankees face an opportunity to increase their first-place margin, launching a 14-game home stand tonight with St. Louis Browns as the first of four western opponents.

All major league teams were idle yesterday, the usual open date after the All-Star game.

Cancel Fifth At Erie

Because of a bad start, the fifth race at the Fort Erie track here was declared cancelled yesterday and all money was refunded. Starters were unable to use the gate because of mud and water left by a rainstorm. Several horses did not get away and were pulled up. The crowd shouted and booed until the race ended with Beech Hill in front.

Plan To Improve British Soccer

LONDON (CP)—Plans for speeding up and improving the general standard of Old Country professional soccer have been recommended to the governing authorities of the game by Arthur Ellis, who refereed the Cup final between Arsenal and Newcastle at Wembley in May.

Ellis has suggested that four balls, changed at quarterly intervals, should be used in every Football League match next season. The purpose would be to keep the weight of the ball as constant as possible for the entire game, particularly when ground conditions are heavy.

He has also proposed that a light, non-absorbent white ball should be used in all official fixtures from November to March.

Boxer, Wrestler Clash In Cafe

LOS ANGELES (AP)—What happens when lightweight boxing champion Lauro Salas, weight 130, tangles with wrestler Carlos Guzman, weight 230?

Nothing much, said witnesses to an impromptu clash between the two at a cafe run by ex-fighter Baby Arizmendi.

Salas, who has had two previous well-publicized cafe fights in a year, fractured nothing but the air with his punches.

Guzman came out with a bloody lip. He bit it somehow.

Red Wings Rout Buffalo In 9-1 Exchange

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It looks as though rookie Ray Jablonski of Rochester Red Wings is determined to give Ottawa's veteran Lou Limmer a battle for the home-run crown in the International League.

Jablonski hit his 13th last night as the Wings routed Buffalo Bisons 9-1 in the circuit's only game. It was a three-run clout that knocked Bison starter Al Yalian from the box in the third inning and made it easy going for winner Ellis Deal. Jablonski and Limmer now are tied for the loop four-bagger leadership.

Limmer, who moved into the lead with a homer against Toronto Tuesday night, did not get a chance last night since Ottawa and Toronto were not scheduled. Wet grounds postponed the Montreal-Baltimore and Springfield-Syracuse clashes.

Ed Stevens is right behind the co-leaders with 12 homers. Roy Weatherly, Baltimore, and Frank Carswell, Buffalo, have 11 each. Johnny Blatnik, Syracuse, and Lew Morton, Toronto, both have hit 10.

Jablonski also had a double to drive in a total of four runs as the Wings moved to within two games of the league-leading Montreal Royals. The Wings hold a two-game edge in the win column but trail by six on the debit side.

TOUTED THUMPS — Peanuts Lowrey, left, after years of campaigning seems to get better with age, his big bat being one reason the Cardinals are in the first division. Jackie Jensen, centre, jumped from the Yankees to Washington to spark Bucky Harris' crew with a 20-game hitting streak. The Athletics' Ferris Fain belately caught fire and threatens to repeat his 1951 batting performance.

Use Same Team In Sept. Swim

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Channel swimmer Florence Chadwick will have the same "team" with her when she tries again to conquer the distance between Catalina Island and the mainland in September.

Overriding an announcement last night from San Diego by her mother, Mrs. Mary Chadwick, that there will be a new trainer, Miss Chadwick said Bert Rovere, Los Angeles cafeman and a former channel swimmer, will again be her trainer.

Florence said she appreciated her mother's advice but that she will win or lose on her own decisions.

Mrs. Chadwick said her daughter's July 4 swim was mishandled in that the time of year was unsuitable, there were improper training conditions before the swim and Rovere failed to understand her temperament.

Race Tracks Find Must Pay Big Stakes

NEW YORK (AP)—In the spring of 1949 the National Asociation of State Racing Commissioners met here and one of the speakers was George D. Widener, president of Belmont Park and now chairman of the Jockey Club.

"I think this competition for high stakes, such as these big $100,000 races, is bad for the sport Widener said.

"Personally, I think no Stakes race is worth more than $50,000. Purses for other races should be increased."

Many race track owners and officials agree today with Widener. But the fact remains that big money attracts big-name horses, and people like to see the stars of the turf in action.

TO LURE "NAMES"

Florida tracks are finding that out, while the Fairgrounds at New Orleans also is out to cut down on the annual winter pilgrimage of the big stables to California.

New York, often termed racing's "Big Apple," now has only one race carrying $100,000 in added money—the Belmont Stakes. That's the money added by the track to nomination and starting fees.

In contrast, Chicago has four Stakes with $100,000 added. They are the Arlington Classic July 19, the Arlington Handicap July 26, the American Derby Aug. 9 and the Washington Park Handicap Sept. 1.

Fall Stake races have yet to be announced at most tracks, but so far this year 10 races with $100,000 tags have been scheduled.

Blue Man, current leader among the three-year-olds, is heading for Chicago to tackle the Arlington Handicap. Spartan Valor, top handicap horse of the season, has been there all summer waiting for the heavy sugar. Calumet is there with half its powerful stable—the other half is in California raking in the dough. The Calumets go where the grass is greener, and the stable is the biggest money-winner of the year to date, with earnings of more than $600,000. Tom Fool, 1951 juvenile champ, is heading out for the Arlington Classic.

4 $100,000 RACES

opment will be the scrap for big-name gallopers next winter. Santa Anita has been getting most of them, and in addition to its trio of hundred granders, will boost the San Juan Capistrano Handicap to $100,000.

Florida, once the winter racing capital, is out to recoup. Gulfstream Park announced recently its Florida Derby would be increased from $20,000 to $100,000. The Gulfstream Handicap was raised from $25,000 to $50,000.

Not to be outdone, the Fair Grounds has jumped the New Orleans Handicap 50 per cent, to $50,000, while the Louisiana Derby is going from $20,000 to $40,000.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Youthful Jim Bentley of Toronto mastered Henri Rochon's famed drop-shot to win in the third round men's single play of the Eastern Canada Tennis championships 6-3, 6-8, 6-4 at Quebec yesterday.

Bentley, 20, took 1½ hours to whip the Canadian Davis Cupper from Montreal in the biggest upset of the tournament.

Rochon was seeded third while Bentley was not seeded.

With the victory, Bentley advanced to the quarter-finals against Jack Spencer of Montreal, who upset Don Fontana of Toronto, seeded sixth, 7-5, 6-2. Fontana played off form, hampered by an eye injury received in morning doubles play.

Lorne Main of Vancouver, seeded second, advanced to the quarter-finals by easily defeating Peter Stewart of Toronto 6-3, 6-3.

Top-seeded Harold Burrows of Charlottesville, Va., breezed through two sets against J. Yves Laurin of Quebec 6-2, 6-3.

Bentley, fresh from his upset over Rochon, teamed with Dorothy Hurst of Toronto in the first round of mixed doubles to whip Austin McPherson, Toronto, and Lois Jones of Montreal, 6-3, 6-2.

Rochon came back to the court with Burrows to dispose of Quebecers Guy Brennan and Giles Cote 6-1, 6-0 in the second round of men's doubles.

TO DEFEND TITLE

Ontario's annual horseshoe pitching championships will be held Saturday at Dieppe Park in East York, Toronto suburb. The present Canadian champion, Walter Woodward, will vie with two top competitors for national honors, Oshawa's Dean McLaughlin and Listowel's Stan Fritz.

WINS REVOLVER SHOOT

Inspector Doug Darby of the Provincial Police detachment at Dundas won the grand aggregate prize of the Ontario Police Association revolver shoot at Hamilton yesterday. He scored 276 points of a possible 300. Ninety policemen from Toronto, Guelph, Kitchener, London, St. Catharines, Kingston, Brantford and Hamilton took part. A Toronto team won the team aggregate championship with a total of 672 points.

ARGYLE GRATTAN WINS

Argyle Grattan, Dunc Campbell's great pacing gelding from Ailsa Craig, is still taking on all comers and winning around Western Ontario's harness racing circuit. He went with the free-for-all horses at the annual Exeter races yesterday, won both heats and paced the fastest time of the day, a 2.09 3-5 mile on a slow track. A record crowd of close to 4,000 fans saw the program.

ONTARIO DRIVER WINS

Super Chief, 6-to-5 favorite driven by Clint Hodgins of Clandeboye, Ont., earned a half-length victory over Gates Hanover in the featured Sea Cliff Pace at Roosevelt Raceway at Westbury, N.Y., last night. Time for the mile was 2:08 4-5 over a muddy track. Super Chief returned $4.80 to win.

Swedish Boat Builder May Save Canada's Olympic Rowers

HELSINKI (CP)—A Swedish boat builder may be the salvation of Canada's Olympic rowers.

A three-man delegation was scheduled to fly to Stockholm today to negotiate with the builder for racing shells to replace those damaged during a stormy Atlantic crossing last week.

Flying from here are Paddy Cline of Hamilton, coach of the four-oared crew, Harry Kaysmith, coach of the Toronto Argonaut eight-oared crew, and Fred Carter of Toronto, manager of Canada's Olympic oarsmen.

If the negotiations are successful, three racing shells will be purchased and shipped from Stockholm and will arrive in Helsinki Friday night.

Meanwhile in Toronto Olympic rowing officials were awaiting word to fly three rowing shells to this Finnish capital as replacements. A Royal Dutch Airlines cargo plane is scheduled to leave New York July 14 for Finland and can be re-routed through Montreal to pick up the boats. The shells would arrive in Helsinki the following day.

The replacement shells are at the Argonaut Rowing Club's headquarters in Toronto, and were originally intended to be used in the Olympics. Built at Kelowna, B.C. they failed to arrive in time for the June 17 shipping date from Montreal. Substitute shells were sent. These were the ones damaged in the Atlantic storm.

But the cost of shipping the shells by air is a barrier that up to now seems insurmountable. It would cost thousands of dollars to transport the new boats for the doubles, four and eight-oared crews. The rowers hope that some generous persons in Canada will remove this barrier.

On the same plane as the delegation today will be Jack Burney of Vancouver. He is returning to his United States Army unit in Germany after a fruitless trip to Helsinki to join the Canadian Olympic squad. The 23-year-old athlete, whose times for the 400-metre hurdles have been faster than the Olympic standard set by the Canadian Olympic Association, arrived here last week on the understanding that he was eligible for the team.

SQUAD SETTLES DOWN

But on his arrival he was told that he could not join the Canadian track and field squad because he hadn't competed in the Olympic trials at Hamilton recently.

Meanwhile the Canadian team has settled down to a vigorous pre-Olympic training program. The track squad is holding twice-daily workouts. The oarsmen, using unfamiliar shells, are getting into shape. Ferd Hayward, 41, of St. John's, Nfld., plans serious workouts today prior to the 10,000-metre and 50-kilometre events. Yesterday Paul Collins of Wolfville, N.S, did 16 miles of the marathon course.

Benefit Games Set For Saturday Night

Everything is in readiness for Saturday night's benefit games for John Larkman of Lakefield, who broke his leg in a game recently. There is no expense in connection with this game, the park being turned over to the Men's City League without any cost for this special event. The tickets for the game have been donated and there will be 10 prizes or more drawn for, these all having been donated. So every penny taken in will go to the injured player.

Widespread interest is being shown in the Old Timers game. Most of the truly greats of yesteryear will be in action. Red Creighton announced last night that he was fit and ready to go and it is expected Don Crowe and Les Burton will see action, plus the players already named.

Howie Dalton and his Five Aces will perform in the second battle, taking on the classy Lakefield crew. This will be the toughest opposition the Dalton Boys have met to date, Lakefield showing real class in whipping Seabrookes Tuesday night.

With a heavy advance sale of tickets a huge crowd is looked for.

Finland Asks All Entrants To Be Friendly

By TED SMITS

HELSINKI (AP)—Finland, neutral host to the biggest and potentially the most controversial of modern Olympic Games, spread diplomatic oil on troubled waters today to mbring about sports amity between East and West.

The Russians, after starting off with the usual cold isolation of the party line, have become unexpectedly friendly—probably on orders from high places.

Now Baron Erik von Frenckell, president of the Finnish Olympic Organizing Committee, has called an "important" press conference for this afternoon. There were indications he will make an appeal for peaceful, tranquil Games.

This would be in the tradition of the Olympic Games of ancient times. In those days heralds went out through Greece to proclaim the Games every four years, and called on the city states—many of which were usually in a state of war—to permit the free passage of athletes to the site of the Games.

PREMIER ASKS NEUTRALITY

Premier Urho Kekkonan of Finland has written a magazine article calling on the country to maintain neutral and friendly attitude despite past frictions with Russia.

This is the first time Soviet Russia has competed. And it marks the return to the world sports arena of Germany and Japan as well.

The United States and Russia have the two biggest teams in the Games—approximately 400 athletes each. There are 69 countries competing with about 6,500 individual entries.

At the outset, the Russians hid behind the usual iron or red-tape curtain. Unexpectedly it fell yesterday. Reporters were permitted to tour the splendid modern village at Otaniemi where the Iron Curtain athletes are housed.

Russians Pick Best Camp At Olympics

By VERNON MORGAN

HELSINKI (Reuters)—Russians participating in the Olympic Games which open here July 19 have picked for themselves the best of everything in the camp they share with athletes from satellite countries behind the Iron Curtain.

And the best seems to be better than anything in the western Olympic Camp at Kapyla.

This reporter drew those conclusions after touring the almost-completed Russian camp at Otaniemi, which will be used by the Russians, Czechs, Poles, Romanians, Hungarians and Bulgarians.

The camp is situated seven miles from the city on the edge of a forest-bordered lake.

IGNORE SIGN

Visiting newspapermen ignored a big sign reading "Entrance Prohibited" at the front gate. No one protested. A short, bald-headed Finnish colonel showed them around the residential and training quarters.

The Russians have the biggest dining hall. All other eastern European teams—except Hungary—will share the same canteen.

They have moved into the most spacious red brick house, which is also better furnished than the other eight in the village and whose windows afford the most pleasant view of the surrounding countryside.

The Russians' camp tops the western one at Kapyla in three ways:

1. It is better situated. Athletes will be able to have a restful, secluded place to relax and train. The western camp is closer to the city.

2. Bedrooms are more comfortably furnished and there are fewer persons to a room.

3. There are more recreation rooms.

The Russians will also have the use of the only indoor track and field stadium in Finland for training.

HOT HORSE—Frank Adams steered his mount, Hot, into a precision lunge clearing a water jump to go on and cop the Hitchcock Steeplechase at New York's Aqueduct.

Soviet Union Entries Heavy in Men's Track Events

By MILTON MARMOR

HELSINKI (AP)—The Soviet Union is throwing its full force into the men's track and field events, the entry list released by the Olympic Committee disclosed today.

The Russians have entered every event, and put up the maximum quota of three entries in all but three events. They entered only two in the high hurdles, shot put and hop-step and jump.

Every noted Soviet athlete is on the entry list—with but one exception: Heino Lipp, holder of the European shot put record and supposedly best of the decathlon men. This could mean he is getting too old and not up to present standards.

The entry list yields many interesting facts, but the most unusual is that Emil Zatopek, fabulous Czech distance runner, has elected to try for three gold medals.

MAY WIN ALL

Zatopek, a major in the Czech army, is entered in the 5,000-metre run, the 10,000-metre run and the 26-mile, 385-yard marathon. Many believe he may win all three.

Zatopek won the 10,000 in the 1948 games and placed second in the 5,000 to Gaston Reiff of Belgium. Since then he has bettered his 10,000-metre mark by almost a minute to set an almost unbelievable world record of 29:02.6.

Among the Russians listed to compete against Zatopek is Aleksander Anoufriev in the 5,000. Anoufriev ran second behind the Russian Vladimir Kazantsev when both defeated Zatopek in Kiev a few weeks ago in the 5,000.

Surprisingly, Kazantsev is entered only in the 3,000-metre steeplechase in which he holds the world mark. Nikifor Popov, Russian distance man, is competing in both the 5,000 and the 10,000 as is Anoufriev.

Feodossij Vanine, veteran distance runner from the Soviet Union, leads the marathon entries.

BEST IN METRIC MILE

The great race of the Olympics shapes up in the 1,500 or metric mile.

Entered are such names as: Riefe, who also will run the 5,000; Willi Slijkhuis of The Netherlands, one of the world's great runners; Roger Bannister and Bill Nankeville of Britain; John Ross, Canadian entry from Oakville, Ont.; Audun Boysen of Norway; Patrick el Mabrouk of France; Sture Landqvist, Ingvar Ericsson and Olow Aberg of Sweden; Guenter Dohrow, Rolf Lamers and Werner Lueg of Germany—Lueg tied the world mark of 3:43 recently—Denis Johansson of Finland and Sandor Iharos of Hungary.

Expect Nine Clubs In American League

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pittsburgh Post-Gazette says today that contrary to rumors, the American Hockey League is expected to operate next season with nine clubs as it did in 1951-52.

The newspaper says John Sollenberger, President and chairman of the league's Board of Governors, got in touch with representatives of all teams in the circuit except Syracuse, N.Y.

"All said they would have teams for next season," Sollenberger is quoted as saying.

Fabulous Offer Made To Player

LONDON (CP) — Tom Finney, one of England's all-time soccer greats, has been offered a 10,000 pound bonus, a fabulous boost in salary, plus a seaside villa and a car for signing a two-year contract with the Palermo club of the Italian Professional League.

But Finney, who has starred for 13 years as outside right for Preston North-End of the English First Division, has rejected the tempting offer.

It was a tough decision for the tricky little speed demon whose playing contract with Preston expired at the end of June. When he placed the proposition before the directors of his club, and the question of his outright release was raised, he was told "nothing doing."

Acquired by Preston in 1939 for the nominal 10 pound signing-on fee, Finney, in recent years, has been sought by practically every major league club, but the price has scared them off. The bedrock fee for his transfer is reported to be a record 50,000 pounds.

Finney re-signed with Preston for salary of approximately 900 pounds a season.

Plan Benefit Game For Injured Player

COBOURG—Cobourg and District Softball League heads will rally to the aid of injured Baltimore second baseman Freddy McMillan Saturday night. The league will stage a contest between the Baltimore Millers and an all-star team picked from the ranks of other teams.

McMillan broke his ankle sliding home in a game between the C.G.E. and Baltimore last week and will be out of action the rest of the season.

The All-Star-Baltimore game will be played under lights and it is expected that two of the loop's top pitchers, Barney Mills of Mathews and Don Ball of Baltimore, will oppose each other with veteran Brandy Hie and Don Platt in reserve for the All-Stars.

Field Of 74 To Tee Off In Ont. Junior Tourney

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A field of 74 of the finest teen-age golfers in the province tee off at Highland Golf Club tomorrow in the annual Ontario junior golf championships. The tournament will be 36 holes of medal play.

Defending champion Gerry Knechtel of Kitchener, who qualified at London with a 73, heads the field as he shoots for his second straight title, hoping to duplicate the feat of another "Gerry" from Kitchener—Kesselring—a few years ago.

An added goal for the youngsters this year will be to shoot for a place on a picked Ontario junior team which will play a selected team for the United States at Toronto Mississauga July 29. Two players from each of four age groups will make up this team and they will be selected on the basis of their performance at the championships here.

Charge U.S. Firms Fake U.K. Trademark

LONDON (Reuters)—British silversmiths protested today that United States firms are faking ancient British hallmarks on silver plate.

The National Jewelers' Association said today that protests will be lodged with the government and action sought in Washington.

The elaborate system of hallmarks has been used in Britain for centuries as a gurantee of the quality of the silver used. They are protected by law in Britain.

Race Promoter Dies

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Charles William Crummer, 69, well-known Western Ontario race promoter and breeder of racing and trotting horses, died yesterday at Pamona, Calif. He introduced night harness racing in London in the 30s. He trained Guy The Tramp, one of Canada's outstanding pacers. He operated stables at Chatham and Wallaceburg for many years before moving to California 15 years ago.

Remember When—

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Harry Cooper of Chicago won the Canadian Open golf title at Ottawa 20 years ago today with a 72-hole score of 290. Cooper won the Canadian Open again in 1937 but was never able to triumph in the American Open tournament.

Take Salary Cuts

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The biggest studio—Metro Goldwyn Mayer—announced yesterday that its top executives have agreed to accept salary cuts of from 25 to 50 per cent "to provide leadership in a drive for economy." The cuts will apply to executives of Loew's Inc., M.G.M.'s parent organization.

Tom Gard's Note Book

During recent weeks two striking examples of rebuilding and renovation came to light. In one case it was an interesting tea pot, and the second was a comfortable chair.

TIN AND TEA

Who would ever think of making a pot from an old tin can, the kind we buy as a container for fruit juice, cocoa, baking powder and many others on the grocery list. A new citizen from Central Europe found that articles bought over the counter could serve a useful purpose. In speaking to him I asked what his first reaction was to life in Canada, and his reply amazed me. "You people waste too much and throw away what might be saved". Then he showed me his tea pot. Taking his tin can, a spout and handle from an old metal tea pot he contrived to solder them together and with a good polish presented a very useful household article. Then he said, "See what I mean?" I confess I did, and profited by this man's industry. Why not try it?

KNIFE BOX

The First Lady of the Land is often found in the kitchen or out on the back verandah posing vegetables for dinner. In this homely occupation I have observed on many occasions that a cut finger may be the result of picking a sharp knife out of a drawer too quickly. A young farmer I know solved the problem with a simple contrivance, as illustrated — just a block of pine, two strips along the sides, and end and bottom of the same material. It was interesting to note that the sharp points were concealed, the handles exposed. The slits for the blades were made with the saw passing through twice for a sufficiently wide opening. Corners were rounded by sawing off the corner, then sanding to a suitable finish. The sides were scored with the saw to give an added touch of pattern.

BOOK MARKS

How many times have we picked up books to find the corners turned down by the thoughtless person! Many times when securing books from the library I have found pieces of paper, matches, and other articles that had been used as markers. A bright young school teacher had the answer, making book marks from felt hats, scraps of leather and pieces of silk. Some were lettered, others just plain, but they all served the same purpose.

CONVERTED CAR SEATS

As we travel through the province one thing is often evident, the graveyard for used cars so conspicuous at the edge of town. In many of these cars the seats are still intact. On one occasion I noted a strong chair made from one of these seats, with legs of water piping, the seat and back covered with colourful chintz the same as the drapes. The maker was on the watch for a double seat, stating he would then introduce another pair of legs in the centre for the necessary support. The legs were painted to match the woodwork of the room.

CBC Director Dr. A. Frigon Dies In Quebec

SIXTEEN ISLANDS LAKE, Que. (CP)—Dr. Augustin Frigon, 64, Director of Planning for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, died last night in the Laurentian resort town north of Montreal. He had been ill for some time.

An electrical engineer, Dr. Frigon was appointed assistant general manager of the CBC at its inception in 1936 and became general manager in 1944. Last December, he was appointed Director of Planning.

At that time, CBC Chairman A. D. Dunton said Dr. Frigon was being named to the new senior post to relieve him of the heavy strain of administrative duties of general manager.

SET UP CBC

Dr. Frigon played a part in setting up the Canadian radio system as it now operates, as a member of the Royal Commission on radio broadcasting. Known as the Aird Commission, it made an extensive tour of the United States and Europe in 1928 to study broadcasting facilities.

Recommendations of the Aird report were substantially implemented in the organization of the CBC.

Born in Montreal, Dr. Frigon studied here, at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and in Paris. He was dean of the Ecole Polytechnique, the engineering faculty of the University of Montreal, from 1923 until 1935 and since then had been president of the corporation under which the faculty operates.

MEMBER OF N.R.C.

At one time or another he was a member of the National Research Council, director-general of technical education for Quebec province, a consulting engineer for the Quebec Public Service Commission, a member of the LaPointe commission of inquiry into electricity in Quebec province and president of the Quebec Electricity Commission, which was a direct result of the LaPointe inquiry. He was also director of the Canadian Information Service from 1945 to 1947.

In 1941, Dr. Frigon was awarded the Julien C. Smith medal of the Engineering Institute of Canada and in 1946 was appointed Companion of St. Michael and St. George by the late King.

He married Elsie Owen in 1913 and had two children, Raymond and Marguerite.

Spent 27 Years In Northland

EDMONTON (CP)—When Frank Carmichael had a glimpse of Canada's northland it was a case of love at first sight.

In 1925, Mr. Carmichael decided to spend a season up north just to see if the country agreed with him. He didn't come back for 27 years.

Mr. Carmichael arrived in Edmonton recently on his way to a meeting of the Northwest Territories Council in Ottawa. It was his first trip out of the north since he sailed down the Mackenzie River more than a quarter-century ago.

His home has been Aklavik, N.W.T., on the rim of the Arctic Circle, except for a few years in the Yukon.

In his years in the north, he and his family have made a comfortable living trapping in the Mackenzie Delta area. Their chief crop is the catch of muskrats that thrive in that region. He estimates that 250,000 pelts are taken in the area annually.

Free World Holds Firm Grip On Resources Of Uranium

By PETER NEWMAN

LONDON (Reuters)—If the world hasn't already blown itself up with the atom bomb, it is a sure bet that scientists will still be finding new deposits of uranium ore 100 years from now.

There is a popular fallacy that uranium is rarer even than gold. It isn't. It is costly—about $1,176,000 a ton for the concentrated U-235 used in the bomb—but that is due mostly to world conditions and difficulties of extraction.

It has been estimated that the known deposits, found in most regions of the world, contain only one-five billionth of the estimated uranium ore in the earth's crust.

About 75 per cent of this rich crust is in the hands of the United Nations.

COME A LONG WAY

Scientists have come a long way since Pierre and Marie Curie aroused the first public interest in the metal in 1898 when they extracted it from pitchblende found in Czechoslovakia.

Joachimstal in Czechoslovakia still is the centre of big uranium fields—among the biggest in the Soviet bloc. There has been renewed activity in these rich fields since 1946.

Since Hiroshima, other fields discovered long ago have been reopened and prospectors have found vast new deposits the world over.

Russia allows little information about her resources but the Great Soviet Encyclopedia pin-points big deposits at Tuya Muyun and Taboshar in central Asia.

In east Europe, new deposits of low-grade ore also have been reported in Hungary, about 25 miles southwest of Budapest.

Communist China has been boasting deposits in Sinkiang province. One Communist report says the missing British atom scientist, Prof. Bruno Pontecorvo, is working on these fields.

FIRMEST GRIP

But it is Britain and the United States, with the British Commonwealth, that have the firmest grip on the world's resources of the potentially destructive or constructive ore—depending on how you use it.

By agreement, Britain and the U.S. are believed to share 50-50 in the exports of uranium from one of the world's biggest fields—the Belgian Congo.

The Congo had a monopoly in uranium until Canada broke it in 1930 with discovery of the Great Bear Lake deposits in the Northwest Territories.

VAST NEW FIELD

As recently as June, 1951, prospectors found a vast new field at Beaver Lake Lodge. Canada aims eventually to produce 500 tons daily from this deposit, believed to be five times as large as Great Bear Lake.

The aptly-named Radium Hill is the site of one of Australia's biggest fields. Britain, Australia and the U.S. are combining to make this desolate spot another of the world's biggest producers.

Another vast resource is in British-administered Nigeria, West Africa. But Britain cannot afford to get the low-grade ore out of the ground.

Those are the main sources of the world's uranium. Where else can it be found? In Madagascar, in Colorado and Utah, in Argentina, Brazil, Chile, India, Portugal, Mexico, Norway, the Philippines, Poland, South Africa and Sweden. That seems to show it is not scarce.

Coasting Car Injures Youth

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A coasting car last night ran over a 19-year-old Mitchell man at the Thames Boat Club and carried a woman and her 12-year-old daughter 20 feet into the Thames River before it halted.

The injured man, Dwight Stacey, was struck full in the back as he sat on the bank 20 feet from the river's edge. He was admitted to hospital with undetermined injuries.

In the car were Mrs. Alma Williscraft and her daughter, Joyce, both of whom suffered shock.

A second 12-year-old girl, Margaret Swanson, jumped out of the car before it reached the water. No one knew how the car started.

Blames Nerve Pills On Highway Crash

BARRIE—A soldier who said he took too many nerve pills before he left Camp Borden Tuesday night found he needed them before the night was out.

Pte. John A. Nance, 20, was driving a jeep to the Barrie Armory when it went out of control on Innisfil St. The jeep crashed into two guard posts which threw it back on the roadway. It dropped off again, careened through more guard rails sliced by an eight-foot culvert and hydro pole and dropped over a four-foot wall before flattening its nose against another cement wall.

Pte. Nance, who blamed the pills for the crash, is in Royal Victoria Hospital with broken teeth, face cuts and possible internal injuries suffered when he was catapulted 15 feet through the air when the jeep came to rest.

2 SISTERS DROWN NEAR MAYNOOTH

Adenauer Holds Germany Must Rearm

BONN (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer told parliament Wednesday the West German people must rearm in alliance with the free world to help check further cold war conquests by Russia or face eventual Communist enslavement.

"We are at the crossroads of German history," the chancellor said in an impassioned address opening a two-day parliamentary debate on West Germany's military and political treaties with the West.

"Your yes or no on these agreements is decisive for the fate of Germany and Europe. With every strengthening of the western defense forces, the probability grows that there will be no hot war. The West is already so strong that Russia has little to win and much to lose through war."

Flanked by his cabinet and many members of the Bundesrat (upper house), Adenauer spoke before the Bundestag (lower house) in behalf of the Allied-West German peace contract and the six-country European army treaty.

Polio Strikes Eton School Quarantined

ETON, England (Reuters)— A polio death at Britain's exclusive Eton school cast its shadow last night across 1,100 pupils and quarantined them over the annual four-day cricket vacation due to start Friday.

Worse still, the top-hatted boys will be kept indoors when their cricket eleven plays Harrow, another school, on the day the holiday should have started.

The Eton-Harrow match, most fashionable event of the school calendar and one of the big ones of the London season, will go on however, as it has annually for the last 116 years.

Headmaster Robert Birley said the cricketers will be allowed out to play—at Lords Ground, in London—if they stay away from the crowds and eat alone.

British 'Snoopers'

LONDON (CP)—Britain still has its "snoopers." R. A. Butler, Chancellor of the Exchequer, told the Commons that 6,128 officials are authorized to inspect and investigate private houses without a search warrant.

ASKS UNITY—Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire tells the Republican national convention that the party cannot win in November if the bitterness generated by the Taft-Eisenhower nomination battle continues after the convention has named a winner.

Trapped In Cab Escapes Flames

TRENTON—Trapped in the cab of his transport which burst into flames after being in collision with another transport at the east end of the town early Wednesday morning, Austin A. Ainsworth, 27, Colborne, freed himself and escaped with lacerations and burns to his face.

The transport Ainsworth was driving was travelling west when it skidded on the pavement and jacknifed into the path of an oncoming transport driven by John W. Parkinson, of London. Parkinson was not injured.

A large gasoline tank on the truck driven by Ainsworth was ripped open by the impact and immediately burst into flame, enveloping the cab.

The side was torn out of the eastbound transport which was partly loaded with beer. Cases and bottles slithered all over the highway and they had to be cleared away before traffic on Highway 2 could proceed.

It took Trenton firemen more than an hour to put out the fire. Both water and chemicals were used to extinguish the flames.

Earthquake Shock

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A sharp earthquake shock jolted buildings in downtown Los Angeles at 4:45 a. m. EDT today. There was no immediate report of any damage.

U.S. Increases Her Buying From Canada

NEW YORK—Canada has been one of the few large trading customers of the U.S. to show a gain in value of her exports to this country during the early part of 1952.

The latest figures covering the first four months of this year show imports from Canada valued at $749,100,000 during the period compared with $720,600,000 in the 1951 period. U.S. exports north of the border during the same period of 1952 had a value of $933,800,000 against exports worth $905,100,000 in the corresponding four months of 1951.

U.S. imports were otherwise down. Imports from 20 Latin American nations for the four-month 1952 period were $1,163,500,000, compared with $1,329,100,000 in the same period last year. Exports to this area were $1,174,500,000 for the period last year.

Trade with most of non-Soviet Europe showed the greatest imbalance, with U.S. exports for the first four months of 1952 amounting to $1,627,600,000, against imports of $614,200,000. Comparable figures last year: Exports $1,473,100,000; imports, $686,000,000.

Press Gallery Sees Convention On TV

OTTAWA (CP)—The U.S. Embassy here is trying to give Canadian parliamentary reporters a glimpse—via television—at the Republican Party convention in Chicago.

Reception has been spotty because of the distances involved in picking up U.S. television stations and atmospheric interference. Ottawa is about 180 miles from the nearest U.S. station; 60 miles is considered the normal distance for good reception.

The reporters and diplomatic representatives of France and the United Kingdom watch the broadcasts on a set installed on the top floor of the embassy.

Must Keep Pledges

LONDON (Reuters)—Pledges publicly given to Stalin to produce more goods must be kept, Moscow's Pravda warned yesterday. The Communist party paper, quoted by Moscow radio, rebuked local party organizations and trade union branches for failing to insure that production promises are fulfilled.

DAGENHAM, Essex, England (Reuters)—The 9,000 workers at the Briggs automotive body plant here decided today to continue their two-week strike despite yesterday's return of 15,000 at the adjoining Ford plant.

The strikers voted almost unanimously at a mass meeting to stay out until their wage claim of ninepence more an hour had been met.

Both strikes were shunned by the union. Communist agitators have been blamed.

The Ford men agreed to return pending negotiations.

LONDON UNDERGROUND: Shelter beneath the city, like this Second World War version near Clapham South Station, could be the reason for all those holes in the ground they're digging in London these days. But officials won't talk about it.

Secret Excavations In London Well Known

By FERN RICH

LONDON (NEA).—The second city of London, which has been growing beneath England's capital for the past year and a half, is supposed to be a big secret.

But like most secrets, nearly everyone knows about this one. The catch is that no official will say "yes," "no," or even "maybe."

What actually seems to be going on is the building of an atom-proof citadel, 45 feet beneath London streets. Seven shafts have been excavated, all of which will be linked by tunnels and possibly by electric trains.

Supposedly there are thousands of rooms being constructed, complete with power generators, food storage facilities, telephones and all the equipment necessary to permit the various ministries and civil servants to carry on government in case of atomic attack.

Londoners are now well aware of the citadel used by Prime Minister Churchill and government leaders during the Battle of Britain. It accommodated 2,000 people and was built of steel and concrete.

It was called the Rotunda and still exists and has been maintained. In another part of London, about three miles from Whitehall, is a Second World War deep air raid shelter which has also been maintained and which some guess will be included in the underground network.

EXCAVATING

Not far from Parliament Square and Big Ben, some of the most impressive construction work is going on behind thick walls at least 10 feet high. Doors in the wall are equipped with buzzers and a postage stamp size peephole. Police signs request that roads be kept clear due to "excavating work in progress."

✧ ✧ ✧

I buzzed for the foreman and a burly, kindly-faced giant opened the door, came out on the sidewalk and quickly closed the door behind him. I told him I wanted to know about the digging and asked for the foreman. He was very polite and said he would fetch him.

Still standing on the sidewalk outside the high wall, I tried looking inconspicuous while passersby turned to stare. The foreman, a gnarled, cheerful Irishman with a rich brogue, answered my questions.

"I'm not allowed to show you the place, miss," he said. "I'm sorry."

"But it is an atomic shelter?"

"This one," he said, being careful not to answer my question directly, "is a very important site. It leads right into Buckingham Palace and Westminster Abbey. And it's a beautiful job!"

✧ ✧ ✧

"How many workmen are there at this shaft?"

"I've got only 80 now but there were more in the beginning."

"When did you start work?"

"Last June."

"When will you finish?"

"We hope to be through by next month."

"Then what?"

"Well, then I hear talk of their putting the Colonial Office on top of this."

The old Colonial Office was several blocks away and in very shabby condition.

✧ ✧ ✧

"Of course, if you steel boys stay on strike," he continued, "that plan will have to be scrapped."

WILL TALK

"You can't keep people from talking," the foreman explained. "It isn't much of a secret, you know. As a matter of fact, there's another of these holes over there (he pointed toward Horseferry Road near Victoria Street) which hasn't got a big solid fence around like this one. You can stand there and see just what the workmen are doing."

At the other "secret" shaft, just as the foreman had said, was the usual group of sidewalk superintendents watching the excavating of pits, one of which was filled with water which kept coming up from below.

"Room enough down there for the whole British Army, I'd bet," said one man to another.

"Frightening, isn't it?" a striped-trousered one commented, then looked up at the bright blue sky into the warm sunshine, shuddered and walked away.

As the foreman said, London's mysterious holes-in-the-ground aren't much of a secret. Except for the fact that the Ministry of Defense says there aren't any.

HERE'S WHAT "MAN IN THE MOON" WOULD SEE—If there were someone on the moon, here's an artist's conception of how a space ship from earth would appear to him, as it came in for a landing. The dome of the sky-theatre has been converted to resemble the interior of a space ship.

Not Optimistic Republican Split Will Heal

By DON WHITEHEAD

CHICAGO (AP)—Out of the Taft-Eisenhower presidential battle stalked the spectre today of a Republican party torn by its own internal fury—and possibly an easy prey for the Democrats in November.

This is the ghost that haunts this 25th Republican National Convention.

Harmony was a fiction in the mouths of the platform speakers who talked of unity and of closed ranks.

FIGHT TO FINISH

This was a no-compromise fight to the finish between Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the front-running Presidential nomination candidates.

Can either side forget the harsh words and the gall of defeat to throw eager support to the winner? This is a question with which the peace makers must struggle in the months before the November election.

The activities on the convention floor have been merely window dressing. The real struggle has been going on downtown in the convention Credentials Committee over contested delegates and in hotel-room meetings of the strategists who pull the strings.

In reality, it began last fall when Senator Taft opened his drive to line up delegate strength. It boiled over when Taft forces took the lion's share of disputed delegate seats by vote of the Republican National Committee controlled by Taft supporters.

Out of these pre-convention manoeuvres, the Eisenhower people built up an issue: They charge Taft was trying to steamroller the convention with ruthless, bulldozing methods.

LACK SOLID BASE

And they have hammered relentlessly on this theme. Actually, without this issue there are many observers who believe the Eisenhower forces would have been left without any solid base from which to fight Taft.

There are no signs of any real peace-making. The fighting goes right on down toward the finish line in a furious struggle not only to name a nominee but for control of the Republican party.

The Republican party has a tremendous job ahead in patching up wounds and healing the sores opened by their fight among themselves.

DANGEROUS DISEASE

Cerebro-spinal meningitis is the most widespread epidemic disease in Africa, with about 500,000 cases in the last 10 years.

WATER SHORTAGE — Residents of Montreal North are up in arms following a water famine which hit their community. The citizens can only get water out of their taps during the hours from midnight to seven a.m. and at that only a mere trickle. Now, during a heat-wave, even that meagre supply has stopped. Recently the people lined up for blocks when told by their aldermen that a hydrant would be turned on to supply them with the much needed water. But the hydrant failed. Armed with a wide assortment of pots, pans, kettles and anything that will hold water, the residents of water-short town gather at the hydrant in the above photo. The hydrant turned out to be as dry as themselves. At right a youngster tries to coax a drink from the kitchen tap.

Gaining A Speaking Knowledge Of Language Within Two Weeks

By NADEANE WALKER

PARIS — (AP) — A 60-year-old Frenchman who never could afford to finish teachers' college claims he has developed a new teaching method which will revolutionize grade-school education.

Clement Planes says his system will make it possible for any child or adult to learn a new language well in three months through a card game hardly more complicated than canasta.

Although he holds no degrees, Planes says he has worked alone for 40 years to perfect the games system he has just copyrighted.

SCHOLARLY COMBINATION

His system, which he calls "rational pedagogy" seems to be a scholarly combination of cross-indexing, playing cards and plain alphabet blocks. With it he claims a beginner can get a practical speaking knowledge of any language in just two weeks by "playing" with his language card box at home.

Similar "card games" would teach all the usual grade school subjects to children.

The inventor describes his system as "very scientific but very simple." In a demonstration, he used cards slightly smaller than playing cards, first arranging the single alphabet letters into their pronounciation groups (dental, labial, gutteral, palatal, etc.); then ranging under each group the vowel or vowels which always accompany it, and finally under this the accompanying diphthongs, or vowel combinations.

EXAMPLE OF SYSTEM

The student of French, for example, may use a newspaper to copy out a sentence with his cards. Syllable cards then replace letter cards and word cards supplant these. On the car—under—each letter, syllable or word—is entered information relative to its pronounciation, use as affix or suffix, and (on word cards) meaning or translation, person, tense, gender, part of speech, related words and so on.

Ask Conciliation At Inglis Plant

TORONTO (CP)—The United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.)h as applied for conciliation to settle difference with the John Inglis Co. and the Aluminum Company of Canada. Some 3,700 workers are involved.

The John Inglis dispute affects 1,200 workers in the Toronto plant and 700 at its subsidiary, English Electric at Welland.

The Aluminum Company difference concerns the Toronto plant and the larger 1,500-employee plant at Kingston.

At John Inglis the union seeks a base rate of $1.46 an hour. Existing rate, including cost-of-living bonus, is $1.35.

At Alcoa the union seeks a 15½-per-cent boost. A union official said the base rate at the Toronto plant would be raised to $1.32 an hour and at Kingston to about $1.40 by the increase sought.

Rejected Lover Shoots Five

MASSA MARITTIMA, Italy (Reuters)—Ubaldo Rossetti killed five relatives of the woman who rejected his love and took his own life last night.

Rossetti, 56-year-old war cripple, had often told Ilia Niccolini, 38, that he loved her. She rejected him.

Brandishing a shotgun in one hand, a revolver in the other, the thwarted lover broke into the Niccolini apartment.

He found three women and a three-year-old in one room. He cut them down.

Ilio Niccolini, 29-year-old carpenter, came dashing from an adjoining room. He, too, fell under a hail of bullets.

Rossetti then crawled under a bed and blew his brains out.

Only two members of the Niccolini family escaped. They were not at home.

One was Ilia.

CHEMONG MUSKIE

Fourteen-year-old Jim Beery of Pittsburg, Pa., Wednesday caught and after an hour's battle landed a 23-pound muskie measuring 42 inches in length. He was fishing in Little Mud Lake at the north end of Chemong Lake.

ATTEND COURSE

Dr. Harold Worton, food and dairy inspector, Dr. R. W. Ford and Dr. A. W. Hill are attending a refresher course and meeting of the Ontario Veterinary Association and Ontario Veterinary College Alumni being held this week at the Ontario Veterinary College, Guelph.

STRUNG UP

After he hooked a small-mouth black bass while fishing from the bridge 20 feet above the Indian River, at Gilchrist Park, 11-year-old Leslie Bryan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Al Bryan, wasn't sure what to do with it. But finally he worked his way down off the bridge to the shore still playing the bass, and landed it. The fish weighed 5 pounds.

FICKLE WEATHER

Two days ago nobody would have believed it could happen. But the fact is that Wednesday night lawn bowlers, lightly clad in their summer clothing, wrapped blankets around themselves to get warm. The unusual scene took place at the eighth annual open doubles tournament for the Lift-lock Gold Trophy. Winners were given blankets and there was such a drop in the thermometer that they draped the blankets about their shoulders for warmth.

Ore Shipments Down

"NANNY IS HURT," Tommy Allen, 6, cried hysterically when he ran home, after his grandmother, Mrs. Gertrude Allen (centre) had been killed beneath the wheels of a freight car in the Napanee railway yards Wednesday. Tommy and his small sister Margaret Ann seen in the above photo with their grandmother are children of Robert Allen, 29 Park St., north.

Criticism Of City "Ridiculous" Says Inspector

"The letter in the Examiner Wednesday over the signature of J. C. Weldon was ridiculous," was the comment today of Sanitary Inspector Ronald MacPherson.

"When he describes Peterborough as the lousiest town he was ever in, I think the writer should be ignored by all sensible people," Mr. MacPherson said. "If such an intemperate letter is the fruit of all the travel this man brags about, then I'd rather stay at home.

"My interest in the letter was from the standpoint of an inspector for Peterborough's Board of Health. I have found in my rounds of the hotels and restaurants that with very few exceptions the proprietors are most co-operative with us in maintaining the standards of sanitation which have been set by the Board of Health for the protection of public health. I am not concerned about rates."

"I can't say definitely how they compare with the charges for hotel accommodation and restaurant meals in other cities, but in our sanitary standards and conditions I am convinced that Peterborough compares favorably with the best.

KITCHEN EXCELLENT

"It just happens that yesterday I made out a high standard certificate for one of our hotels. Maybe I should not mention any name, but this was for the King George Hotel. I rate their kitchen condition as excellent, and I have no hesitation in saying so.

"The proprietor of one of our two larger hotels is possibly more interested in the high class of his premises than I am. Any time I have a suggestion to make to him, he considers it as a reflection on his hotel, and somebody on his staff has to answer for it. When J. C. Weldon says that pigs in the United States are fed better swill than the food served in Peterborough, that stamps his entire letter as not worth consideration.

"I certainly know the kitchens of our hotels, and I can say that the owners co-operate with the Board of Health in every detail that we propose to them.

THREE UNDER LINE

"Of our 32 restaurants, about three of them are somewhat under the line. Several of them cater to customers whose work does not permit them to be dressed up in white shirts all the time. But, they are good citizens, as I have seen them, and for them we insist on sanitary conditions up to the Health Department's standards, at least.

"I can't speak about rates, as I have said, or the courtesy of staffs meeting the public, but I can say that proprietors have always shown a readiness to comply with our instructions and requirements. There have been times when we have had to close several restaurants for failing to co-operate with the board's standards, but they have been comparatively few. And the Department of Health has not hesitated to take action against them."

Freight Car Kills Grandmother

Grandson 6, Lagging Behind Unhurt In Napanee Tragedy

A 70-year-old deaf grandmother was struck by a freight car and crushed to death beneath it in the Napanee railway yards Wednesday where she had taken her six-year-old grandson to watch the trains.

Tommy Allen, son of Robert Allen, 29 Park St., north was lagging a few steps behind his grandmother, Mrs. Gertrude Allen when the freight car came up behind her and knocked her onto the tracks, killing her instantly.

Tommy was not injured. His tricycle which Mrs. Allen had been dragging behind her was also crushed under the freight car and Tommy ran home crying hysterically, "Nanny is hurt."

A witness, Sidney Merritt, sitting about 75 yards away said vision in all directions was clear and that Mrs. Allen who is quite deaf had apparently not noticed the approaching freight car.

The two children have been recently living with their grandmother.

Hamilton Man Records 'Quakes

HAMILTON (CP)—Want to know about earthquakes?

Edward Mantie maintains that all you need is an alarm-clock, an old watch, a mirror from a woman's compact, two dry-cell batteries, a phonograph needle and a few odds and ends.

Mr. Mantie is one of Canada's few amateur seismologists. So successful has he been that his records of major earthquakes have received official recognition by the Dominion Observatory at Ottawa.

A tool-maker at a steel plant, Mr. Mantie first restricted his interest in earthquakes to reading books. In 1935, at the time of the Timiskaming earthquake, he decided to play an active role.

He admits that his first efforts to build a seismograph were crude. Then he visited the Meteorological Bureau at Toronto and got some advice about how to improve his home-made instrument.

The seismograph now has a permanent place in a nook behind his furnace, just between the furnace-pipes and coal-bin. For 24 hours it ticks away, keeping a permanent record on a piece of photographic paper.

Tourist Booth Guides 20 Daily

Approximately 20 tourists a day have called at the Junior Chamber of Commerce tourist information booth since it started operating Saturday.

Operator Bill Duignan reports that the new booth is nearly completed and that the sign will be put up today.

As has been the case in former years, the booth is equipped with maps, highway and district guides and brochures of tourist establishments in the area which are given out on request.

Approximately 400 resorts in the Kawartha, Haliburton, Muskoka and Algonquin Park areas are listed at the booth.

It is expected that the booth will remain open until Sept. 10.

First Leg Done In Super Highway

TORONTO (CP)—First 10 miles of a 280-mile super highway from Windsor to Toronto and including a 40-mile branch to Hamilton, has been completed.

Work on the next 7½-miles has been started and a contract let for the next section. Highways Department officials say the highway may take up to 10 years to complete.

The dual-lane highway, patterned after the Queen Elizabeth Way, will run between highways No. 2 and No. 3 to Ingersoll. From there it will branch off to Toronto and Hamilton.

Construction has started at the Windsor end.

Build Riding School At R.C.M.P. Barracks

REGINA (CP) — The Public Works Department has called for tenders for a new riding school and attached stables at the Regina R.C.M.P. barracks. The depot is a riding school at present.

The old riding school was made over into a drill hall to accommodate recruits in training. The old stables need to be replaced because they are in bad condition.

Improvised

STROMA ISLAND, Scotland (CP) —Four children from this tiny isle, entered a piano competition at the Caithness musical festival, lacked a piano.

So they practised on a school harmonium—too small to carry the scales of a full size piano. The children had only one rehearsal on a real piano. Despite that, one of the four—John Sinclair, 12—won second place in his section.

Municipal Board Approves Extra To Build City Hall

The Ontario Municipal Board today granted city council permission to issue debentures of $395,000 without a vote of the Peterborough ratepayers.

The debentures are to pay the rest of the cost of building the city hall. W. F. Huycke, Q.C., counsel for the city, said it was not the usual way the city asked for permission to borrow money but haste was a necessary factor.

"That will cover the cost of everything—right to the key in the front door," quipped Chairman George A. Lister.

"Yes," said Mr. Huycke.

The $395,000 debentures will be paid off over a 30-year period.

Reviewing the financing of the city hall, Mr. Huycke said that the late William G. Morrow was the chief benefactor. He was under the impression, however, that the building would only cost about $200,000. Including the cost of the site, the expenditure is now $1,012,000.

About $452,000 has been received from Mr. Morrow's estate. But that was not sufficient to take care of the total cost. Capital expenditure to date has been $847,000 and another $165,000 was spent on purchasing the site.

Some $125,000 was contributed by the City Trust.

Ed Humphrey, president of the Peterborough and District Labor Council (C.I.O.-C.C.L.), asked if any of that money could go toward some extras—like the decision to build a new wing or perhaps instal some fancy chandeliers.

"No," said Mr. Lister. "It can only be earmarked for the one job."

Roy L. Kennedy, the other member of the board, said the items were all set out as a list of expenditures. In other words the money was already spent and could not be used for anything else.

There were no objectors at the hearing to this method of borrowing the $395,000.

Killed By Transport

KITCHENER (CP)—John Hummel, 25, was killed today when a transport trailer ran over his chest. Hummel was riding a motorcycle to work when his machine glanced off a truck and he was thrown. The trailer of a second truck crushed him.

To Ticket Or Not To Ticket That Is the Parking Question

City council despatched the other day to Chief Constable John Thompson the haziness that has appeared to be forming around their night parking problem. Council's deputy and messenger in this matter was Mayor Hugh Waddell who had the responsibility of trying to convey to Chief Thompson the rather equivocal position the council has reached in their desire to keep the streets of the city clean and tidy.

Gradually the council has arrived at a point of climax with repercussions from quite a number of car owners who resent the effect of the new regulation that would restrict night parking to four hours on any street in the city.

The bylaw says: "No vehicle shall park or stand or be allowed to park or stand, between the hours of 12 p.m. and 8 a.m., for longer than four consecutive hours on any street".

NO PLACE TO LEAVE THEM

The council's primary purpose in moving toward that rule was inspired by details of snow removal. That was the mainspring of the action which has reached out with fines to people who own cars but have no place to leave them except at the street curb.

This control of street parking did not begin with the present council. It is an old problem, although its sanction has changed considerably of late.

Years ago city council bought snow removing machinery for the board of works. Citizens had demanded with increasing emphasis that roadways be cleared of snow early on winter mornings. Bus routes required first attention.

But the plowmen of the board of works encountered cars left at curbs overnight. They had to swing their machines out around these obstructions, leaving in their wake an unsatisfactory job.

There was also the problem of flushing streets in summer. This applied only to paved streets, and to that extent the summer scope of the street cleaning work was a great deal less than in winter.

NOTHING DONE

Councils in other years have fumbled the job of getting cars away from the curbs. Generally, they shifted the worry to the men operating the big plows and graders. If the machines had to meander in winter around the parked cars, left at the curbs, it was a difficulty, and too bad, etc., but nothing was effectually done about it.

This is not just a Peterborough problem. It obtains wherever there are streets and cars, a community demand for trim-looking streets, and essentially citizens who are ready to buy cars but not garages. Some haven't even lanes or lawns.

UP TO POLICE

At any rate, the present council jacked up the night parking control. Police were then armed with ample authority. Responsibility shifted to them, and by this route: from the electors to the council to the police. Curb cars began collecting penalty tickets, and immediately protests buzzed in the direction of the City Hall.

Ald. A. B. Burrows enquired at the council meeting Monday night whether the recent fines were legal.

To that City Solicitor Huycke remarked: "If any persons had doubt about it, they could take their case to a high court."

The bylaw remains in effect, but with some little hedging behind it, at least a seasonal hedging.

Sentiment of the council the other night was generally that the board of works men should have the full support of the bylaw during the winter, but probably there should be less stringent application of it during the summer and on streets that are not paved.

MORE OR LESS

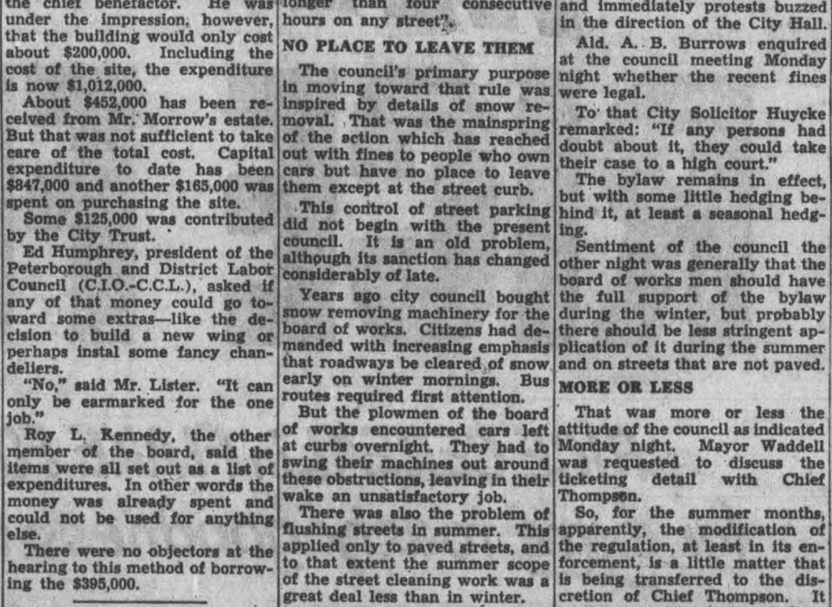
That was more or less the attitude of the council as indicated Monday night. Mayor Waddell was requested to discuss the ticketing detail with Chief Thompson.

So, for the summer months, apparently, the modification of the regulation, at least in its enforcement, is a little matter that is being transferred to the discretion of Chief Thompson. It seems vague even in transit from the council's section of the City Hall, across to the police precincts.

Presumably the Chief is being asked not to be too rigorous these days, and particularly on streets that are not paved. That is about the point of present consideration. Comes the winter, and let the rigors apply.



DARING RESCUE—Three members of a rescue party pause for a rest on the steep, snow-covered mountain as they bring injured Ken Northcote of Mission, B.C., on a stretcher to a waiting United States Coast Guard helicopter. Northcote, on a government mapping survey when he fell down a cliff, suffered bone fractures and a punctured lung.

Liner Costs High On Orders Of U.S. Gov't

PARIS (AP)—The new record-breaking liner United States cost $78,000,000 because the U.S. government demanded expensive features which "we didn't want," a United States Lines executive said today.

Speaking before an American Club luncheon, John W. Hanes, chairman of the executive and finance committee of the U.S. Lines, said cost of making the liner easily convertible to a troop ship was the main reason for the high price.

Hanes said the United States can carry a division of 14,000 troops 10,000 miles without stopping for stores of any kind. She can convert 1,000 tons of salt water into good drinking water daily, he said.

Her two engine rooms make it possible for the ship to continue cruising even if one engine room is hit by a torpedo, Hanes said, and pointed out that the liner has two complete hulls.

"All these things make it a wonderful ship," Hanes said, "but are not needed for ordinary commercial use."

Elderly Man Falls, Still Unconscious

John F. Condon, 75 Crossing King St., Hit "Like Ton Of Bricks"

John F. Condon, 471 Bolivar St., who fell headlong off the sidewalk onto the street Wednesday evening, is still unconscious in St. Joseph's Hospital with undetermined head injuries.

Condition of the 75-year-old man is described as poor by hospital authorities.

David Babbs, 253 Stewart St., said he was walking along the south side of King St., about 6.20 p.m., and was just crossing to the north side near Stewart St., when he saw the elderly man falling from the sidewalk toward the street.

"He hit like a ton of bricks and landed right on his chin," Mr. Babbs said. "I never saw anyone fall so heavily."

Constable Arthur Beardsmore was passing in a police cruiser seconds after Mr. Condon fell. An ambulance was called and the injured man was taken to hospital.

NO IDENTIFICATION

There was no identification found on him and Constable Beardsmore established his identity through a spectator who referred him to people who knew Mr. Condon.

It was first thought that Mr. Condon had suffered a heart seizure. It is not known how he happened to fall and he may have had a faint spell, or stubbed his toe before falling.

Mrs. C. G. Hunt, at whose home Mr. Condon has been boarding since March, said he left home about 10 a.m. and usually returned home around seven in the evening. She said he had been in good health and spent the days reading in the lobby of a downtown hotel.

He had only received his old age pension cheque a few days ago, said Mrs. Hunt, and she was sure he would have had about $17 in his wallet. Nothing was found in Mr. Condon's pockets but a dime.

There are bruises on Mr. Condon's left temple and cheek and a cut on his left eyebrow. A police investigation into the matter is in charge of Det. Sgt. William A. Clarke.

Paris Becomes Nerve Centre of Western Defence

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

PARIS (NEA)—Now that headquarters of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization have been transferred to Paris from London, the "City of Light" has become the undisputed nerve centre for Western World defense planning.

Housed here, besides N.A.T.O., are the M.S.A., O.E.E.C., S.H.A.P.E. and U.N.E.S.C.O. — agencies with cryptic letters which mean little or nothing to the average Frenchman, but are vital to the causes of Western co-operation and security from Russian aggression.

Combined, these economic, political and military organizations represent a source of millions of dollars in "hard" currency which is doing much to support the sagging French economy. The large international community staffing them has mushroomed so greatly that the shortage of apartments and houses is felt within a 15-mile radius of the city.

ALL-AMERICAN BODY

The M.S.A. (Mutual Security Agency) is an almost self-sufficient, all-American body which dispenses military and economic aid with Paris as its European centre. Housed in nine buildings, including two hotels near the centre of the city, it operates its own radio station and garage and maintains a string of canteens which supply American meals.

M.S.A. employs some 519 U.S. citizens and 840 Parisians, with an annual payroll of $4,250,000. Its officials are reputed to be the highest-paid foreigners in Paris and enjoy the additional advantage of commissaries which sell everything from pop corn and whiskey to canned dog food at economical "diplomatic" prices.

N.A.T.O. will have a much smaller staff—around 220 persons—in accordance with the economy orders of the new Secretary-General, Lord Ismay. Of the 220, about 150 will be brought over from England and the remainder hired locally.

The staff operates in a prefabricated, U-shaped building which is far from palatial, although surrounded by beautiful gardens and an eye-catching view of the Seine and Eiffel Tower. One wing is occupied by the secretariat, the other by the 14 national delegations, with the size of the delegations depending on the size and importance of the country represented.

A story is making the rounds of Paris that, soon after N.A.T.O. moved in, a little man was found running along the building's main corridor with tears in his eyes, explaining to all who would listen that the structure would not hold up under the strain.

"It was erected as a temporary building only," he lamented. "With all these people in it, anything might happen—it might all give way."

The punch line is that the man was one of the architects.

S.H.A.P.E. (Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers, Europe), is located some 13 miles outside the city limits. But it is still near enough to make itself felt.

Most of its officers live in Paris or in and around Versailles. An exception is Supreme Commander Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, who is housed in a spacious and luxurious villa few miles from headquarters.

The bulk of enlisted personnel on the 600-member staff, as well as a sprinkling of "brass" are installed in an attractive village which has been erected close to the main headquarters site. And the 1,500 service troops—British, French and Americans—attached to S.H.A.P.E. for police, transport and similar duties are stationed at St. Germain, a 20-minute train ride from the city.

HEADQUARTERS FOR WESTERN WORLD: The pre-fabricated U-shaped home of NATO (above), not far from the Eiffel Tower, and the modest command post of SHAPE (below), some 13 miles outside the city, make Paris the nerve centre of Western World defence planning. The large international community staffing them is a source of millions of dollars in "hard" currency to the sagging French economy.

The O.E.E.C. (Organization of European Economic Cooperation) was originally set up to distribute Marshall Plan funds, but is now the leading economic planning agency. It is composed of officials and secretarial workers from 18 nations—a staff of 900 persons which is soon to be slashed to 633 in an economy drive.

This organization is housed in a fancy chateau formerly owned by the wealthy Rothschild family in the swanky Passy residential section. The cost of running it is said to be $4,000,000 a year.

In addition, each member nation maintains a permanent delegation with its own offices and secretariat. Britain's is the biggest with a staff of 17, while smaller nations like Norway and Denmark send only two or three.

The only international body not primarily concerned with national defense is U.N.E.S.C.O. (United Nations Educational, Social and Cultural Organization), which is housed in a once magnificent, but now rather dingy hotel not far from the Arch of Triumph.

From here, the 800-member U.N.E.S.C.O. staff sends out to the four corners of the globe its educators, researchers, pamphlets and radio programs. To keep these widespread activities going, it requires an annual budget of $8,000,000 most of which is spent in Paris on salaries and administrative expenses.

Report Toronto Man Being Persecuted

TORONTO (CP)—Controller Ford Brand said yesterday a Toronto man's home has been raided recurrently and that the man's wife has been stripped and searched by a police matron in what Mr. Brand described as an apparent persecution.

He told Board of Control the persecution was started after the man organized a neighborhood protest against a junk yard. He said the man's house has been visited many times by doctors, ambulances and police officers, none of whom he has summoned.

The man's wife, mother of seven children, is expecting another child.

Too Much For Father

PORTLAND, Me. (AP)—The Pinkham quadruplet's 45-year-old father was admitted last night to the same hospital where his wife and quads are doing nicely. Officials said Silas Pinkham was suffering "nervous exhaustion" from the excitement of the last four days.

240 Candidates Nominated Quebec Election

QUEBEC (CP)—Some 240 candidates were nominated yesterday for the July 16 Quebec election.

They took out official papers and paid the required $200 deposit, totalling $48,000, as nominations closed in 88 of the 92 constituencies. The lists closed earlier in four out-of-the-way ridings.

The total included 92 Liberals, 91 Union Nationale, 23 C.C.F, four Labor-Progressives and 30 others running under an assortment of banners which include various independents and one candidate who listed himself as "Liberal Union."

The list of 240 compared with the 312 candidates who contested the last election of 1948 and 337 who ran in 1944. The Union Nationale won both of those elections, knocking the Liberals out of office in 1944 and consolidating their position in 1948 by winning 82 of the 92 seats in the legislature.

TWO-PARTY FIGHT

Absence of a third major party made the campaign a predominantly two-party fight, with two-cornered contests shaping up in 56 ridings. The former Bloc Populaire party made a bid for power in 1944 and the Union des Electeurs did the same in 1948. Neither is represented this time.

The C.C.F., which ran in seven constituencies in 1948 and lost in all, is concentrating most of its strength in Montreal ridings. The Labor-Progressive party has its four candidates in that city.

The four party leaders and all of Premier Duplessis' 20 Cabinet colleagues took out nomination papers.

BIG SWITCHBOARD

The telephone switchboard in the British House of Commons has 120 trunk lines and 900 extensions.

CREDENTIALS COMMITTEE HEARS CONTESTS—This was the scene as the GOP credentials committee met in Chicago's Congress Hotel to begin its hearings on delegate contests. In the first contest heard, the committee voted not to seat the pro-Eisenhower group from Georgia.

Denies Scalding Caused Patient's Death

WINDSOR (CP)—Dr. P. J. G. Morgan said yesterday the death of Thomas Hugget at East Windsor Hospital in 1947 was due to a kidney disease. The scalding Hugget received the day he died was incidental, he testified.

Dr. Morgan's testimony before a provincial commission investigating the affairs of the hospital contradicted testimony given earlier by a hospital orderly.

Leo Couvillon said June 24 that he placed Hugget in a bath of lukewarm water, left him for a few minutes and returned to find the patient with third-degree burns to feet, ankles and buttocks. The patient died soon after telling him that "someone" reached around a curtain in front of the tub and turned on the hot water.

Dr. Morgan said yesterday that Huggett had suffered for years from Euremia. The burns the patient received had not been serious and were not connected with the man's death.

The superintendent also contradicted testimony given earlier by Mrs. Elsie Morley, his former private secretary, and by Mrs. Robert Fontaine, hospital bookkeeper.

DENIES LONG LUNCHES

Both women testified that Dr. Morgan had long luncheons with Mrs. Morley. Mrs. Morley said these had taken place in a private dining room at the hospital.

Dr. Morgan said the luncheons had never lasted more than an hour and had never taken place in a private room. He said he had discharged Mrs. Morley last April 30 because of her own habit of extending her lunch hours to "three or four o'clock" and because she frequently returned from her lunch periods "without the physical and mental capacity to perform her duties." This incapacity was caused by drinking, he said.

The inquiry into the 350-bed institution for incurables, now in its seventh week, is continuing.

Nootka Fights Gun Duels Along Coast

SASEBO, Japan (CP)—The Canadian destroyer, H.M.C.S. Nootka has left here for a rest in Hong Kong after a 12-day patrol off the east coast of Korea during which she fought gun duels with Communist shore batteries.

The Nootka, commanded by Cmdr. R.M. Steele of Rothesay, N.B., has been on active duty in the far east for five months.

During her latest patrol the Nootka teamed with a United States Navy destroyer in a blistering barrage at the port of Chongjin. Three days of bombarding rail lines along the coast brought the Nootka and her ally off Chongjin where the Communists have railway marshalling yards, bridges, steel works, factory sites and ammunition dumps.

SCORES HITS

After a two-day bombardment, the Nootka moved in closer accompanied by the U.S. destroyer. She scored two direct hits on a large sampan lying on the beach for repair when eight Communist gun batteries opened fire.

Several salvoes landed close to the Nootka which zig-zagged out of danger, laying down a smoke screen to cover herself and the U.S. destroyer.

Although enemy shells landed close enough to throw geysers of water over the Nootka, the ship escaped unhit. One reason the Reds may have failed to hit the Nootka was that a shell, bursting in the air over one funnel, shook loose rust and soot which caught fire. Each time the Nootka's main guns fired more rust and soot caught fire which may have given the Communist gunners the impression their shells were finding the target.

The Nootka returned to Chongjin under cover of a rainstorm and ran fast along the harbor, firing at the gun emplacements again. This time the Communist guns were silent.

During the remaining days of the patrol, the Nootka sailed up and down the coast shooting up rail lines, bridges and tunnels.

Since the club was organized last Jan. 30, the club of 35 members has raised money to help pay operating costs of the village swimming pool, paid a kindergarten teacher to give private lessons to a seven-year-old crippled boy who cannot get to school. # C.G.E. Plastics Established Million-Free Accident Hours

COBOURG — (ENS). — An achievement of one million accident free hours in which no time was lost, was marked officially on Wednesday afternoon at the C. G.E. plastics plant when William Fitches, safety director of General Motors and chairman of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association, Central Ontario Division, presented a bronze plaque to Harold Richmond, safety supervisor at the plant here. Works superintendent Harry Gadd was chairman.

Twenty-seven months, or one million work hours with no time lost was a record to be proud of, said Alfred E. Byrne, general manager of the C.G.E. chemical group of industries of which the local plastic plant is a unit. Head office, he said, was very enthusiastic over what had been accomplished by the plant in Cobourg along the lines of safety. He declared that the safety supervisor, Harold Richmond, was to be congratulated, along with every employee, without whose co-operation the million hours could not have been reached. C.G.E. stressed good housekeeping in all its plants and in this regard along with safety, the Cobourg plant was second to none.

Mr. Fitches declared that such a record was one to be proud of, because of the nature of the machinery used in plastic manufacturing and the danger of skin diseases.

"For 230 employees to work one million hours without a loss of time accident, in view of the machinery used in the manufacture of plastics, is a lot of doing," declared Mr. Fitches.

Mr. Richmond thanked his fellow employees for their co-operation and expressed the hope that they would hit the two million mark.

Mac Lees, whose safety goggles stopped a flying piece of steel from a machine in the tool room, was presented with a framed certificate and a gold lapel pin on behalf of the "Wise Old Owl Club". The presentation was made by Mr. Gadd.

Admits Molesting 200 Young Children

DETROIT (CP)—A 23-year-old father of two children confessed that he molested 200 young children in the last 30 months, police said today.

Robert Rosewell, a truck driver, was arrested last night in the basement of a house under construction in northwest Detroit. With him were a boy, 5, and a girl, 12.

Police said Rosewell was the object of an intensive search over a four-square-mile region for the last five weeks by 20 extra officers and 10 special police cars. Thirty-nine complaints involving a man taking indecent liberties with children had been filed since April.

Keeping Vigil By Dead Body

SPRINGFIELD, Mass (AP) — A 60-year-old woman was found in her tenement today keeping vigil beside the body of her husband, dead at least three days.

Police broke into the third-floor apartment of Mrs. Elmer Greenwood after other tenants in the building complained of offensive odors.

Furniture was overturned and broken liquor bottles were strewn around the rooms. Mrs. Greenwood was forcibly removed to hospital, where she was reported in a severe state of shock.

Medical examiner Dr. William A.R. Chapin said Greenwood died of a heart ailment three or four days ago.

Grant Of $4,200 Made Port Perry Hospital

PORT PERRY (CP)—The Atkinson Foundation has made a grant of $4,200 toward purchase of equipment for the $150,000 Memorial hospital to be officially opened in September.

It will be spent on a resuscitator, an anaesthetic machine, an operating room light, an oxygen tent, a cauterizing unit and an autoclave.

The gift from the foundation will benefit the 6,500 residents of the Port Perry district about 15 miles north of Oshawa.

Mrs. John Chase

ROSENEATH (ENS).—The funeral service of Mrs. John Chase was held at Alderville United Church on Wednesday at 2 p.m. The service was conducted by her pastor, the Rev. J. N. Lovelace, assisted by Mr. H. Lander, for many years layman in charge of Alderville church, and Rev. W. G. Day, pastor at Curve Lake and Burleigh Falls.

The church choir was in charge of the music with Mrs. Norman Marsden at the organ. The choir contributed an anthem "Rock of Ages."

The pallbearers were her neighbors: Chief John Beaver, John Simpson, Neil Crowe, Steven Smoke, Preston Gray and Bernard Smoke.

Those carrying floral tributes were Rev. W. G. Day, Curve Lake; Lloyd Clayton, Port Hope; John D. Loukes and Henry Comego.

Mrs. Chase's death occurred at Cobourg General Hospital on Monday following an operation.

The deceased, the former Mary McDonald, was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander McDonald of Hogansburg, New York State, but had resided for upwards of forty years on the Alderville Reservation.

Her husband predeceased her 23 years ago. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. James Ballantyne (Florence), Toronto; Mrs. Bessie Nicholas, Cobourg; a son, Lawson Chase, Toronto; a stepdaughter, Mrs. Ruth Johnston, Burleigh Falls; two brothers, Thomas McDonald, Hogansburg, N. Y.; Peter McDonald, Syracuse, N. Y., a sister Sarah, also of Hogansburg.

Friends and relatives were present from Clarkson, Toronto, Curve Lake, Burleigh Falls, Cobourg and Port Hope.

Interment was in Alderville cemetery.

German M.P.'s Walk Out On Red Speakers

BONN, Germany (Reuters)—Communist speakers who launched a rabid attack on the West German peace conventions and European Army pact today just about had the Bundestag to themselves. Members of other parties walked out of the lower house of Parliament and left them to it.

Communist leader Max Reimann taking part in the second day's debate on the treaties, said the agreements ending Allied occupation would "guarantee the position of American monopolies and foreign capital in Germany." He said the West German contingent in the European Army would be "a foreign legion which will expend its blood for American war adventurers."

The deputies' boycott was partly in protest against the kidnapping in West Berlin three days ago of Dr. Walter Linse, leading member of an anti-Communist Law Association.

Dr. Robert Tillman, Christian Democrat from West Berlin, said before Reimann spoke: "We refuse to listen to Communist speeches as long as the Communists do not publicly protest against such kidnappings."

There were loud boos as he described how Linse was whisked over the border into East Germany.

His protest coincided with reports of another West Berlin kidnapping. Police there said Bernhard Dahmen, 53, former district councillor at Schwerin, Mecklenburg, who fled to the west three years ago, had disappeared and was believed abducted.

Japan Planning Alaska Project

TOKYO (Reuters)—Japan is planning to approach the United States about a joint Japanese-American project to produce pulp wood in Alaska.

A government spokesman said today the Cabinet hopes to submit a plan outlining the project to the U.S. government next month.

The spokesman said the main points of the plan are these:

1. Establishment of a joint American-Japanese pulp manufacturing plant capable of manufacturing 100,000 tons of pulp annually.

2. Big imports of pulpwood logs for further processing in Japan.

3. A total capital of $20,000,000.

The spokesman said the Japanese government believes the U.S. development bank will be willing to lend money for the enterprise. Japanese contributions of capital would come from the government and private pulp and rayon manufacturers.

Percy W. J. Stewart Descendant Pioneers

CAVAN (ENS) —The community was shocked when they learned that Percy W. J. Stewart, Ida, had passed away in the Civic Hospital, Peterborough, after a brief illness in the early hours of Saturday morning, July 5.

He was the son of Samuel Stewart and a grandson of William Stewart who came out from Ireland almost a century and a half ago and was one of the first settlers of North Cavan. He cleared the Stewart farms from the virgin forest.

His mother was Mary Goggin of Cartwright township. He was born on the farm where his son Rae now lives, Lot 7, Concession 12, and it was here he brought his bride, Pearl White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim White also pioneer settlers of Cavan. They were married May 24, 1917. Later they moved to the family homestead about half a mile west on the twelfth line and it was here their five sons, Arthur, Rae, Bruce, Neil and Donald grew to manhood.

Mr. Stewart was an only son and was the last survivor of his family. Four sisters pre-deceased him, Anna and Etta in their early girlhood, Laura, Toronto 5 years ago and Mrs. Fred Thompson, (Lulu) Peterborough, one year ago.

He had a genial personality and was always active in church and community work. He was a lover of good sport and seldom missed a ball game at Bethany. He attended a number of the hockey matches in the Millbrook and Cavan Arena last winter.

He was a progressive farmer and took keen pleasure in having a job well done.

To mourn his loss he leaves his wife and five sons and three grandchildren: Sylvia, Ian and David Stewart.

The funeral on Monday from the family residence was largely attended. The Rev James Hampson, Bethany, and the Rev. W. E. Honey, Lindsay, had charge of the services.

The pallbearers were his nephews: Gordon Tinney, Norman Lowes, Harold White, Russel and Ronald White and Stewart Thompson, Toronto.

The flower bearers were: Malcolm Lowes, Paul Bryan Sunderland, Hubert Lowes, Stanley Sharp, Morris McGee, Dan Berry, Lindsay, and Ronald Argue.

Interment was in St. John's Cemetery, Ida.

Expect Social Credit Party To Form B.C. Government

VANCOUVER (CP)—Four weeks ago today British Columbians voted in a general election. They still don't know conclusively which party will hold the reins of government.

But the signposts—the plodding count of alternative choices which started a week ago—point to election of a Social Credit minority government.

Counting continued today in the seven seats yet to be decided and if current leadings hold up through final counts, Social Credit would take 19 seats compared to 18 for the C. C. F.

HOLD BALANCE OF POWER

The Liberals, who governed in coalition with the Progressive Conservatives for 10 years and then were in power by themselves during the months preceding the election, will hold the balance of power with six of the 48 seats.

All the seats to be decided are in the Vancouver area. Yesterday, Social Credit, which never before had elected a member in B. C. went ahead of the C. C. F. in the vital second seat in Vancouver Burrard.

Voting was held June 12. Then a three-week delay was made to allow allocation of absentee ballots to their proper ridings.

Tabulation of new counts under the alternative voting system, in which a candidate must have a majority to win a seat, started last Thursday. It will probably continue well into next week.

The latest standing:

Three Teen-Age Ontario Girls Among 7,000 At Royal Party

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The Queen today held the first garden party of her reign. Among the 7,000 guests invited to take tea on the wide lawns of Buckingham Palace was Margaret Truman, daughter of the president of the United States.

A small group of Canadians, many of them young women, also attended.

The party was the first of two scheduled summer teas in the palace gardens. The Queen, the Duke of Edinburgh, Princess Margaret, the Princess Royal, the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester and the Earl and Countess of Harewood received the guests on the lawns fronting the west wing of the palace.

During the party the Queen moved among the hundreds of guests from many countries, but only those who happened to be in the right place at the right time were lucky enough to be introduced.

HOLIDAY HIGHLIGHT

For three teen-age Ontario girls and their physical instructor, 32-year-old Barbara Jones of Ottawa, the party was the highlight of a two-month holiday. The three—17-year-old Jean Allan of Waterloo and two Toronto friends, Barbara Bell, 19, and Sally Baldwin, 17—will tour Britain and France as an interlude between graduating from Bishop Strachan school in Toronto and starting work in Canada.

The total number of Canadians was not made known, but others known to have attended include Mrs. Percival Nelles, widow of Admiral Nelles of Brantford, Ont., senior Canadian flag officer overseas in 1944; Dr. Martha Law of Toronto; and Senator and Mrs. Salter Hayden of Ottawa.

Mossadegh Accepts Call To Form Gov't

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Premier Mohammed Mossadegh — after threatening to step down—has agreed finally to head a new government, reliable informants said today.

The aged Nationalist chieftain made up his mind, the informants said, after conferring nearly four hours last night with a delegation from the Senate. The delegation is believed to have promised him support in the upper house.

Mossadegh was reluctant to form a new government after the Senate gave him a skimpy vote of approval on his reappointment for another term. The Majlis, or lower house, gave him overwhelming endorsement.

Small Boy Dies Farm Home Fire

ALEXANDRIA (CP)—A nine-year-old boy, Gille Montpetit, died today in a fire which destroyed his farm home a few miles east of this eastern Ontario town.

His parents and five other children escaped but the father, Existe Montpetit, suffered severe burns in trying to rescue Gille, The fire is believed to have started from overheated pipes while the parents and three of the children were out milking the cows.

Prisoners Find Open Compound Cold At Guelph

GUELPH (CP)—Some 350 prisoners last night spent their fifth and "most uncomfortable" night in their open compounds since the Ontario reformatory here was rocked by a destructive riot Saturday.

Following a supper of beans, bread and tea, the men huddled in blankets as the temperature dropped to 55 degrees.

Some 100 of the "more co-operative" prisoners, also lodged in the compound following the $200,000 riot, yesterday were returned to the main building to help clean up cell blocks and repair broken furniture, plumbing and plaster.

Officials said they hoped other prisoners will be returned tomorrow—after cell locks are repaired.

Some 25 men are expected to be charged in connection with the riot. Guards said the men were "very quiet" today.

Meanwhile, reformatory superintendent Gerald Wright would make no further comment on the situation or its cause. He said the veil of secrecy was imposed by order of Reform Minister Foote.

SO LONG OLD PAL!—Joe Bardgett of Cremona, Alta., bids a reluctant and awkward farewell to his mount, Fisher Creek, in the novice bronk-riding contest at the Calgary Stampede. The outlaw horse bounced Joe on the fourth buck and the camera caught the would-be rider heading for the dust.

Drivers Found Guilty Of Carelessness

Two men convicted of careless driving were each fined $10 and costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp in police court Wednesday afternoon.

Karl Fisher, of Cavan, was travelling south on Highway 28 the evening of June 7 when he said he was blinded by headlights of an oncoming car. He swerved to the left to avoid the car he said, and his right wheels dropped into a three-inch rut.

In attempting to get his car back on the road, it went across the highway into the path of a northbound car driven by Charles Danforth, R.R. 1 Cavan.

He said he was travelling toward Lakefield when the southbound car suddenly came across the highway and he had no chance to avoid the accident.

Magistrate Philp found Fisher guilty on the evidence and fined him $10 and $13.60 costs.

David L. Montgomery, 710 Monaghan Rd., was fined $10 and $26.40 costs when convicted of the same charge.

Montgomery was travelling north on Highway 28 on May 24, when he was involved in a collision with a southbound car driven by Ross Hickey, 98 Roosevelt Rd., Toronto.

PULLED OUT

Hickey said he first saw Montgomery when the two approaching cars were about 15 feet away. He said Montgomery pulled out to pass two cars ahead of him and swung sharply back onto the east side of the road when he saw he could not make it.

Although he pulled off on the shoulder, Hickey said the rear end of Montgomery's car clipped the left side of his 1952 car, and scraped it along the side, causing $800 damage.

Montgomery denied he was passing the two cars. He said he had just passed two cars and had pulled back into his own traffic lane behind two other cars. The head car slowed up, he said, and he applied his brakes. It was raining heavily at the time and he said the rear of his car skidded toward the centre of the highway as the collision occurred.

The Magistrate said he was accepting the evidence of Hickey, and found Montgomery guilty.

Both Montgomery and Fisher were defended by Gordon H. T. Farquharson. Alexander Fleming represented the crown.

Boy Drowned At Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Arthur Rathier, 14, was drowned yesterday in the Rideau River after jumping off a bridge pier.

UNEQUAL LEVELS

Because of ocean currents, the sea level is 17 inches higher on the north coast of Cuba than at Florida, less than 100 miles distant.

Fist Fights and Scuffles Enliven Rallies In Quebec

MONTREAL (CP) —Contradictory political meetings—the delight of Quebec voters—were held in several outlying constituencies following the closing of nominations yesterday for the July 16 provincial elections. Fist fights, scuffles and the firing of a revolver featured these traditional gatherings where candidates take turns at speaking and rebuttals follow.

At St. Georges de Beauce, in Beauce riding, Georges O. Poulin, Union Nationale, and Dr. Eugene Fortin, Liberal—both with bodyguards—got just as far as one speaking turn apiece.

Cat-calls and boos from the crowd became louder as the meeting progressed and when Mr. Poulin started his rebuttal, a group of men jumped on the stage and fist fights started.

PRIEST RESTORES ORDER

An unidentified priest took the stage and restored order and both candidates shook hands after the meeting.

Two unnamed strikers from a textile plant were chased by a group of men participating in a nomination session at Three Rivers but were saved possible injury when a union official drew a revolver and fired a shot in the air.

The two men were attending a meeting for Germain Caron, Union Nationale member for Maskinonge riding in the last Quebec legislature.

A group of men chased the two to union headquarters and attempted to force their way in. Raymond Gagnon, business agent for the Louiseville Textile Workers Union, drew a revolver, fired and shot in the air and then pointed it at the group.

Msgr. Donat Baril, parish priest of Louiseville, stepped in and cooled tempers off.

At Ste. Genevieve de Batiscan in Champlain constituency, an outbreak of fist-and-chair-fighting broke out in the midst of a speech following nomination closing.

Italian Group Planning Amazon Trip

LONDON (Reuters)—Sebastian Snow, 23, is travelling down the Amazon River today on a tiny raft unaware that a fully-equipped Italian expedition is on its way to Brazil to contest his attempt to be the first man to sail the 3,505-mile stream.

Latest news received by the British explorer's parents here is that he is about 600 miles from the source, in the Peruvian Andes, making good progress towards the Atlantic after being delayed five months by floods.

Vanguard of the Italian expedition, led by Pietro Mele, 23, noted explorer, left Naples yesterday for Brazil. The expedition will travel by steamship to Manaos, commercial centre for the upper Amazon Valley 1,000 miles up-river from the Atlantic.

Here, the group will split into two parties. The main party will travel on the river toward the Pacific, meeting Snow somewhere along the route. Snow's only travelling companion is a Peruvian guide.

USING PLANE

The second Italian group, equipped with a plane, will keep contact between the river party and the nearest civilized centres.

Last year, Snow and John Brown, another British explorer, confirmed the source of the Amazon, Lake Ninococha, 15,000 feet up in the central Peruvian Andes.

News of his progress indicates he has covered the most difficult descent from the Andes to Chachapoyas and then by raft across 33 miles of rapids culminating in the vast canyon of Pongo de Manseriche.

Snow now must be approaching the vast Brazilian jungle, most of it unexplored, which stretches nearly 2,000 miles east to the Atlantic. This dank "green hell" is full of unknown hazards, ranging from fierce tribesmen to wild animals and tropical diseases.

Ship In Collision

RAMSGATE, Kent, England (Reuters)—The 2,300-ton Dutch motor vessel Prins Alexander was taken in tow today after a collision with a Norwegian steamer in the foggy English Channel left her with a gaping hole on her starboard side. The Norwegian ship, the N.O. Rogenaes, took off passengers and crew and put a line aboard.

Officials Keep Mine Disaster Secret For Nearly 3 Hours

GLACE BAY, N.S. (CP)—Dosco and union officials kept last night's mine fatalities a secret for nearly three hours and when the grim news finally got to the press, reporters and photographers were given a rough reception. They charged that the obstruction was in large measure responsible for early garbled accounts of the number involved in the underground explosion.

Company police blocked off the privately-owned mine area and a reporter, trying to gain the pit head said he was slightly manhandled. He did not identify the men who obstructed him.

An R.C.M.P. constable relieved a Sydney Post-Record photographer of his camera and the only picture of the rescue activity. The cameraman was escorted behind the restricted area.

It was an old situation for reporters in the colliery area of Nova Scotia. Their colleagues also encountered difficulty Jan. 14 covering the McGregor mine fatalities at Stellarton. At that time it was explained that in such emergencies the area of the pit head must be kept clear of all but rescue workers.

Miners themselves are as tough in their attitude as the company. They don't like photographers' flash-bulbs going off in their faces as they prepare for a hazardous descent into a pit that has just had an explosion.

When Harold Gordon, Dosco coal chief, was asked to order return of the camera he replied: "I won't do anything for you. The photographer should have had better sense. When he gets the camera back the pictures will be of no value to him."

Store Looted

NEWARK, N. J., (AP)—Ten thousand electron tubes worth $15,000 were stolen yesterday from a television supply firm by what police said is a gang which recently looted stores in Trenton and Fort Lee of $30,000 worth of tubes.

5-Year Plan Started By Norwegians

By ELIZABETH KITSON

OSLO (Reuters).—A five-year plan aimed at discovering and mapping out the untapped resources of ores and minerals believed to exist in the mountains of northern Norway, will get under way this summer.

It is also believed that a rich vein of gold exists somewhere in the undeveloped north. Gold dust indicating the presence of a vein, has been found in the rivers although it is not yet known where it comes from.

This summer's geological "offensive," however, will concentrate on seeking out more workaday minerals, particularly those which can be used in the planned industrial expansion in north Norway.

GLASS, PORCELAIN USE

These include zinc, lead, graphite, magnesium-pyrites, copper-pyrites, and an ore named nefelin-albitt, now being used increasingly in the United States glass and porcelain industry.

In charge of the five-year plan will be Norway's Geological Investigation Institute.

The government recently proposed an extra grant of 500,000 kroner ($70,000) to the institute for this summer's preliminary investigations.

If sufficient quantities of ore are found, the co-operation of experts from the Norwegian Technical College in Trondheim will be sought to decide what use can be made of them and expert foreign help may also be engaged.

The program for geological research is intended to cover all parts of the country, not only the northern districts.

One of the more ordinary industrial minerals on which a considerable amount of work has already been done is niobium, much in demand for metal alloys which have to stand heavy strains at high temperatures. Niobium has been found in rocks at Holla, near Skien in south Norway, and plans are already in hand for developing the site, although production is unlikely to start this year.

Capt. Joseph A. Glenn Dies At Niagara Falls

SAILPLANE CHAMPION: Dick Johnson followed the vultures.

Scientists Learn To Fly From Soaring Buzzards

By JIMMY WARD

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. (NEA)—Playing an aerial game of follow-the-leader with wild Mississippi buzzards, sailplane champion Dick Johnson has been learning secrets of aerophysics that may provide long-sought answers in the aviation field.

Johnson and Dr. August Raspet, head of the Mississippi State College aerophysics department, recently noticed that buzzards have an instinct for seeking out invisible updrafts and can soar through the air with less than half the resistance, or "drag," of the most efficient airplane.

To find out why, ohnson trailed the wild birds in his record-fast sailplane, radioing his speed of flight, altitude and other information to Dr. Raspet.

Results were so encouraging that the pair now plan to train two squadrons of the vultures to aid them in their reseach. Flying controlled flights, the birds will carry instruments which will relay information to scientists on the ground.

✧ ✧ ✧

Helping to train the tamed buzzards will be naturalist George Carter of Kendallville, Ind. Carter trained a buzzard for research work once before, but that time the bird choked on a chicken bone and died in the midst of experiments. He doesn't intend to make the same mistake again.

Right now, Johnson is en route to Madrid, Spain, to compete in an international soaring meet. Using aviation tips learned from his buzzard-trailing, the 29-year-old former airlines pilot, now a Mississippi State graduate student, has modified his plane to greatly increase its speed.

Since it was already rated the world's fastest, he is considered a strong favorite to win.

Keeping an eye on his success will be the Naval Research Office in Washington, which has begun to show interest in the buzzard experiments.

A passenger was Lieut. Peter Perry, on special leave to marry a Canadian girl he met in England. He will be married in Longbridge, Ont.

TEXTURE— that all-important word in fabric, means that surface interest has become foremost in fashion. It also means that a basically simple design can gain new interest, since texture, in itself, is sufficiently eye-stopping. This is demonstrated over and over again in simple, classic lines coupled with texture. But texture has other fashion uses. It lends, for instance, the look of one fabric to another. When a wrinkle-resistant finish is added, a new and practical fashion is born. Linen-textured rayon (left) makes a dress that is just right for the cooler days of summer. It has a soft, smooth weave that has been made wrinkle-resistant. Angora trimming outlines the deep, wide U neck. Over this simple sheath goes a cape-sleeved, tassel-trimmed jacket that is not shown here. Textured treebark taffeta (right) makes a simple acetate dress with wide square-cut neckline and crisp white cuffs. It is the thousands of tiny, irregular pleats that lend this fabric body and give it surface interest.

Men Outnumber Women 8 To 1

RED LAKE, Ont. (CP)—This northwestern Ontario gold mining town has eight times as many men as women, and the men make good money and generally drive automobiles.

The result? Since February, almost the entire nursing staff of the Red Cross hospital here has been married. Now head nurse Amy Hayward is waiting for hard-to-get replacements.

She admits nurses have to endure hardship in this territory, 200 miles northwest of the Lakehead. Depending on the season, nurses travel by snowshoe, moccasin and Indian trail; by freight trains, snowmobiles or dogsleds. If lucky, they get a lift in a plane.

They minister to a mixed population of 5,400 frontiersmen and Indians. Though the hospital itself has modern facilities, few houses have basements or indoor plumbing.

The girls must take kindly to animals, too.

Last year there were 119 babies born at the Red Cross hospital, about half of them Indians.

FOR HER OWN SUMMER WARDROBE, actress Jane Wyman has chosen these fashions, all by California designers. She wears (left) a late-day dress in lace with low-cut, wide neckline, brief sleeves and full, stiffened skirt. Circus theme is borrowed (centre) for striped pink, white and charcoal organdie blouse worn with charcoal gray skirt in glazed cotton. Skirt has a high rising band that buttons in front centre. Short dinner dress (right) is in beige spun rayon-and-cotton. Brief bolero covers halter-top dress that can go dancing. It has low neckline filled in with pleated organdie.

Jellied Veal Loaf Ideal Supper Dish

SUMMER SUPPERS

Summer days were meant to be enjoyed, so do not become a slave to your stove. There are many appetizing supper dishes that can be made as quick as you can blink your eye, and with as little effort. Some, like moulded salads or fried chicken, can be prepared in the cool of the morning and kept cold all day in the refrigerator. Then at supper time, it takes no effort at all to serve a delicious cold meal.

One idea for easy summer supper dishes is to take advantage of the many canned meats. These can be most uninteresting if they are served straight from the can to the platter, but the home economists suggest that if they are dressed up they can be a gourmet's delight. The canned ham which is available on the market can be used in many ways. It is good cubed for salads or ham a la king. For special occasions, glaze the ham as it comes from the can with jelly or with mustard and brown sugar. Garnish with spiced peaches or pears and serve with a tossed green salad. It may also be sliced and served cold with either hot or cold summer vegetables. Other luncheon meats are delicious glazed with brown sugar and studded with cloves or spread with mustard and placed under the broiler to brown. They may also be sliced and attractively arranged on a plate with slices of cheese, cucumber and tomato.

JELLIED VEAL LOAF

Jellied meats are ideal to use for appetizing supper dishes. They are easy to prepare and, attractively garnished, make a tantalizing dish. The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, have a recipe for Jellied Veal Loaf which they say is ideal for these meals.

2½ lbs. veal shank.
2 quarts boiling water.
1 teaspoon salt.
¼ teaspoon celery salt.
1 teaspoon chopped parsley.
Pinch of thyme.
1 teaspoon chopped onion.
1 hard-cooked egg.

Simmer veal shank in water with salt, celery salt, parsley and thyme until meat falls from the bone—about one and one-half hours. Strain liquid and save (there should be about two cups). Chop meat (there should be about two cups). Chill the strained veal stock. When it begins to stiffen, add onion and chopped meat. Slice egg and place slices in bottom of greased mould. Pour meat mixture over egg. Chill until firm. Unmould and serve on lettuce. If a stiffer jellied loaf is desired, two tablespoons gelatine may be soaked in one-quarter cup cold water, then added to the hot strained veal stock. Stir until dissolved, then chill and finish as above. Yields eight to ten servings.

ALL-IN-ONE SUPPER DISHES

If the family insists on a hot meal despite torrid weather, the home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, suggest an all-in-one supper dish which may be served hot right from the casserole. Arrange slices of ham or luncheon meat on top of a vegetable casserole to make it more substantial. Scalloped potatoes topped with bacon or other meats is one favourite. A savoury cheese ring or perhaps a noodle ring can be filled with creamed summer vegetables for delicious suppers. To make a noodle ring, cook and drain four ounces of bread noodles. Beat two eggs until thick and light, then add one cup of milk, the cooked noodles and the seasonings—two tablespoons chopped parsley, one-half teaspoon salt and a dash of pepper. Turn this mixture into a well-greased ring mould. A ring mould may be improvised by setting a small bowl in a casserole or baking dish. Place in a pan of hot water and oven-poach in a moderate oven, 350 deg. F., until it is done — about one hour. Turn out into a serving dish and fill the centre with well-seasoned creamed vegetables. Fresh green peas, summer squash or a combination of green peas and celery are delicious to use at this time of the year. This recipe will make six servings.

CHICKEN SAUSAGE BAKE

1 pound sausage meat
¼ cup chopped onion
1 10-ounce can cream of mushroom soup
½ cup chicken broth or milk
1 cup diced cooked chicken
Baking powder biscuits using 2 cups flour.

Saute sausage meat until brown remove from pan and drain. Add onions to pan and saute until tender, then stir in mushroom soup and broth or milk. Line bottom of a greased 8-inch cake pan with chicken and cover with sausage meat. Pour soup mixture over sausage meat and top with biscuits cut in desired shape.

Bake in a hot oven, 400 degrees F., 25 to 30 minutes, or until biscuits are done. Yield: 6 to 8 servings. Canada Department of Agriculture.

DEVILLED EGG BAKE

4 chicken livers
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion.
¼ cup fat
6 hard-cooked eggs
Few drops of tabasco
¼ cup grated Cheddar cheese
1 10-ounce can cream of mushroom soup
½ cup grated Cheddar cheese.

Saute livers and onion in hot fat until tender. Remove from pan, drain and chop livers finely. Cut eggs in half lengthwise, remove yolks and rub through a sieve. Combine chopped livers, onions, sieved yolks, tabasco and the ½ cup grated cheese. Add sufficient soup to moisten (about 2 tablespoons). Refill whites with the yolk mixture and arrange in a deep 9-inch pie plate. Cover with remainder of soup and top with the ½ cup grated cheese. Bake in a moderately hot oven, 375 degrees F., until cheese is melted, about 10 minutes. Yield: Six servings.

Note: Chicken giblets and hearts may be used along with or in place of the livers. These should be simmered until tender, then finely chopped and sauteed with the onion. Canada Department of Agriculture.

CHICKEN CHOWDER

¼ cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons fat
1 cup diced celery
2 cups cubed raw potatoes
2 cups chicken broth
1 cup diced cooked chicken
1 cup kernel corn
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
Salt and pepper to taste.

Saute onion in hot fat until lightly browned, about 5 minutes. Add celery, potatoes and broth, and simmer, covered, until vegetables are tender, about 30 minutes. Add chicken, corn, parsley and flour which has been blended with milk. Cover and simmer about 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Yield: 5 cups. Canada Department of Agriculture.

EVERY HOSTESS welcomes a novel idea to lend interest to home entertaining....particularly in the cooking field. There is a great deal of satisfaction not only in cooking well, but also in presenting it as attractively as possible.

Just such an idea is a Butterfly Cake....so easy to make and such fun you will enjoy every minute you spend on it.

BUTTERFLY CAKE

Empty contents of a package of chocolate cake mix into bowl; fluff with fork. Measure out 8 oz. water (one complete cup). Add half the water (4 oz.). Mix until free from lumps. Add remainder of water (4 oz.) slowly, mixing smooth after each addition. Batter will be thin. Pour into two 9" layer cake tins lined with waxed paper. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 30-35 minutes. Cool 5 minutes before removing from pan. Frost lower layer when cold with lemon butter frosting, top with second layer, then cut in half. Move the left half over to the right with the centre of the round edges of the cake touching, forming your butterfly. Cover with frosting, and decorate.

LEMON BUTTER FROSTING

½ cup butter
3 cups confectioners' sugar, sifted
2 tablespoons cream
1 teaspoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind.

Cream butter. Gradually add the sifted confectioners' sugar. Blend in milk. Add lemon juice and lemon rind and cream until mixture is smooth and the right consistency for spreading. Frost cake as instructed.

Summer Pie Treat Using Ice Cream A "Must Try"

Have you heard about that wonderful new kind of pie made with ice cream? It's a fancy party dish that's easy to make and exciting to eat. Just keep a supply of pastry shells on hand to fill and chill—takes less than an hour. Here's the filling for a raspberry parfait pie:

Wash 1½ cups fresh raspberries and drain. Measure 1¼ cups water into 2-quart saucepan, bring to boil. Remove from heat; add 1 package raspberry-flavored gelatine and stir until dissolved. Cut 1 pint vanilla ice cream into 6 or 8 pieces, add to hot gelatine mixture and immediately stir until ice cream is completely melted.

Chill in refrigerator until mixture is thick but not set; takes about 25 minutes. Fold in berries and pour into a baked pie shell. Chill until firm, 25 to 30 minutes or until ready to serve. It's good as is, or prettied with a border of whipped cream studded with raspberries. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Note: With quick-frozen raspberries, thaw 12-ounce package, drain and measure liquid. Add water to make 1¼ cups, use to dissolve the gelatine. Or if your family hankers for peach, strawberry, banana or what-not, you can make the change-over by juggling gelatine and fruit-flavor combinations.

Few Chic Women Are Wearing Hats

PARIS.—It is a regrettable fact that fewer and fewer smart women are wearing hats except on the most formal occasions and even then their coiffure tends to take the form of an ornament or veil on the head, rather than a hat proper. However, strenuous measures are being taken by the French milliners to encourage the practice of wearing hats particularly at official functions. This season, in fact, they have made a group of such hats for notably smart Parisians to wear, models which have now been turned in to the Paris museum of costume and which will be kept as records of millinery styles of 1952.

A Warm Heart To Cool Meals With Soup

On a summer day, food thoughts turn to a glass of clinking iced tea and a king-size sandwich. But it's a more enjoyable meal if it has a warm heart—like a bowl of vegetable soup, known as the "garden in a bowl."

Satisfying and rich-flavored, soup goes hand in hand with a delectable sandwich. The hot dish gives forth a heavenly fragrance that truly peps up lagging appetites.

Take down a can of soup, vegetable soup for instance. Right away you'll think of so many ways to serve it, so many foods to serve with it. One suggestion is to put in a brightly new flavor by mixing with condensed bouillon or consomme. Just stir together a can each of vegetable soup and one of the other soups; add liquid as usual. There's a rich tempting combination. Special garnishes also give even more variety to vegetable soup. For one idea, try polka dotting it with little cream cheese balls. (Make these by rolling chunks of cream cheese between palms of your hands.)

As you prepare soup, you'll naturally think of this or that perfect sandwich-mate to go with it. Here's a galaxy of sandwiches that team temptingly with the soup that's "a garden in a bowl."

SANDWICH "GO-GOODS" WITH VEGETABLE SOUP

Perfect 36's Few 'Type' Sizes Result

It is only in the past decade that fashion manufacturers came to realize that few women possessed the standardized measurements of the perfect-thirty-six, the one-time ideal of all fashionable women. It was when fashion authorities realized the importance of "type" sizes that the junior sizes, half-sizes and teen sizes were discovered and today cover a wide enough range to offer custom-made measurements to all ages, types and sizes of women.

Lingerie in its many phases has followed the mode faithfully. When skirts are short, slips follow the theme; when strapless gowns came into vogue, strapless bras made their prompt appearance to support the fashion.

In the construction of a bras, however, women continue to demand a flattering uplift combined with comfort, and ingenious designers are constantly coming up with newer and more effective creations. Still, the between-cup sizes were neglected and many women found that a perfect bras fitting was impossible without alteration or padding. A few months ago, the solution to between-size fitting was discovered. The construction of this new bras is indeed a secret. At first glance it appears to be a regulation uplift bras in nylon marquisette, fashioned with tubular strips for newer comfort. Close examination, however, reveals the secret of success—a cushion of air. Eight out of ten women fall short of being a perfect size and this soft cushion of air supplies the answer to ideal fitting.

Honor Teacher

A very pleasant little function was held in Deloro Hall, Monday evening, when the pupils, parents and her friends of Miss Cecelia Towns gathered to bid her farewell due to her imminent departure from Deloro.

Miss Towns has been the separate school teacher in Deloro for the past four years and in that interval has made many friends. She has accepted an appointment in one of the St. Catharines schools and takes up her new duties in September.

Monday evening was spent in dancing and happy discourse between friends and neighbours and was culminated by an address and presentation to Miss Towns.

Mr. Paquet read the address after which a couple of the smaller pupils presented Miss Towns with a set of travelling bags, compact and other appropriate gifts. In addition a beautiful bouquet of mixed flowers, a gift from Mrs. Ben Sandham, was also presented to Miss Towns.

Miss Towns in her usual capable manner thanked her friends for their thoughtfulness.

A delicious lunch was then served by the ladies in charge and the proceedings broke up at midnight.

FUNNY BUSINESS -- By Hershberger

"Go head—he's fitted"

DOROTHY DIX

Woman Is Asking For It In taking Back Stingy Mate

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband and I have agreed to present our problem to you and let your advice govern our decision.

We were married twenty-eight years ago in a civil ceremony. I wanted a minister to perform the marriage, but my husband objected so I gave in (my first mistake with him). He was 25; 1, 21. It became immediately evident that he was to rule the house with a hand of iron. He wanted me to continue working, which I did almost to the day our first child was born, though I was very ill all through the pregnancy.

When the baby was ten months old, he insisted I hire someone to care for her so that I could go back to work. I had to refuse, since I felt my first responsibility was for the baby—then the trouble really began. My husband became so stingy he would give me nothing. Nor would he do anything to please me. He claimed since he worked for the money, it belonged to him and he had no obligation to me at all. The few things he did do for me, or our two children, were for the purpost of impressing outsiders with his generosity.

He made the older girl leave school when she was 15 to go to work. Constant nagging brought on a nervous breakdown for the younger girl, and her father would not even pay for medical care. By that time, of course, I was working. Then came the war and the two girls married, each at 17, thinking that was the best way to get away from home. Neither marriage was happy. Finally I left my husband, and went into dressmaking. Now he has come back, and wants to begin all over, promising to change. However, he won't admit he was ever wrong in anything.

I love to do for others, and perhaps that has been why I've been so quick to give in to everything.

L. R.

ANSWER:

Your very long letter, which I have had to abridge considerably, presents the most consummate picture of a selfish, domineering, tyrannical and greedy man that I have read in a long time—and, believe me, I get many letters along the same line.

HE WON'T CHANGE

You begin by saying that you and your husband will agree to any decision I make. How naive can you get? He hasn't agreed to a single thing in twenty-eight years and you expect him to change now! Are you going to live out your life fondly expecting a miraculous metamorphosis? They do occasionally happen, by the grace of God, but your husband is as far beyond redemption as he can reasonably go! Even now he admits to no fault, sees no reason why he should be sorry for the past, yet you are willing to take him back and again become his footstool.

You say you still love him, yet any feeling you have for this despot is a desecration on the word "love," according to all of Webster's definitions. He has never given you or his children one bit of affection, care or consideration. The girls' lives are completely ruined because of his heartless neglect and downright exploitation. Is this a man you can consider taking back into your life?

Your letter was written with a desire to get some grievances off your chest. That you will ignore my obvious advise to keep what little independence and self-respect you have managed to acquire is certain. Hubby can apparently twist you around his little finger and, since he is in need of support, your job will come in very handy.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Would you advise me to marry this girl? I am 39, she is 26 and a divorcee. I am madly in love with her, but worried because she is a heavy drinker. Also, she is very nervous and tells me she is being medically treated for this ailment. Sometimes I think my dream girl is nothing but a spoiled brat, though I still love her. JACK

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You have found yourself a very poor matrimonial prospect, and most assuredly should not let your common sense rule your heart in this case. Your lady's nervous condition undoubtedly is a result of her drinking, and will be difficult for any doctor to cure. Her other habits don't sound very alluring, either.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: We live in a small house and it is very difficult for me to entertain my friends. If my parents go out, it is much easier for me to have company, but they won't permit me to have boys in unless they are home. Most parents around here permit the practice, and I don't see why my folks don't.

JOYCE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Many of these careless parents who permit their daughters to entertain so indiscriminately may rue in sorrow their docility in leaving the young people alone at home. Your mother and father are far wiser, and you should be grateful indeed for their care in guarding your reputation.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Stage That Party In Garden

Doris wanted to entertain the twenty-five members of a board of directors in their garden while the delphiniums and roses were still in bloom. So—her two loving standbys took over the reins in the kitchen and prepared two menus. One inexpensive and for a cool day. The other costing more but worth it if the day turned out to be a blazer.

It was 95 deg. Fahr.

Peady and I were grease spots by seven o'clock, but by that time dessert had been served. As one we dashed for the bathroom. (Two women our age look awfly silly in a cold shower at the same time!)

Garden Party Supper Number I
(which we did not make but had all supplies and plans for.)
Ice Cold Lemonade
Home Baked Beans and Bacon
Cloverleaf Buns
Tossed Green Salad
Quartered Tomatoes
Dill Pickles
Corn Relish
Chilled Fruit Cup
Coffee
Fruit Drop Cookies

Garden Party Supper Number II
(which we used because of the heat.)
Ice Cold Lemonade
Sliced Ready-to-Eat Ham
Potato Salad
Tossed Green Salad
Buttered Thin Rye Bread
Dill Pickles
Ripe Olives
Raspberries on Ice Cream
Iced Coffee
Fruit Drop Cookies

DIRECTIONS

Plainly you can see why, with the thermometer reaching for the 100 mark we switched from home baked beans and bacon and hot rolls to ready-to-eat ham and rye bread.

HOMEMADE LEMON SYRUP
(enough for approximately 25 glasses).

Mix together 2 cups sugar and 2 cups water. Add the grated rind of 6 lemons and boil gently together for 5 or 10 minutes. Squeeze the juice from the 6 derinded lemons and from 6 more lemons. Squeezing is facilitated if lemons are warm and have been rolled under your palm. When syrup is cool add lemon juice. Fill glasses ¼ full of this syrup and fill with ice water OR add 2 or 2½ quarts ice water to syrup and 2 or 3 trays of ice cubes, and serve when ice is about half melted.

I happened to do some work with the meat packers who helped perfect the smoking technique of ready-to-eat hams.

The process that these hams go through briefly is brining, similar to a regular smoked ham. Then bone is removed and ham is shaped in a "visking" casing (like "tenderized" ham). Finally it is smoked at 152 deg. Fahr. for 14 or 16 hours in which time the heat penetrates to centre of boneless ham, sufficiently to pasteurize and cook it. It is chilled and ready for sale. You merely slice and eat it. It is a careful and exact process which results in a moist and delicious product. The price of it has dropped one-third in the past year.

POTATO SALAD FOR 25

Sixteen cups washed, boiled in jackets, chilled and diced potatoes, 3 cups diced celery, 1 tablespoon salt, 1 pint French dressing, ½ cup chopped parsley, 2 cups mayonnaise, stuffed olives chopped in salad and for garnish 2 or 4 hard-cooked eggs in and on salad, ¼ to ½ cup chopped chives. Mix all, when potatoes are diced and cold, but mayonnaise and olives and hard-cooked eggs held out for garnish. Chill. Add mayonnaise just before serving. Garnish.

6—In Memoriam

BOLTON—In loving memory of our dear grandma, who passed away July 11, 1951.
A year has passed since that sad day,
When one we loved was called away.
God took her home, it was His will,
Within our hearts she liveth still.
—Lovingly remembered by grandchildren.

BOLTON—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Robert Bolton, who passed away July 11, 1951.
God knew that she was suffering,
That the hills were hard to climb,
So He closed her weary eyelids
And whispered "Peace be thine."
Away in the beautiful hills of God,
By the valley of rest so fair.
Some time, some day, we know not when,
We will meet mother there.
—Lovingly remembered by daughters and sons.

PEARSON—In loving memory of my dear father who passed away July 10, 1949, also a loving mother, Nov. 18, 1916, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Pearson.
Treasured memories linger on
Of those I loved, who now are gone,
And looking back with tenderness,
Along the path they bravely trod
I bless the years I had them here
And know that now they're safe with God.
—Lovingly remembered by their daughter Gladys and family.

PEARSON—In loving memory of my dear father, Nathaniel Pearson, who passed away July 10, 1949.
The depth of sorrow we cannot tell,
Or the loss of one we loved so well,
And while he sleeps a peaceful sleep
His memory we shall always keep.
—Ever remembered by daughter Minnie and family.

Pay $1,050 For Ram At Alberta Sheep Sale

CALGARY (CP)—Highest price ever paid for a ram here was recorded last night at the Alberta Sheep Breeders' sale. Roy B. Warrick and Son of Oskaloosa, Iowa, paid $1,050 for a ram owned by R.J. Rock and Son of Drumheller, Alta.

Average price for 3 animals sold was $165. Forty were offered for sale. Total receipts were $5,460.

Buck Would Halt "U.S. Exploitation"

MONTREAL (CP)—Tim Buck, Labor-Progressive party leader, said last night in a political address that an end should be made to "American exploitation of Canadian mineral wealth."

"The future of Canada depends," he said, "upon whether the country is to expand itself or be a hole in the ground from which Americans can draw oil and other rich minerals."

He was speaking in support of Gui Caron, Quebec Labor-Progressive leader, who is a candidate in Montreal St. Louis riding in the July 16 Quebec election.

Inspector Issues 10,368 Permits In 32 Years

A. G. Metheral, plumbing inspector and welfare officer, pointed to the calendar today as the 32nd aniversary of his appointment as a city official.

"I began as plumbing inspector on July 10, 1920," Mr. Metheral recalled. "The late Peter Thompson was about to retire on July 15, but he wanted to get away on the 10th, and that is when I took over his duties. A. A. McIntyre was Mayor that year.

"I was also appointed a sanitary inspector on May 4, 1925, but that is an authority to be used only if need be. On Jan. 1, 1927, I became welfare administrator, succeeding the late Finch Miller.

"Old age pensions and mothers' allowances were added to our office work on Dec. 1, 1942."

Mr. Metheral said that as plumbing inspector he had issued a total of 10,368 permits, and had made 31,312 inspections of sanitary installations.

296 JOBS TO DO

"And, at present we still have 296 outstanding jobs that are in progress. My duties as plumbing inspector have been to see that the provisions of the plumbing by-law are carried out. It is recognized that Peterborough council has maintained the plumbing standards which it established years ago.

"The purpose is to protect public health by sound plumbing in homes, shops, factories and elsewhere. The plumbing standards are also a guarantee to home owners and buyers.

"In the welfare department which is a committee of the council the problem has been to supply the needs of citizens who have to seek relief and also to protect the ratepayers' money. We have tried to balance those two responsibilities as fairly as possible having regard to the proper use of public money."

May Attempt Second Record

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP)—The liner United States sailed for home today, her skipper uncertain whether he would attempt to set a new westbound Atlantic speed record.

"I don't know," said Commodore Harry Manning. "It's too early to judge the weather reports."

The United States won the blue ribbon for eastbound crossings with a record of three days, 10 hours, 40 minutes on her maiden voyage to Europe this week. It was 10 hours and two minutes faster than the Queen Mary's old record.

Manning said he expected to arrive in New York Tuesday morning, a schedule practically the same as the Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth.

Continue Battle Against Flames

CORNER BROOK, Nfld. (CP)—Clouds of dense smoke drifted over two communities today as 250 firefighters continued their battle to control a racing forest fire which already has burned more than 100 square miles of woodland.

Albert Martin, woods manager for Bowaters pulp and paper mill here, said damage so far is estimated at $50,000. But this does not include loss of time in operations in the woods.

He said, too, that the outbreak will cause postponement for about two years of company plans to take out 10,000 cords of pulpwood from the area.

The blaze started Sunday when a group of loggers cooking a meal accidentally set fire to a shack. The flames spread quickly through the tinder-dry woods despite their efforts to control them and soon got out of hand.

Police Squad Cars Deliver Blood Plasma

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Provincial Police squad cars last night took 32 minutes to relay a supply of blood plasma from Hamilton, a distance of 50 miles.

The trip was made to replenish supplies at the hospital here for a critically ill patient.

Church Theft

JOHANNESBURG (CP)—Thieves who broke into the Methodist Church at Primrose near here stole only one article—a portable organ.

88 Africans Arrested In Campaign

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa (Reuters) — Eighty-eight Africans were arrested today for breaking racial-segregation laws at the Brighton railroad station and post office.

The arrests brought to 203 the number of men and women arrested for their parts in the government's white-supremacy policies.

The campaign—to ignore orders requiring special passes for Africans to move about the country and providing special seats for them at stations, in buses and trains—started June 26.

Meanwhile, in Capetown, judgment was reserved today on an appeal by Sam Kahn, former Communist member of the House of Assembly, against arrest under the Suppression-of-Communism Act.

Kahn was deprived of his parliamentary seat under the act and later told to quit the Capetown city council and not to attend public meetings. He was arrested after attending a council meeting June 26.

Kahn's arguments were that a City Hall meeting was not a public meeting under the meaning of the act.

Windsor Suburb Without Police

LA SALLE (CP)—This Windsor suburb was completely without police protection today following the firing last night of the town's chief constable and the resignations of the remaining two constables.

Council fired Chief Constable C. G. Spink "effective immediately" because of an alleged neglect of his duty and failure to put in sufficient time on the job.

Constables Vincent Bergeron and Thyrl Baltzer announced their resignations when informed Chief Spink had been asked to resign.

Chief Spink charged that "the request for my resignation was the result of council politics and had nothing to do with my leadership of the police department.

"I find it absolutely impossible," he continued, "for a police officer to perform his duties effectively under present conditions with a council which is admittedly ignorant of police work constantly interfering in the department."

Lord Beaverbrook Melted Down To Make Way For Danny Kaye

By JACK GOLDING

LONDON (CP)—Lord Beaverbrook has been melted down—to make way for Danny Kaye.

This blood-curdling event took place at Madame Tussaud's famous waxworks on Baker street, and it didn't hurt a bit. For years the Canadian-born publisher had stood among statesmen and royalty, but the time came and he was thrown into the melting pot.

Reginald Eddes, publicity director for the waxworks, explained it this way:

MORE IN PUBLIC EYE

"We can handle only 500 figures in our establishment. Every now and then we have to replace the effigy of a living person with that of another, more in the public eye at the moment.

"Of course, there's no reflection on Lord Beaverbrook. He has been among the great for a long time. He probably got a kick out of being replaced by a comedian."

Other Canadians, more fortunate than Lord Beaverbrook, still hold places of honor at Mme. Tussaud's unique establishment, which continues to catch the customer's fancy at the rate of about 1,000,000 visitors a year. There's Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, grouped with Commonwealth statesmen. Lt.-Col. C. C. I. Merritt, Vancouver, a V.C. winner at Dieppe, is still among the select who have won the Commonwealth's top decoration for valor.

W. L. Mackenzie King, former Prime Minister, was removed shortly after his death. Figure-skater Barbara Ann Scott sits smiling with Louise Brough of tennis fame, her wax model attired in the costume she wore when she won the Olympic honors in 1948. Each time Barbara Ann visits London she drops in to see whether the garment needs replacing.

Stewart MacPherson of Winnipeg, perhaps the most popular Canadian ever to broadcast in Britain, is with a group of radio stars.

The famed Chamber of Horrors has no Canadian representation.

DISPLAY FOR CORONATION

Tussaud's now aims to have an up-to-date display for coronation year. New Commonwealth personalities are under discussion and it is likely one or more Canadians will be added to the Hall of Fame by 1953. The cashier at Tussaud's says this tourist season is bringing more Canadian dollars than ever before—a happy situation at a time when Canadian currency is stronger than American.

Mme. Tussaud brought her waxworks to London in 1835, having learned the craft from an uncle in Paris in the late 1700s. She personally did death masks of Marie Antoinette and Louis XVI. Today Bernard Tussaud, great-grandson of the founder, models nearly all the figures.

Among the newly infamous in the Chamber of Horrors is John George Haigh, the English killer who disposed of his victims in acid baths. A day before his death, Haigh bequeathed his clothes and his hair to Tussaud's.

With a characteristic touch, the impeccable killer left fastidious instructions that his hair was to be kept freshly combed, his trousers in a knife-edged crease and his shirt cuffs at just the required margin below the jacket sleeves.

Democratic Administration Said Shielding Traitors

CHICAGO — (AP).—Republicans today accused the present Democratic administration of corruption and of shielding "traitors to the nation in high places."

This blistering attack came in the long-awaited campaign platform handed to the Republican National Convention for expected approval during the day.

Attacks on the administration's "sordid record of corruption" overshadowed hard-fought compromises on the foreign-policy, national defence and civil-rights planks.

ONE ISSUE CONTROVERSIAL

Only the civil-rights plank — dealing with the touchy issues of racial discrimination — caused some fears of a possible floor fight.

In general, the related foreign-policy and defence planks had been approved in advance by Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the two top contenders for the Presidential nomination.

These planks belabored the Democrats on foreign policy, saying "they swing erratically from timid appeasement to reckless blunder."

The document promised that Republicans will seek "an honorable, just peace" that would even bring hope to those now imprisoned under Communist domination.

STRESS AIR POWER

On national defence, the Republican platform promised a quick build-up to "completely adequate air power," something Taft has stressed.

It balanced this, probably at suggestions from the Eisenhower camp, with a pledge for "simultaneous readiness of co-ordinated air, land and sea lanes, with all the necessary installations, bases, supplies and munitions, including atomic-energy weapons."

All through the 6,000-word platform, the Republicans promised to clean house in government, cut costs and reduce waste, overlapping and bureaucracy.

But the really bristling words came in the section titled "corruption."

"The present administration's sordid record of corruption has shocked and sickened the American people," it began. "Its leaders have forfeited any right to public faith by the way they transact the government's business."

CHARGES FRAUD, GRAFT

The platform said Republicans have exposed instances of "fraud, bribery, graft, favoritism and influence-peddling."

"There have been disclosures of close alliances between the present government and underworld characters," it said.

"Political favorites including even some gangsters and crooks" were treated leniently, the draft said, while honest taxpayers were harassed over minor discrepancies.

Another special plank on Communism said the Democrats had "permitted Communists and their fellow-travellers to serve in many key agencies and to infiltrate our American life."

"There are no Communists in the Republican Party," the platform stated.

The platform hit hard at "federal compulsory health insurance," as often urged by President Truman, saying it involved "crushing cost, wasteful inefficiency, bureaucratic deadweight, and debased standards of medical care."

Truman Delighted At Republican Split

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman viewed yesterday's Republican uproar in Chicago with obvious relish.

"They did all the quarreling they could," he said after viewing convention scenes on television at the White House.

Truman said one thing worried him: "It looks like my favorite candidate is going to get beat." The President often has called Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio his "favorite" candidate for the Republican presidential nomination because he believes he would be easiest to beat in November.

Bee To Clean Coldsprings Park

COLDSPRINGS —(ENS)—The Coldsprings Park Committee met Tuesday night at the hall. The chairman of the committee, Keith Harper, presided. Secretary-treasurer, Graydon McIntosh, reported a balance of $20 on hand.

It was planned to have a dance soon to raise funds. A bee will be held on July 17 to clean up the park, and build a bridge over the creek, so cars can drive into the park.

It was decided to hold a meeting each month. Harold West and Graydon McIntosh are to keep the grass cut in the park.

Members of the committee are: Keith Harper, chairman; Graydon McIntosh, secretary - treasurer; conveners, Mrs. Newton McIntosh, Carl Bowman, Clarence Brooks, Clifford Timlin, Harold West, Nixon Timlin and Everett Jamieson.

No Early Success Seen In Truce Talks

MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—Truce negotiators began their second year of meetings today—closer to a Korean armistice than a year ago, but still offering no hint of early success.

"Today is just another day," said Brig.-Gen. William P. Nuckols, United Nations spokesman, after a 40-minute secret session at Panmunjom.

It was the seventh session under a news blackout agreed to by both sides in an effort to resolve the final issue blocking an armistice—prisoner exchange. Another was set for tomorrow.

Drop In Rubber Prices Gives Malaya Big Financial Problem

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

A reminder of the savage fighting which is taking place in Malaya is contained in a letter from Roy Ferroa, Singapore newspaper man who visited Canada in 1949-50.

He enclosed a copy of a recent speech by Gen. S. Gerald Templer, High Commissioner of Malaya, to the Malayan Planting Industry Employers' Association.

Sir Gerald deals with the interdependence of the economic and military struggle.

HEAVY LOSS

On the economic side, he said the fall in the price of rubber indicates a reduction of some $60,000,000—Malayan—in the budget estimate of revenue from export duty alone. (The Malayan dollar is currently quoted at around 31 cents Canadian.)

Sir Gerald terms this a serious situation because, "with the acceleration of the pace of the campaign against the Communist terrorists, the government of the Federation of Malay is heavily committed to the expenditure of considerable sums."

To hold the economic front, he urged:

"We should lose no opportunity to explain to our friends in the United Kingdom, the United States and other countries the vital connection between the prosperity of the rubber industry in southeast Asia and the war against Communist imperialism.

"In seeking their goodwill and assistance, we should be able to satisfy them that we are doing everything that is reasonably possible, having regard to our difficulties, to make that industry efficient. I refer primarily to the necessity for promoting widespread schemes of replanting old rubber land with new, high-yielding trees."

FIGHTING SINCE '48

Of the fighting, Sir Gerald said:

"The people of the Federation have been fighting since 1948, when the Communists' initial attempt to work through the Communist trades union collapsed.

"Our enemy is the local armed terrorist organization known as the Malayan Communist party. . .

"The leaders and members of the Communist terrorist bands are almost entirely alien Chinese. Of 3,045 terrorists killed since 1948, 2,845 were Chinese. . .

"Today in the Federation one-third of the able-bodied male population are voluntarily giving their services, part or full time, in security forces, auxiliary police, home guards and similar organizations. This voluntary effort is a striking testimony to the falseness of the Communists' claims. . .

"Tropical jungle covers all but one-fifth of Malaya. From its dark and beastly depths armed terrorist gangs attempt to secure the assistance of the rural population by a ruthless campaign of murder and mutilation. The number of civilians wounded and murdered by these thugs, often in conditions of horrible brutality, exceeds 3,000, the vast majority being Chinese."

LITTLE SHARON HOOVER—of Sanford, Fla., knows only that two fawns are twice as cuddlesome as one. The keeper of the Sanford Zoo, where these twins were born, cals them rare — and doubly so, because their mother, Silky, gave birth to a similar set a year ago.

Canadian Navy Getting New Aircraft Carrier

OTTAWA (CP)—A new aircraft carrier designed to fit into the jet-aviation age is being built for the Royal Canadian Navy in a Belfast, Northern Ireland, shipyard.

She will cost more than $20,000,000 and is scheduled to replace the 18,000-ton Magnificent in the next two or three years. Her construction actually was started a few years ago for Britain and never completed.

The newcomer, yet unnamed, will be thoroughly modern and capable of handling jet aircraft with an important new British device nicknamed the "steam slingshot" which hurls them into action.

WILL OWN SHIP

One big difference will be that Canada will own her outright while she has had the Magnificent on a loan basis from Britain for several years. The Maggie was launched late in the war and commissioned in 1948.

Canada is buying the new carrier so she can incorporate in her certain American and Canadian developments which the R.C.N. would like to have for its small, four-squadron air arm. She will be heavy with radar and submarine-detecting gear. Canadian officers will go to Belfast to help supervise construction.

The new ship will be a so-called light carrier of about the same tonnage as the Magnificent. She will become the queen of the 100-ship navy Canada plans to have by 1954, a fleet consisting of two cruisers, 25 destroyers and escort vessels and other smaller craft.

Arrangements have been made to take the carrier over, thus closing one of the bigger arguments to rage in the higher ranks of the forces since the war. For a long time there was controversy over whether the navy should have a carrier at all since the Magnificent absorbed about 20 per cent of the whole navy budget.

Then there were charges that the Maggie was out-of-date, that she should go and not be replaced, that the air side of naval warfare should be left to the Air Force and to Canada's allies.

There were strong counter-attacks which said that ship losses in the last war showed conclusively that it was the aircraft carriers which turned the tide against the German submarines and that the carriers will be the kingpins in any new Battle of the Atlantic.

The carrier advocates won.

School Board Honors Principal

NORWOOD (ENS) —Following the regular board meeting of the Norwood High School, Monday, the board called in a body at the home of the retiring principal, S. S. Breckon and presented him with the following embossed address.

"To each of us must come the time when we leave our chosen profession and retire to a less active life.

"It is the unanimous opinion of the members of the board that the occasion of your reaching this milestone could not be passed by without some tangible mark of our appreciation of your long and faithful service.

"Please accept therefore this gift, its intrinsic value is far surpassed by the good wishes for a long, happy and well-earned retirement which accompany it."

Signed on behalf of the Norwood District High School
E. T. Buck, Chairman.

Mr. Breckon was also presented with a travelling case.

Mr. Breckon thanked the board for their gift and for past favors shown him through the years and hoped he'd live to make good use of the case.

Asst. Director Gets Break In Hollywood

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Where else but Hollywood would it be news when the boss' assistant takes over when the boss gets sick?

Paramount recently promoted an assistant director to director in such an instance. The news is looked upon as revolutionary in the trade, where such a jump can be compared only with the spot promotion of an army sergeant to commanding general.

The practice was common enough in the silent movies: such top men as Leo McCarey and John Ford started as assistant directors. But in recent years, most new directors came from but three sources—Broadway stage, writers and nephews of studio executives.

ALVIN ALGER

A fellow by the name of Alvin Ganzer is the current Horatio Alger hero of the assistant directors. Until a few days ago, he was the guy who yelled, "Quiet, everybody, we're rolling," on the picture "Pleasure Island." The director was playwright F. Hugh Herbert.

Herbert, also was writing a new play, readying a novel, and overseeing the production of "The Moon is Blue," collapsed from overwork.

Production boss Don Hartman and Herbert both felt that Ganzer was the man to complete the job and supervise the important editing and cutting.

Should the picture be a hit, it could mean that Ganzer is on his way toward the big money.

Sentenced In Korean's Death Canadian Soldier Released

OTTAWA (CP)—Pte. Glen Ronald Blank, 28, of Carman, Man., once sentenced to be hanged for the death of a Korean soldier, has been released from prison and restored to his previous status in the army, Defence Headquarters said yesterday.

His release from life imprisonment came after the court martial appeal board in a review of his case ruled that he be given a new trial or freed. He previously was convicted by court martial in Korea.

An army spokesman said a new trial is not considered feasible.

CAN LEAVE ARMY

Blank was released Tuesday in Winnipeg and now is free to decide whether he wants to leave the army he joined on the 18-month Special Force basis or apply to join the regular force.

A court martial in Korea found him guilty of murder in the death of a South Korean soldier named Ee Chong Sung on the night of March 13, 1951. The sentence was ccmmuted to life imprisonment by Brig. John M. Rockingham, then commanding the 25th brigade.

An army spokesman said Defence Headquarters considers a new trial unfeasible because it would be almost impossible to round up all the South Koreans and Canadians who testified at the original trial and concentrate them in some Canadian city.

Blank is the second to be released of three men charged as a result of the fatal incident. The other is Pte. Roy Davis of Vancouver, sentenced to 18 months for attempted rape and conduct to the prejudice of military discipline.

Army headquarters erased the rape charge on a review of the evidence and cut the sentence to four months which Davis had already served.

THIRD MAN APPEALS

The third man, Pte. Donald Michael Gibson of Ottawa, is appealing his 18-month sentence on charges of attempted murder and attempted rape.

Evidence at the courts martial indicated that the Korean soldier was killed in intervening when Canadian soldiers sought to enter a south Korean hut. A hand grenade was tossed into the hut during the incident.

Six miners were killed immediately by the searing blast which ripped along the 1,200-foot level of the big coal mine. One survivor, Herb Desmond, was severely injured and died Thursday night. It was the second major mine disaster in Nova Scotia in six months. Five and a half months ago 19 miners died in the McGregor Mine at Stellarton following an explosion.

Eisenhower Nominated First Ballot 614-502

Landslide Develops At End As Minnesota Throws 19 Votes Over To General

CHICAGO (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhhower today won the Republican presidential nomination. In a dramatic climax to a ding-dong fight with Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, Eisenhower crashed through to the Republican accolade on the first ballot. On the roll call, Eisenhower first received 595 votes to 502 for Taft. But before the vote could be announced, Minnesota threw to the general 19 votes it had first given to former Governor Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota. That put Eisenhower across with 614 votes. It took 604 to nominate. Texas and other states which had split their votes then began jumping. It was a landslide in the end. And this feuding, wrangling, 25th Republican national convention pulled itself together in a vociferous show of unit behind the general with a roaring demonstration around and around the big convention hall hard by the stockyards.

Representative B. Carroll Reece, southern campaign manager for Taft, said:

"Of course I'm going to support the nominee but I feel Eisenhower's managers should apologize to Senator Taft for their conspiracy to stigmatize him."

FLOOR IN UPROAR

The convention floor was in an uproar at that point as state after state rushed to toss its votes on the Eisenhower bandwagon.

Eisenhower himself was not in the hall. As custom dictates, he had waited at his hotel while the convention's rank and file decided who should lead their effort this year to break 20 years of Democratic national rule.

The balloting capped a week of manoeuvre in which Eisenhower's strategists won the opening skirmishes and exploited them to take the grand prize.

The turning point had its beginnings in the pre-convention preliminaries of last week.

UGLY ARGUMENTS

The long, ugly arguments over delegate contests—in which the words "steal," "thief," and even stronger were commonplace—had their effect on many delegates, if not on the Republican national committee.

This was made evident at the opening day of the convention—last Monday.

Taft came to Chicago confident and riding high. Through months of long, hard campaigning—mile after mile up and down and across the country—he was far out in front of Eisenhower in pledged delegates.

But on the opening day, the Eisenhower forces—with support from backers of candidates Governor Earl Warren of California and Stassen—whipped the Taft men 658 to 548 in a test vote on a rule regarding voting by contested Taft delegates from the south.

It was a licking from which Taft never recovered.

650 Planes Wreck Red Capital

U.N. Bombers Leave Army Headquarters, Factories In Flames

SEOUL, KoKrea (AP) —At least 650 planes from five Allied countries today wrecked the North Korean capital and smashed two other North Korean industrial centres in one of the most devastating raid of the Korean war. The United States Air Force said in mid-afternoon that the continuing raid "was well on the way to being the biggest air strike of the war." United Nations pilots reported they destroyed or damaged the Communists' army communications headquarters, three munitions factories and numerous other factories and supply and troop centres in Pyongyang, the capital.

The Red capital was left in flames and rubble, said AP correspondent Stan Carter after a flight over the target area.

OTHER CENTRES HIT

British, U.S., Australian, South African and South Korean planes from land and carrier bases also smashed Hwangju and Sariwon in western Korea, 25 and 35 miles south of Pyongyang. They are important centres on the rail line between Pyongyang and the battle front.

For weeks, Allied pilots had been dropping leaflets warning civilians of the impending raids, a United States Fifth Air Force spokesman said.

Bombs were dropped within a mile of a Red camp for U.N. war prisoners near Pyongyang, but pilots were instructed to be especially careful near this camp and four others.

The strike at least equalled the size of last month's bombings of North Korean hydro-electric plants.

Four hundred U.S. Air Force, Navy and Marine fighter bombers swarmed from land bases and from the U.S. aircraft carriers Princeton and Bon Homme Richard in a morning strike on Pyongyang. They were joined by planes from the British carrier H.M.S. Ocean.

SPY JAILED—William Martin Marshall, a pale, young British Foreign Office radio operator, was convicted Thursday of betraying official secrets to a Russian diplomat and sentenced to five years' imprisonment. Marshall, 24, could have been sentenced to 14 years but the 12-man jury recommended the "utmost leniency" on ground he had been "led astray" during the time he coded and uncoded Foreign Office messages to British Diplomats abroad.

Police Blockade House, Evict Widow

LAPEER, Mich. (AP)—A sheriff's raiding party, aided by a 60-man state police blockade, today evicted an angry and protesting widow from her long-embattled farm.

Returning to the scene where 39 days ago he was mauled by angry neighbors of the widow—Mrs. Elizabeth Stevens—Sheriff Clark Gregory led the force in the early-morning sortie.

The 20-car raiding party apparently caught the farmers—battlers in a 17-year-old insurance fight—by surprise.

Mrs. Stevens, sitting tensely in her living room, told the sheriff, "You leave this house. It is my home. This is my country and I am an American."

The forced eviction was the latest chapter in the bitter fight that followed the failure in 1933 of the Lapeer Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance Association.

Mrs. Stevens, 60, mother of nine children, lost title to the farm four years ago when she refused to pay a $172 assessment due to cover liabilities of the association.

Offer To Confer With Russia

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Western powers have submitted to Russia a Big-Four meeting proposal which United States officials believe will test the sincerity of Moscow's demands for a unified Germany. The proposal, delivered yesterday, calls for a meeting limited to the specific purpose of creating an impartial commission to determine whether free elections can be held throughout divided Germany. This was the one new feature in identical notes from Britain, the U.S. and France which represented the sixth round in a wordy diplomatic exchange going on since last March.

In the new proposals the West laid down once more the conditions that Russia must agree in advance that any general peace settlement be based first upon genuinely-free elections in the Soviet zone, and then to the creation of a free all-German government which would have a voice in framing the peace treaty.

ACCEPTANCE DOUBTED

Moscow thus far has sidestepped any such agreement. Many diplomatic authorities doubt the Kremlin will accept the latest terms.

But the western proposal left the way open for counter-proposals, and U.S. officials believe that in any event Soviet reaction will be useful in guiding public opinion here and in Western Europe.

The proposal, made after consultation with West Germany's Chancellor, Konrad Adenauer, will not delay ratification of the separate contractual relations agreement and the six-country European Defence Community treaty. Officials expect them to be ratified by the end of the year.

Big Troop Train Derailed 161 Russians Said Killed

BERLIN—(Reuters)—The West German news agency D.P.A. reported today that a Russian general and more than 160 soldiers were killed in a rail crash just beyond the Oder River in Polish-occupied territory last Wednesday. The agency quoted eyewitnesses for the report.

The agency said the train, carrying Soviet occupation forces in Germany on leave to the Soviet Union, was derailed at high speed and crashed down a steep embankment into a lake.

The scene of the crash was said to have been between Reppen and Bottschow, just east of the Oder-Neisse line near Frankfurt on Oder.

CREW ARRESTED

D.P.A. said unanimous reports of the disaster came from independent eyewitnesses interviewed in Berlin.

They said local authorities imposed a strict news blackout on the crash. The locomotive engineer and other train crew members as well as Polish rail men responsible for that part of the track, had been arrested on suspicion of sabotage.

Streets Flooded As Main Bursts

LONDON (Reuters)—A huge water main burst under a London street early today, sending up a gushing tower of water that wrecked three houses and flooded one-half mile of streets. One of the houses settled into a 20-foot crater hollowed out by the water.

An elderly woman occupant of one of the houses was rushed to hospital in serious condition.

Hundreds of houses in the neighborhood were soaked on the ground floor. Families were evacuated, many still in pajamas.

The torrent sweeping down the street was so powerful that escaping residents had to cling to fences and walls to make their way out. Rescuing firemen linked arms to form human chains.

Water works men finally got the water turned off and firemen began pumping out flooded areas.

Ask Dean Tried For Treason

LONDON (AP)—A suggestion that the Church of England's "Red" Dean be tried for treason came today as more angry British lawmakers demanded his ouster for accusing the United States of waging germ warfare in China.

Irene Ward, Conservative member of Parliament, charged the 78-year-old Dean of Canterbury—Dr. Hewlett Johnson—is "spreading enemy propaganda." She called on the government to "consider" prosecuting him.

As Miss Ward put her motion before the House of Commons, other members lined up behind less-drastic suggestions that means be found to remove the Dean from his church office.

Thirty-eight M.P.s have signed a petition demanding the Dean's dismissal. Lord Ammon, a Socialist, says he will ask the government Monday in the House of Lords whether legal action can be taken against the Dean.

Dr. Johnson, appointed in 1931, cannot be dismissed except for a civil or ecclesiastical offence.

Indian Envoy Offers P.O.W. Exchange Plan

LONDON (Reuters)—India's ambassador today discussed with the British government the chances of a solution to the prisoner-exchange deadlock in Korea, well-informed quarters said.

Informal contacts with the Peiping government through India are reliably understood to have been in progress for some weeks, though Britain has denied receiving any formal Indian offer of mediation.

Ambassador V.K. Krishna Menon today gave Selwyn Lloyd, British deputy foreign secretary, his impression of the latest Chinese standpoint in the truce talks, sources said.

Menon, who returned from a flying visit to New Delhi last Wednesday, is believed to have received a report on the latest Chinese views from the retiring Indian ambassador to Peiping, Sardar Pannikar.

Britain May Ask Envoy's Recall

LONDON (AP) — Britain may demand the recall of a Soviet diplomat who got official government secrets from a young Foreign Office radio operator.

A Foreign Office spokesman told a press conference that the case of Paval Kuznetsov, second secretary in the Soviet Embassy, is "being considered."

William Marshall, 24, a radio technician in the Foreign Office, was sentenced yesterday to five years for turning over secret information to Kuznetsov.

Kuznetsov was arrested with Marshall in a suburban park June 13, but went free after claiming diplomatic immunity. Moscow has lodged a formal protest over Kuznetsov's arrest, which Britain hasn't answered yet.

Bring In Outside Trucks To Handle Gravel Job

SMOOTH ROCK FALLS (CP) —Trucks from outside the district are to be brought here to take over a gravel-hauling job halted by a strike that started five days ago. The strikers are trying to enforce their demand that all trucking sub-contracts be restricted to district contractors. Some 172 drivers have refused to move their trucks from parking lots until all outside truckers have been taken off the job.

Don Vertolli, secretary-treasurer of the Klimack Construction Company of Kirkland Lake, said the company will bring in enough trucks from Timmins and Kirkland Lake to get the job going again. He said he has asked for Provincial Police escorts for the truck convoys as a result of threats by the strikers to block the highway with their vehicles.

The firm is engaged on a road-building project on Highway 11 a few miles east of this community 70 miles northwest of Timmins.

Seventh Mine Victim Dies

GLACE BAY N.S. (CP)—A seventh miner died last night as government and company officials began an investigation into the second worst disaster to hit this coal-mining town in 49 years.

Even as Herbert Desmond, 49, lay dying in hospital here, two other Nova Scotia miners were killed in common accidents that make mining man's most hazardous occupation.

Desmond was the only man who could have told exactly what happened Wednesday when his six companions were killed in an explosion in No. 20 colliery here.

GREATEST THREAT

Deadly "fire damp," the miner's greatest fear, is believed to have blasted the chamber some three miles under the Atlantic.

Company and union officials declined to say what caused the explosion but rescue workers indicated that a defective lamp carried by one of the victims ignited an accumulation of the gas.

Number 20 was closed 14 years ago for a 13-month safety program.

Rebels Ambush Train East Of Rangoon

RANGOON (Reuters)—More than 100 Burmese Communist rebels ambushed a passenger train today, killing one person and injuring seven, reports reaching here said.

They pounced near Moulmein, about 150 miles east of Rangoon.

A rebel attempt to loot a freight train near Thazi, 300 miles north of here, was foiled when the train turned out to be carrying an armed patrol. Three rebels and two of the patrol were killed.

Thirsting city dwellers clashed today trying to get water in Rangoon where the supply has been cut off since rebels blew up the pipeline three days ago. A dock worker was stabbed to death and a woman was assaulted by two men.

Order Investigation Into 2 Jail Deaths

TORONTO (CP)—An investigation is being made into the second death within two days at the Ontario reformatory in suburban Mimico, chief coroner Smirle Lawson said today.

Dr. Lawson said that an autopsy and inquest will be held to clear up the death of Fred Wood, 63, of Toronto, who died early today. Wood was serving six months for false pretences.

The other inquest will be into the death Wednesday of Mathew Leeson, 53, also of Toronto, who was serving 30 days for being drunk.

Three Convicts Nearly Suffocate In Barrels

MCALESTER, Okla. (AP) — Three convicts almost suffocated yesterday when they sealed themselves in soap barrels in a desperate attempt to escape from the Oklahoma state penitentiary.

The barrels were scheduled for shipment outside the walls.

The trio stayed in the barrels nearly two hours while a trucker jostled them around the prison grounds picking up canned goods for a shipment.

Finally, one cut a hole in the side of his barrel to get some air. A guard noticed his hair showing through and discovered the escape attempt.

30 More Rebels Break Away From De Gaullist Party

PARIS (Reuters)—A group of 30 rebel Gaullist deputies in the national assembly today formed a new break-away parliamentary party called "The Independent Group for Republican and Social Action."

Altogether 32 deputies have resigned from Gen. Charles de Gaulle's Rassemblement du Peuple Francais. But two announced they will sit as independent members.

Gaullist strength in the National Assembly has slumped to 86 deputies from the 118 elected at the last general elections in June 1951.

After being the strongest single party in the National Assembly, the Gaullists now rank behind the Socialists (106 deputies), Communists (100), Moderate Conservatives (100), and Popular Republicans (88).

MAY JOIN REBELS

About 13 of the 56 Gaullist members of the Council of the Republic, the upper house, are expected to join forces with the rebels in the National Assembly.

A statement issued by the organizers of the new party said they are not planning to abandon the program and ideas which they put forward to their electors last year.

They added that they rejected the new voting discipline agreed on at the Gaullist national council session last week end, obliging them to vote in Parliament as directed by expulsion. They refused to submit to the council which they claimed had not been properly elected.

Head of the new party is Edmond Barrachin, a leading Paris deputy.

$50,000 Flood At Hospital

STRATFORD (CP)—A break in the main water line at 5 a.m. flooded an estimated $50,000 worth of equipment in Stratford General Hospital yesterday.

Electric lights, elevators and main power lines failed when flood waters reached a level of about 6½ feet in the 36-foot-long equipment room.

Meals had to be prepared in the nearby old hospital on gas and coal-fed burners, taken through a tunnel to the new hospital and relayed by nurses up the stairs to each floor.

Free 20 Reds After Big Brawl

BERLIN (AP)—West Berlin police today scolded, then released 20 men seized as trouble-makers last night during a West Berlin anti-Communist rally that turned into a riot.

The police said they were certain the men were Red hecklers who fanned the crowd of 25,000 into a rage that died down only after 30 minutes of milling and swirling chaos. They added, however, that there was not enough evidence to hold them.

Four Communists beaten by the crowd were reported in a serious condition in a West Berlin hospital. Police extricated the men from the brawling crowd and probably saved their lives.

The West Berliners were so angry they turned on the police, pummelled three of them and stripped one nude.

The crowd had gathered to protest recent Communist terror tactics.

Principal Conference Topic

UK Heavy Dollar Deficit To Be Discussed

LONDON (CP) — Britain's "heavy" dollar deficit with Canada is likely to be one of the principal topics discussed when Commonwealth finance ministers meet again in London, it was suggested today.

Although no date has been set, a Commonwealth finance conference is expected to be held here in the fall.

Commenting on the conference, the Daily Telegraph says today that Britain in recent months has made some progress in bridging the dollar gap with the United States, but that the balance with Canada has proved "peculiarly intractable."

EXPRESSES CONCERN

"Substantial reductions in imports, especially wheat, are hard to obtain, and an expansion in exports is proving equally slow," the Daily Telegraph says in a financial-page story.

The current issue of Lloyd's Bank Review, a journal devoted to financial affairs, also expresses concern at Britain's slice of the Canadian import market. The article, by Prof. Ely Devons of Manchester University, analyzes export trends over the last 15 years and says: "The fall in the share of Canadian imports supplied by the United Kingdom is particularly serious, because Canada is one of the most rapidly-expanding markets of the world."

The proportion of total Canadian imports supplied by Britain in 1951, says the article, was only 10.3 per cent compared with an average of 18.3 per cent in 1937-39. And while Britain's share of the Canadian market was dwindling there was a corresponding increase in the U. S. share.

SINGLES OUT CANADA

At another point, Professor Devons singles out Canada as the most striking example of countries which now take fewer United Kingdom cotton goods.

"Before the war the U. K. supplied over one-half of Canada's imports of cotton piece goods and the U S. less than one-third. Since 1948 the U. S. had supplied three-quarters of a much-increased Canadian import trade, while imports from the U. K. now are (1951) only six per cent of the total."

Professor Devons says it is difficult to detect to what extent the decline can be traced to the inability of British exporters to deliver cotton goods of the right style and quality.

Rail Talks Stalled, Ask Conciliation

Unable To Agree Request Gregg Assign Officer Help

MONTREAL — (CP)—Railroads and unions negotiating a new wage contract announced today they have been unable to agree and have asked for the service of a federal conciliation officer.

A joint statement said Labor Minister Gregg has been requested "to make available the services of a conciliating officer to assist the parties in continued efforts to reach a settlement."

The negotiations, under way here since last Monday, are between Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways and 17 unions representing 125,000 non-operating railway employees.

The unions have asked for a 45-cent-an-hour wage boost and a cost-of-living bonus of one cent an hour for every one-per-cent rise in the official cost of living index. They also want the union shop and a compulsory check-off of union dues.

Price Movements Split On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO (CP)—Price movements split today in early afternoon stock market dealings. Industrials drifted steadily lower while golds led base metals and oils upward.

Foods and constructions led industrials' retreat while papers, utilities, steels and liquors also slipped. Banks, textiles and manufacturing companies showed strength and refining oils and retail stores turned upward.

Spotty activity produced features in golds, metals and oils. East Malartic, a gold prospect, was a standout as it jumped about 25 cents in a turnover of 75,000 shares. Industrial trading remained in selected leading issues. Volume for the first three hours totalled 1,208,000 shares.

Western oils posted a slim majority of moderate gains. Calvan Consolidated, Canada Southern, Del Rio, Dome Explorations and Pacific Petroleum traded higher.

Base metals were firm as Consolidated Smelters, Falconbridge, Coldstream Copper, United Keno Hill and Estella traded higher. Barvue and Eastern Metals eased.

Senior golds were mixed in quiet trading. Junior producers, particularly leading issues were strong. Prospects and holding companies slipped.

Put Barricades Around Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — West Berlin workmen erected barricades on the Soviet-zone border yesterday to help check kidnappings by Communists. Roadblocks were raised at dozens of junctions.

British, American and French teams joined the city government's supervisors to make sure the workmen stayed in their own territory and avoided incidents with armed Communist police.

The decision by Mayor Ernst Reuter's cabinet to put up the barricades was approved by Allied authorities.

The abduction Tuesday of Dr. Walter Linse, 48, an anti-Communist lawyer, from the American sector led the West Berlin government to order the barricading of streets that lead into the Communist-ruled countryside.

Lovesick Flier Kills Nurse, Two Guards

HOUSTON, Texas (AP)—A lovesick flyer killed a pretty student nurse and two hospital guards who came to her aid last night, then sent a bullet into his own brain.

The outburst of gunfire at the Memorial hospital nurses' home took the lives of Carroll Cooper, 24; Robert Peterson, 64, a guard; J. C. Fair, 69, also a guard, and Capt. Renard Haywood, 34.

The shooting started when Haywood appeared on the second floor of the nurses' home. Men visitors are not allowed there. He made his way in by threatening a hostess downstairs with a pistol, witnesses said.

Nurses told reporters that Miss Cooper refused several months ago to see Haywood any more.

Ontario Cheese Men Guaranteed 30 Cents

TORONTO (CP). — Ontario cheese producers will be guaranteed 30 cents a pound under an agreement entered into by the Federal and Provincial governments yesterday. Agriculture Minister Kennedy said the Ontario government will grant a subsidy of six cents a pound while the Federal government has agreed to pay 24 cents.

With the loss of the British contract, Ontario feared a surplus of more than 15,000,000 pounds.

Earlier minimum prices this year were 27 and 28 cents. It was only through a close vote, that the 300 cheese factories approved the blanket contract between Ottawa and the Ontario Cheese Producers Marketing Board.

The provincial total production was 85,000,000 pounds last year, of which Britain took 25,000,000, and a like amount was consumed here.

Police Cruisers Catch Truck In 80 MPH Race

TORONTO — A truck which avoided two roadblocks was forced from the highway in North York Thursday night by two police cruisers after an 80 m.p.h. chase along Dufferin St.

The driver surrendered with hands in the air when two O.P.P. constables armed with a shotgun and revolver approached.

Charged with the theft of scrap iron from a Woodbridge plant was John Dempsey.

Police were warned to be on the lookout for the truck after a theft was reported from the Robinson Cotton Mills in Woodbridge. Three men were said to be in the truck.

SIGHT TRUCK

A police cruiser sighted the truck speeding east along No. 7 Highway. Other officers established a roadblock at the intersection of Nos. 7 and 11 Highways. The truck, however turned south on Dufferin St. A radio call ordered another roadblock set up.

The truck stopped and two men jumped out. The driver then turned around and started north on Dufferin St., passing two O.P.P. cruisers coming south.

Both cruisers turned around and took after the truck. Speeding at 80 m.p.h., the driver weaved the truck from side to side, preventing either cruiser from cutting him off.

One cruiser finally pulled up beside the truck and forced it off the road near the intersection of No. 7 Highway and No. 11 Highway. The chase lasted 35 minutes.

Bobby Locke Wins Tourney

ST. ANNE'S ON SEA, England (AP). — Big Bobby Locke of South Africa burst from behind in the final round today to win his third British open golf championship.

Locke, who had been see-sawing within range of the lead throughout the last two days of play, turned in a trim 73 in the payoff round of 18 holes. This gave him an aggregate score of 287 for the crucial 72 holes, two strokes better than Irishman Fred Daly's total.

Bobby, who won the open crown in 1949 and 1950, overcame Daly after the first nine in the afternoon round as the field of 46 played in rain and wind.

Daly, the winner of the 1947 title, got a poor 77 before lunch, while the favored Locke was closing in with a 74 to trim the pacesetter's lead to one stroke.

As the four remaining Americans were far behind, Daly led with a 213 after 18 holes this morning. But he notched a 76 on the afternoon tour, and finished with a 289.

175 Laid Off At Oshawa Plant

OSHAWA (CP)—General Motors of Canada today announced the lay-off of 175 more workers and warned there might be a complete plant close down when vacation period ends Aug. 11 unless there is a break in the United States steel strike.

Today's lay offs bring to more than 1,000 the number of men put out of work. Some 900 men were released when the truck line closed last week. Men released today were employed in the parts-packing and the army truck assembly line departments.

Officials said they hoped to continue operation on a day-to-day basis until the annual vacation shut down July 28.

JETS PROTECT RAIDERS

More than 100 U.S. and Australian jet fighters patrolled the area from Pyongyang north to the Manchurian border to protect the raiders from Red fighters. A few Russian-built MIGS from Manchurian bases exchanged fire with the Sabres. One MIG was reported damaged. Allied losses, if any, are reported once a week.

The strikes were doubtless a continuation of the Allied effort to use airpower to prod reluctant Communist armistice negotiators at Panmunjom into a more pliable attitude.

On the ground, U.N. infantrymen and tanks stormed over four western Korean hills Thursday, then withdrew to their own lines.

The Allied raiders occupied three of the hills northwest of Chorwon without a fight. They killed 79 Communists and wounded 29 in a bitter, one-hour battle for the fourth, the U.S. Eighth Army reported.

Ghost Train

It was all the fault of a mysterious train, said a man when he arrived somewhat late for work today. The downtown worker, who lives near the C.P.R. station, was wakened by a train in the early morning hours. He looked at his clock and decided that it was an hour ahead, because the Montreal train must be the one that passes through the city about 5.35 a.m. He set his clock back an hour, but found when he got up in the morning he was an hour behind schedule. "I wonder what train that was?" he pondered.

Divert Iron Ore To Canada From U.S. Mills

TORONTO (CP)—Diversion of Canadian ore shipments from strike-bound United States plants to steel mills in Canada was proposed today by C. H. Millard, national director of the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.).

He said in a letter to K. S. Harris, director of steel division in the Defence Department, the union is concerned about Mr. Harris' recent announcement that iron ore stockpiles in Canada are being depleted and that steel production next winter may be affected.

Toward the end of the Great Lakes shipping season, also, competition between iron ore and wheat for shipping space would become severe.

"We are producing thousands of tons of iron ore at Steep Rock," Mr. Millard said. "As you know, an American selling company takes all this production; the ore is shipped to American ports or stockpiled for the use of American steel companies. The Steep Rock operation is not affected by the strike in the U.S. Our members at this mine and at other Canadian iron ore mines are still working.

"We ask you, therefore, to order the diversion of iron ore mined in Canada from American plants (now idle) to Canadian plants. The Canadian public spent many millions of dollars to make the Steep Rock operation possible. Its production should now be used to maintain employment in Canada."

Out of that breach in his strategic lines trickled not only delegates from Louisiana, Texas and Georgia he had counted on; it cost him, too, many votes among uncommitted delegates who concluded from this initial muscle feeling that Ike would come home the winner.

BIG MOMENT

For Eisenhower, the Republican party's tap to its leadership is another big moment of a packed decade in the life of a one-time Kansas farm boy, now reached 61.

Little more than 10 years ago, when, as the march of Second World War was sweeping toward the U. S., Ike was an army lieutenant-colonel, unknown nationally.

The swift years since have seen him direct the Allied drive that defeated Germany and Italy, head Columbia University, and finally command the armies being built in partnership with European allies to defend against the threat of Communist aggression.

He gave up that command and returned home only last June for a fast-moving campaign that finally overtook Taft.

BITTER DEFEAT

For Taft, the defeat is a bitter end to his third real try for the nomination.

Now 62, he has said he would not try again—and so with this decision here his dream of following his father, President William Howard Taft, to the White House is destroyed.

Bob Taft was already a power in the Senate when Eisenhower was just one of many younger officers in the army.

Taft's name went as a favorite son before the 1936 Republican convention.

He sought the nomination in 1940, and was licked to the roaring calls of "We want Willkie."

In 1944, he stepped aside so another Ohioan, John W. Bricker, could have his chance. Bricker was beaten by Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York but took second place on the ticket.

The Republicans went down to defeat.
ond place on the ticket.

The Republicans went down to defeat.

MADE ANOTHER EFFORT

Taft made another effort for the nomination four years ago.

Dewey whipped him.

And it was Dewey, sitting in the strategy councils of Eisenhower backers, who had much to do with Eisenhower's final victory.

For the Taft forces, Dewey was the villain of this whole drama.

Their feeling toward him welled up in repeated boos when his name was mentioned in this hall.

It was demonstrated in handbills attacking Dewey as a man who twice took the Republicans to defeat and was now pulling the strings for Eisenhower.

CALLS ON TAFT

One of Eisenhower's first tasks as the nominee will be to try to patch things up with the Taft forces.

The bitterness ran deep. But within minutes after his convention victory, Eisenhower called on Taft at the Ohio Senator's downtown hotel.

Even in the nominating speeches, as this convention moved to its climax, there were repeated warnings from Republican stalwarts that the Republican legions must close ranks if they hope to win in November.

Moreover, whoever is elected president will have to reckon with Taft. The Ohioan still will be in the Senate, sitting athwart Republican legislative policy.

At the 11:30 a.m. EDT hour that the convention was scheduled to pen its climactic session, Taft held a press conference and said: "I have no doubt of the nomination and of the presidency in November."

RELEASES SIX

But soon afterward Stassen announced that he was releasing six of the 24 Minnesota delegates pledged to him.

Those six were released at their own request—and were plumping to Eisenhower.

That showed how things were going.

Stassen was pretty unhappy about it. There were tears in his eyes when he left a conference with the Minnesota delegation. He insisted he would stay in the race.

Taft's backers claimed he had 530 votes. If so, the 70-plus held by Warren and those remaining to Stassen were sufficient to stop Eisenhower.

There seemed little doubt that the Eisenhower legions would overrun these blockades. The General's chief strategists claimed up to 585 votes toward the 604 needed for the nomination.

As zero hour approached, Eisenhower gained a block of 28 votes at a Michigan caucus, which also gave Taft four more ballots for a total of 12 from that state. Eisenhower's Michigan total jumped from six to 34 after National Committeeman Arthur E. Summerfield announced he was swinging aboard the General's bandwagon.

But Taft was flanked by allies-for-the-hour in Governor Earl Warren of California, with 76 votes, and former Governor Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, captain of 25 delegates. Both are themselves nominees. If the first Eisenhower attack falls short, these allies felt they might be able to regroup and force a deadlock from which one of their number might emerge with the nomination.

It was evident that Warren and Stassen believe Taft's chances for the nomination are not good, but that he could provide the main strength now for a deadlock from which they could benefit.

Eisenhower's leaders were confident that if the first wave faltered, it would have smashed enough opposition to put him over on the second or third ballot.

BOTH CONFIDENT

Both major candidates were outwardly confident of victory as the voting neared.

Eisenhower left his victory statements to his campaign managers. Said Governor Sherman Adams of New Hampshire, Eisenhower's floor manager:

"It's Ike on the first ballot—as easy as that."

Taft said simply: "I will win the nomination."

Idaho's Governor Len Jordan, a Taft rooter, said it isn't beyond the bounds of possibility that Taft might support some other candidate besides Eisenhower if the Ohioan finds he can't win himself.

This was an obvious reference to talk that Gen. Douglas MacArthur might jump into the race if Taft fades. MacArthur's name was the last one placed in nomination early this morning.

TO ATTACK DEWEY

The last-hour strategy of the Taft camp was to attack the Eisenhower forces on the flank by setting up Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York as a sort of Machiavelli for the General and attacking him.

Dewey announced that New York would cast 92 votes for Eisenhower on the first ballot, and four for Taft.

The bitterness that has torn the party slackened not one bit as the final hour came for closing ranks behind a party leader. Taft headquarters distributed throwaways proclaiming: "End Dewey's control of our party—eight years of Deweyism and defeat."

The sheets described the New York Governor, the Party's 1944 and 1948 Presidential nominee, as "the most cold-blooded, ruthless, selfish political boss in the United States today."

With Michigan's votes finally laid on the line, the Associated Press scoreboard showed these standings before the balloting began:

IKE LEADS

Eisenhower 554; Taft 495; Others 110; uncommitted 47. A total of 604 is needed to nominate.

Eisenhower picked up four votes in the 38-vote New Jersey delegation as Taft lost one there. A new poll showed Taft with six votes in Arkansas, Eisenhower four and MacArthur one on the first ballot.

Governor Theodore McKeldin of Maryland predicted all of Maryland's 24 votes would go for Eisenhower. Previously the delegation had been 15 for Eisenhower, nine for Taft.

In nominating Eisenhower, McKeldin told the convention the General is a man with "a genius for victory" who can "sweep the stench and stigma from the Augean stables of the Washington administration."

Senator Everett Dirksen of Illinois presented Taft as a "defender of the Republican faith, a leader seasoned and ripened, a man of courage, a fighter, a great American."

"I can name no man less beset by fear, who would with confidence and determination face up to Stalin or any other dark prince of evil in the world," Dirksen declared.

While the delegates were shouting themselves hoarse, leaders began paying some attention for the first time to the selection of a vice-Presidential candidate. That nomination will come after the Presidential candidate has been chosen.

Top leaders for both Eisenhower and Taft continued to deny that they had made any decision. It was obvious, however, that the big 70-vote California delegation behind Warren was the object of the affections of the affections of all the other candidates.

Thrill Parties Start Youngsters On Drug Habit

VANCOUVER (CP) — A grim campaign has opened here to curb the narcotics menace.

Disclosures that teen-agers are seeking new thrills from narcotics brought federal, provincial and civic agencies into the campaign against drug peddlers here.

The lead came when police discovered two young girls, one 15 years old and the other 16, in a state of collapse in a downtown block. That was 11 days ago.

Sixteen men and women, some charged as "sellers" and others as contributing to juvenile delinquency, have been arrested.

Twenty juveniles have been interrogated by police, who learned of "thrill parties" where the youngsters took their first "shots."

For years, Vancouver has been known as the biggest narcotics centre in Canada.

Police files contain the names of at least 2,000 men and women who are either users or peddlers of drugs. Daily sale from street-corner peddlers has been estimated to top $30,000.

Find Police Chief An Amnesia Victim

WINDSOR (CP)—Police Chief Allan Armitage of Arthur, Ont., missing since last week, was found today in a Windsor hospital, police said.

He was being treated for amnesia brought on by war wounds to the spine, they said.

The missing man was traced through the licence number of his automobile. He left it for repairs at a Windsor service station and an attendant called police when he did not return. A check disclosed he was admitted to Metropolitan hospital.

He was appointed police chief at Arthur, about 25 miles northwest of Guelph, last March. Several weeks ago he was attacked by two thugs and later taken to hospital in Guelph for treatment. The thugs have not yet been found.

Mrs. Armitage said today she last heard from her husband Tuesday when he phoned from Windsor and said he was leaving immediately for home.

Yesterday she called Windsor police to report he had not returned.

The father of a small daughter, Chief Armitage succeeded William Tyndall who died from a heart attack suffered after he broke up a street fight in Arthur.

R. A. Blyth has done a great deal of work in the city and county, and elsewhere in this district. Peter Mohan has also done sewer work for this city.

City Engineer Chalmers said today that the contract was not for new work in any specific area such as the Queen Elizabeth housing subdivision.

Ballot Agony In B.C.

A month ago tomorrow, on Thursday, June 12th, voters in British Columbia went to the polls to elect a new legislature and thereby a government. Today, more than four weeks later, the returns from that election are not known and the Province still has no responsible government. The most decisive result of the election—the only decisive result so far—is a proof that the new system of vote-counting is no good.

* * *

The ordinary method used in most provinces and most countries, the single not-transferrable ballot, may be a rough method, but it is ready. The returns can be tabulated in a few hours and the results of the election known within a day, or as soon as the farthest outposts are heard from. A party knows very quickly where it stands, and the province has a new government immediately. There is no two-month hiatus while returning officers lick pencils and add up votes in half a dozen different ways half a dozen times, and the province is leaderless. In theory Premier Byron Johnson is still Premier, but he has no party majority behind him or ahead of him. He has not even been re-elected in his own riding. There is not a single major executive step he can take. For practical purposes he and his government have ceased to direct. Yet no one can take office from him until the votes are all analyzed and re-analyzed according to the alternate vote system, and a government declared.

* * *

The system is fair in theory. Under the old, and usual way, it often happens that a party elected to power has secured less than half the total votes (as the Conservatives did in Britain at the last general election). It is therefore not representative of the majority of the voters. Sometimes a defeated party has secured more of the total vote than the successful party, and yet has no share in the government at all. So its supporters—the majority of voters in the country—have completely lost their votes. Under the B.C. alternate vote, where the voters give a second as well as first choice, a majority of the electors are ensured that their votes have not been lost. But what they may get is their second choice, not the candidate they really wanted for member. This method, summed up province-wide, means that the Province gets a government which is representative of the wishes of the majority; but it may be of their second-best wishes—and therefore, possibly a second-rate compromise government.

* * *

One result of tinkering with the simple method of the single ballot in order to get some kind of proportionate representation is being revealed now in British Columbia. A minority government is elected. Not only is it supported by members who were second-choice candidates; it is itself the result of so much choosiness that it does not command a majority of the seats in the legislature. Whether the Social Credit party forms the new B.C. Government, (as now seems likely) or the C.C.F. does, neither will have legislative strength. It will have to depend on the whims of another party for support on each measure it sponsors.

* * *

When the returns are all analysed, we expect to hear one party after another condemn the new system, for the reason that, if this sort of balloting and ballot-counting is continued and extended, it will mean the death of political parties. Rarely will one party be able to get an over-all majority in the legislature. The party taking power will have to depend on another party, or members of another party, for support. Eventually, the individual members of the Legislature, and not the parties and party policies they sit for, will become decisive. And so we would get a legislature like that of France—where political parties wane between elections and the members vote as they see fit, supporting one and then another government. Moreover, we would get governments as unstable and changeable as that of France. Perhaps all this would be a very good thing for the political life and democratic action of Canada; but it would end the party system as we now know it.

* * *

It is significant of this threat to party power that the C.C.F., favouring at one opportune time or another some system of proportionate representation, has now angrily condemned the system. It would certainly have formed the government if the single vote had been the determiner. Likewise it is significant that the party emerging strongest in B.C.—Social Credit—has no fully organized party in the province—not even a leader. It had no member in the last B.C. legislature. The new B.C. system has twisted the necks of all the established B.C. parties—Liberal, Conservative, C.C.F.—and is creating a government without a party, or of a party with a label but no form.

International Incident In Peterborough

Tourists of every nationality and wherever they may be travelling grow footsore and out of temper on hot days; and they have days when everything and everybody annoys them. The American tourist who wrote to this newspaper on Wednesday must have had such a day. We cannot believe that everything in town was really as bad as he said. However, something got his goat and he let his indignation sour into spite and malice. As letters in today's correspondence column show, his remarks have riled some Peterborough folk — and they do not take second place to him in venting their spleen. Perhaps the cooler weather yesterday and the rain will have eased tempers all around, and the international incident will not lead to a shooting war after all.

American tourists in many parts of Canada are complaining this year about prices, service and inconveniences they allege to encounter. There are instances of tourists being gouged and peevishly served. The Montreal Gazette reports that American tourists are complaining about the high rates in Montreal hotels, tourist homes and motels, and of being asked to pay (but not giving the price) twelve to fourteen dollars a day for a room. We hope that overcharging is an exception rather than rule in dealing with tourists; and we guess that the reason for the more numerous complaints this year is the sensitivity of the American to his dollar bill, now worth about 95 cents in Canadian money.

This is a very touchy subject, for Americans have a profound, almost instinctive belief in the efficacy and supremacy of their money. They are as proud of their dollar's strength and universality as Britons were of their pound before 1914. To have it questioned and even held in mild disrepute by their Canadian neighbors shocks them. Since the American dollar is now at a discount in Canada it is more important than ever that Canadians catering to tourists give them their full money's worth (at the discount price) in goods and services. And we should be careful not to touch them on their sore spot.

If Americans are touchy about their dollars, Canadians are touchy about everything Canadian. No important people in the world is as nationally sensitive as Canadians. The mildest form of criticism from outsiders puts our backs up, or bitterly dismays us. We are as touchy as adolescents who grow red in the face, squirm or put up their fists when somebody tries to tell them what may be an unpleasant truth about themselves. This national sensitivity is a phase of growing up, but Canada has more of it than other countries because she is so big and growing so fast, and has so long been dominated by adults — the United States and Britain. Is this thin skin of ours not also a sign of unsureness of national character, a lack of poise; tell-tale evidence that we do not feel as big and important as we make out? Like an adolescent, our character is not fully formed; our legs and arms flap and our hair won't stay combed when there are important elders about. Our pimples show.

Noise In The Night

In warm nights when the windows are all open the sounds of the world come into the house very clearly, too clearly. We are not talking about bird tweets at dawn or bat squeaks at midnight or zephyrs playing among leafy trees. We are talking about trucks thundering through the city at horrendous speeds, all cylinders pounding, tires shrieking, and loads groaning, at the dead of night. Dead of night?? One cannot call the sort of night people get in the vicinity of Lansdowne Street or north Water Street dead; it is alive with demons, like Hell.

Because the road is pretty clear after midnight, transports barely recognize that the highway has become a city street with houses on both sides, and people therein with the right of peaceful enjoyment of their houses and beds. The thunder from Lansdowne Street can be heard as far away as Townsend. These highway avenues through the city should be better policed at night, so that twenty-ton trucks do not travel at forty or fifty miles an hour and do all but wake the dead with their noise.

While we are on the subject of street noises, we might mention the motor-bikes which whizz down Park Street with their mufflers off; the cars that race at two in the morning; the empty buses roaring home to the Hunter Street East garages after the day's run is ended — like horses heading for their oats, only ten times more noisily; the din on Water Street north every evening, all night long as tourists, commuters and truck drivers step on the gas even before they get to the last stop light. Is the only way to quell these raucous night noises to organize a battalion of insomniacs, arm them with tacks, and set them loose on those streets which are thoroughfares for night-flyers on wheels?

THE AMERICAN SCENE

A Calf For The Parson

By KENNETH HARRIS

THERE HAS NOW been a settlement of the remarkable case in which an American clergyman threatened to confiscate a city of sixty thousand people unless they presented him with a fatted calf.

The clergyman won. The Reverend Walden Pell II is headmaster of a boys' school which has a dairy and a herd of cattle. Needing extra calves, and not wanting to pay for them unless absolutely unavoidable, the Rev. Pell wrote to the Mayor of New Rochelle, a city in the State of New York, and pointed out that the land on which the city stands was sold to it in 1688 by the original American Pell in return for a cash payment and an agreement that once a year the city would provide the Pells with "a fatte calfe."

The Mayor at first ignored all this; but on repeated inquiries and threats being received from the Rev. Pell, he decided he had better go into the matter. He found that no Pell had been paid "a fatte calfe" for one hundred years and informed Mr. Pell of that fact. That, countered the Rev. Pell, was an excellent reason why the Pells' living representative should start receiving a "fatte calfe" with a minimum of delay.

THE MAYOR still demurred. He disliked the idea of resuming payments in case he was asked for a century's arrears of fatte calves; and what was more he did not want to start handing out calves to one Pell when there might be a whole battalion of Pells round the corner who would start cashing in. But the Rev. Pell began to show his mettle! He sent for lawyers and started talking to the Press. "If they want to risk having their city confiscated, that's up to them," he said tolerantly. "But at present they don't really own the place, and that is that."

The Mayor attempted to hand over the business to the City Manager—whose office corresponds to that of a British town clerk. After some thought, the City Manager told the Mayor that he found himself unable to give away City Assets. Moreover, as Corporation Counsel he felt Pell had no legal claim; and as Director of Public Safety he had to forbid anybody leading a fatte (or thynne) calfe through the city streets.

Warned that Pell was going to fight to the last ditch the Mayor went out and bought a calf with his own money. To make sure it is fatte enough he is having it fattened on the farm of Mr. Gene Tunney, the ex-heavyweight champion of the world, a near neighbour.

Mr. Pell is delighted, the mayor is relieved, the sixty thousand residents of La Rochelle are free of the shadow of annexation, and the calfe is having the tyme of its life.

POOR OLD DR. GALLUP, inventor of the Gallup public opinion polls. In the last Presidential election year—1948—he was bitterly criticized after the election. Now they have started in on him months before the elections have been held.

In 1948, Dr. Gallup became unpopular after he had predicted that Mr. Dewey and the Republicans would win the election, it was won by President Truman. Now, Senator Taft is sailing into him because his polls say that the Republicans will win the election if Eisenhower is their candidate, whereas they will lose it if it is Senator Taft. "This is nothing but straight propaganda," says Taft. As ever, the Doctor makes no comment. He just goes on taking polls.

WHEN A BRITISH LADY who drives a British motor-car pulled up at a garage in the South a few weeks ago for petrol, a big American car immediately pulled up alongside her. A bald-headed perspiring man leaned out and said very pleasantly, "Lady, that sure is some automobile you're driving! I've been trying to get up to you for fifty-six miles, and I guess I wouldn't have managed it if you hadn't pulled in."

She was delighted. "Well, I'm very glad to hear it," she said. "We want you Americans to admire British cars, because the more you buy, the more dollars we'll be able to make."

"Well, lady," he said. "I guess my admiration's gonna cost you a few dollars. I'm a state traffic cop and you've been speeding." Thereupon he gave her a "ticket" for twenty-five dollars.

✧ ✧ ✧

THOUGH THE WEATHER STATIONS in New York record lower temperatures by five or six degrees than those in Washington, New York always seem to me to be the hotter of the two places, probably because some kind of breeze usually manages to struggle through Washington's open city, whereas New York's high streets form canyons and caverns in which the air will not move an inch. Last week, a New York taxi driver managed to fry an egg on the metal roof of his cab, but several attempts in Washington failed.

Apart from the intense discomfort of the heat, New York has been in real danger owing to the citizens' excessive consumption of water—fifty per cent above normal. Not only does this make it difficult for the firemen to put out fires, but it threatens the city's drinking supplies.

The main cause of the shortage is the extent to which people have used fire-hydrants for shower baths. The Mayor sent out a whole bevy of water-policemen to stamp this practice. They were not very successful; the crowds disappeared when the police arrived but came back as soon as they went. Some crowds, however, refused to disappear in the first place, and threw empty bottles and oranges at the policemen.

✧ ✧ ✧

COMPARED WITH 1940, the consumption of chicken in the United States has gone up by seventy per cent. The production of a bigger-breasted chicken—more chicken meat being yielded per unit of food, enabling the wholesaler to sell birds more cheaply—is cited as one of the reasons. The main reason, however, is that the high price of meat is driving people to eat more fowls. As Marie Antoinette might have said: "They can't afford meat? Then let them eat chicken."

✧ ✧ ✧

A GOVERNMENT DEPARTMENT announces that Americans are marrying at an earlier age than ever before. Average age of today's bride is twenty and a bit, of a bridegroom a little over twenty-two. Benjamin Franklin, however, observed in 1780 that Philadelphia has thousands of beauties between fourteen and fifteen. "The usual age of marriage is fourteen." In those days a bride of twenty would have been something strictly off the shelf.

One of the reasons why people here are so ready to go into wedlock young may be that they know how easy it is to get back out of it. Reading of recent divorces granted on grounds of brutality or mental cruelty in the last few weeks, I find that American women were granted decrees because, for instance: "her husband habitually ate glass in public in order to make her look foolish," "her husband always turned off his hearing aid whenever she addressed him"; "because whenever she went to take a bath, she found her husband's pet alligator in it," "because when she refused to cook an eel which her husband had boasted about catching, he first struck her in the face with it, and then put it down her neck."

Another woman got a divorce because her husband punched her in the eye. The judge pointed out that this might have been just a flash of temper on his part, and quite unpremeditated. The lady reminded the judge that whereas she was five feet ten in height, her husband was only four feet high, and that in order to reach her eye had climbed upon a chair which he had specially moved into a suitable position.

I see that husbands, too, have got free again on interesting grounds. The most pathetic plea seems to be that of the man whose wife hit him on the head with a six-pound joint of beef during the 1942 meat shortage.

The judge pointed out that 1942 was a long time ago. The husband said that, nevertheless, he had never ceased to brood about this and, now that meat was becoming so expensive as far as he was concerned there was a meat shortage again. He added that he felt it was time matters were brought to ahead.

"To a head?" asked the Judge, recalling the destination of the six-pound joint. "I mean, get matters settled," said the husband, gingerly.

An American View: IKE'S PLANK

Letters To The Editor

NO, THANK YOU

Sir: Re—Weldon's letter of July 9; sounds like this "Windbag" American is rather provoked about something—I wonder if the exchange on currency could have anything to do with it, hm - hm-m? It was quite all right for us to pay five and ten cents exchange for years, wasn't it Mr. Weldon? All Americans think we should follow their wonderful way of living—no thank you—a thousand times no.

KENNETH E. PAMMEL.

TELLING MR. WELDON

Sir: We listen to the radio and read in the newspapers articles relating to some outstanding happenings, also about strange insects, animals, or birds in our country.

We had a strange creature in our city on Wednesday and I will not say he is here today at large, as no doubt after eating sparingly of our rotten food as he calls it, he is either in hospital or in an undertaking parlour. A very good excuse to blame it on the food instead of the purse. If he survived he can thank his lucky stars he is in Canada, otherwise he would have had his little block which rests on his shoulders badly splintered. Of all the gall for a foreigner to talk as he does when in our good old Canada.

Picture one of us visiting at someone's home and using a similar affront.

A few years ago we had bars at hotels where men often became intoxicated. The hotel proprietors were condemned for this, but none were known to go outside and invite people to go in.

The same should apply to Ontario, we do not ask Yankees of J. L. Weldon's type to come, and do not ask this boasting class to return.

We are not asking any citizen from any foreign country how to run ours, as we are just as intelligent a people as they have anywhere, including those of the United States of America.

We do not have to be told by Mr. Weldon what food we must serve, or ask him if we must destroy our hotels and build to suit him.

Or let the nit-wit clerks as he calls them go and bring in nittier ones from U.S.A. to replace them.

It sure must have been a set back to learn we are not as soft as he thought with the little amount he brought in his country's money, to learn there are no more free cheese and crackers served here and what he thought he would have over after buying a bamboo fishing pole and bubble gum that his dollar had shrunken to ninety-six cents, after he crossed to Good Old Canada.

I will, however, ask some good hearted strong men to be kind to Mr. Weldon and assist him back to his home by a ride on something not too easy to sit astride of, wrapped in the Stars and Stripes we see displayed on our streets, and dump the whole caboodle over the Canadian-United States Border.

Yours truly,
MAURICE E. KETCHESON.

BOILING BLOOD

Sir: It made my blood boil when I read J. C. Weldon's letter complaining about Canada, or, rather its people and government.

First he tells us our cafes are terrible, that their pigs are probably fed better food.

We have travelled in the States several times and had a trip just recently. I didn't find their prices in food or accommodation any different than we have here. Two items that cost more was a loaf of bread twenty-five cents and a quart of milk, same price but smaller quart than ours. I wouldn't know about hotel prices but cabins rate the same and not any better than in Canada. Cottons are cheaper but woollens are expensive, also china. (Had an American ask me if it was so that bone china was made from old bones.)

Speaking of nit-wit clerks, brother, the States have some too. J. C. Weldon wants to look around. We went to a lunch counter for a snack when we were in the States recently, and we waited nearly three-quarters of an hour before being served. They weren't busy at the lunch counter but slow and I mean slow. We wouldn't have been served then if I hadn't struck up a conversation with the lady seated next to me. She, too, was waiting; she happened to be one of the clerks in the store and finally she was served and left and we still sat there. When leaving she told another waitress to see that we were served; I thanked her and told her we wouldn't have to wait so long in the same chain's shop in Peterborough, Can. We finally were served but I didn't see any broad smiles on the faces of the waitress or any other clerk; maybe it was the heat.

Can't the Americans take the Canadian dollar for what it's worth. When their dollar was higher we had to take it for its value. Some of the American merchants won't take our money now, not even one cent.

What may I ask have gangsters got to do with the situation? We have our government which suits us, and they have theirs, and we wouldn't think of criticizing theirs.

When you make a purchase in the U. S. A. you cough up extra tax, even on food.

J. C. Weldon should take himself to Russia for a holiday, that's if they'd let him in; come back and tell us how he enjoyed it.

Yours truly,
A PETERBOROUGH HOUSEWIFE.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

How excellent is thy lovingkindness, O God! therefore the children of men put their trust under the shadow of thy wings. They shall be abundantly satisfied with the fatness of thy house; and thou shalt make them drink of the river of thy pleasures. For with thee is the fountain of life: in thy light shall we see light.

O continue thy lovingkindness upto them that know thee; and thy righteousness to the upright in heart. (Ps. 36:7-10.)

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Gordon Addyman, 36, yesterday was committed for trial on a murder charge laid in connection with the death from a gunshot wound April 15 of his wife Mildred, 33.

Witnesses at Addyman's preliminary hearing said the man had been friendly with Mrs. Rita White, a fellow employee of Addyman's at a cycle shop, and that she had stayed at the Addyman home from April 2 to April 10 of 1950 while Mrs. Addyman had been in hospital.

Mrs. Addyman died when a bullet from a .38-calibre revolver owned by Addyman pierced her heart, police said.

At the time of the death, the accused man told police he had been showing his wife the gun and it discharged accidentally The shooting was listed as accidental and the murder charge was not laid until a coroner's inquest a week later.

See Australia Planning Big Development

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Large development programs in Australia are indicated in announcement of a $50,000,000 loan by the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development.

The loan is primarily to supply foreign exchange to buy abroad needed machinery, while the programs themselves will be financed with Australian currency, partly out of public funds and partly by business enterprises and individuals.

HEAVY IMPORTS PLANNED

Items which will be imported, and on some of which there probably will be Canadian bids, include:

Tractors for road construction and maintenance; heavy transport vehicles and components for local assembly; earth-moving equipment; graders; spreaders; agriculture machinery; mine equipment and plant for concentrating, smelting and refining; machinery and equipment for iron and steel furnaces, coke ovens and similar installations; diesel-electric locomotives and other rolling stock and components for local assembly; machine tools for railway workshops; rail maintenance machines and equipment; track-construction equipment; equipment for power stations and transmission facilities.

The bank outlines some of the growing pains of Australia's expanding economy.

About one-third of the loan will aid agricultural development, and the bank comments:

"In spite of Australia's rapid industrial growth, her exports still consist almost entirely of farm products. If she is to raise her foreign-exchange earnings, and at the same time grow enough food for her increasing population, she will have to produce more wool and food."

Nearly half the loan will be for coal mining, iron and steel industry, railways, transport and electric power; and the bank says:

"Coal mining is basic to every sector of the Australian economy. Before the war, Australia was able to meet her own needs for coal and had a surplus for export. Now, because of the rapid growth of industry and population, coal must be imported at high cost

"Iron and steel can be produced cheaply in Australia, but present output is far below demand. . .

"About one-fifth of the loan will be spent on increasing production of non-ferrous metals and industrial minerals.

"Industrial development will be carried out in industries which are directly related to basic economic activities like agriculture, transportation, construction and power; and in industries which, on a competitive basis, can make goods which hitherto have been imported. . ."

In 1950 the bank made a loan of $100,000,000 to Australia for the purchase of capital goods and equipment needed for development. About two-thirds of this has been spent, and it is expected that the remainder will be spent by early 1953. The new loan will help carry forward development in 1954.

Statue To Have New Pipe Soon

LONDON (CP)—Craftsmen have cast a new musical pipe to replace the one stolen from the famous statue of Peter Pan in London's Kensington Gardens.

Theft of the original pipe marked the third time Sir James Barrie's fairyland youngster had been attacked by vandals. The statue was tarred and feathered in 1928 and daubed and damaged in 1943.

It was 40 years ago on May 1 that Barrie had the statue erected secretly overnight, so that children next morning "could believe in fairies."

Copies of the statue, sculptured by Sir George Frampton, have been put up in cities throughout the world, including Canada and the United States.

Cut Off In No Man's Land Canadians Fight Way Out

By BILL BOSS

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA (CP)—The little Canadian group was cut off in No Man's Land by Chinese who had winkled in behind it. It was low in ammunition.

The six men left were out of —the 1st Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment.

The answer, L.Cpl. J.C.R. Hamilton of Campbellton, N.B., told his men, was obvious.

They would have to charge uphill, fight their way through the enemy and back to the Canadian outpost. There was a platoon at the top, elements of two others on their flanks.

AMBUSH "AMBUSHED"

It looked as though the Canadian ambush had itself been ambushed.

For half an hour the night of June 25 it had lain strung out in the dark on the forward slope on the Canadian front. The 10 men had been under Cpl. Wycliffe L. Presley of Petawawa, Ont., at the outset and were 750 yards ahead of the nearest R.C.R. outpost.

Shortly before midnight Hamilton heard noises uphill behind the patrol and climbed alone to investigate. The Chinese were there all right. While he launched a brief private skirmish, firing his carbine and hurling a few grenades the patrol began having a thick time, fighting from the already-prepared positions it was using.

By the time Hamilton had worked his way back down Presley had suffered a head wound. Two Bren guns were out of action. A concussion grenade landed in a trench beside Pte. L. Murphy of Charlottetown, blasted him out of trench, stunned him and wounded him in the ankle. Pte. Alex Hastie of Sydney Mines, N.S., the other Bren gunner, was more severely wounded.

Presley told Hamilton: "I've been hit. You take over."

CHINESE JUBILANT

The men closed in automatically. The Chinese closed in, too. They were laughing, jubilant at the thought of having the Canadians "in the bag."

One even paused to laugh down at Pte. G.C. McGillivray of Pembroke, fumbling in the light of the new moon as he tried to change the magazines on the patrol's last Bren.

McGillivray rammed the clip home and with one burst cut the Communist down.

Hamilton killed another so close to him that he crumbled in a heap at the Canadian's feet.

Another concussion grenade landed with a tremendous explosion, stunning Pte. A.E. Howard of Florence, N.S., the signaller.

CHARGE UP HILL

Surrounded, out of communication, and with three casualties on his hands, Hamilton told the others the only way out was to charge up the hill.

Lined up on either side of the corporal were McGillivray, the still-groggy Howard and Ptes. Tom Stringer of Toronto, Jim Pender of St. John's Nfld., Bill Rousehorn of Petawawa and L.J. Fournier of New Liskeard, Ont.

Hastie and Presley were told to follow the others' extended line as best they could.

The climb was steep. About half way—60 yards from the top—they were met by a shower of grenades. Fournier was hit. Presley and Hastie were each wounded a second time. Fournier was hit again. Everyone but Hamilton went to ground.

He got them up again. The charge went on.

As those lower down had done, the Chinese at the top scattered. Some—the number is not known—were killed there.

Ignoring machine-gun fire, the men pressed on to the outpost where Sgt. R.T. Tunstall, Calgary, waited at the gate in the wire.

Hamilton told the sergeant three of his men were wounded and still in No Man's Land—Presley, Fournier and Murphy. Tunstall prepared a rescue patrol.

The 22-year-old corporal asked for volunteers from his five "effectives" to go out again with him. All five went.

Capt. Doug Caldwell of Ottawa, forward observation officer, called down artillery fire from the 1st Regiment, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery.

The rescue patrol found Presley —who later that day died of his wounds—and Fournier.

They were just about to give Murphy up as lost when he was seen not far from the wire, waiting for them to give him a hand.

Summing up the operation, Lieut. Mike Goldie of Southampton, England, and Petawawa, Hamilton's patrol leader, said:

"The men all figure that if Hamilton hadn't organized that charge, and hadn't had the determination to carry it through, they would all have been killed."

Trailer Village Now On Move

BRANTFORD (CP)—A trailer village is moving slowly across southern Ontario, following the route of an oil pipeline being laid from Sarnia to Toronto. The village houses 22 families whose menfolk are laying the line.

Biggest obstacle the pipe-layers faced was the Grand River But they're past that now and are proceeding at a quickened pace towards Toronto.

The line crosses the Grand at a deep valley, three miles north of Paris. The stony hills and gravel deposits in the area had slowed the ditch-digging machines to about quarter speed. The lost time has been regained across rolling farmland and the pipe is laid past the village of St. George.

The trailer village moved from Woodstock Wednesday for a new location at Cooksville some 10 miles west of Toronto.

The pipeline was started at Sarnia late in May. It is expected to be completed this year.

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Dr. Walter W. White, 89, well-known retired physician and surgeon and one of Saint John's most distinguished citizens, died last night.

Mayor of the city for several terms, he also served successively as a school trustee, county warden and Legislature member.

Doesn't Want Stress Only On Air Power

LONDON (AP)—Gen Matthew B. Ridgway said yesterday he is against proposals for all-out emphasis on United States air power.

The Supreme Commander of Allied Powers in Europe told a press conference that priority for any one of the armed services—air, sea and land—at the expense of the others is "basically and essentially unsound."

Ridgway did not mention names. But he left no doubt he disagreed with Herbert Hoover, former U.S. President, and others who have called for priority in building a huge U.S. air force and the withdrawal of American land forces from abroad as soon as practical.

WE regret that at the present time, due to staff difficulties, we will be unable to operate on Sundays as originally planned.

We feel obligated to close one day a week and feel Sunday is the logical day, as ninety-eight per cent of our staff are married and are entitled to spend one day a week with their husbands and families. Many of our regular customers, who are working people, were very disappointed when we had originally planned to close Monday, and we feel that our regular customers should be considered before the casual potential Sunday patrons. We would sincerely like to accommodate everyone and operate seven days a week, but at the present time it is an impossibility.

Our business, thanks to the people of Peterborough and the American tourists, has far surpassed our highest hopes. We appreciate your patronage and do hope you will understand the necessity for our decision to remain closed on Sundays, and operate every day of the week from 7.30 a.m. to 1 a.m.

Yours truly,

Scugog Squad Defeated By U.E.W. Boys

U.E.W. crept closer to the idle Seabrooke Motor squad Thursday night at the East City Bowl as they trimmed Lindsay Combines 13-7, in the opener of the men's senior softball duet. The win brings Harold Legrow's band to within three of the lead, with 14 points.

Ken Hall went the route for the shop nine, limiting Combines to six bingles and four of these came in the seventh as the homesters put on a rally to score four runs. Aside from this, Hall held command and had little difficulty, aided by fine support and some lusty clouting by his teammates.

Harold Grafstein, hefty U.E. slugger, found his batting eye with a vengeance after some lean trips to the plate this season and blasted out two homers, a double and single to drive in four runs and score as many. Len Williams hit two for four, one a double, to drive in four; while Ray Craig, Bernie Robson, Bruce Taylor and skipper Buck Legrow each hit two.

Haddy Eakins started for Lindsay and the veteran hurled great ball for six frames; but a seventh inning splurge by the visitors proved disastrous to a good effort. Jack Kean finished. For Lindsay the work of Mark Donoghue was outstanding with four runs batted in on a homer and single in four trips, besides a fine fielding game, and Jim Growden with two R.B.I.'s in the big seventh. Fielding honors were shared by Leither at short for U.E. and Legrow on the infield with Mucker O'Connell and Jack White pulling off sensational catches in the outfield.

Out At The Kawartha

LADIES' SECTION

In the 18-hole players' section, Mrs. Doug Anderson received a point and Mrs. Fred Reed won the china for the sealed hole competition. The winners for low net were Mrs. Doug Anderson and Mrs. Ed Riley, each receiving two points. Mrs. Fred Reed was credited with a point and Mrs. William Nash won the ball.

In the 9-hole players' group, the competition was for hidden holes. The china was won by Mrs. Tony Mattucci, Mrs. Norris Williamson took home the golf ball and Mrs. Harry Hamley was credited with a point.

BUSINESS GIRLS

Last evening, the Peterborough Golf and Country Club B.G.'s teed off with the Kawartha Business Girls in two-ball foursomes, a total of 96 participating. The weather was ideal for golfing but this did not help the Kawartha girls. The visitors, ignoring the sand traps and infamous pool, walked away with top honors.

After lunch in the club house, Barb Seidel officially welcomed guests to the Kawartha and Marg Behan replied on behalf of the Peterborough girls. Prizes for first and second low gross were then awarded. Barb Williamson and Eleanor Whittaker second. All prize winners received a cup and saucer. Although the Peterborough club took first place on the twosome scores, the Kawartha won by 33 strokes.

Everyone thoroughly enjoyed a good old sing-song with "Dory" Ackford ably assisting at the piano. This concluded a grand evening of fun.

Spring Trophy—A spectacular match will be played off Saturday by the five qualifying girls, Barb Seidel, Roma Brindel, "Dory" Ackford, Ruth McKee and Mel Mortimer.

Bedard Plays Harold Burrows

QUEBEC (CP)—Semi-finals of the Eastern Canada tennis championships start today with Robert Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., playing Harold Burrows, top-seeded player from Charlottesville, Va., and Jack Spencer, Montreal, playing Lorne Main, former Vancouverite now living in Montreal.

Twenty-year-old Bedard enters play fresh from his marathon victory yesterday over fourth-seeded Jacques Giguere, Quebec, 5-7, 6-2, 6-3, 4-6, 6-1 after 4¼ hours of play.

Bedard handled everything the older Giguere could throw at him and at the end of the session, Giguere was so tired that doctors forbade him to play in mixed doubles in the evening.

Burrows quickly polished off Marc Lortie, Quebec, 6-0, 6-1, 6-2.

Spencer defeated young Jim Bentley of Toronto, who Wednesday provided the tournament's biggest upset by defeating veteran Davis Cupper Henri Rochon of Montreal.

Main, playing his best game this season, swept over Don Platt, Toronto, 6-1, 6-0, 6-1.

Mrs. Hanna Sladek, Montreal, kept up her blistering pace, whipping Shirley Moore, another Montrealer, in quarter-final women's singles 6-0, 6-1, and teaming up with Burrows to beat Ann Kennedy, Montreal, and Ted Zariphes, Boston, 6-0, 6-1 in mixed doubles.

Foresters Victors

Foresters took a 16-13 Civic Softball League win over Salvation Army last night to stay atop the heap. They scored five runs each in the third and sixth innings, with four in the second and two in the fourth, on 18 safe hits. The losers got 11 bingles for a run in the first, four next time up and eight in a big third inning drive. Craig led the Army at bat with three bingles in five tries. For the winners, Kidd had four for four, Downer three in four, Tyndall two homers and Quigley a single and homer. Teams:

Lakefield Gets 11-4 Win Over Lindsay

Tom Junkin's peppy Lakefield Merchants continued their winning ways in men's senior softball at the Bowl Thursday night at the expense of Lindsay, as they handed Russ Hanson's boys an 11-4 setback in the nightcap of the popular twin piece.

The win strengthens Merchants' position in fourth place with seven points; they are now but two points behind Revoys.

Dick McCracken pitched a fine game for the Merchants, allowing nine hits and fanning four. He walked three but was very effective in the pinches and his mates gave him fine support afield. Cam Wasson collected three hits in five tries for the winners, while Gord Henry, Bill Twist, Dick McCracken and Joe Blewett each rapped out a pair of safeties; all drove in two runs except McCracken. The fielding of Gord Henry featured for Lakefield; also Red Wasson, Joe Blewett, John Leckley and Heffernan with the reliable Cupoli playing errorless ball.

For the losers, who had a hard luck night of it, Carl Deyell had three safe hits, one a double and Mucker O'Connell plunked out a pair; while the fielding of the team as a whole left little to be desired. Kean twirled well till the unlucky seventh, but the all-round hustle and hitting power of Merchants paid off in the final result.

Doug Loucks Pitches Two-Hit Ball Victory

COBOURG—Doug Loucks spun a two-hit, eight strikeout effort here as Lindsay Merchants rode home 6-1 winners over Cobourg Legionnaires in a Lakeshore Baseball League game.

Loucks allowed George Campbell a triple in the second innings and Howie Dalton a single in the sixth, but was invincible otherwise. The only run off Loucks came as he lost control in the fourth and issued two walks in a row which, coupled with two passed balls and a wild pitch, gave Cobourg their run.

Tommy Hogan, Cobourg third baseman, shone afield.

Daly Appears Headed For Second Golf Title

ST. ANNE'S-ON-SEA, England (AP)—Fred Daly, jaunty Irishman from Belfast, appears headed for his second British Open golf title with a 36-hole score of 136 after the first two rounds of the 1952 championship.

By carding 69 to follow his record 67 of Wednesday over the 6,647-yard Royal Lytham and St. Anne's course, Daly yesterday put himself four strokes ahead of his nearest rival, South Africa's Bobby Locke. Barring a surprise blowup over today's 36-hole test, Daly should carry off the championship he last won in 1947.

CLOCKS TO OLYMPICS

Nine planes will transport from London to Helsinki a shipment of 450 specially-designed clocks to time events at the Olympic Games. The most complex item in the valuable collection is an electronic timepiece on which Swiss and British experts have worked more than five years. It is controlled by the vibrations of a quartz crystal and holds a built-in camera to take a photo-finish. It also records speeds to within 1-100th of a second.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

No senior lacrosse here tonight, this being one of the few Fridays all summer when the Timbermen aren't in action at home. They trek to St. Kitts tomorrow and Toronto on Tuesday ere playing next Friday in Miller Bowl. But there's a good junior "A" lacrosse attraction here this eve at 8.45. It brings the strong Mimico crew in to tackle the local Filter Queens. These clubs are well-matched and presently battling hard to keep the hot pace up with Brampton and St. Catharines. Plenty at stake and Lou Vitarelli's squad will be a full strength for the scrap. These players are tomorrow's seniors and they hustle all the way.

* * * * * *

An item from Kitchener tells of Don Gallinger suspending Les Lockett, outfielder there who is hitting nearly .400, for "indifferent playing." He drew the suspension in London where he got four hits!. Lockett got himself picked off third once and in the last inning he failed to run out a grounder, quitting halfway to first. He thought two were out, but his lapse resulted in a double-play. The player will likely be fined ere he gets back in the lineup. The scribe adds: "The team has been carrying five high-priced ball players and, despite a fair average attendance, hasn't been gaining any financial ground." Lockett is one of 'em and might even get the axe.

A Knotty Old Character

In pro ball you must hustle or be fined or dropped. Knotty Lee, when he was manager here, often wished he could clap a fine on a player not giving his best. But the amateurs weren't paid, apart from a possible cut at season's end of the dough was there. The fiery old pilot had to content himself by blistering indifferent players with the vitriolic sarcasm for which he was noted. He took his baseball very seriously and spared no one, but he did come up with hustling teams. Rival managers and players, as well as umpires, felt the hot blast of the Lee temper bursting from the Petes' dugout frequently in every fray. 'Twas a question of which Knotty hated worst in a player, dumbness or laziness.

* * * * * *

Not quite as old as Knotty will be a number of veteran softballers in Bowl action tomorrow eve at seven. Forsaking their rocking chairs, a bunch of guys who used to shine many years ago in the men's softball loop will perform under George Dormer and Percy Harrison in a benefit game for Jack Larkman, who broke an ankle in play this semester. Vets like O'Leary, Bateman, Maudsley, Naish, Calladine, Playford, Simmons, Gillespie, Dundas, Starr, Coughlin, Montgomery, Creighton, Weir, McCarrell, etc. and etc. Should be fun. It's followed by a tilt betwixt Howie Dalton's four-man squad and the Lakefield team. Draw prizes, too. Strictly a benefit twin bill.

Tears For The Scugog

Lindsay's male softballers had a rough evening over at the Bowl by the bridge Thursday. U. E. beat 'em 13-7 to creep closer to first place on Ken Hall's six-hit hurling and some good fielding. Hal Grafstein broke out with two homers, a double and a single to pace the winners' plate attack. Eakins and Kearn saw slab action for the losers, while Mark O'Donoghue belted a homer and single for that side. In the other joust, Lakefield downed the Scugog squad 11-4 to gain ground toward third position in the loop. Dick McCracken pitched nice ball for the villagers and had neat backing, with Cam Wasson belting out three safe hits. Kean went okay on the other hill till the late innings. Carl Deyell led them at bat with three.

* * * * * *

Kenny Dixon of Mimico leads O.L.A. senior scorers to date with 42 goals and 28 assists for 70 points. Jack Dorney of Hamilton is next with 62 points, Denny Peterson of Mimico third with 47, one more than Jack Dobbie of Fergus, while Ike Hildebrand of Petes is fifth with 45. Jim McNulty and Nick Ferri of Toronto follow with 44 and 43. Standing has Mimico with 26 points, Petes 22, Toronto and Hamilton 18, Owen Sound 10, as St. Kitts and Fergus have eight each. Hamilton's recent win o'er Mimico was the Mounties' second loss in 15 games. 'Twas 11-7 before 1,500 stunned Mimico fans. Petes go to St. Catharines on the morrow.

Aussie Olympic Stars 'Mutiny' Over Hats

LONDON (AP)—Australia's nine women Olympic stars staged a "mutiny" yesterday before they went to Buckingham Palace to meet the Queen.

They refused to wear the official white leather hats issued them.

"They made us look like porky 12-year-olds on a school treat," complained one of the athletes. "We crumpled up the hats, trampled on them and threw them in a waste basket."

The team arrived at the palace wearing trim white felt berets.

24 Players Enter Jitney Bowling

MARMORA (ENS) — Twelve ladies and twelve men took part in jitney bowling at Deloro on Monday evening. The six teams taking part were each composed of two ladies and two men selected by a draw.

Finland Hopes To Earn Some Honors

By MILT MARMOR

HELINSKI (AP)—Finland may be a proper host in an idyllic setting for the 1952 Olympic Games but it also is keen on garnering its share of medals in track and field competition.

The golden days when Paavo Nurmi and Willie Ritola led the durable Finns to world glory in athletics are past. However, at this pre-games stage Finland feels confident it will take at least one gold medal—the javelin—and be a definite threat in the marathon, the and distance races.

The Finns have entered 60 in track and field. Among them is Soino Nikkinen, 29-year-old railroad switchman who has the best recent mark anywhere in the world for the javelin. Last year he threw the spear 249 feet, one inch, which compares well with the world mark of 258 feet, 2⅜ inches set in 1938 by another Finn with a similar name—Yrjo Nikkanen.

HOPES ON FARMER

Many Finns put their hopes in the javelin on the strong shoulders of Toivo Hyytiainen, 27-year-old farmer, whose best mark is 244 feet 7.1 inches. They feel that while Nikkinen has the best technique, Hyytiainen is the better competitor.

Three marathon runners, headed by Veikko Karvonen, 26, a postman, may be swept along by Finnish tradition to upset the world distance runners.

Karvonen has a best time of two hours 28:07.4, well under the Olympic mark of 2:29:19.2 set by Japan's Kitei Son in 1936. But clockings in these races have little meaning in forecasts. Immediate factors such as weather and blistered feet carry more weight than past performances. Running with Karvonen will be Erkki Puolakka, 27, a foreman, and Mikko Hietenan, 31, a munitions worker.

Running in their own Olympic Stadium, the Finns may rise to the occasion.

So may the distance runners who include Vaino Koskela, 31-year-old agriculturists who has done 14:13.2 in the 5,000 metres; Hannu Posti, 26, an army sergeant who has run the 10,000 in 30:05.2; and Denis Johansson, 24, the Purdue University runner who came back to his native Finland to do the 1,500 in 3:47.4.

HEADS SASK. GOLFERS

Dr. Jack Leddy of Saskatoon yesterday was elected president of the Saskatchewan Amateur Golf Association. The election was held at the annual meeting in Prince Albert in conjunction with the provincial amateur tournament and Willingdon Cup trials.

Toronto Leafs Edge Chiefs 3-2 Behind Hetki

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Johnny Hetki is proving that St. Louis Browns made a mistake when they sold him back to Toronto Maple Leafs shortly after the 1952 season opened.

Hetki was the International League's top winner in 1951 with 19 victories. This earned him a promotion to St. Louis but after a few appearances he was shipped back to the Leafs. Once again he threatens, despite his late start, to lead the loop in wins.

The veteran right-hander turned in his 10th victory of the season against one defeat last night, shading Syracuse Chiefs 3-2 in 11 innings before the largest crowd of the season in the league, 20,218.

Hetki won his own ball game, blasting a home run with none out in the 11th off Bob Keegan, a 12-game winner. Fenton Mole accounted for both Syracuse runs with a homer in the eighth. The win moved Leafs to within one-half game of the third-place Chiefs.

WINGS MOVE UP

Rochester Red Wings trounced Buffalo Bisons 9-3 to edge within 1½ games of the pace-setting Montreal Royals. Montreal and Springfield were rained out.

Preacher Jack Faszholz, despite four errors, went all the way to post his ninth victory. Steve Bilko and Larry Caiffone hit a homer apiece and drove in six runs to spark Rochester's 13-hit attack.

Baltimore Orioles shaded Ottawa Athletics 6-5. Jim Atkins won but needed help from Kent Peterson, who retired the side in order in the last two innings, including the side on strikes in the ninth. Gerry Scala drove in the deciding run in the seventh on a long fly.

Yesterday's Stars

Batting: Elmer Valo, Athletics—had a perfect night at bat, with a triple, two singles and two walks. He drove in four runs and scored three as the Athletics thrashed the Indians 11-1.

Pitching: Billy Pierce, White Sox—limited the Senators to two hits as he pitched the White Sox to a 2-0 victory in the opener of a double-header for his 10th victory. The Sox also won the second game, 4-2.

Cards Trip Phillies 10-3 As Chicago Edges Brooks 7-6

By JOE REICHLER, Associated Press Sports Writer

The rival St. Louis clubs under new managers, are going in opposite directions. The Cardinals, led by firebrand Eddie Stanky, are riding on the crest of a 10-game winning streak and are making rapid strides in their effort to overtake the National League-leading Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants.

The Browns, skippered by mild-mannered Marty Marion, their second manager of the campaign, are in the throes of a nine-game losing string that threatens to drop them into the American League cellar.

Gerry Staley became the first National Leaguer to register a dozen victories when he pitched the Cardinals to a 10-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies last night. Third baseman Billy Johnson drove in four runs with a triple, double and single as the Cards drove All-Star hero Curt Simmons from the mound with a four-run first inning.

MOVING UP

The victory, coupled with Chicago's 7-6 win over Brooklyn and Pittsburgh's 6-4 victory over New York, moved the Cards within eight games of the Dodgers and 3½ behind the second-place Giants. Cincinnati rounded out National League activities with a 5-3 win over Boston.

Chicago's hustling White Sox swept a twi-night doubleheader from the Senators in Washington, 2-0 and 4-2, to cut New York Yankees' first-place margin in the American League to 2½ games.

The Yankees drubbed the Brownies 10-2. Philadelphia Athletics thrashed Cleveland 11-1 as lefty Alex Kellner checked the Indians with four hits. Detroit and the Red Sox were rained out in Boston.

LONG FIRST INNING

Bob Rush of Chicago, the All-Star game winner, and no-hit Clar Erskine of Brooklyn were knocked out of the box in a 45-minute first inning as the Cubs came from behind to nip the Dodgers. Gene Hermanski, ex-Dodger, collected three hits and drove in what proved to be the deciding run in a three-run fourth. Catcher Toby Atwell, sold by Brooklyn to Chicago last winter, cut down potential Dodger base stealers in the sixth, seventh and eighth innings.

In his last start against the Cubs, Erskine held them without a hit or a run in nine innings.

Billy Pierce racked up his 10th win and Saul Rogovin his eighth as the White Sox won their sixth and seventh games in as many starts in Washington this season. Pierce allowed only two hits and Rogovin six.

Elmer Valo had a perfect day against loser Early Wynn and Sam Jones. The Philadelphia outfielder hit a triple and two singles and walked twice in five times at bat. He drove in four runs and scored thrice.

Remember When—

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The great Australian batsman Don Bradman established a record in England-Australia Test cricket 22 years ago today at Leeds, England. Bradman scored 334 runs, still the record of Australians in Test cricket in England. Len Hutton of England, however, scored 364 against Australia in 1938 at London.

Avert Plane Factory Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defence officials breathed easier today following agreement between the North American Aviation Co. and the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) on a plan to end a wage dispute which threatened to halt production of all F-86 Sabre jets —nemesis of the Russian MIG 15.

Top air force officials said even a one-day shutdown of the company's 17 aircraft plants in California and Columbus, Ohio, would be catastrophic. They had made several pleas to the union and the company to compromise differences.

The two sides late yesterday agreed to submit their dispute to a three-man fact-finding board whose recommendation will be binding.

Top Golfers Teeing Off At Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (CP)—Canada's top professional golfers tee off at Niakwa Country Club here today in the annual hunt for the Canadian Professional Golf Association pot of gold.

Some 34 entries will shoot for a $600 top prize and the Ross Cup.

Some 33 are trying to accomplish something else—loosen Stan Leonard's grip on the silver trophy.

It may take some doing. The jaunty pro from Vancouver may have been only half trying yesterday as he shook out the kinks in a practice tour around Niakwa—but he bettered par by two strokes —a 69.

Leonard, a four-time winner of the C.P.G.A., is shooting for his third straight.

Edmonton's Henry Martell, who won the Canadian amateur in 1946, took a par 71.

Speculation on the winning score has abounded for two days around the Niakwa clubhouse, located about 2½ miles from downtown Winnipeg.

Some pundits claim the winning score will be near 207 with Leonard in the field.

Harold Eidsvig, Niakwa's pro and recent winner of the Manitoba Open, thinks 212 will take the cup.

"If they get two 68s among the whole bunch it will be good shooting," he said.

NOTED SINGER HERE—Pert and pretty Gisele Mackenzie of St. Boniface, Man., one of the best singers to come out of this country in some years, arrived in Montreal recently for a week at one of the local theatres.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Shareholders of the Ontario Jockey Club yesterday unanimously approved plans to expand the club's horse racing operations by the construction of a large, modern race course probably between Hamilton and Toronto.

The meeting at Toronto was called to revise the club's financial bylaws to increase authorized capital. The club's expansion plans, which include the recent purchase of Fort Erie and Stamford tracks, depend on successful financing.

The two tracks in the Niagara district were purchased primarily for their charters which will give the O.J.C. another 28 days' racing each season for a total of 56 days.

Managing Director George C. Hendrie reported no new developments in the expansion plans since the original announcement June 30.

Construction of the new track depends on the sale of Woodbine Park to the city of Toronto for a housing development and purchase of a new site.

Negotiations for the purchase by the O.J.C. of the Hamilton Jockey Club track have not changed in the last two weeks. Directors of the Hamilton club have agreed in principle to move into the O.J.C. orbit with the question of financing still to be decided.

Three new directors were appointed at the O.J.C. meeting: Charles F. W. Burns, Toronto, Harry J. Carmichael, St. Catharines, and Frank S. Sherman, Hamilton.

TOO MUCH SUN

The Russian Olympic team has blacked out windows of its camp—not a security measure—it's designed to keep the midnight sun out of the eyes of snoring athletes. At this time of the year the sun shines about 21 hours a day.

TIE FOR LEAD

Henry Ransom and Al Besselink blasted out 64s yesterday to tie for the lead at the end of the first day in the $15,000 St. Paul Open Golf Tournament. In the greatest demonstration in the history of the tournament, dating back to 1930, 37 golfers bettered par-72 and another 22 equalled regulation figures. Pressing the leaders were Cary Middlecoff and Ted Kroll with 65s.

4,494 FOR RICHARDS

At Salisbury, England, yesterday Gordon Richards, Britain's champion jockey, rode his 100th winner of the season—and the 4,494th of his career. Richards, 48, has been top jockey since 1925.

NOTED HORSE KILLED

Bold, victor in the 1951 Preakness and a big money winner among three-year-olds last year, was struck by lightning and killed Wednesday at the Brookmeade Stables at Upperville, Va. The horse, owned by Mrs. Isabelle Dodge Sloane, was let out to pasture as usual when a storm came up.

U.S.H.L. MEETS

The United States Hockey League, in cold storage for a year, held its annual meeting at Omaha yesterday and talked over prospects for becoming a playing league again. Harry A. Fowler of Omaha, who was re-elected president and secretary-treasurer, reported nothing was decided but said the group will meet again later in the month.

Notes From Olympics

HELSINKI (AP)—Finland yesterday proclaimed an Olympic truce in the style of ancient Greece in the hope the biggest athletic festival will go off smoothly.

Erik von Frenckell, president of the Finnish Olympic organizing committee, speaking to the committee in the president's box of the sun-drenched Olympic Stadium, said:

"For the time that the Games last, the organizers proclaim Ekekheiria, the Olympic truce."

In ancient days heralds sounded the truce and athletes were permitted to travel unmolested to the Games no matter what wars went on in Greece.

Emil Zatopek, the Czech distance ace, has tonsilitis and his compatriots are worried about how he will fare in the Games.

This was learned during a visit to Otaniemi, training camp for Communist countries in the forest outside Helsinki.

It was ascertained that Zatopek is far below form. That explains, apparently, why he ran third to two Russians at Kiev two weeks ago in a 5,000-metre race.

The United States' Olympic strong men, the weightlifters, arrived yesterday and promptly hurled a direct challenge at the Russians.

If there is any place where the Russians and the Americans will meet man-to-man in the Olympic Games, it probably is in weightlifting.

The Russians are considered the only challengers to the defending world and Olympic champion Americans.

"Sure, we're going to beat the Russians," declared U.S. coach Bob Hoffman of York, Pa.

"But we're not going to try just to beat them, we want to beat them so bad they'll know they're beaten."

Outfielder Pete Reiser On Indefinite Leave

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Outfielder Pete Reiser, former National League batting champion, has been given an indefinite leave from Cleveland Indians to cuperate from a shoulder injury and stomach ailment, Tribe manager Al Lopez said last night.

Reiser, 31, has been at his home in St. Louis since the beginning of the week and may be placed on the retired list.

Note Procedure For Citizenship

MOSCOW (AP)—The newspaper Soviet Sport yesterday noted the special Congressional procedure adopted to get American citizenship for Delia Meulenkamp, freestyle swimmer, to make her eligible for the U.S. Olympic team.

A dispatch from Washington, published in the official organ of the U.S.S.R. Sports Committee, said President Truman signed a special bill removing barriers hindering citizenship for the 19-year-old girl.

Congress was asked to grant citizenship to the girl swimmer, who was born in Rotterdam. Miss Meulenkamp became an American citizen at San Rafael, Calif., June 30, three days before her 19th birthday. She left New York yesterday for Helsinki with other members of the U.S. swimming teams.

Pitcher Leaves Club To See Ailing Mother

BRANTFORD (CP)—Some 10 days ago Tom Parker, veteran pitcher of Brantford Red Sox in the senior Intercounty League, bid goodbye to club officials and left to see his mother who, he said, was due to have an operation on her eyes.

Parker said she wanted to see him before the doctors began the delicate operation.

A recent copy of a Winnipeg paper reports that Parker pitched and won a 3-2 game for Winnipeg Mandaks, a team for which he played in 1951.

Sidney Dawes Will Resign Post As President Of Olympic Assoc.

By JACK SULLIVAN

HELSINKI (CP) — A. Sidney Dawes of Montreal will resign as president of the Canadian Olympic Association because of the pressure of business after the Olympic Games starting here July 19, it is learned authoritatively.

It is known he has offered quit at least twice this year but his resignation was not accepted.

The persons most mentioned as his successor are Jack Davies of Montreal, a director of the C.O.A., Ken Farmer of Ottawa, C.O.A. secretary, and Jim Worrall of Toronto, C.O.A. vice-president and president of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

STAYS ON COMMITTEE

Dawes, who has been criticized over the selection of this year's team, will remain Canada's representative on the International Olympic Committee.

Dawes has been criticized often in the past for his handling of Canada's Olympic matters. The criticism reached a high point after the track and field trials at Hamilton nearly two weeks ago when two girls who had beaten Olympic standards set by the C.O.A. were left off the team.

It swelled up again this week after Jack Burney of Vancouver, a 400-metre hurdler stationed with the United States army in Germany, came to Helsinki at his own expense and learned that he was not on the track squad, as he had been led to believe.

Burney left yesterday by plane for Copenhagen and said he hopes to catch a ride on another plane for the remainder of the journey back to Frankfurt since he is almost out of funds.

TEAM ANGRY

Various Canadian team members still are angry about the treatment given him, saying the officials could have relaxed the regulations because he is in the army.

LEAVE FOR STOCKHOLM

Canada's track and field team yesterday continued its workouts and four members of the squad were reported out with injuries. However, they are not serious enough to cause any worries.

In addition, Fred Hayward, 41-year-old long distance walker from St. John's, Nfld., was unable to practice properly because of the heat that has been in the 80s.

"I'm not used to this weather," he said.

Jim Lavery of Calgary complained of sore muscles in his right leg. The 400-metres runner took a Finnish bath.

Tiny O'Halloran of Toronto, Shirley Eckel of Toronto and Dawn Josephs of Victoria also passed up the practice session to favor sore leg muscles.

Three Canadian Olympic officials took off for Stockholm by air yesterday in an effort to rent racing shells to replace those damaged on a ship in a North Atlantic storm.

Meanwhile Canadian doubles, fours and eight-oared crews went out for rugged workouts in boats rented from a Finnish club. The Finns use a different seating arrangement, which handicapped the Canadians.

Staff Cut By Half

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Budd Company, manufacturer of auto body parts, farm implements and railway passenger cars, today cut its labor force practically in half because of steel shortages. Ernest R. Schmidt, vice-president, announced last night that five plants in Pennsylvania, Indiana, and Michigan are affected by new layoffs which bring the company's working force down to 10,500 from 20,000. The company has two plants in Detroit.

WATER SKIERS MEET

Competitors from many parts of the world will meet in Toronto next month in water skiing championships. Enthusiasts from France, Belgium, Mexico, the United States and Canada will compete in the Canadian Open and North American championships Aug. 28-30. The Canadian closed title meet will be held Aug. 25-26.

Defending their senior Canadian titles will be Mrs. Norman Gordon of Bobcaygeon and Charles Blackwell of Owen Sound. Junior champions are Bruce Pool, Peterborough, and Carol Ann Duthie, Toronto.

If Sterling Freed, Loan May Be Asked

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's top financial officials believe that if the United Kingdom decides to free sterling she will ask the United States and Canada for a dollar loan or for establishment of a dollar drawing account.

However, the officials said no intimation has been given that Britain plans to make sterling convertible soon.

One Canadian government official said Britain, with existing reserves of gold and dollars, cannot lift restrictions and set the pound free. However, if such a step is taken, he estimated that Britain, banker for the sterling area, would need a loan or a drawing account of $2,500,000,000 or $3,000,000,000 to help in the period immediately following the freeing of the pound.

Finance Minister Abbott said the question of a Canadian dollar loan to the United Kingdom has not been raised.

Mr. Abbott said that should Britain decide to make the pound convertible he would not exclude the possibility of the "United States giving some assistance." Canada, as a dollar country, would participate in such assistance.

"But that is all very speculative," said Mr. Abbott.

The official said that if Britain comes forward with a plan for freeing sterling she will undoubtedly approach the United States for a loan or drawing account. The United States likely would ask that Canada be brought in on the loan.

After the Second World War, Britain, with her dollar reserves depleted, obtained a loan of $4,350,000,000 from the United States and of $1,250,000,000 from Canada.

Britain drew all but about $65,000,000 from the Canadian loan. The first payment of interest and principal was made last December.

Mr. Abbott said recently in the Commons that no consideration has been given to deferring repayment of the loan to permit Britain to buy more goods in Canada.

Two injuries were reported. One firefighter was overcome by smoke and another suffered a smashed nose.

The blaze broke out yesterday afternoon at the huge plant of the General Storage Co. Morrison said it apparently was caused by sparks from welders working in the building.

Army Wipes Out Davis Conviction

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Army has wiped out conviction by court martial in Korea of Pte. Roy Davis of Vancouver, who was charged with attempted rape and conduct to the prejudice of military discipline.

The court martial sentenced Davis, one of three soldiers charged after the death of a Korean, to 18 months' imprisonment. On review of the evidence, army headquarters erased the rape charge and cut the sentence to four months which Davis had already served.

Wednesday night the army said that the prejudicial-conduct charge also has been dismissed.

(Through an editorial error, The Canadian Press Thursday failed to report the erasing of the prejudicial-conduct charge, leaving the impression that Pte. Davis's conviction still stood. The Canadian Press regrets any inconvenience this error may have caused Pte. Davis.)

Lightning Kills 3 Durham Cows

CAVAN—(ENS) — Lightning killed three Durham cattle on the eighth line of Cavan Tuesday night, but three calves which were with them under an elm tree were not touched.

The cows, owned by E. L. Armstrong, were three of the best in his herd and it is believed they, together with their calves, were trying to get out of the rain during a thunderstorm when a bolt of lightning struck the tree, killing the three cows.

The continuous bawling of the three calves late Wednesday afternoon attracted the attention of Mrs. Ira Gills who lives near the pasture and she sent her son Howard to investigate.

He found the bodies of the three cows lying under the elm and three hungry calves standing nearby.

Ontario To Give 37½% Toward Dam Building

TORONTO (CP)—The federal and provincial governments have entered into an agreement by which each will contribute 37½ per cent towards construction of the Glen Allan dam on the Conestoga River, near Brantford, Premier Frost and Development Minister Griesinger announced yesterday.

Estimated cost of the dam is $5,009,500 with the benefitting municipalities contributing the remaining 25 per cent. The scheme is part of the Grand River conservation system.

"The contributions are made by the two governments on the condition that the conservation program in the Grand Valley, and other flood control, will be greatly accelerated," said Mr. Griesinger.

The Glen Allan Dam, to be situated 1½ miles above the hamlet of that name, will have a drainage control area of 219.5 square miles above the dam. A V-shaped reservoir will be formed with arms 5½ miles long.

The dam itself will be 1,800 feet long and 90 feet high with a 20-foot roadway across the top. It will be earth-filled with a concrete spillway, and will take roughly two years to build.

Britain Has Fewer Young People

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain has fewer young people than 20 years ago, her houses are smaller, more people live alone and more than one in three of its families has no fixed bath. The main occupation still is shopkeeping, followed by public service and defence.

These are some of the glimpses of changes in British life between 1931 and 1951 given in a preliminary report on the 1951 census issued yesterday.

The report showed there were 48,840,700 persons living in England, Scotland and Wales April 8, 1951, 23,416,800 males and 25,423,900 females. In 1931 there were 39,952,377 of whom 20,819,367 were women.

Since 1931, the proportion of young men between the ages of 15 and 34 fell from 33.8 per cent to 27.9 per cent of the population. Men over 65 now formed 9.3 per cent of the total, against 6.6 per cent in 1931.

The percentage of young women dropped from 33 to 26.9 per cent, while that of the over-65s rose from 8.1 to 12.3.

Duplessis Presents Case For Re-Election In Quebec

QUEBEC (CP)—The Quebec government of Premier Duplessis, in office since 1944, places its case for re-election in the hands of 2,250,000 voters next Wednesday.

The 62-year-old Premier's highly-organized Union Nationale party seeks a third consecutive term on the ground its leadership of French-Canada has brought greater prosperity and industrial growth than ever before.

A reorganized Liberal party, badly defeated in 1948 elections and now led by 45-year-old Georges Lapalme, says the government is expensive and corrupt and needs to be changed.

91 U.N. CANDIDATES

The Premier's party has put up 91 candidates for the 92 provincial Legislature seats of which it won 82 four years ago. It offers no opposition to Rene Chaloult, spokesman in the Legislature for Quebec Nationalist Groups, concerned with French-Canada's rights under Confederation.

The Liberals have candidates in every seat.

Publicity in all forms with the exception of television, not yet organized, has been poured at voters and the quiet of summer nights is rent by campaign oratory.

The bachelor premier celebrating a quarter century of service as a Legislature member, is one of the star campaigners. At the start, his party announced he would make about a dozen speeches. The number has been doubled.

His personal campaign for re-election in his home-town of Three Rivers is the main centre of attraction.

The Liberal candidate is J.A. Mongrain, 43-year-old mayor, who crossed political swords with the Premier over collapse of the $3,000,000 government-built Three Rivers bridge in 1950.

CAMPAIGN HOT

Campaigning also is hot in rural Joliette, 40 miles northeast of Montreal, where Liberal leader Lapalme has tackled Labor Minister Antonio Barrette, often mentioned when the question of Premier Duplessis' eventual successor as Union Nationale chief is discussed.

There are 57 candidates other than Union Nationale and Liberal party men. Twenty-three represent the C.C.F. party which has socialist aims, and four Communist-line candidates are running under the "Labor-Progressive" title Thirty candidates have various independent affiliations.

The C.C.F. and Labor-Progressive groups have concentrated their campaign largely on 16 Montreal district ridings whose population of 1,725,000 is about one-third of all that of Quebec province.

Church Suggests Wife Stealers Flogged

LONDON (Reuters)—The newspaper of the Church of England suggested today that "wife-stealers" be flogged.

The newspaper said:

"There is a class of men fond of assuring other men's wives how willingly they would go through fire and torment for them.

"Ultimately, they very often become co-respondents in divorce cases.

"It might have a salutary effect on the statistics of divorce if such men had to prove their devotion by feeling the whip on their backs."

Report Mayor Being Sued

THREE RIVERS, Que. (CP)—Mayor J. A. Mongrain of Three Rivers, Liberal candidate in Three Rivers against Premier Duplessis in the July 16 provincial election, said last night he is being sued by Mayor Charles LaFontaine of Ville St. Michel for $100,000 for alleged defamation of character.

Mayor Mongrain said Mayor LaFontaine contended in his petition that Mr. Mongrain had libelled him at a press conference at St. Hyacinthe in connection with the election campaign.

Earlier yesterday in Montreal, Mayor LaFontaine was disqualified by Mr. Justice Harry Batshaw of Superior Court in connection with ar allegation that the mayor in 1950 had illegally acquired lots belonging to the municipality near Montreal.

The judgment also directed that Mayor LaFontaine can hold no public office in the community for five years. The action was taken by Noel Groleau, resident and elector of Ville St. Michel.

Hit Machine With Truck 'Deliberately'

Judge Rejects Story Told By Tom Hughes Makes $525 Award

Judge J. A. McGibbon, Lindsay, has found that Tommy Hughes, the auto-wrecker, on March 9, 1951, deliberately backed his heavy truck into a soil-testing machine that had been erected on his property.

In a written judgment Judge McGibbon said he did not believe Hughes' story that he backed into the machine by accident. He awarded the Franki Compressed Pile Co. of Canada Ltd. $525.10 damages and costs of the court action.

"I do not believe the evidence which was given by Mr. Hughes nor by Mrs. Ruth Masters," said Judge McGibbon. "I do believe the evidence given by Mr. Deakon (engineer in charge of the soil testing), that Hughes deliberately drove his car up to where the machine was stationed, he opened the left-hand door, looked backwards, then put the truck in reverse and deliberately backed into the machine causing the damage in question.

RIGHT ON PROPERTY

"The plaintiff company had a perfect right to go on the property. They were acting in accordance with instructions received and in any event if they were trespassers, which they were not, the actions of . . . Hughes were of such a wilful and deliberate type that he would be liable for any damages resulting from his negligent and wilful act."

The land, consisting of two lots on the southwest corner of Monaghan Road and Gillespie St., was expropriated by the city from Hughes so Kenner Collegiate could be built.

TESTING SOIL

On March 9 the drilling crew went on the land, just north of Hughes' house, and set up their machine. Their purpose was to determine the type of soil they would encounter when they excavated for the foundations.

They testified that Hughes drove up twice to where they were working. The first time he ordered them off and they ceased work while they phoned to K. S. Wightman, superintendent of schools, for instructions. When they were assured they had a right to be there they resumed the drilling.

Hughes then drove up in a heavy truck, swerving at the last minute to miss a couple of men. Finally he allegedly backed the heavy truck into the drilling machinery, heavily damaging it.

W. J. Arthur Fair, Q. C., was counsel for Hughes, and Alex Elliott, Q. C., was counsel for the Franki Co.

PETERBOROUGH'S MARKET SQUARE parking lot is one of the best in the opinion of Canadian and American visitors as well as citizens. Being in the heart of the city, it is most convenient to the concentrated shopping centre. At 9.30 a.m. Thursday when this photo was taken there were 83 cars parked in the "stalls" inside the Square. The breakdown of licenses were from Ontario, 70, Ohio 8, New York State, 2, and Michigan, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, one each. On weekend mornings the American figures are much higher.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Import Cement But Shortage Hits Building

Construction of homes and other buildings is being hampered by shortage of cement. This is the peak demand season for cement and every summer about this time for the last two or three years, it has been in short supply.

In an effort to beat the shortage, at least two local distributors are importing cement from England and one is also going to import cement from the United States.

Cement production in Canada has increased five times above the 1946 output, but demand is still running ahead of the available supply.

Reason for the shortage, according to local dealers, is that thousands of barrels of cement are being poured into Hydro and defence projects daily. The total production of at least one branch plant is being devoted to top priority orders.

"If I had ten carloads, I could get rid of it all before five o'clock," said the manager of a large lumber company which handles cement. The situation has become worse during the last month or six weeks he said, and added that he did not have a single bag in stock, but expected to have some European cement arriving in a day or two.

A cement block manufacturer said that while his firm was still making concrete blocks, "we would certainly be making more, if we could get enough cement."

TURNED DOWN JOBS

A concrete contractor said he had turned down seven or eight jobs in the last two weeks and that during the last couple of weeks he had not been able to obtain a bag of cement anywhere.

Large projects do not appear to be affected as seriously as smaller buildings jobs, as the big construction firms which handle such contracts buy in larger amounts and are able to obtain priorities if the work is connected with Hydro or the defence program. It is individuals who require a bag or two for small jobs that are really feeling the pinch.

Two of the largest Canadian producers, Canada Cement and St. Mary's Cement Co. Ltd., have boosted their production in recent years considerably and both companies will have new kilns in operation late this year. These will increase cement production in Ontario by another 2,000,000 barrels.

For the present, however, a cross section of local distributors and contractors say they see no immediate improvement in the supply situation for the next few weeks, during the season of peak demand for cement for all types of construction.

Lighter Paving May Solve Romaine St. Wrangle

A long-standing dispute between the city and the residents of Romaine St. who live between Park St. and Monaghan Rd. may be resolved as the result of a hearing Thursday before the Municipal Board. The city proposed to pave the section of Romaine between Park and Monaghan for $42,463.86 and would pay 47 per cent of the cost. It is the third time since 1949 that this problem has arisen. Each time the residents have opposed the move.

Thursday a deputation of seven citizens listened as Garfield Bryant of 560 Romaine St. told the Municipal Board that 45 out of 50 taxpayers in that section, owning more than two thirds of the frontage, objected to the program.

Mr. Bryant said that the city proposed to pave 1,800 feet of Romaine St. only, instead of the full 3,600 feet. The street, he said, is narrow; it is not a main artery and was never intended for heavy traffic though it is on the city bus route.

"It was not requested by the taxpayers nor were they consulted," he said.

COST PROBLEM

But the biggest objection raised by Mr. Bryant was the cost of the paving.

"We're not road engineers," he said, "but we have sufficient intelligence to know that the road surface can be fixed for a quarter of that cost."

The residents on Romaine St. cannot afford to meet their share of such a local improvement, he claimed. Of the 50 taxpayers at least 15 have very limited incomes as they are widows and pensioners. They are finding the rates heavy enough as it is.

Mr. Bryant agreed with City Engineer A. E. Chalmers that Romaine St. is "awful." The road has not been resurfaced in 20 years, he said. It has been oiled a couple of times and patched occasionally.

"We agree that something should be done but we don't want a $43,000 job."

"Only 300 yards to the south there is a first class highway. Nobody is living on it and it can be used by light and heavy traffic."

MAYOR'S SUGGESTION

Mayor Hugh Waddell broke the deadlock by suggesting that signs prohibiting parking on both sides of the narrow (31 ft.) street could be erected. And heavy traffic could be re-routed. This would leave the way open for a lighter paving job to be done; and it would be less expensive.

After a brief discussion involving Chairman George A. Lister, Mr. Bryant and Laurie Mitchell, manager of the Peterborough Bus Lines, Mr. Bryant conceded that there was no strong objection to the buses running along Romaine St.

Mr. Mitchell explained that this route was included in the 1927 franchise; that it would be uneconomical to re-route the buses along Lansdowne St.; and the Romaine St. residents themselves might not like having to walk the extra distance in rainy or cold weather.

Chairman Lister asked Engineer Chalmers to think over the problem of laying a lighter and less expensive road surface on Romaine St.

"I think you're near agreement," he told the two parties.

Mr. Bryant said he would try and arrange a meeting with the Romaine St. taxpayers to determine their wishes. Then they could have another meeting with city council and try to work out a satisfactory solution.

Alderman Douglas Miller, chairman of finance in city council, asked Mr. Bryant if he was prepared to see any increase in taxes. Even a light-surface road will boost taxes some, he pointed out.

Mr. Bryant did not commit himself. He said the matter would be brought up at the meeting among the Romaine St. residents.

The hearing broke up in a friendly fashion with Chairman Lister promising to accept Mr. Bryant's invitation to come down for a visit and have a cup of tea. The only stipulation was that there must be agreement between the two parties first.

Thunder Storms Start Bush Fires

Thunderstorms have caused three fires in the Trent Forestry district during the past two weeks. The largest, in Bruton township, spread over four and one-half acres, the next, in Harburn township, destroyed 200 square feet, and in Monmouth township, the smallest, destroying ten square feet.

Watchful officials fear a rapid rise in fire hazard with the present high tourist influx and constant warm dry weather.

An air survey of forest damage by tent caterpillars that have completed the larva stage shows that townships of Chandos, Harvey, Methuen, Belmont, Dummer have suffered high infestation. Tourist centres in Haliburton were only slightly hit but some of the back townships of that county were the most ravaged of all districts.

PHEASANT CHICKS

A total of 25,000 pheasant chicks have been delivered from the Codrington Bird Farm to lake front townships in Durham and Northumberland Counties. The chicks, reared by sportsmen's organizations, conservation clubs and under township auspices, are now fully enough grown to expect reasonable chance of survival, until the shooting season.

The transfer of undersize or stunted bass is being made in several parts of the Quinte forestry district from crowded to under-populated bodies of water. The operation is going forward in the following lakes: from Green to Whitefish in Brougham township; from Wabun Lake in Brougham to Calabogie Lake and from Crooked Lake to Cedar and Mazinaw Lakes in Abinger township.

Homeward-bound tourist fishermen have been checked in the Renfrew area with five bulging sacks of fish all within legal limits, pickerel, perch, sunfish and rock bass.

Lunch Hours Cut For School Sport

Rural students who have to leave school early, and urban students who have work to do after 4 p.m., aren't going to miss out on athletics at Kenner Collegiate.

Thursday night the Board of Education agreed to cut the lunch period at Kenner to one hour—11:45 a.m. to 12:45 p.m. The extra 35 minutes will be tacked on at the end of the day as an "activity" period.

This will give the students a chance to play softball, basketball or whatever "activity" is planned for the period.

Formerly, students living outside the city had to forego after-school fun so they could catch their bus for home. And a large proportion of the city students had jobs to do after 4 p.m. and had to hurry away as soon as school was out.

Dr. Eldon P. Ray, principal of Kenner, is keen on the idea. This way the fun and games will be part of the school curriculum and everybody will take part.

Dr. Ray said he plans four of these "activity" periods a week.

The fifth period will a "help" period. That is, students who are having difficulty with some subject will be able to get extra instruction from their teachers.

Board members thought it was a good idea and approved it.

Delay Decision On Paving Monaghan Rd. S.

The Ontario Municipal Board on Thursday reserved decision on paving of Monaghan Rd., between Braidwood Ave. and the southern limit of Riverside Drive, at a cost of $79,715.59.

It is the most expensive of five paving projects, totalling $219,049.30, being undertaken this year by city council.

There were no objectors present at the hearing Thursday though Chairman George A. Lister had a petition signed by 35 residents who didn't want the project gone ahead with.

Peter Dominik of 568 Romaine St. suggested the reason there were no objectors was that the city had not notified local residents of a Municipal Board hearing. True, the city had inserted a legal notice said Mr. Dominik, but few people read legal notices.

Mr. Dominik attended the hearing to protest the paving of a section on Romaine Street.

REASONS FOR PAVING.

City Engineer A. E. Chalmers gave the city's reasons for wanting this section of Monaghan Rd. paved. It is a main feeder for traffic coming in from adjoining townships; there has been a large housing development in the south-end of the city and the road is becoming more heavily used all the time; Kenner Collegiate will increase that traffic; and in the final analysis it is a question of maintenance costs.

The road is classed as a thoroughfare by the Department of Highways.

"Traffic is becoming so heavy that the existing type of road (mulch mix) doesn't stand up," said Mr. Chalmers.

Roy L. Kennedy, the second member of the Board, was curious to know what percentage of the ratepayers affected were against the paving project. Thirty five had signed a petition but he didn't know how many lived in that area.

The two-man Board decided to reserve their decision and said they would go out and inspect the road personally.

Sunday School Moves Into Confederation

Permission for St. Paul's Presbyterian Church to use Confederation school as a Sunday school was granted Thursday by the Board of Education.

To accommodate Presbyterians in the rapidly-growing south end, a second church is being built—this one on Park St. South. But until the new church is erected the children will attend Sunday school in Confederation school.

G. Wilson Craw said that church members hope to begin work on the new Presbyterian church this fall. It will be built just north of Confederation school on Park St. South.

The request was granted and the working out of the details was left to the property committee.

Committee To Consider Whether City Should Abandon Rent Controls

Provincial Government Intends To Continue Controls In Peterborough Unless City Council Asks For Removal

City council will consider in committee a question of retreat from rent controls which has been submitted by the select committee of the Legislature investigating leaseholds and rentals. Sarnia and St. Thomas council decided this week to retain the control system indefinitely in their replies to the provincial committee. The circular letter to municipalities was in part as follows: "Our committee is giving serious consideration to the advisability of having certain areas of the province exempt from rent control.

"We felt that it might be preferable to have rent control retained in your municipality. However, if your council feels that the municipality should be exempted from rent control it would be helpful to us to have your recommendation before August 1.

TO PASS ORDER

"We plan to recommend to the Ontario Government that an order be passed as of September 2, 1952, exempting certain municipalities from the rental regulations. Then there will be a six months waiting period, and the order will become effective on March 2, 1953.

"If a council changes its opinion on the question of exemption, the municipality, during the six months' waiting period, has the right to have the controls retained. . . ."

Attitude of Sarnia council was summarized in the comment of Mayor W. C. Nelson that controls should be retained "for a time, at least."

Some members of St. Thomas council contended that adjustments in many rents were required in that city. Some, they said, were too high, others too low. One instance was cited in which a rental of $75 a month was allowed, but another owner, with just as good accommodation, if not better, was not permitted to raise the rent he is receiving. Aldermen agreed that inequalities exist under the present controls.

Peterborough's council has referred this letter from the select committee for discussion in committee.

Peterborough Spray To Clear Starlings

A special spray used successfully by Ronald McPherson, sanitary inspector, in Peterborough to combat starlings is going to be tried in Port Hope.

The Port Hope council decided at a meeting Wednesday night to use the spray in the Chapel St. district which is infested with starlings. Cobourg also decided this week to try the spray.

The spray doesn't kill the starlings, but drives them away.

Peterborough 4-H Clubs Going To O.A.C. at Guelph Tuesday....Four Buses Chartered With Accommodation for 150 Members....Holsteins Average $348 At Oakville Sale....Juniors From Britain To Tour U.S....Farm Forum Audience Estimated at 1,200,000.

The boys and girls of Peterborough's 4-H Clubs are going on a bus trip to the Ontario Agricultural College Tuesday, July 15.

Four buses are leaving the King St. terminal at 8 a.m. and are expected home about 10.30 p.m., Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative, informed the Examiner yesterday.

Between 140 and 150 club members are expected on this educational outing, the first major event of the season for the young rural folks of the junior agricultural clubs of the county.

Peterborough Kiwanis Club, Federation of Agriculture and the Hog Producers' Association are jointly sponsoring the trip with the department, and some of their members will likely go along with the youngsters.

The program includes luncheon at O.A.C. at 12.15 p.m., followed by visits and explanation in a round of the following departments: animal husbandry, field husbandry, agricultural engineering, and botany; ending with supper at 5 p.m.

The club members will be accompanied by their respective leaders.

For nearly all the young people this will be their first visit to O.A.C., and for some it may be an inspiration to become students there after their collegiate and high school years. Ken Best, assistant agricultural representative, will be with the clubs on this trip.

GUESTS AT WOODSTOCK

Ontario Junior Farmers were hosts at a dinner in Woodstock last week to the young men and women of corresponding agricultural clubs in Great Britain who are concluding a month's visit in this province. Before returning to their homes they are making an extended tour in the United States.

C. D. Graham, deputy Minister of Agriculture, said the Junior Farmers of Great Britain and Canada belonged to a great organization, and would be representatives of future international organizations.

"Together we are building a better relationship between countries that are standing today for what is right," Mr. Graham said.

In their visit to the United States, Mr. Graham said, the young party from Britain would meet many of members of 4-H clubs, and thereby extend the spirit of goodwill and mutual interest and understanding among young people of international agriculture who will be its leaders of tomorrow.

AN ELMCROFT SIRE

Norloch Sylvanus is the name of the 14-month-old herdsire purchased by Victor Bridge & Sons, Kincardine, Ont., to head their herd of 85 purebred Holsteins. This high class herdsire was secured from Norloch Farm, Beachville, Ont. He is exceptionally well-bred, his three nearest dams having an average production of 23,456 lbs. milk containing 911 lbs. fat, average test 3.88 percent butterfat.

The sire of Sylvanus is Elmcroft Sylv-O-Gram classified as "XXX," the highest rating in Selective Registration and named All-Canadian Senior Yearling bull in 1945. The dam is Locust Lodge Bess Colantha who was classified as "Very Good" in Selective Registration and topped the J. E. Houck Dispersal Sale at Brampton in 1947 at $3,500. She herself has a yearly record as a four-year-old on three times-a-day milking of 20,430 lbs. milk containing 834 lbs. fat, average test 4.08 percent butterfat and is a daughter of the noted foundation cow Locust Lodge Inka Queen ("Very Good") who has a yearly record of 862 lbs. fat from 21,728 lbs. milk and a ten lactation lifetime total production of 177,135 lbs. milk, 7,114 lbs. fat, average test 4.02 percent butterfat.

WITH DAIRY FARMERS

Don Fairbairn has joined the Dairy Farmers of Canada as executive assistant to Publicity Director, O. J. W. Shugg.

Formerly radio director of E. W. Reynolds Ltd., advertising, Mr. Fairbairn brings to his new post a wide experience in both the fields of agriculture and publicty. Born and raised on the home farm in the Niagara Peninsula, he attended Beamsville High School, Hamilton Normal and the Ontario Agricultural College before entering the field of radio as a farm commentator, writer and producer in 1935. In 1939 he joined the CBC farm broadcast department as the first commentator, hired by the first supervisor of that department, O. J. W. Shugg. Thirteen years later, the two men again find themselves closely associated.

During the war Don Fairbairn served with the R.C.A.F. in both Canada and Europe, first as a radar mechanic and later as a public relations officer. On his return to Canada, he was producer in charge of rehabilitation programs for the CBC and then sales representative in Commercial Division before resigning in 1947 to resume a microphone career as writer and commentator. When Andy Clark, the originator of Neighbourly News died in 1948, Mr. Fairbairn succeeded him and is a regular Sunday morning visitor in thousands of Ontario and Quebec homes. He also directs Dairy Farmers of Canada, "Down Dairy Lane" heard every Thursday on the Trans-Canada network of the CBC.

HOW TO KILL A CLUB

Ten ways to kill a Club are listed in the Oxford Junior Farmer News, the editor of which is Jack Cockburn.

Here are the tested lethal methods: Don't attend....If you come, be sure to be late....Don't come if the weather doesn't suit you....If you attend, find fault with the way the Club is run.... Don't accept an office. It is easier to criticise....Be annoyed if not appointed to an office....Don't act if appointed....Say nothing if asked your opinion by the chairman; talk loud and long afterward....Say it is run by a clique, but do nothing about it.... Be always late paying your dues; or better still, don't pay at all.... Let the Club starve to death.... Don't solicit new members unless they are grouchers like yourself....

QUALITY IN SMALL HERD

During the past year only twenty-four Holstein cows in Canada have received the highest official grade of *Excellent for conformation. These animals were widely scattered from coast-to-coast and it is therefore most unusual to find that two animals in the herd of a small breeder have been rated *Excellent. Both were bred by their present owner, Napoleon Proulx, Cumberland, Ont. One named Flossy Perfection Epworth is now six years old and the other Sylvia Ormsby Fern is eight years old. Both had previously been classified as "Very Good" and were raised to *Excellent by Official Selective Registration Inspector, Wray G. Taylor, Brantford.

HUGE AUDIENCE

Farm Forum listening audience was estimated at 1,200,000 persons across Canada by Robert Graham of CBC at the recent meeting in Montreal of the National Forum. That number was based on a survey.

Wellington Sutton of Peterborough presented a Gagnon wood carving, "The Reapers", to Clare Burt who has retired as Ontario Forum secretary. H. H. Hannam was elected chairman of the national executive.

Topics for next fall and winter were thoroughly discussed in the suggestions received from forums. Final drafting of the program was left with the national farm forum board.

Twilight Meeting

Everett Biggs, dairy commissioner with the Ontario Department of Agriculture, will be the speaker at a twilight meeting of the Holstein Breeder's Association Wednesday, July 16, at the farm of Charles Bolton, Douro.

The evening program will include judging competitions for which prizes are offered.

The Bolton farm is on the River Road, about five miles from Peterborough. This is the Peterborough-Lakefield road, on the east side of the river. Stan. Wood, secretary, says "you can't miss it." And also, "everybody is invited."

Prior to his appointment as dairy commissioner, Mr. Biggs spent a scholarship period in Great Britain, and is well informed about British agriculture.

WELLINGTON SUTTON, Otonabee, chairman of the Ontario Radio Farm Forum, inducting Clifford Waite of Toronto as secretary of the provincial Forum, who assumes the position vacated by Clare Burt. The new secretary worked as a farm hand in York county, and with the R.C.A.F. in World War II he was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Clifford Waite Of York Ontario Forum Secretary

Appointment of Clifford Waite of Toronto as secretary of the Ontario Farm Radio Forum was recently announced by the president, Wellington Sutton of Otonabee township.

The Forum comprises 793 discussion groups in rural Ontario, and is one of the most important mediums of adult education in the province, particularly in its county memberships. The season of broadcasts extends from late November to the end of March. Summaries of group findings and opinions are compiled at headquarters in Toronto and are forwarded to government and other authorities. By this means the voice of the Ontario farmers becomes an effective agency for democratic action.

Clifford Waite was born in York County where he worked as a farmhand in his youth. Last winter he was fieldman for the Ontario Folk School Council, and had opportunity to become familiar with farm organizations and the educational needs of rural folk. A graduate of two universities with post-graduate degrees in Education and English, he served with the R.C.A.F. during World War II and was awarded the D.F.C. He was formerly director of instructors of Frontier College, an organization devoted to the education of labourers in isolated work camps.

Mr. Waite is married. His wife, the former Beth Holder, is an Oxford County farm girl, a graduate of McMaster University and the Ontario College of Education.

In taking up his new post he does so with the confidence of the Ontario Farm Radio Forum Council that the Farm Forum movement has an important part to play if the farmers of Ontario are to have the facts on which to base an enlightened opinion.

Stuart Hall 30 Years On Simcoe St.

Thursday, July 10, was the 30th anniversary of the day Stuart G. Hall, Massey-Harris agent at Simcoe and Queen Streets, reported to the late Duncan F. Drummond for work in the retailing of farm implements and other equipment of agriculture.

The simple incidents of that beginning in business were recalled to him this week as he saw the old store premises being torn down by the contractor the city has employed to demolish its vacant municipal building.

Tumbling bricks from the top of the three-storey wall accentuated the sense of time's flight and its accompanyng changes since the summer of 1922.

The new City Hall up George St. is as modern in its furnishings and facilities as the latest forage harvester of the farm fields.

The business which Mr. Hall has been carrying on as sole proprietor since 1941 had its inception in 1898 in the partnership of the late Mr. Drummond and Senator J. J. Duffus under the name of Drummond & Duffus. It was dissolved in 1911 when Senator Duffus acquired the Ford automobile agency.

The implement store at that time was in the premises vacated this year at the old city building by the Utilities Commission. Incidentally, it has been located on Simcoe St. continuously since 1898. The late Norman Andrews became associated with Mr. Drummond in 1906, remaining for some years until he was appointed a Massey-Harris blockman.

INVITED BY MR. DRUMMOND

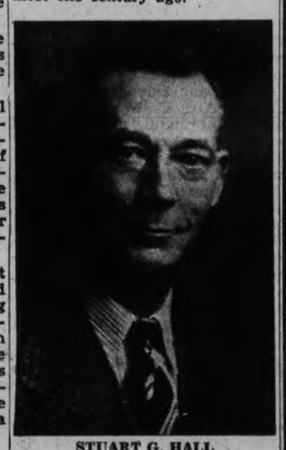
"I had never thought of joining Mr. Drummond in business until one day he suggested that I go in with him, and if I liked it after a year's experience I could have a partner's share. That was in 1922, and the arrangement developed as Mr. Drummond suggested. It was a very agreeable association.

Finally, in 1932 Mr. Drummond decided to retire, and Mr. Andrew and I took over the business. In the meantime, Mr. Drummond and I had moved in 1924 from the municipal building to the store at 176 Simcoe St., which is now occupied by Pilon Marine Sales & Service.

Mr. Andrew was with me nine years until his death in 1941. That ended the partnership of Hall & Andrew. In 1945 I transferred the business to the present location at 105 Simcoe St., at the southwest corner of Queen St."

Mr. Hall was born in his family's old home, lot 31, concession 7, of Otonabee, on the boundary between that township and Douro, about seven miles east of Peterborough. The homestead is now occupied by his brother, James Hall, Their father came from Ireland to Peterborough county almost one century ago.



STUART G. HALL

"Every farmer knows the changes which have taken place in agricultural operations during those 30 years since 1922," Mr. Hall commented to the Examiner. "The gasoline engine brought about a mechanical revolution in the mechanics of farming.

In those other days before farms became almost entirely mechanized, the binder was about the biggest machine in common use. There were quite a number of threshing mills, but a great deal of the threshing chores was custom work. There were also some big hay loaders in demand and use.

In the days of horse power the average farm equipment used to be a couple of single plows, a two-furrow gang plow; seed drill, cultivator, harrows, mower, dump rakes, and may be a hay loader.

Today most farmers buy the big combines, balers and forage harvesters. Nearly everybody has a tractor. Some farmers have two of them, and with that power the machines are bigger, such as the seed drills. It is not so long ago since the horse-collar rack was conspicuous in every farm implement store, and buggys, surreys, democrats and wagons used to be carried in stock."

Mr. Hall remarked that the service department was always an important branch of the business. Even so, it is more necessary than ever to keep an ample supply of parts because the new machines do better and faster work, and maintenance requires prompt attention.

Apart from his business Mr. Hall has taken an active interest in the Peterborough Exhibition, the Peterborough Plowmen's Association and latterly the organizing of

James W. Innes Dies At 79, Noted Breeder

James W. Innes, noted Woodstock, Ont., stockman, died July 3rd in his 80th year and was buried July 5th at Harrington in Northwest Oxford, where he was born.

"The city devours life but the soil creates it," was a favorite maxim of Mr. Innes, and he raised his five sons to share his own love of the soil and his pride in the breeding of fine livestock. All have become well-known in the Canadian agricultural circles, Durno, Sandy, Bruce and Gordon all have Holstein herds, and George is a Jersey breeder. George is a past president of the Canadian Jersey Cattle Club while Durno is the immediate past-president of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada and Sandy is the chairman of the extension committee for the Holstein Association. Also surviving are Mrs. Innes and a daughter Hazel.

Mr. Innes was active in many phases of public life. In 1925 he was elected warden of Oxford county in a contest that required 56 ballots for a decision. In October of that year he ran as Liberal candidate for the House of Commons, but was defeated by the late Hon. Donald Sutherland by 200 votes.

For three years he was president of the Woodstock District Farmers Club, and he was two years president of Woodstock Agricultural Society. A member of Chalmers United Church, Woodstock, he was a member of its board for many years, and was one of the oldest members of King Solomon Masonic Lodge. He was president of Woodstock Rotary Club in 1942.

James W. Innes was a son of Alex Innes who came to this country from Scotland and settled in Zorra township of Oxford County in 1842. James W. moved to West Oxford in 1896. He was a keen importer of purebred Clydesdales and later became interested in Holsteins and Jerseys, becoming a member of the Holstein-Friesian Association in 1917.

Many famous Holsteins were developed at his City View Farms, these including Abbekeker Sylvius Lad that won over 50 Grand Championships at major shows throughout the Dominion including the Royal in 1927, 1931 and 1932; Alcartra Colantha Ormsby, All-American two-year-old heifer in 1925 and All-American Aged Cow in 1928, also Royal Grand Champion in 1928; Aggie Sylvia 3rd, the All-American three-year-old in 1928 who also combined with her maternal brother, Abbekerk Sylvius Lad to win the All-American Produce of Dam awards in 1927 and 1928. He also bred C. V. Darkness Walker, who was All-American three-year-old in 1941 for Fran-Lo Farms, Hopkins, Minn.

Ontario Harvest Spotty Some Counties Cut Wheat

Progress of harvesting in Ontario varies sectionally according to the weather, as usual.

Western areas of the province appear to have fared more fortunately with timely rain in some of the western counties, as compared with the east, especially in the last ten days or more, as indicated in the weekly report of the Department of Agriculture.

In Grey "much excellent quality well cured hay was harvested in the last week to ten days. In a few areas the yield may be slightly less than last year.

Two rains last week "greatly benefitted all crops" in Peel where the yield of hay is down about 25 per cent, but the quality is "extra high."

Wheat has been ripening fast in Peel, Huron, Halton and elsewhere, and prospects promised the begining of the grain harvest this week. A large part of the wheat crop in Kent has been cut.

Hay will not average 50 per cent in Lambton. Normal marketing of finished beef cattle are reported in Middlesex, and some feeders and stockers are being bought. Corn has been making good growth generally.

A great deal of Durham's hay has been saved in top condition. In Glengarry the hay crop ranges from poor to excellent in different localities.

In Russell, hay is lighter than last year, but "will be a good crop." Grain is spotty, and will be only half a crop on low land.

Planes Leave Enemy Capital Flaming Rubble

By STAN CARTER

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—United Nations aircraft from five countries today turned the North Korean capital of Pyongyang into flames and rubble in one of the most devastating air raids of the Korean War.

Planes from every Allied fighter-bomber squadron based in Korea and from the United States carriers Princeton and Bon Homme Richard and the British carrier Ocean made three separate attacks on Pyongyang.

They were aided by U.S. Marine land-based planes, and Australian, South African and South Korean fighter-bombers attached to the U.S. Fifth Air Force.

RAID TARGETS

The planes destroyed or damaged the communications headquarters for the North Korean and Chinese Communist armies, three munitions factories, two supply and storage centres, a factory where telephones and other communications equipment were made, five other industrial factories, a roundhouse and railroad repair yards, the motor pool and two vehicle repair shops, a Communist headquarters and troop area, and a troop replacement centre.

I watched the Pyongyang raid from a T-33 jet reconnaissance plane piloted by Maj. James F. Crutchfield of Tacoma, Wash.

Black smoke spiralled thousands of feet into the air.

FLAMES AT 9,000 FEET

When F-80 Shooting Star jets dropped their bombs on a munitions factory, secondary explosions ripped across the area like a string of firecrackers. A ball of fire billowed up 9,000 feet. There was a lot of flak over Pyongyang, thrown up by about 100 heavy guns, some of them radar-controlled, and about 50 automatic weapons.

Navy Panther jets and propellor-driven planes peppered the anti-aircraft guns, but did not silence all of them.

Allied fighter-bombers went in with 1,080 bombs as soon as navy and marine planes had completed their first strafing and bombing runs. One hour after the raid began, the smoke over Pyongyang was so thick I could no longer see the ground.

"The smoke was so dense we had to use instruments," said Capt. Edward S. Fitzgerald an F-80 pilot.

Pilots said the raid probably hurt the Communists more than any other air attack of the war except the hydro-electric raid last month.

"With that communications centre gone, the Communist brass at Pyongyang will probably have trouble dialing Kaesong tonight," one said.

GATHERING STORM — Silhouetted against a sky darkened by gathering thunder clouds, three horses plod homeward to a farm near Yorkton, Sask., in this striking photo.

REUNITED—The affection of a boy and a dog is strongly illustrated in the case of six-year-old Omar Martel, of Edmonton, and his canine friend, Jerry, owned by a neighbour. Five times the neighbour sent the dog to different points in the country. Each time Jerry made his way back to young Omar. The last time Jerry took two months to travel the 45 miles. Omar's mother tried unsuccessfully many times to buy the dog. She said she will try again because the two, she feels, belong together.

W.I. Learn About Summer Meals

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—Eighteen members were present for the July meeting of the Lakefield Branch of the Women's Institute held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. Waldon. The president, Mrs. Howard Bullock was in charge.

Mrs. Wilbert Abbott, Home Economics convener, was responsible for the program and gave an enjoyable reading "Women Versus Machinery." A demonstration on the making of fancy sandwiches was given by Mrs. Eldon Johnston and Mrs. Roy Farrow demonstrated arrangements for vegetable plates. She was assisted by Mrs. T. Payton. Roll call was answered by "What's your beef and what do you want to do about it?"

Plans were made for a picnic which will be held in place of the regular August meeting at the home of Mrs. Joseph Moore. Following the dinner the ladies will proceed to the Nepheline mines for an inspection of the mines. Here they will be guests of members of Nephton Women's Institute. # More Tourists Ask Information

LAKEFIELD, (ENS). — Lakefield's Chamber of Commerce Information Booth has had the busiest season to date with 74 parties, totalling 256 persons given needed information in the 18 days since the booth opened this season.

This was by direct contact, not requests made by wire, letter or phone, and was for accommodations in the Kawartha district. A total of 453 persons have come to the booth for general information. This was a report given by Mrs. William O'Brien, who is in charge of the booth, at a recent meeting of the Chamber of Commerce. Mrs. O'Brien says that requests have almost doubled that of a similar period last year.

The board of directors decided that only members of the Chamber will be allowed to be supporters of the booth. This fee is set at $5. Unless a member has paid this fee no business inquiries to him will be forwarded. No letter or other advertising matter will be accepted by the booth attendant unless the person submitting it is a member of the organization and a supporter of the booth. The only exception will be for charitable institutions. The names of the supporters of the booth are posted outside for easy reference.

The hours for receiving information are from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. except on weekends when the time is extended until 10 p.m. or later if necessary.

Mrs. O'Brien stated that already a number of people have called at the booth and informed her that they were told by someone who had visited this district in the past couple of years to "Go to the Chamber of Commerce Booth at Lakefield. They will give you all the information you could possibly need, and are glad to do it."

President Harold Hamblin presided for the meeting during which plans were made for the opening of the fall season which will be a dinner meeting at Irwin Inn. Donald Hendren was appointed to be responsible for securing a guest speaker.

The secretary was instructed to send statements to advertisers in the circular and map printed by the Chamber this season who have not paid for their advertising.

Winnipeg Man Pilot Of Crashed Plane

EDMONTON (CP) — R. C. A. F. officials in Edmonton said last night the pilot of a Mustang fighter which crashed in the Yukon yesterday was Donald John Urquhart, 27, of Winnipeg.

Urquhart, a veteran of the Second World War, was an employee of Canadian Westinghouse Co., at Winnipeg. After discharge from the air force he joined the reserve force in October, 1950, at Hamilton.

Neither the plane nor the pilot's body has been recovered from Teslin Lake, near Whitehorse.

3,683 Polio Cases

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis reported yesterday that there were 3,683 cases of polio reported for the first half of 1952 in the United States—against 3,182 cases the first half of 1949, called the worst epidemic year in history.

Three Miners Jailed

DORTMUND, Germany (Reuters)—Three miners yesterday were sentenced to two months in jail for endangering the lives of their mates by smoking in a coal-mine shaft 1,400 feet underground.

Civil Rights Program Brings More Republican Headaches

CHICAGO (AP)—The official 1952 party platform won roaring approval late yesterday at the Republican convention. But its plank on civil rights came within a splinter of causing an angry floor fight.

The racial questions posed by the civil-rights issue had not been settled yesterday even while the 6,000-word platform was up for convention action.

Even as Senator Eugene Millikin of Colorado was reading the document, the threat of a civil-rights battle hung over the hall. That it never materialized was a tribute to Millikin, who had worked day and night to produce a plank acceptable to both north and south Republicans.

CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY

A few hours earlier, Harold C. Burton of New York called a strategy huddle of other Negro delegates to back a stronger plank. They had a substitute plank ready, but they were advised a floor fight probably would be futile.

Then the entire document came up for a vote. It carried by acclamation.

Such accord was a relief to many party leaders who had feared a platform battle would widen party wounds.

The civil-rights plank promises "federal legislation to further just and equitable treatment in the area of discriminatory employment practices." But it adds: "Federal action should not duplicate state efforts to end such practices."

The platform as a whole bristled with denunciation of President Truman's administration. It plotted a course for a "march into a new day." It promised to end what it called a corrupt socialistic government unable to cope with Communism and replace it with an efficient positive administration that would "wage peace and win it."

A United Textile Workers' (A.F.L.) statement decried the platform as "viciously reactionary" and "plainly antilabor."

After castigating the foreign policies of the Democratic administration, the platform pledged a build-up of air power and military might to match Russia.

For business it promised to "remove tax abuses and injurious price and wage controls."

FOR A PERFECT TEEN-AGE HAIR-DO, follow the advice of Stella Ming, clever Chinese hair stylist, who recommends a versatile cut that will allow you complete versatility. When you indulge in active sports, Stella suggests that you part your hair in the centre, catching it back into a soft chignon or modified pony's tail, to keep it looking neat (left). She says hair must be cut the way it grows (top centre). She firmly believes that if your hair has even the slightest tendency to wave, when it is properly cut and shaped, no setting at all will be necessary. Date time, of course, makes special demands on your hair. It must look sleek and smart all through the evening. Part your hair in the centre, and brush soft beau-catcher ringlets on your forehead and cheeks (lower centre). It is a wonderfully feminine style. On an afternoon shopping spree, seek a charmingly casual hair-do. Part your hair on the side, and let it fall in softly waved ringlet ends (right). A flick of the comb, and a little imagination on your part will keep your hair smartly groomed. But you must remember that the basis of any lovely hair style is the cut you start with.

Wife Of Regina Teacher Member Of Legislature

REGINA (CP)—The only woman member of the 52-seat Saskatchewan Legislature—and the only woman ever to represent Regina in the assembly—is Mrs. J. E. Cooper.

Mrs. Cooper, married to a Regina school teacher, says she first became interested in politics during her school-teaching days.

"You couldn't teach school during the depression and see what it did to children without feeling that something had to be done," she says.

As a consequence, Mrs. Cooper hopes to concentrate her efforts in the Legislature on education and welfare.

She is well known for her community work in Regina. For three years she was president of the Regina Council of Women and before that she was president of the board of directors of the Y.W.C.A. for several years.

Mrs. Cooper, a middle-aged woman, insists that she isn't a typical politician. She enjoyed the campaign leading up to the June 11 Saskatchewan general election but found it tiring.

A C.C.F. candidate, she was elected in Regina along with Labor Minister C. C. Williams and Provincial Treasurer C. M. Fines.

In her spare time, Mrs. Cooper does a great deal of reading. She also plays the piano "a little" and likes cooking. She is an active worker in Knox-Metropolitan United Church, where her pet project is marionette shows.

The last woman member of the Saskatchewan Legislature was Mrs. Qu'Appelle - Wolseley constituency for the C.C.F. from 1944 to 1948.

Iranian Women Career Minded, No Vote

By RENE LEGACE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—Iranian women, though still without voting rights, are more career-minded than Canadian girls, says Chamsol Malouk Mossaheb of Tehran.

A doctor of Social Sciences, Miss Mossaheb returned to her homeland recently after completing a nine-month study period in Canada under a United Nations scholarship. She will visit the United States in the autumn to complete her study of North American systems of farming and adult education in rural districts.

The attractive 35-year-old Iranian was so busy touring Quebec and Ontario centres following her arrival last September that she hadn't time to learn as much about Canadian women as she wanted. Nevertheless, she thought her Iranian sisters held more key positions than Canadian women.

ADVANCED NATION

"Iran is far advanced and is not a backward nation," she said here in an interview. "Of her 20,000,000 people about one-quarter are farmers. The others are well educated. Iranian women hold all types of positions.

"All types, that is, except political ones. Women in my country cannot vote. But a campaign to earn them the suffrage right has been going on for years. Men have been taking part in the campaign for a decade and some headway is being made."

She said married women continue to work after they become mothers. Some are needed for special duties, others work to help the family budget.

Women rule Iran's educational and hygiene fields. They are sole teachers in primary and secondary schools. Some teach in universities and others are surgeons, lawyers, dentists and business women.

FRENCH INFLUENCE

Iranian women dress according to Paris fashions. Only a few in remote villages still veil their faces, a custom born under former Arabian rule.

"If a woman in my country has some personal wealth, she can do what she pleases with it," she said. "Her husband holds no right over her own money or property."

Miss Mossaheb mastered French but is not so fluent in English. In Iran, students have the choice of learning French or English at secondary-school level.

Her name, translated, means "Friendly Sun of the Kings."

Before returning home, she completed a 33-page French report to the United Nations on her activities during her stay in Canada.

Women Play Part In Nominations

CHICAGO (AP)—As the zero hour approached at the Republican convention, the feminine viewpoint suddenly became important.

Harold Stassen asked a woman, Mrs. C. Edward Howard of Excelsior, Minn., to place his name before the convention in nomination for the presidency.

She accepted and early today became the second woman in Republican convention history to make a nominating speech. The first was Frances Redick of Connecticut in 1948.

Governor Earl Warren of California was quick to catch on. Warren's camp chose Mrs. Mildred Younger of Los Angeles, Calif., to second his nomination.

A second speech for Senator Robert Taft was made by Representative Frances Bolton of Ohio.

For Gen Dwight Eisenhower, it was Mrs. Albert Green of West Plains, Mo.

And, of course, there was still talk of placing the name of Senator Margaret Chase Smith of Maine in nomination for the vice-presidency.

Britain's Summer Sales Find People Not Buying

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Britain's annual summer sales opened amid a general feeling that not since 1939 have west end stores shown such quality goods at such low prices.

With textile mills working half-time from Aberdeen to the English Midlands, shopkeepers apparently were determined to break the buyers' resistance that has become a major trade problem in the last three years.

But although good summer dresses were obtainable for as little as 30S., woollen dresses for around two pounds and coats at less than five pounds, shop assistants still found it necessary to "sell" their goods.

Fur bargains that would have sold in the first hour last January were still on the rails at the end of the first day. Customers willing to buy beaver lamb coats at 12½ guineas, embros lamb at 17½ guineas and Indian lamb at 15 pounds were hard to find.

Barbara Nelson, fur saleswoman at a Kensington store, who was depending on sales commission for her summer vacation in Ireland, spent 60 minutes talking one customer into buying a quality musquash coat, almost halved in price. And this was by no means Barbara's hardest sale.

LONDON HEAT WAVE

The sales coincided with London's worst heat wave since 1947 and this found demand highest in such summer wear as organdie, chiffon, nylon and the gaily-colored waffle-pique dresses with widely-flared skirts.

Would-be holiday-makers could furnish summer wardrobes with everything from swim and beach wear to cocktail outfits for around 10 pounds. There were smart swimsuits at 15S, sun dresses around a pound and smartly-styled printed silk dresses with all-round pleated skirts and paisley patterns costing less than two pounds. Cool, pastel-shaded crepes with deceptively-slim lines came at 30S, and brocade cocktail dresses could be found from two pounds upwards.

It may have been the heat or the fact that few working girls can afford advance buying these days but crowds were small around bargain rails of winter-weight tweeds and warm woollen overcoats.

For Corrective Aid Compensate Child

Little girls who are going through the trying period of wearing corrective glasses or braces on their teeth need a little something "extra" in the way of help from their mothers. Children are actually cruel to each other and certainly don't hesitate to tease their playmates about handicaps such as glasses. So just as mother has learned to minimize her negative points and accentuate the positive in her adult grooming, so daughter must be taught that good posture, a pleasing voice, nice clothes and the prettiest hair of any girl down the street can make others forget the glasses or braces.

Avoid Pick-Ups

Some of us who recognize the danger of "picking up" on the highway don't bat an eyelash about pick-ups at home.

This advice can save you from burns and cuts; use tongs to lift hot articles at the stove or sink, a magnet to gather loose pins and needles, and damp cotton to clean up particles of broken glass and pottery.

HURRY-UP DINNER

If you want a quick main dish for dinner when you're planning to spend the evening out, try deviled fish fillets which are ready in 15 minutes or less.

Buy 1 pound fresh or quick-frozen cod, haddock or ocean perch fillets. If you use the quick-frozen ones thaw them first. Combine 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, ½ teaspoon salt and dash of pepper; blend well. Place fillets in shallow baking pan, spoon butter mixture over them. Broil under medium heat for 10 to 15 minutes, basting fillets once or twice until fish is lightly browned. Makes 4 servings.

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Spread Flavor of Good Meat Liberally Over Vegetables

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

One way to stretch expensive meats is to spread the flavor liberally among vegetables and gravy in a stew.

The Canadian Fruit Wholesalers Association says a little left-over meat goes a long way in this fashion. For instance, they offer a recipe for veal pot-pie which serves four.

Ingredients: One pound diced roast veal; four small onions; two stalks celery; four quartered carrots; three quartered potatoes; three sprigs parsley; one clove minced garlic; two whole cloves; one crushed bay leaf; two teaspoons salt; six cups gravy and water; two bouillon cubes; pastry or biscuit crust.

Peel onions, cut celery into pieces. Chop parsley. Combine all ingredients and bake in a covered casserole for one hour at 350 degrees Fahrenheit. Remove from oven and cover with pastry or biscuit crust. Bake in a hot oven until crust is lightly browned.

TASTY STEW

Another "meat-stretcher" suggested by the association—stew. Ingredients: one pound lamb, beef, or veal cut in one-inch cubes; two tablespoons bacon fat; two tablespoons chopped onion; one teaspoon salt; dash pepper; one bay leaf; one-quarter teaspoon celery seed; pinch of thyme or marjoram; three tablespoons catsup; four medium potatoes; eight carrots; eight small onions.

Coat meat with flour. Brown in bacon fat. Add onion and cook until golden brown. Add seasonings. Cover with water and cook, covered tightly, over low heat until meat is tender.

Peel potatoes, carrots and onions. Halve or quarter the vegetables and add to stew 35 to 45 minutes before serving time. Add more water if necessary. Thicken stock for gravy.

WARM WEATHER TEA

The tea bureau comes up with this recipe for tea cocktail: one tea bag, one cup boiling water, one cup grapefruit juice, two teaspoons lemon juice, cracked ice.

Add boiling water to tea bag and brew for five minutes. Remove the bag and allow the brew to drop to room temperature. Put into a cocktail-shaker or jar with tight-fitting cover, add fruit juices and cracked ice. Cover tightly and shake vigorously until the ice is practically dissolved. Serves 4-6.

Williamsburg fruit punch is another new approach to tea. Ingredients: two quarts strong tea; two cups lemon juice (strained); four cups orange juice (strained); two cups sugar; 1½ quarts cranberry or grape juice; two quarts water; one quart ginger ale.

Mix tea, fruit juices, water and sugar and chill. Just before serving add gingerale and pour over a large piece of ice in punch-bowl.

Iced tea sometimes clouds because tannin, which gives tea its astringency and body, is more soluble in hot liquid than in cold. As the tea cools the tannin precipitates and the tea clouds. However, clouding has no affect on the taste of tea.

DOROTHY DIX

Wrong Tactics For Girl To Do Chasing

DEAR MISS DIX: How can I win the man I love? I met him just recently and we've been out a few times. However, I am the one who must do all the telephoning and inviting. I'll call to ask him over, but he doesn't come again unless I invite him. He's 25, I am 21. If he does come over, or call me, should I accept his invitation, or try to forget him?

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: If he does ask you out, by all means go, since you are so fond of him, but I doubt very much if an invitation will be forthcoming. You have driven him away by the surest means possible—running after him so obviously. Men like to do the pursuing themselves and are apt to resent it if a girl takes the initiative into her own hands. Of course, an occasional invitation from a girl is quite all right, but persistent calling up and writing without encouragement is not wise.

13 IS TOO YOUNG

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Saturday night there is going to be a party at the park for young people. I would like to go but my mother says that 13 is too young. All the other kids from 13 to 16 are going. How old do you think I should be to go on group dates?

M. J.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your mother is right to disapprove of the sort of party you have in mind. The park is no place for youngsters at night, and any kind of party, especially one not chaperoned, should be forbidden in such a place. Fourteen is young enough to go on group dates such as daytime picnics, chaperoned dances or afternoon movies.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Is there a chance of a successful marriage here? She is 58, he is 46. They are both divorced through no fault of their own. She has had a protected life; he has had to shift for himself since childhood, but has turned out well. They have the same likes and dislikes and get along well together. The matter of age seems to be the only drawback.

A THIRD PARTY

ANSWER: Certainly no one can predict the success or failure of any marriage. Most have the elements of happiness, provided the parties concerned are willing to make a mutual effort of co-operation. The marriage in which you are interested might be a very successful one, though the difference in ages is quite great. Worse obstacles than that have been overcome by two people with faith in each other.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am going steady with the same boy for the second time in eighteen months. Last summer he was going steady with another girl, and going out with me at the same time. Now he is going out with both of us again. Should I make him settle for one of us, or let him go?

JANE R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Since your beau has proven himself rather inconstant on several occasions, your only recourse is to accept him as a friend, knowing that he is going with other girls, or forget him altogether. I recommend the latter. You aren't seriously interested in him now; if you continue to go out together, you might become emotionally involved to the extent that his inconstancy would be heartbreaking. Don't take that chance.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl of 15, and have been writing to a friend of my brother who is in the navy. This boy is 19. We have been writing each other for six months. He is coming home this month and, although I can write easily enough, I am sure when we are face to face I won't have a thing to say. I don't understand or care for sports. Should I try to study the theory of baseball, basketball and such? I'd like to be able to hold an interesting conversation.

AMY

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The best topic of conversation is the thing in which a boy is most interested. In your case, that gives such a wide latitude that you should have no difficulty whatever in holding up your end of a conversation. As a sailor he has undoubtedly done considerable travelling, and would love to discuss the various places he has seen. That is your opening and, once started, he'll probably keep the conservational ball rolling. Sudden boning up on sports is not recommended. You might suggest that he take you to a baseball game, however, and you can learn the game first hand. You'll probably find it most fascinating, too.

Readers' Friday Column

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: This is the first time I have writen to a newspaper—you may take that as a compliment...we moved to a farm 3 years ago and have so much fruit I want to do down as much as I can...I believe you said to process rhubarb in hot water... I have a cold pack canner. Is this what you use and how much water and for how long? Also, can you can strawberies, cherries, raspberries in this way?

A year ago we had wild blue grapes. I thought they would make lovely jelly...the first lot turned out like syrup...I tried liquid pectin the next time... it was better but all through the jelly were crystal-like slivers. What would this be and is there any fool-proof method of making wild grape jelly...May M. H.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Yes, use your cold pack canner for rhubarb, strawberries, cherries and raspberries. Be sure to fill jars to ½-in. of top with boiling hot syrup, then seal to within ⅛ turn of tight. Immerse in hot water, then bring to boiling point. Count your time from when water starts to boil. Canner should be covered. Never loosen seal.

RHUBARB—Syrup: Medium — 1 cup sugar to each 1 cup water. Time: 10 minutes at boiling for pint jars; 15 minutes for quarts. or 2

STRAWBERRIES—Syrup: Moderately thin—Cup sugar to 1½-2 cups water. Time: Pints 15; quarts 20. Strawberries sometimes shrink as much as ¼ way down in jar. Never be tempted to tamper with the seal though.

CHERIES: Syrup for Sweet: Thin 1 cup sugar to 2 cups water. Time: 25 minutes. Syrup for Sour: 1 cup sugar to each 1½ or 2 cups water. Time: 25 minutes.

RASPBERRIES: Syrup: moderately thin—1 cup sugar to 1½ to 2 cups water. Time: Pints 15 minutes; quarts 20.

WILD GRAPE JELLY

The "slivers" in wild grape jelly are crystals of tartaric acid peculiar to grape products.

In grape juice bottling or canning plants the extracted juice is allowed to stand in vats for periods of time at cool temperature to permit the tartaric acid crystals to form and settle—after which the juice is siphoned off. This is not practicable at home, but you could allow your juice to stand 3 or 4 days in cool cellar until some precipitate forms — then carefully tip off clear juice.

A mixture of crabapple and Wild Grapes Jelly METHOD: THOD To each 4 cups slightly To each 4 cups slightly water (after stemming and washing grapes). Simmer until seeds float. Strain through jelly bag. Measure. To each 2 cups extracted juice add 1 cup crabapple juice. Extract juice from washed stemmed and quartered crabapples by adding 1 pint water to each 1½ lbs. cut up crabapples, and simmer until fruit is very tender. Strain through jelly bag. Add 1-3 crabapple juice to each 2-3 wild grape juice. Bring to boil and add ⅞ cup sugar to each 1 cup mixed juice. Boil until 2 drops will fall from edge of spoon when "sheeted off". Pour into sterile jars and seal with double-coating of paraffin.

(Or if you wish to, use commercial pectin. Use proportions as you did last summer. The usual proportions are 4½ cups juice to 8 cups sugar and ½ cup liquid pectin. This way you can omit the crabapple juice.)

QUESTION: Read your column with interest. Some time ago there was a recipe for mayonnaise... I think it was part cooked. In the old country (Denmark) I made gallons of it but seem to have lost the touch, we like the real stuff with very little sugar... Mrs. L. M. of Brooks.

ANSWER: I gave the readers a part cooked mayonnaise last week. I hope you saw it. Here is genuine.

MAYONNAISE Chill 2½ cups salad oil. In a cold bowl beat 2 egg yolks until thick with 1 tablespoon each mustard (dry), salt and sugar (if desired reduce sugar to 1 teaspoon). Beat until very thick. Add 2 tablespoons lemon juice—teaspoon at a time alternately with the 2½ cups cold oil, 1 teaspoon at a time—until a thick emulsion is formed; then add oil 1 tablespoon at a time—continually scraping down sides of bowl with rubber scraper. After half of the oil is added you can safely add 2 tablespoons oil at a time. Beat constantly during all additions. Also add alternately 2 tablespoons vinegar (or replace this with additional lemon juice if you prefer it). Keep mayonnaise covered and cool.

What's Right?

You are talking in a small group—of, perhaps, four to six persons.

WRONG: Keep looking right at one person as you talk.

RIGHT: Include first one person and then another by looking from one to another. Otherwise all but the one to whom you seem to be addressing all of your remarks seems shut out of the conversation.

6—In Memoriam

McCALL—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. Wilbert McCall, who passed away July 11, 1941.
Asleep in God's beautiful garden,
Sheltered from sorrow and pain,
Safe in God's wonderful keeping
Until we shall meet her again.
—Ever remembered by husband and family.

NOBLE—In loving memory of Mrs. Percy Noble, who passed away two years ago today.
What would I give her hand to clasp,
Her patient face to see,
To hear her voice, to see her smile,
As in the days that used to be.
But some sweet day we'll meet again
Beyond the toil and strife,
And clasp each other's hand once more
In heaven that happy life.
—Ever remembered by daughter, son-in-law and grandson.

NOBLE—In loving memory of mother, Mrs. Gladys Noble, who passed away July 11, 1950.
There's a face that is haunting us ever, ever,
There's a voice that we're longing to hear,
There's a smile we'll remember forever,
Though we try to forget every tear.
There's a sad but sweet remembrance,
There's a memory fond and true,
There's a token of affection, dear,
And a heartache still for you.
—Ever remembered by her daughter Margaret, sons Walter, Delmar and Bob.

NOBLE—In loving memory of my dear mother, Gladys Noble, who passed away two years ago today, July 11, 1950.
And while she lies in peaceful sleep,
Her memory we shall always keep.
—Ever remembered by son Harry, daughter-in-law Ethel and grandson Donald.

READER—In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Ephriam Reader, who passed away two years ago today.
Happy and smiling, always content,
Loved and respected, wherever she went.
Always thoughtful, willing and kind,
These are the memories she left behind.
—Sadly missed by Audrey, Ken and family.

THEOBALD—In loving memory of Teddy Theobald, who passed away July 14, 1951.
He was a flower too sweet for earth,
Sent here but for a while,
God marked him when He gave him birth,
And took him with a smile.
—Ever remembered by Mother, Dad and Billy.

TIGHE—In loving memory of Edward T. Tighe, who passed away July 11, 1951.
One year has passed since the sad day,
When one we loved was called away.
God took him home, it was His will,
Within our hearts he liveth still.
—Lovingly remembered by daughter Elsie, Marvie and grandchildren.

Youth Hits Rival For Phoning Girl, Fined By Court

The next time a man telephones your wife or best girl, better get a firm hold on yourself and control that natural impulse to track down the wolf and settle the matter with your fists.

According to a decision handed down by Magistrate W. R. Philp in police court today, a man is strictly within his right as a Canadian citizen to telephone a woman whether she is married, engaged, going steady, or is still playing the field.

"It may be disconcerting to have some other fellow phone your girl but there is no law against it," the Magistrate told Allan McGlennon, 309 McDonnel St., in reducing a charge of assault occasioning bodily harm and finding him guilty of common assault.

AFTER MARRIAGE?

"The crown attorney even suggests it may go on after marriage," Magistrate Philp added in finding McGlennon $15 and $12.75 costs or 20 days in jail for hitting Ralph Bick, 533 Waterford St., Wednesday night.

"Even if he was married he could not control who phones the girl," asserted Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw when the evidence revealed that while McGlennon was visiting his "steady girl friend" Wednesday evening, Bick telephoned her.

Bick insisted he did not know McGlennon and the girl were "going steady" and later a friend of his, Bill Reid, phoned the girl.

Angered at this intrusion, McGlennon hopped in a car and drove to 79 Parkhill Rd., where he had learned the phone calls were coming from.

He strode up the driveway and informed Bill Reid and Harold Valois who were outside the house that they were not to phone his girl anymore.

Then when Bick came out of the house and remarked that he saw "nothing wrong with phoning the girl," McGlennon's anger bubbled over.

He promptly hit Bick in the mouth, knocking him backwards onto the verandah.

McGlennon admitted hitting Bick, but asked Magistrate Philp if the law encouraged other fellows to telephone other fellows' girls.

"Is it perfectly all right to phone fellows' girls?" he asked.

"As far as I know it is," Magistrate Philp replied, and McGlennon sat down in the prisoners' dock, dejectedly shaking his head at the inadequacy of our legal system which permits such an obviously unethical practice to go on and punishes anyone who takes the law into his own hands to stop it.

8th Secret Session Held By Negotiators

MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—Negotiators held their eighth secret session today in a futile effort to agree on a Korean truce.

No information was released on what progress, if any, was made during the 26-minute meeting. Another session was set for 11 a.m. tomorrow (10 p.m. edt Friday).

United Nations and Communist delegates agreed on a news blackout eight days ago in an effort to resolve the remaining issue blocking an armistice—prisoner exchange.

Barbaric Raid Tass Declares

LONDON (AP)—A Tass dispatch from Pyongyang described today's Allied air attack on the North Korean capital as a "barbaric raid. . . on a peaceful town which has no military objectives." The dispatch broadcast by Moscow radio said "hundreds of peaceful inhabitants, mainly children, women and aged people," were killed or wounded.

The Soviet news agency said 300 United States planes dropped more than 1,700 bombs. Tass did not mention that British, Australian, South African and South Korean planes also took part in the attack. The U. S. Air Force said the raid was directed against military and industrial targets and that for weeks pilots had dropped leaflets warning civilians of impending air attacks.

Officials Spoil Clerk's Scheme

LIVERPOOL (CP)—Alan Kingsley Swain, 35-year-old shipping clerk, yesterday was fined 50 pounds or three months in jail for trying to emigrate to Canada with a woman he falsely represented as his wife.

The prosecution said Swain submitted photographs of Monica Ross when he applied for a joint passport to go to Canada. His real wife was left behind with a four-year-old daughter and expecting another child.

Swain and Miss Ross were stopped as they boarded the liner Empress of Canada here last week.

Will Investigate

CAPETOWN (Reuters)—A South African commission to investigate the possibilities of shipping more fruit to Canada and the United States will leave for London by air July 17.

The commission will be headed by J. A. Fernhout, chairman of the Deciduous Fruit Board.

PORT HOPE—The route for the Orange Walk to take [illegible] Hope Saturday has been planned by the Port Hope Orange Lodge with the co-operation of the town police and the Provincial Police.

With 160 lodges expected to participate, the parade will be of record length.

One of the main decisions was to keep the parade west of the Ganaraska River. The day's activities will be climaxed by a dance at the town hall with both modern and oldtime dancing featured.

Canadian Cruiser Pays 10-Day Visit To U.K.

CHATHAM, England (Reuters)—The 8,000-ton cruiser Quebec, Canada's largest and most modern training ship, docks here this afternoon for a 10-day visit.

Most of her company of 700 are between 18 and 20 years old and making their first trip abroad. She will later visit other European ports.

THOMAS NUTTALL nearly lost his home on the River Rd., one mile north of Campbellford, when fire broke out in the rear portion of his home and did some $2,500 damage before it was extinguished.—(W. W. Reid Photo).

Frame House Gutted By Fire Mile North Of Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — A two storey frame house was gutted by fire here Thursday afternoon. The house was owned and occupied by Thomas Nuttall, 79, who was away when the fire broke out. The house is located on the River Road about a mile north of the town and Campbellford firemen who were at the scene within a few minutes of receiving the call, had a tough job in saving the building. Although the interior of the house was badly damaged, it is still structurally sound. Much of Mr. Nuttall's personal belongings, as well as a considerable amount of furniture was lost.

FIRE IN STOVE

Mr. Nuttall had lit a fire in the wood stove in the kitchen earlier in the day and went down town about dinner time. Bert Jones, who lives across the street first noticed the smoke and ran to the home of Mr. Nuttall's son, Ralph, who lives next door to Mr. Nuttall Sr. Ralph, who is an employee of the town power house on the night shift, was asleep at the time but his wife went next door to make sure the elderly gentleman was not in the house. She then phoned the fire department.

No explanation has yet been advanced as to the cause of the fire. Unofficial estimates place the damage at about $2,500 which is partly covered by insurance.

Countess Alexander Denies Story Canadians Bow Knee To Wealthy

LONDON (CP)—Countess Alexander said today she honestly can't recall ever telling a reporter she thinks Canadians tend to bow the knee to the very wealthy.

"I don't think that and I wouldn't say that," the wife of Britain's Defence Minister said in a telephone interview from her home near Woking, Surrey.

[illegible]ander was commenting on a women's-page feature story published Thursday in the News Chronicle. The story dealt principally with the Alexander children, Rose, Shane and Brian. At the end, News Chronicle reporter Martha Blount asked Lady Alexander how "English accents and great names" go down in Canada.

Lady Alexander's reply was quoted as follows:

"Well, you know all the talk about democracy over there—how we are all as good as each other . . . I think the very repetition of it defeats its own ends. There is democracy over titles and names, but not so much over dollars.

"There, most definitely, I noticed a bending of the knee toward the very wealthy."

DECRIES 'THOSE COMICS'

Lady Alexander went on to say that she liked much of Canadian life—"except for those comics."

"I'm afraid both boys—Shane, 17, and Brian, 13—read nothing else in Canada. They are a complete menace to any kind of serious reading over there."

[illegible] old Rose, [illegible] she now is leading in Canada. At present she is working in a summer hotel at Jasper National Park. In the fall she'll likely return to her studies at McGill University.

She praised the opportunities Canada offers teen-agers.

"We ought to do more for teenage boys and girls over here," she said. "Canada helps them towards independence much better."

Lady Alexander said Shane plans to make a career for himself in the R.A.F. after he graduates from Harrow, one of Britain's best public schools. Brian also is at Harrow but found it hard adjusting himself after his Canadian education.

Morgan Says Administrator Incompetent, Power Grabbing

WINDSOR (CP)—Dr. P. J. G. Morgan, medical superintendent of East Windsor hospital for incurables, charged yesterday that the hospital's business administrator is an incompetent man who assumed too much authority.

He told a provincial government commission investigating the 350-bed institution that James Lockie used more authority than necessary and had no experience in purchasing.

Mr. Lockie's powers had been set forth in minutes of a hospital board meeting last Jan. 8 but the motion appointing him made no mention of his authority. Dr. Morgan said the business administrator had acted as though he possessed the powers noted in the minutes—handling hospital funds and bank accounts, supervising purchases and bonding employees.

Dr. Morgan said he had tried unsuccessfully "for two or three weeks" to co-operate with Mr. Lockie, who allegedly would not sign orders sent him for his signature.

"If the chef asked for some food, he was told (by Mr. Lockie) he didn't need it," Dr. Morgan asserted.

The superintendent commented on testimony given earlier by a commission witness.

Gordon Friesen, a hospital consultant, had said that the institution's narcotics reports had been mutilated. Dr. Morgan said only one such report had been so treated. A supervisor had made an error and Mrs. Madeline Campbell, nursing supervisor, had pasted a sheet of paper over the error to keep the record straight.

Two graduate nurses whose mother is a patient in the hospital said they rated the institution highly.

Mrs. Evangeline Denis of Detroit said that the care, cleanliness and meals at the hospital are "wonderful."

Her sister, Mrs. Irene O'Brien of Cleveland, O., said the hospital is "clean, dusted and the patients are well kept." Hospital food "was well-served and looked appetizing."

The inquiry, now in its seventh week, is continuing.

Thief Fools Track Officials

NEW YORK (CP)—Aqueduct race track officials were robbed of $4,400 by a thief who slipped into a pari-mutuel booth, punched out his own tickets on a winning horse and later cashed them at the pay-off window, it was disclosed.

The tickets were cashed the day after they were stolen without anyone suspecting that they were fraudulently obtained.

The winning tickets were on Edna's Choice, that finished first in the eighth race July 4, paying $13 for $2.

Detectives said the thief must have slipped into a deserted pari-mutuel booth after the crowd and employees had left the track on the holiday.

Fined $10 And Costs

George Kelly, 184 Edinburgh St., pleaded guilty to a drunk charge and was fined $10 and $2.50 costs in police court today.

Ghost Train To Appear At Theatre

Fulfilling numerous requests, the Peterborough Summer Theatre will present Arnold Ridley's famous comedy thriller, "The Ghost Train," at the Queen Mary auditorium next week. Originally scheduled for the week of July 14 was "The Male Animal," but due to this play's successful Broadway revival a few weeks ago, the New York play agents withdrew the rights. However, this gives the Summer Theatre management the opportunity to present "The Ghost Train," the amusing spine-tingling chiller, which has been on and off each summer's program since the first season in Peterborough.

The action of the play is set in Clear Vale Junction, a gloomy, deserted railway station in Maine and takes place on a dark and stormy November night. Into this setting for a murder come six stranded rain-spattered travellers. They are met by the eerie stationmaster who informs them that the station is haunted by a ghost train, and anyone who sees it dies. After warning them to leave, he departs into the stormy winter night. As the travellers settle down to spend a sleepless night there is a tapping on the door, and in falls the lifeless body of the stationmaster. This turns out to be only the beginning of the long terrifying night.

In the central role of Teddie Weakin, the sill-ass Englishman who pulled the communication cord and stranded the passengers when his hat blew out of the train window, is Peter Mews. It is a part tailored to his comic talents, and everyone who enjoyed his performances in "Charlay's Aunt" and "The Man Who Came to Dinner" will have an uproarious evening as he romps through The Ghost Train. Also in the cast are Kate Reid, Bill Needles, Barbara Hamilton, Gerry Sarracini, Betty Leighton, Jerry Campbell, Pat Moore, Ron Bailey and Ted Palmer, with Michael Sadlier directing.

Youth Remanded On Charge Of Theft

Robert Reynolds, 23, 262 Simcoe St., was remanded on bail of $1,000 until Monday when he appeared in police court today charged with stealing a quantity of potatoes [illegible]ed at more than $25 from Ron-

Reynolds' brother William appeared on the same charge Thursday and was also released on $1,000 bail.

Both brothers were remanded without plea or election.

Rental Of Auditorium During School Term

The Board of Education have drawn up regulations for the rental of Queen Mary Auditorium during the school term.

A special committee recommended that the auditorium be rented only to local organizations who are engaged in some form of community welfare.

Other qualifications are that the entertainment must be provided by local talent or if it is by outside talent and sponsored by a Peterborough group the sponsors of the program must be guaranteed at least 60 percent of the net proceeds.

There was no discussion on the recommendation and the motion passed unanimously.

Artificial Lake To Flood 1,816 Acres

BRANTFORD (CP)—Work may start this year on the Glen Allan dam on the Conestogo River.

The project was announced yesterday in Toronto. The federal and Ontario governments have entered into an agreement by which each will contribute 37½ per cent of the estimated cost of $5,009,500, with municipalities in the area making up the other 25 per cent.

E. F. Roberts, secretary-treasurer of the Grand River Conservation Commission, said today:

"It is quite likely that construction work on the dam will begin this year."

He said plans for buying the land for the dam about 25 miles northwest of Kitchener will be set in motion immediately. The artificial lake the dam will create is expected to cover 1,816 acres. It is expected to take two years to build.

Two Accidents Same Evening Driver Fined $25

Having two accidents Thursday evening landed John Brown, 65, of Lakehurst in police court today.

After clipping a car at Reid and McDonnel Sts., he struck a parked car at Gannon's Narrows, owned by Vic McConnel, a city police constable.

Brown pleaded guilty to leaving the scene of the accident at Reid and McDonnel Sts., but told Magistrate W. R. Philp it was only "a slight clip."

He said he did not stop at the intersection because he believed it was too dangerous but stopped at the top of the hill on Reid St., and when he returned there was nobody there.

The Magistrate accepted a statement of the circumstances of the accident at Reid and McDonnel St., given by crown attorney John A. Bradshaw and fined Brown $25 and $2.50 costs or 20 days.

The accident occurred as Gerald C. Peters, Bridgenorth was making a left hand turn from Reid St. to go east on McDonnel St., and Brown who was travelling west on McDonnel turned to go north on Reid St.

Peters gave police the licence number of the car which was located after it had struck Constable McConnell's car at Gannon's Narrows.

Brown told O.P.P. Constable Harold Armstrong, who investigated the county accident, that his car went out of control on the gravel road as he rounded a curve, just south of the floating bridge.

His car ran into the parked car of Constable McConnell causing $225 damage to the vehicles.

Constable W. A. Scott investigated the city accident.

80,000 Orangemen Making Plans To March In Canada

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Eighty thousand Canadian Orangemen are completing arrangements to celebrate tomorrow the 262nd anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne which established William III and Protestantism on the throne of England.

A Canadian Press survey shows that, from Manitoba to New Brunswick, in many cities and towns, men and women will parade through the streets to the music of their fife and drum bands, led by a costumed parade marshal on a white stallion. Most of the marchers will be dressed in blue and white uniforms crossed with orange and blue ribbons and many will carry colorful standards depicting the victory of the "Glorious 12th" and other incidents in Orange history.

After the parades, most centres have planned an afternoon of speech making, field sports, picnic lunches and general visiting. The weatherman has promised good weather. Many Protestant clergymen have volunteered their services as speakers.

LARGEST CELEBRATIONS

At Toronto and Kingston, two of the largest celebrations are planned. Special trains and buses will run from Ottawa, where no special event is arranged except the parade to the train, and officials in Kingston expect some 25,000 persons from the capital and other parts of eastern Ontario to attend. Toronto Orangemen have planned a parade of 6,000 marchers. Another large gathering is scheduled for Perth, 60 miles southwest of Ottawa.

Other Ontario centres where programs have been arranged include Wingham, Collingwood, Durham, Fort William, Huntsville, Beachburg, Finch, Huntley, Iroquois Falls, McKellar, Niagara Falls, Shelburne, Stratford Cobourg, Kingston, Perth and Springbrook.

Manitoba celebrants have scheduled a cenotaph service in Winnipeg for Saturday and a church parade for Sunday, but the greatest activity is expected to take place at a sports program at Winnipeg beach on Lake Winnipeg. In New Brunswick, lodge members will gather at the National Park on the Bay of Fundy. Elsewhere in the province, the day will be observed in Lorneville and St. Martin's.

In Quebec festivities will be on a smaller scale. A children's field day and picnic will be held north of Montreal at an orphanage in Rosemere. In the Eastern Townships about 2,500 Orangemen are expected to gather for a parade and six-band concert at Kinnear's Mills.

IN HARMONY—Refuting reports that the Republican national convention is rife with bitterness, a quartet of delegates from New Hampshire joins in some vocal harmony on the convention floor in Chicago. Left to right, Basil French, former Gov. Robert O. Blood, Lane Dwinell and William G. Saltonstall. As the hats indicate, all are Ike supporters.

Ex-Police Chief Charges Lasalle Councillor Asked Him To Leave Bootlegger Alone

LA SALLE (CP)—The former police chief of this Windsor suburb said yesterday that a town councillor asked him for a "hand's off" policy for the town's bootleggers. The councillor called the police chief's statement "the darndest lie I have ever heard." Both statements were made in interviews.

C. G. Spink, whose resignation was asked for and accepted Wednesday night at a town council meeting, named Councillor Ted Clarke as the man who asked him not to arrest the bootleggers.

The chief's resignation was followed by the resignation of La Salle's two constables, Vincent Bergeron and Thyrl Baltzer. The town now is without a police force.

In Chatham, District Inspector W. A. Scott of the Ontario Provincial Police said O.P.P. constables will police the town on a temporary basis.

NEVER INTERFERED

Councillor Clarke said he had "never interfered in the internal operation of the police department." The chief had been asked for his resignation because Council "believed he was not doing his job efficiently and was not giving the leadership he should have been giving."

Spink said Council had accused the two police constables of drinking at a church picnic on Dominion Day. Neither constable drank "anything more than a coke at the picnic," he said.

Mayor Herbert Runstedler late last night issued the following statement:

"Let it be known that the statement of Chief Constable C. G. Spink and Constable Bergeron and Baltzer regarding alleged 'unnecessary interference' in the department by Councillor Clarke and the charge that Councillor Clarke had issued instructions to the police department to keep 'hands off' more than a dozen bootleggers in town are most emphatically denied.

"Further, the council requests an immediate retraction of these damaging accusations in the form of a letter to Council. If this is not forthcoming in the immediate future, legal action will be taken against those responsible for these charges."

Dewey Emerges Strong Man Behind Republican Scenes

By DON WHITEHEAD

CHICAGO (AP)—Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York emerges today as the real behind-the-scenes strong man of the stormy 25th Republican National Convention. He was the pivot man in the power plays that stopped the smooth machine of Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio on the first day of the convention.

He was the man who held the 96-man New York delegation almost solid for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower under terrific pressures.

It was his former lieutenants who gave a fine professional polish and precision to the Eisenhower convention fight with had been stumbling along with amateurish awkwardness.

DIFFERENT PICTURE

It looked after two defeats as the Republican Presidential nominee in 1944 and 1948 that Dewey might be through as a power in U.S. politics.

Many persons in his own party blamed him for the Republican defeat in 1948.

This old bitterness flared in the convention hall Wednesday night when Senator Everett Dirksen of Illinois pointed a finger at Dewey and said with scorn: "We followed you twice down the road to defeat."

Dewey flicked ashes from the cigaret he held in a black holder. He smiled his imperturbable smile.

Then he delivered 92 of New York's 96 votes to Eisenhower in the Georgia delegate contest. That was his answer to Dirksen.

PRESTIGE REGAINED

It appeared clear from that moment of victory for the Eisenhower backers that there was a shifting of power within the Republican party. New hands were being laid on the party machinery. The old guard was fighting a hard battle—but their hold was weakening.

At the same moment, Dewey's prestige and influence within the party climbed again.

Nixon Will Run With Eisenhower For Republicans

CHICAGO—(CP)—United States Republicans—"The Grand Old Party"—have chosen a political greenhorn to lead them back from 20 years on the outside. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower won an overwhelming victory yesterday over the seasoned and determined Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, who in the last three conventions has seen his hopes of succeeding his father in the White House go for nothing. He will not try again. A few hours after the convention selected Eisenhower on the first ballot and went on to make it unanimous, he had chosen 39-year-old Senator Richard Nixon of California as his running mate and the convention quickly completed the slate.

Nixon is a war veteran, a former member of the House of Representatives and a leading figure in the congressional anti-Communist activities. He figured in the conviction of Alger Hiss former State Department employee, on perjury charges.

UNITED ON SURFACE

Outcome of the boisterous and acrimonious convention left the party united on the surface but undoubtedly with a lot of wounds that will be hard to heal.

Eisenhower, 62, stood out as the most fortunate candidate, perhaps, that could be chosen. He only came into the active picture last month and had no previous political connections.

His victory was looked upon as due to his great popular appeal as one man who can be expected to beat the Democrats next November—a job the G.O.P. hasn't been able to do since 1928.

He also won political advantage when eager and over-enthusiastic Taft followers were accused of using machine methods to prevent Eisenhower delegates from being seated from some of the southern states, including Texas and Georgia.

Eisenhower forces used the plain word "steal" and that was something the people could understand. The Taft forces chose to battle the charges on the floor of the convention—Eisenhower forces would have made the same demand in any event—and they were beaten. From then on it was all Eisenhower.

He won the Republican nomination on the first ballot—as many followers confidently predicted—and the party made it unanimous a little later.

UNHAPPY FIGURE

The unhappy figure of this week's boisterous and weird doings in Chicago was Senator Robert Alphonse Taft, son of a president, who saw his great hopes dashed in a humiliating fashion. He has said he will never try again.

But Taft was not publicly sorrowful. A few minutes after the news was flashed downtown from the stockyards amphitheatre, he was visited in his hotel quarters by the victorious Eisenhower.

There, in the glare of lights and camera flashes, the winner and loser exchanged compliments, Eisenhower paying tribute to "a great American" and a smiling, unruffled Taft promising his fullest support to the candidate.

Taft, Senate Republican leader, still has four years to serve in his seat.

NIXON WILL RUN

U.N. Planes Batter Red Capital Again

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — B-29 Superfortresses took over at dusk Friday to make an around-the-clock bombing of Communist installations in the North Korean capital the greatest Allied air blow of the war.

Sixty-five Superforts followed waves of fast United Nations fighter-bombers which left Pyongyang, the capital, and its environs in flames. More than 1,400 tons of bombs were loosed on the rubbled area in a record 1,254 sorties (individual flights).

The Communist Pyongyang radio broadcast tonight that 2,000 persons were killed in the huge Allied air raid.

The broadcast said that an unknown number of United Nations war prisoners in camp number nine were killed and wounded.

Today, U. N. pilots reported they shot down one Communist jet fighter, probably destroyed another and damaged two in a pair of fierce afternoon battles between a total of 38 F-86 Sabre jets and 25 Communist fighters.

A record 1,330 sorties against Pyongyang and other targets Friday is part of a new "get-tough" policy which began with the annihilation of key North Korean power installations last month.

WAR'S BIGGEST RAID

The United States Air Force called the Pyongyang strike "the largest 24-hour effort of the Korean conflict by Far East air forces on one target area."

It came as Gen. J. Lawton Collins, U.S. Army chief of staff, arrived in Tokyo for conferences with Gen. Mark Clark, U.N. Far East commander, and Gen. Otto P. Weyland, Far East air force commander, who ordered the air action against the Reds.

Even before the devastating night raid, a Tass (Russian) dispatch from Pyongyang, broadcast by Moscow radio and heard in London, termed the 500-plane day attacks "barbaric on a peaceful town which has no military objectives."

Air force spokesmen said, however, the targets were depots, factories and troop installations, some of them spotted months ago on intelligence films and permitted to "ripen."

LOST ONE PLANE

The air force said it lost only one plane—an F-84 Thunderjet—over the target. U.S. and Australian pilots flying on the raid said they probably shot down one Red Mig-15 jet and damaged two others.

Aside from yesterday's raid, five other Allied planes were lost during the week the air force said—two to ground fire and three to causes unknown. The air force said U.N. pilots probably bagged one Red Mig and damaged two, all yesterday.

The U.S. Eighth Army reported ground action extremely light.

Say Communism Fight Big Issue

CHICAGO (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's young running mate says the fight against Communism will be the "great issue" of the presidential campaign.

Senator Richard M. Nixon of California said:

"It's an issue the Democrats are stuck with."

The 39-year-old candidate for vice-president, still tingling over his nomination, told a press conference last night the administration has failed to halt Communist aggression.

"We have to get a more effective program," he said, "to save ourselves from being destroyed from abroad and within the country."

Nixon is generally credited with breaking the Hiss-Chambers case as chairman of a House of Representatives subcommittee on un-American activities before his 1950 election to the Senate.

Minesweeper Rescues 20 Plane Survivors

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (Reuters)—A minesweeper today reported it picked up 20 survivors of the Brazilian DC-3 which crashed into the sea about 37 miles west of Salvador last night. Five persons were dead and three missing.

Survivors included a child, eight women, seven men and the crew of four.

Urge Unions Ignore Damage Fines

Federation Of Labor Says Decision Illegal And Unfair

TORONTO — The Ontario Federation of Labor (CCL) Friday called on its affiliated unions to ignore any damage awards by arbitration boards to companies as a result of wildcat work stoppages in a plant.

Executive members of the O.F.L. denounced the decision of an arbitration board which awarded Canadian General Electric Co. $9,200 against the United Electrical Workers (Independent) as compensation for loss resulting from a work stoppage in its Toronto Davenport plant.

The O.F.L. executive contended that the arbitration board had exceeded its jurisdiction in levying damages.

It added that in view of Ontario's Rights of Labor Act, 1944, which exempts unions from civil suits, Labor Minister Daley should register his opposition to the C.G.E. award.

CALL FINES ILLEGAL

The statement termed such fines as "improper, illegal, unfair and potentially disruptive," and added:

"Since the arbitration section of the Ontario Labor Relations Act does not provide for assessment of such a penalty, we call on the Minister of Labor to state his opposition to such a . . . decision."

The award of the board, headed by Prof. Bora Laskin, was based on a no-strike clause in the agreement between UE and CGE. He held that the union did not take firm and immediate steps to denounce the wildcat work stoppage or to order the men back to work.

In the statement, the O.F.L. said the federation executive believes that it is the duty of the union to convince employees to honor collective agreements and to refrain from work stoppages during the life of such contracts.

But the executive added so long as management encourages non-participation in a union by opposing the union shop, it was impossible for a union to accept responsibility on behalf of all the employees.

Union members would be free to pull out if the union insisted on adherence to the agreement if there were no union shop, the statement added.

Police Seek Nervy Burglars

PEMBROKE (CP)—Police seek a nervy band of cat-footed—and hungry—burglars.

In the last two weeks they have entered four large homes while the residents slept, took their careful choice of cash, silverware and other valuables, and had a snack before leaving.

In two robberies they prowled through occupied bedrooms.

Three nights ago they entered the home of Crown Attorney H. B. Johnston. Included in the take from him was his wallet from trousers beside his bed, an upper plate of false teeth from a glass in the bathroom and a quantity of food and beer, devoured in the kitchen.

Stabs Wrong Woman Man Flees Apartment

ATLANTA (AP)—Alberta Favors, 28, said a strange man entered her apartment last night, plunged a knife into her side, looked surprised and said:

"Excuse me, I thought you were my wife."

He then fled and she went to a hospital for treatment of the wound not expected to be fatal.

The bewildered victim told police she never had seen the man before, didn't know where he had gone and had no idea why he thought his wife was in her apartment.

Sought To Study English Given 5 Years In Siberia

HAMILTON (CP)—Mrs. Berta Kittler is again taking lessons in English, a language which cost her much 15 years ago.

At that time in her native Russia Mrs. Kittler and her husband began studying English. The result: Five years in Siberia for Mrs. Kittler and death for her husband.

The Soviet high tribunal imposed these sentences for what is described as "treacherous behavior" in learning the language of the "capitalist imperialists."

Mrs. Kittler, a university graduate, speaks seven languages and now that she is safe in Canada has begun again to study English.

Now a cleaning-woman in Hamilton, she says she is "very happy." Her 17-year-old son attends high school.

SENT TO PRISON

Following her conviction she was shipped to a prison-camp in the middle of the Siberian desert where she shared a room with two other women, one of them Dr. Hanna Silberberg, who for many years acted as Stalin's personal physician.

Dr. Silberberg dropped suddenly from Stalin's favor when her husband was suspected of "sympathizing with the west."

Later Mrs. Kittler was transferred to a jail in Pawlowska, an old fortress which had the reputation of being the "worst prison in the Soviet Union." It was there that she learned that her husband had been executed and her 10-year-old son George was safe at the home of friends.

On the completion of her sentence Mrs. Kittler and her son followed refugees trying to avoid the Soviet army and slowly moving toward Germany.

For the next seven years the two lived on a German farm near Frankfurt where Berta found a job as a farm-hand. They came to Canada last September.

British Columbia Facing Severe Drought

VANCOUVER (CP)—The spectre of drought hovered in a heat-haze over British Columbia today.

Yesterday was the 12th consecutive day without rain—still a long way from a rainless stretch of 98 days last summer. Drought last year cost B.C. about $50,000,000 in lost wages and woods production.

The dry spell has threatened the water supply of Duncan, a community of 3,000 on Vancouver Island.

FOREST AREA CLOSED

Two areas of the Vancouver Island forests were closed for 70 days. Forest closure could not immediately affect lumber production as the 32,000-member International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) has been on strike since June 15.

The weatherman could promise no relief.

A score of forest fires are burning throughout the province but all are under control.

Says A-Weapons Proving Good

OTTAWA (CP)—Frank Pace, United States Army Secretary, said yesterday the U.S. has made "exceptional progress" in forging new atomic weapons.

He would not elaborate beyond that general statement on the subject to a press conference. But he predicted that the present "substantial progress" towards arms standardization will see the western powers all using mostly the same major weapons within the next 25 years.

Mr. Pace, in Canada for a three-day visit, sidestepped reporters' questions seeking elaboration of a statement he made in a Montreal speech some months ago when he indicated that the U.S. government would like to see Canada increase her European army commitment beyond one brigade.

Speaking generally, he said "I would always like to see Canada do more."

Mail Call

Lots of excitement at 10 a.m. today when the fire department rolled out in force to the Civic Hospital. It turn out to be a false alarm with an unusual twist. An elderly man in the hospital examined one of the automatic fire alarm boxes. He decided that it was a mail box and it was about time he got some mail so he opened it to scoop out his private letters. That did it. "I've heard of them thinking they could post a letter in on of those boxes," mused one fireman, "but that's the first time anybody ever opened a box up to get his mail."

Say Eisenhower Nomination To Quiet European Fears

By PRESTON GROVER

CHICAGO (AP) —Nomination of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for the Presidency should quieten a lot of nerves in Europe over future relations with the United States. For months European leaders have had diplomatic nightmares about what might happen if the "isolationism" they saw in Senator Robert Taft should move into the White House. Yesterday's nomination of Eisenhower wiped out that prospect.

Taft's denials that he is an isolationist, his insistence that he favors as much foreign aid as the American economy can stand, did little to still European alarums. What ran in European minds was his votes to hold down foreign aid, his stress on American air power as the way to offset any Russian attack, his pre-occupation with the Far East instead of Europe.

Officially, European leaders have remained neutral on the subject of the next President of the United States. Privately they have told correspondents for the last several months about their fears that Taft's election might mean such a change in American policy toward Europe that they would have to revise their whole outlook.

They have had no fears of the Democrats, for Democratic policy has been to support Europe in its military and diplomatic fight to keep out of Russian domination.

When this correspondent left Paris 10 days ago, there was genuine fear that Taft was coming in.

MAY BE SURPRISED

The Associated Press recently conducted a spot check of officials of the various countries in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and found them favoring Eisenhower's nomination.

Although Eisenhower's victory undoubtedly brought a feeling of relief in Europe, it may be that leaders there are in for something of a surprise. There is a heap of critical sentiment in the United States about Europe. Eisenhower's own pre-convention statements indicated he felt the force of it. It is just possible European countries may find him forced to be tougher toward them in the coming campaign than they expect.

Hope Rain May Help Smother Forest Fire

CORNER BROOK, Nfld. (CP) —Darkened skies gave promise of rain today as hundreds of fire-fighters continued their efforts to check the spread of a fierce forest fire at the tip of White Bay, in north-central Newfoundland.

Starting Sunday when a small loggers' shack caught fire, the blaze has destroyed two lumber camps and valuable stands of timber and cut wood during its course over 100 square miles.

Air Crash Kills Eight

LYONS, France (Reuters)—Eight persons were killed when a twin-engined plane crashed yesterday during an air regatta at Bron airfield before 100,000 spectators. The plane was demonstrating when the pilot cut one engine and went into a vertical climb and spin. One of the victims was Maryse Bastie, woman aerobatic champion and France's best known pre - war woman pilot.

Murray Meeting Steel Officials

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Philip Murray, president of the United Steelworkers (C.I.O.), plans another meeting today with industry officials in an effort to end country-wide steel strike.

There was speculation that the industry might come up with a new offer, but neither Murray nor company negotiators had any report of progress as they ended two days of secret confabs yesterday.

The negotiators met for 90 minutes yesterday, then adjourned to confer separately.

SEEK MOVING IRON ORE

The meetings came soon after the industry said it would request union help to get iron-ore production moving again. About 23,000 iron-ore miners who are members of the union quit in sympathy when Murray ordered his Steelworkers to strike June 2. Steelmen say unless iron ore can be shipped soon they will be unable to stock enough to keep mills going full pace next winter. Iron ore can't be shipped on the Great Lakes during the winter because of the freeze-up.

When the strike began Murray insisted the industry give his men a 26-cent-an-hour pay package boost recommended by the Wage Stabilization Board. He also insisted on a union shop compelling all steelworkers to join his union. This was another W. S. B. recommendation.

R.C.A.F. Fliers See Wreckage First, 3 Suffer Bad Burns

EDMONTON (CP) —A rescue team was reported today to have parachuted to the scene of a wrecked United States' B-17 bomber in the Yukon and to have found seven survivors, including three injured with second and third degree burns. It was not known definitely whether the seven comprised all who were aboard the bomber.

The plane was forced down 30 miles northeast of Snag in the Yukon-Alaska border. It is believed the B-17 was sighted by R.C.A.F. aircraft ordered to search the area when the bomber was overdue at Whitehorse, Y.T., 1,000 miles north of Edmonton.

The rescue team, members of the U.S.A.F. rescue unit at Northway, about 65 miles from where the plane crashed, parachuted at 11:02 p.m. Yukon time (4:02 E.D.T.) An R.C.A.F. helicopter from Whitehorse was due at the wreck scene at 7 a.m. Yukon time (12 noon E.D.T.).

The B-17— part of the U.S.A.F. 10th rescue unit at Elmendorf Field, Alaska — was engaged in the search for an R.C.A.F. Mitchell bomber that has been missing for 12 days with four men aboard on a flight from Mayo, Y.T., to Whitehorse.

US Liner Now Heading For Second Record

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP)— The S.S. United States apparently is headed for another Atlantic crossing record, a special correspondent of the Newport News Times-Herald aboard the New York-bound blue ribbon holder indicated today.

He radioed the Times-Herald this morning the sleek 990-foot liner completed 903 miles during the last 25 hours for an average speed of 36.08 knots. The superliner set an eastward Atlantic record last Monday morning, arriving off Bishop's Rock for an average of 35.59 knots from Ambrose Light.

The correspondent said the ship was 1,912 miles out of Ambrose Light on her first westward voyage and if the weather holds the first lady of the seas should reach Ambrose Monday morning. He added the ship probably will anchor off New York and dock Tuesday morning.

The ship left Le Havre early yesterday. She was reported to have steamed up more than 36 knots after passing Bishop's Rock, European starting point for Atlantic speed runs.

Denies Steel Plant Forced To Close

HAMILTON (CP) — Rumors that the Steel Company of Canada will be forced to close down temporarily because of a shortage of iron ore are unfounded at present according to H. G. Hilton, president of the comany.

The situation, created by the strike of workers at the mines, is "nip and tuck," Mr. Hilton admits and depends upon three factors: First, the catching up of production at the mines; second, getting boats to ship the ore, and third, the ability to unload the boats at this end.

Color Of Calgary Stampede Intrigues Visitor Lord Lovat

CALGARY (CP)—Wailing bagpipes and swishing kilts accompanied Lord Lovat, British war hero and Scottish cattle breeder, to this week's Calgary Stampede. His presence has flavored the annual western show with a bit of the Bonnie Highlands.

Former Commando leader and now chief of Clan Fraser, Lord Lovat is No. 1 guest and head livestock judge at the celebrated cowboy spectacle.

He could have passed for a Scottish version of Errol Flynn as he strode down the airplane gangplank last Sunday night—tall, slim and debonair.

The war leader's Scottish reserve soon fell prey to the infectious gaiety of the Stampede. He strutted through the sawdust and shavings of the exhibition grounds, chatting with Indians and sun-tanned cowpokes.

NO 'HOOT MON'

Exclamations of "howdy pardner!" with a Scottish accent echoed through the midway as he took time out to savor the roasted peanuts, sizzling hamburgers and other New World delicacies.

It was a relief to come to Calgary, he said, where there is so much color. The home country was "drab and dreary and full of red tape," especially since the war.

While far from running down his own land of the heather, he had to admit that Scots back home don't know how to "let down their hair and go to town."

It was bare legs instead of bow legs for the peer as he sported a Highland kilt. But old sol won over his Scottish pride, and after three days of sweltering heat he had to give up the folds of heavy plaid for a cool grey summer suit.

RIDES COACH

To open the Stampede, Lord Lovat lumbered down the main street of Calgary at the head of the parade in an old stage coach—the one that used to run from Truro to Pictou in Nova Scotia a century ago.

Lord Lovat has seen rodeos and cowboy exhibitions from South America to Sydney, Australia, but he agreed "the Calgary Stampede rightly takes its place as the greatest wild west show in the world."

Name Official To Help Settle Rail Dispute

MONTREAL (CP)—Contract talks between the railroads and 17 unions representing 125,000 non-operating railway employees have reached a stalemate after only four days of negotiations.

In a joint statement, the two sides announced yesterday they have been unable to agree on union demands for a 45-cent-an-hour wage boost beginning Sept. 1 next and have asked for a federal conciliation officer.

The federal Labor Department at Ottawa responded immediately with the promise of a quick appointment.

It is expected the officer will be a member of the staff of the department's industrial relations branch.

UNIONS' DEMANDS

Along with the 45-cent raise, the employees—those not engaged in the actual operation of trains—seek a union shop, compulsory check-off of union dues by the companies and a cost-of-living bonus of one cent an hour for every one-per-cent increase in the official cost-of-living index.

They also asked for removal of a so-called emergency clause which requires employees to work hours above the 40-hour week at standard rates of pay in the event of a national emergency.

Railway officials have estimated that the 45-cent increase would boost the payrolls of the two principal companies—Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways—by $150,000,000 a year. This would go up to $167,000,000 if non-union groups were included, as in the past.

NINE-DAY STRIKE IN 1950

The new contract will replace the agreement worked out by Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock of the Supreme court of Canada after the crippling nine-day railway strike of 1950. Parliament, meeting in emergency session, legislated an end to the strike and adopted measures providing for compulsory settlement of a dispute.

Mr. Justice Kellock awarded the unions their original demands—a seven-cent-an-hour pay raise and the work-week reduced to 40 hours with no reduction in take-home pay.

In their new demands, the unions said the 1950 settlement fell short of meeting the increased cost of living.

Cars, Truck Ram Kill 8 People

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP) — Two automobiles and a gasoline truck rammed together in a ball of fire and tangled wreckage yesterday, killing eight persons, six of them from one family.

Five of the victims were children of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Johnson, of nearby Selah, who had just taken them swimming in the Naches River. Mrs. Johnson, 38, the truck driver and the second automobile driver were the other victims.

Johnson and another of his children are in critical condition from burns and injuries.

The Johnson automobile, a car 24 years old, apparently pulled onto the highway into the path of the truck. The truck rammed it in the rear and was in turn struck by an automobile just behind it.

Dairy Council Heads Hold Closed Meeting

OTTAWA (CP)—Top officials of the National Dairy Council began a two-day closed conference here yesterday. Their chief problem is the present surplus of dairy products caused by the loss of United Kingdom cheese markets and the United States embargo imposed following the foot-and-mouth disease outbreak in Saskatchewan.

The conference is expected to discuss ways of increasing production and research into dairy products.

Social Credit Party Wins BC Election Under New System

VANCOUVER—(CP)—The alternative voting system, used for the first time in British Columbia in the general election 31 days ago, evidently put Social Credit into office and kept the C.C.F. out. One seat remained to be decided today and with it the outcome of the June 12 election. But Social Credit is considered a cinch to win the crucial seat. When the count of second choices began in Vancouver - Point Grey's third seat today, Mrs. Tillie Rolston, Social Credit, held a lead of more than 7,000 votes over her nearest opponent.

The score in seats was tied at 18-18 between Social Credit and the C.C.F., with the Liberals elected to six, Progressive Conservatives to four and Labor to one.

VOTE TRANSFERS

The C.C.F, candidate in Point Grey's third seat was the first to be eliminated as the second count began. Analysis of vote transfers in the other two Point Grey seats showed that the C.C.F. had cast their second choices to Social Credit. Mrs. Rolston could be elected on the second count without a third being necessary.

Results in the 47 seats decided showed that alternative voting upset the final outcome in seven seats from what it would have been under the simple "X" system.

Social Credit won five seats in this way—the two vital seats in Vancouver-Burrard and Fort George, Similkameen and Yale. Though Social Credit trailed on the first count, alternative choices put them ahead on the final tabulation. They snatched three seats from the C.C.F. in this manner and two from the Liberals.

The C.C.F. took Premier Byron Johnson's New Westminster seat on new counts and the Progressive Conservatives won Nanaimo from the C.C.F.

WOULD HAVE WON BC

If the "X" system had been used, the C.C.F. would have formed the new government with 21 seats and Social Credit the official opposition with 14.

As it is, Social Credit will in all likelihood form a minority government—it will not be able to command the 25 seats in the 48-member house necessary for a working majority—with the C.C.F. the official opposition.

Re-counts will be held in at least three seats—Similkameen, where the C.C.F. won over the Liberals by 168 votes, and Vancouver-Burrard ballot B, where Social Credit beat out the C.C.F. by 246 votes.

Economic Crisis Threatens Province Of B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A major economic crisis threatens British Columbia, the result of labor disputes in major industries.

Forty thousand workers are idle, including 32,000 men in the forest industry. Tradesmen are on strike or locked out of their jobs on major construction projects and thousands of other employees threaten to quit.

The woodworkers' strike started 28 days ago. Three thousand carpenters in Vancouver and Vancouver Island cities have been idle since June 9. They seek higher wages.

PAINTERS ON STRIKE

The strike of carpenters has made 5,000 allied workers jobless. Painters, too, are on strike in Vancouver and Victoria, 900 of them seeking higher pay.

Merchants are alarmed. All report decreased sales as the workers' cash savings dwindle. Sales in some centres have dropped 30 per cent in every-day commodities, and there has been an almost complete halt in the buying of luxuries.

Government intervention was demanded yesterday by Vancouver merchants. Premier Byron Johnson has refused to intervene, calling the woodworkers' strike illegal because the men walked out before taking a government-supervised strike vote.

PROSPECTS REJECTED

Proposals for settlement made by the B.C. Labor Relations Board have been rejected, the first one by labor, and a second by management.

The deadlock in the forest industry dispute came when the 162 major operators refused demands of the International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) for a 35-cents-an-hour pay increase. The basic wage, based on 1951 contract, is $1.29½ hourly.

With dwindling world markets for B.C. lumber, the operators called for a "hold-the-line" policy with no change in wages. A majority report of a conciliation board, accepted by the operators, recommended no change in pay rates.

COST HEAVY

It has been estimated the strike already has cost woodworkers and operators $28,000,000. The workers have been losing $500,000 a day in wages and the operators another $500,000.

Loss to allied industries and merchants, mounting day by day, will run into other millions. Hundreds of tugboat crews which tow log booms have been left idle.

Six thousand fishermen seeking higher salmon prices have set a strike deadline for July 19. Another 4,000 shore workers in fish packing plant have asked for a supervised strike vote.

Buchanan Family Hold Reunion

About fifty members of the Buchanan family met on Sunday at Glen Allen Park near Marmora for their second annual reunion.

A picnic dinner was served on the lakeshore. A hymn "Unto the Hills around do I lift up my longing eyes" was sung in remembrance of two members who died since last year. They were the Mrs. Andrew C. Buchanan and John J. Buchanan.

Prizes were presented to the oldest lady and the oldest gentleman present. These were received by Mrs. Mary Whipp of Peterborough and Andrew D. Buchanan of Havelock.

Gerald Buchanan of Havelock was re-elcted president of the family group for the year. Other officers elected were Mrs. Stanley Miles of Warsaw, secretary; William Buchanan of Peterborough, treasurer.

Those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. William Buchanan, Robert Buchanan, Mrs. Mary Whipp, Mrs. Ed Hunter, Mrs. Logan and Ronnie, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Humphries and family, Diane Smith, Bobby Smith, of Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley McMillen, Mr. and Mrs. George Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. Maitland Kirk, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Buchanan and family of Norwood; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew D. ## City Refuses To Allow Pointers To Theatre

Ald. Herbert Young and Ald. A. B. Burrows failed to persuade the council this week to grant permission to Michael Sadlier to have dierctional signs erected pointing the way to the Summer Theatre.

As proposers of a favoring motion, they were left alone with their hands up when Mayor Waddell called for the vote.

Ald. Burrows argued that the theatre was only a temporary enterprise here during the summer months.

"They also have been here four or five years," said Ald. J. E. Gillespie.

He said the council should try to be consistent, after turning down similar applications from the Y.W.C.A., motels and others who wanted to place signs on the streets.

Driver Badly Burned Dies After Accident

BRAMPTON (CP)—Admitted to hospital with severe burns after a traffic accident, Jerry Biderman, 19, of Toronto, died early today.

Brampton is about 25 miles northwest of Toronto.

Douro Requests Approval Of Debenture

Douro council has asked the Ontario municipal board to give final approval for the issuing of $60,000 in debentures for the building of the new school in school area No. 2, as soon as the plans are approved by the Department of Education.

Council passed the motion asking for approval of the debenture issue at its July meeting.

Road accounts amounting to $1,060.16 were approved for payment and payment of $165 for relief accounts was authorized.

Council also gave its approval to the clerk to pay $256.40 in general township accounts.

A court of revision was held, and on application of Margaret and Michael Casey, whose house was destroyed by fire February 13, 1952, taxes on the building were cancelled from the date of the fire.

Train Clips Fender Of Tourist's Car

COBOURG (ENS) — A car driven by Jack Price, of Philadelphia, was damaged slightly when struck by a C.P.R. freight on the level crossing between Port Hope and Cobourg Friday afternoon.

Price didn't notice the wigwag but saw the train just as he was about to cross the tracks. He jammed on his brakes and started to back up but the left front of the car was over the first rail as the train passed over the angle crossing and the impact flung the car back about 25 feet and damaged the left front fender and radiator. Samuel Wolfe, of Philadelphia, was a passenger in the car.

Nobody was hurt but both were badly scared. Provincial Constable Lyle Erskine, of Cobourg, investigated.

Can't Collect Damages For Husband's Accident

LONDON (AP)—The House of Lords ruled yesterday that a wife can't collect damages if a work accident makes her husband impotent.

The Lords, sitting as Britain's highest appeal court, said Mrs. Julia Best, 25, of Sheffield, can't get damages from a Midland steel company, in whose plant her husband, Rex, 30, was badly hurt in 1946.

Lord Goddard, handing down the decision, said a husband might claim damages for sexual injury to his wife because he is obliged to "provide proper maintenance and comfort" for her. But, he added, Mrs. Best's lawyers hadn't convinced the Lords a wife had such a claim.

All-Time Peak

NEW YORK (AP)—Economic stabilizer Roger L. Putnam said last night that an all-time cost-of-living peak is a "practical certainty." He blamed congressional Republicans for weakening controls and for denying his agency the funds it needs to do its job.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Wheat dipped almost a cent a bushel at the start today. Corn also was weak, while oats held about steady. The nearby soybean contracts were lower while the distant deliveries were about steady.

Wheat started ¼ to ⅞ higher, July $2.27½-⅝, corn was unchanged to ⅜ lower, July $1.81¾, oats were ¼ lower to ⅛ higher, July 85⅝-¾, and soybeans were 1½ lower to ¼ higher, July $3.27-3.26.

Ike Pledges Fighting Election Drive

CHICAGO (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, pledged to a fighting campaign against the Truman administration, today sought to line up wholehearted Republican support as the party's 1952 presidential nominee.

Moving to wipe out bitterness which split the party in his successful battle against Senator Robert A. Taft for the nomination, Eisenhower arranged a post-convention meeting (11 a.m. EDT) with available Republican members of Congress.

The general went before the final session of the convention last night and formally accepted the nomination. He called for a Republican crusade aimed at sweeping out "an administration which has fastened on every one of us the wastefulness, the arrogance and corruption in high places. . ."

ROARING WELCOME

It was what the convention, torn by intra-party strife, wanted to hear. After five days of feuding among themselves, the delegates gave Eisenhower a roaring welcome.

He got a tremendous ovation before and after his acceptance speech, in which he also said:

I have stood before on the eve of battle. Before every attack it has always been my practice to seek out our men in their camps and along the road and talk with them face to face about their concerns, and discuss with them the great missions in which we were all concerned.

In this battle to which all of us are now committed it will be my practice to meet and talk with Americans face to face in every section, every corner, every nook and cranny in this land."

Within the hour after his victory over Taft, the general crossed to the Ohio senator's camp in a dramatic gesture aimed at achieving party harmony. And it brought Eisenhower an assurance from Taft that he would do "everything possible for him in his campaign and after he wins the election."

Old Type Plane Gave Pilot Thrill

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Royden F. Foley of Hamilton, a Canadian pioneer in aviation, prefers the old type aircraft as compared with the modern jet.

"We used to joke about taking off, flying and landing, all at 40 miles an hour," he said in an interview here, "but we got a great thrill out of those 40 miles—just as big a thrill, I'll bet, as those jet pilots get out of 600 or 700."

The former Saint John resident, visiting a sister in this district, considers the jets a great advance in flying but says that in the old days a pilot required more skill and had a more intimate knowledge of his plane. He has no desire to go up in a jet. He says: "It's just a machine. There's nothing human about it. You work the dials but you don't know what's going on under the hood."

Mr. Foley learned to fly with the Wright Brothers in 1912 and 1913. In 1916 he made the first flight from New York to Philadelphia.

To Hold 1953 Tourney At Quebec Club

DUBLIN (AP)—Maureen Connolly, of San Diego, Calif., added the Irish women's tennis championship to her United States and Wimbledon titles today by defeating Mrs. Jean Walker-Smith, 6-1, 6-1. Miss Connolly, only 17, completely dominated her foe, rated Britain's No. 1.

Hospital Supt. Backs Down On Trial Charge

WINDSOR (CP)—The public inquiry into the affairs of the 350-bed East Windsor hospital for incurables adjourned yesterday until Monday, after hearing hospital superintendent Dr. P. J. G. Morgan back down on a charge he levelled against the man who touched off the inquiry.

Dr. Morgan told the provincial government investigating commission that M. Frank Brobst ordered Mrs. Elsie Morley to falsify records of a February hospital board meeting. Mrs. Morley is Dr. Morgan's former private secretary.

A few minutes later, Dr. Morgan said his only basis for making the charge was that Mr. Brobst told him that his (Dr. Morgan's) copy of the minutes of the meeting should contain a controversial banking resolution.

The resolution which requires that hospital cheques be countersigned by the hospital's business administrator as well as by Dr. Morgan has been the object of much disagreement. Dr. Morgan has stated his copy of the meeting minutes did not contain the resolution, Mr. Brobst that his copy did contain it.

Forty witnesses have been heard during seven weeks of sittings and Dr. Morgan has stated he intends to call 300 more. The inquiry was ordered after Mr. Brobst placed copies of the hospital's 1951 financial statements before Attorney-General Porter.

RICH MISTAKE

An unidentified bettor at Aqueduct race track at New York won $13,429 yesterday by mistake on the largest daily double of the season. The double, comprised of Black Sands, $142.40 winner of the first race, and Hot Rock, $9.70 winner of the second, returned $1,342.90 to 70 holders of $2 tickets.

Three $10 doubles tickets were sold, two to one man who wanted a combination on the No. 10 horse in the first race and No. 3 in the second. He asked for No. 11 and No. 3, however, which the mutuels clerk punched out. Noticing the mistake, the man reluctantly took the tickets. Each was worth $6,714.50.

Report Truman Insisting Party Campaign On Fair Deal Issue

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman was represented today as determined to insist on a fighting campaign on an all-out "Fair Deal" platform as the best hope of a Democratic victory over Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in November.

A long-time associate said today Truman will oppose any "watering-down" of the foreign and domestic proposals for which he has campaigned since he entered the White House.

This Truman confidant, who would not allow the use of his name, told this reporter he did not know yet who the President will support for the Democratic nomination.

"But you may be sure that the President will insist that the nominee run on a strong Fair Deal platform," he said.

OUTLINED OBJECTIVES

Truman has outlined most of his objectives in a series of recent speeches. He has said he will not be a candidate.

They include repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor law; a national health program based on compulsory health insurance; and further increases in coverage and benefits under the social security act.

He spelled out his civil-rights proposals—particularly those aimed at racial discrimination—in a speech at Howard University in Washington.

In a southern "whistle-stop" tour the President told the south that it has benefited more under the new and fair deals than under any other administration in history, and admonished it not to "turn the clock back."

While the President says he will not attend the July 21 Democratic national convention until his successor is nominated, he will not have to be present in person to exert his influence on the platform deliberations.

FAVORS STEVENSON

The President has been represented as favoring Governor Adlai Stevenson of Illinois for the Democratic nomination, if Stevenson will accept it, and if they can get together on a platform.

Vice-President Alben W. Barkley is seeking the nomination, standing firmly on the record of the "New Deal" and "Fair Deal" administrations.

W. Averell Harriman, mutual security administrator, is running squarely on a Fair Deal platform.

Truman has shown no warmth toward the candidacy of Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

These candidates last night separately predicted defeat for the Republicans, as did Senator Richard B. Russell of Georgia and Senator Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma.

Try Experiment In Winter Smelt Fishing

TORONTO (CP)—An experiment in winter smelt fishing will be tried at Blind River early next year by Omstead Fisheries of Wheatley.

The experiment is a new one for Canada, although smelt fishing during the winter is done in Green Bay, Wis. The Blind River area, 90 miles east of Sault Ste. Marie, was chosen because of its similarity to Green Bay.

Generally, smelt are caught in nets and scoops in creeks and along the shore during the April-May spawning run. Omstead will try catching the little silvery fish before they spawn, using pound nets lowered through a hole in the ice.

Fishing would take place in fairly deep water, from 60 to 90 feet, in the North Channel of Lake Huron under the supervision of the fish and wildlife division of the Ontario Lands and Forests Department.

WINTER EMPLOYMENT

If the experiment is successful, a processing plant probably will be installed at Blind River. Fishermen in the old lumbering town, who now do little during the winter, would be employed catching the smelt.

W. H. R. Werner, an official of the fish and wildlife division, attended a recent meeting of the Algoma-Manitoulin Fishermen's association to explain the pound net and to put forward a request from Omstead that it be allowed to carry on its experiments in smelt fishing during the winter months.

E. Carlson, chairman of the association, said: "This looks like a very efficient way to get rid of the smelt in the North Channel and the Omstead fisheries can look forward to our full co-operation."

Nixon Will Run

Strong men in the Eisenhower organization, who engineered his successful battle for the nomination included Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts.

Dewey is a two-time loser—he won the nomination in 1944 and 1948 and lost out successively to Roosevelt and Truman. This time he proved that if he could not get the nomination he could have a lot to say about who did.

VICTORY FOR DEWEY

In doing that, leading the great bulk of his huge state delegation to the support of Eisenhower, he suffered cruel attacks from Taft supporters and walked from the convention hall when his chief castigator, Senator Everett Dirksen of Illinois, was nominating Taft. But he smiled always and saw his man victorious in the end.

Eisenhower took only one thrill-packed ballot to dispose of Taft, Governor Earl Warren of California, former Governor Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Acting swiftly to organize a campaign he said will be dedicated "to the shining promise of tomorrow," Eisenhower called available party members of Congress into a closed conference (11 a.m. EDT) to discuss policies.

He was reported to have given his approval for the selection of Arthur Summerfield of Michigan as the party's new national chairman, replacing Guy G. Gabrielson of New Jersey.

Summerfield helped supply some of the vital votes needed by Eisenhower.

In a colorful take-off for what both he and Nixon promised would be a fighting campaign, Eisenhower told a crowd of about 10,000 persons at the final night session:

"It is more than a nomination I accept today. It is a dedication—a dedication to the shining promise of tomorrow."

CAMPAIGN AIMS

The general laid down these aims of the campaign:

"To sweep from office an administration which has fastened on every one of us the wastefulness, the arrogance and corruption in high places, the heavy burdens and the anxieties which are the bitter fruit of a party too long in power.

"Much more, it is our aim to give to our country a program of progressive policies drawn from our finest Republican traditions: to unite us where we have been divided; to strengthen freedom wherever among any group it has been weakened; to build a sure foundation for sound prosperity for all here at home and for a just and sure peace in the world."

Eisenhower's three active but unsuccessful rivals pledged full co-operation with him in the campaign. MacArthur, the convention key-noter who got 10 votes, pointedly was ignored. He was not an active candidate.

Eisenhower Always Avoided Glory In Long Career In Army

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Prime Minister Winston Churchill once turned to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and said in his own version of mid-west U. S. slang: "What I like about you, Ike, is you ain't no glory hopper."

Churchill meant by this remark that he liked the way Eisenhower had been content to let others get credit for the glories of victory which the Allied forces were winning in the Second World War.

Since then, a great many Americans have come to like Ike. Some of them like him so well that members of the Republican party nominated him today as their candidate for next president of the U.S.

FIRST INDICATION

The first faint indication of Eisenhower's political appeal came more than eight years ago with a single tub-thump in New York City. It came from the American Legion's Tank Corps Post No. 715 which went on record boosting Ike as a presidential candidate.

That was in September, 1943, after the Allied conquest of North Africa and Sicily and during the invasion of Italy, when Ike's popularity was running high in the U.S.

Few paid much attention to it and when word reached Ike he was quoted as saying: "Baloney."

But somewhere along the line he changed his mind and the soldier from the plains of Kansas is candidate Eisenhower as well as General Eisenhower.

Ike was born Oct. 14, 1890, in Denison, Tex. Later his family moved to Abilene, Kas., where Ike was raised.

Father Eisenhower worked in a creamery to support his five sons, Ike and brothers Arthur, Edgar, Earl and Milton who now is president of Pennsylvania State College.

After high school, Ike was appointed to the U. S. Military Academy in the class of 1915. He was 25 and a second lieutenant when he left West Point.

He gradually climbed up the ladder of military rank, earning a reputation as a good executive officer and also as a tank expert. From 1935 to 1940 he was chief of staff to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, then planning the defences for the Philippines.

SPECTACULAR RISE

In 1941 Ike attracted the attention of Gen. George Marshall, then U. S. Army chief of staff, for his handling of troop manoeuvres in Louisiana. After that his rise was spectacular.

In 1942 he was sent to Britain to command U.S. troops in the European theatre of operations.

When he was named Supreme Allied Commander he was promoted to general of the army, the highest rank awarded in the U.S. Army.

After the war he returned to Washington to become army chief of staff. He resigned that post in 1948 to become president of Columbia University.

Two years later he was back in uniform as military chief of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Then last year the political boom for Eisenhower as a presidential candidate began.

Cattle Trade Returning To Normal Again

OTTAWA (CP)—As signs indicate that foot-and-mouth disease has been whipped, trade in livestock within Canada is moving back to normal.

The last of the blanket barriers against interprovincial livestock movements has been ordered down. Nothing now remains except a quarantine around Saskatchewan's small disease area and a permit-entry system in Quebec.

But there is still no answer to the big question: When will the United States again open its border to the $130,000,000-a-year meat and livestock business that was cut off Feb. 25?

Ontario and British Columbia are the latest provinces where restrictions on the entry of prairie livestock or cattle have been removed.

In Ontario, all embargoes against western cattle are being lifted Monday night. British Columbia restrictions—which included some on prairie-killed meat—have been taken off.

Quebec, which originally banned western livestock and fresh-killed carcasses, now is allowing these to enter under a permit system. The step is described as a gradual removal of barriers.

Expectations are that—if current indications of eradication of the disease holdup—the general quarantine in the area around Regina may be lifted late this month.

Romania Has Air Force Purge

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (Reuters)—An escaped Romanian fighter pilot reported here today that about 200 arrests have been made in the Romanian Air Force in an extensive purge of this and other armed forces in the country.

Capt. Georgiu Joan told a press conference that the purge reached its height April 24, and was carried out particularly in the air force.

It followed the escape to Yugoslavia last March of an entire Romanian bomber crew.

Joan said among those arrested was Maj.-Gen. Konstantin Donchia, chief of the territorial defence services and a Maj. Popescu who commanded the air division to which the escapees had belonged.

Since her rescue last Monday the animal had become as tame as a pony.

R. C. Braund Got His Start After Quitting As Operator In Old City Hall Building

"I am going to try to get up to see the old city building before it is gone," R. C. Braund, 330 Sherbrooke St., commented Friday, "because I have my own memories of the days when the late Sir Joseph W. Flavelle was a grain dealer in those premises."

Mr. Braund was referring to the story in the Examiner the other day, recalling a reminiscence of the late Thomas H. Hooper.

It transpired in a conversation with Mr. Braund that a minor incident of casual selling was the turning point in his life, around 60 years ago, although he could not visualize at the time its little chain of consequences that eventually elevated him to one of Peterborough's leading merchants.

It was one of those "you never know your luck" episodes that switched his interest from the early stage of the telephone business in Peterborough into the retail and wholesale grocery merchandizing that greatly altered his fortune.

NIGHT OPERATOR

"Sixty years ago, I was night operator for the Bell Telephone Co. on the second floor of the old city hall, directly over the office that was used by City Treasurer A. S. Couper. Charles Brown's grain store on the ground floor was where the Utilities Commission had their headquarters until they moved to their new building at Aylmer and Dalhousie Streets.

"Probably, the Bell Company also used the second floor rooms over what was until recently the Utilities section. My recollection is that I was too busy to enquire much about the rest of the building. My hours were from 8 p.m. until 8 a.m.

"Beneath the Bell office, Matthew Carton carried on a wholesale and retail general store. That's where the city treasury was located until the staff moved to the new city hall last October.

"So, on the ground floor from west to east were Mr. Brown's feed store, Matthew Carton's general store, the town's volunteer fire brigade, and finally the town office.

"I think the late Frank Adams was treasurer at that time, but I am not too sure about the personnel.

OFF TO MARKET

"My wife's father, Henry Greene, was in business on the south side of Simcoe St., just west of Phelan's Hotel. I think it has been for years Queen's Hotel. As I was keeping company with his daughter, he asked one day if I would take some of his accumulated stock to the market and try to sell it.

"Naturally, I couldn't refuse my prospective father-in-law, and I didn't want to turn him down any way.

"Mr. Greene make up a wagon load of pans, pails, washboards, graniteware, all sorts of articles, maybe from a mouse trap up.

"I may say that I sold the whole load, and Mr. Greene was quite complimentary.

"After I had been working six months for the Bell Telephone at seven cents an hour, 12 hours a night, Matthew Carton came upstairs one evening to where I was working. He said he needed a clerk, and told me the job was mine if I would take it.

"I replied that I had no experience in selling, and I did not think I would suit him.

"'Young man,' said Mr. Carton, 'I saw you selling that load of Mr. Greene's stuff on the market, and I don't need any further recommendation.'

$7 A WEEK

"So, I started with Mr. Carton, who will be remembered by older citizens as a successful merchant and man of considerable property. The pay was $7 a week, but I did not have to work nights, and that left me more time at the Salvation Army."

Mr. Braund next worked for W. J. Moore, a grocer on the west side of George St., just above the store that was later occupied by Warne jewellery business. By that time he was getting $7.50 a week, and when he married May Green his wage was increased to $8 by Mr. Moore.

Finally, Mr. Braund opened a grocery store in the building at Park and Albert Streets, which he named Alparka when it was eventually enlarged, and most of it converted into apartments. He continued as a clerk for Mr. Moore uptown, and his wife served the first customers at the Braund store.

"When I was at Park and Albert about two years, Mr. Carton moved west on Simcoe St, in that building just east of the Lock Works. He came down to my store one day, I was then a full time grocery merchant, and urged me to go into partnership with him in his new place.

AGAINST TOBACCO

"The salary inducement was really extraordinary for those days. However, when I started with Mr. Carton in the first place I was opposed to selling tobacco. But, as I was a clerk, I did what I was expected to do.

"When I had my own business I resolved that I was never going to handle tobacco. I did not believe it was good for people. That was my feeling.

"So when Mr. Carton wanted me as a partner I said to him: 'If I did that I would have to sell tobacco!'

"I suppose Mr. Carton didn't consider anything wrong with that kind of business.

"Anyway, I had to turn down his offer. I said that if the Lord would help me get along without it, I would never sell tobacco. From then on, I remained in business for myself."

Obviously, the observant Matthew Carton recognized ability in the young Braund selling the Greene tinware and other goods on the market. It was his persuasion that induced Ralph Braund to vacate the position of night operator with Bell Telephone.

His remarkable success, in the selling of groceries, meats, furniture, clothing, in fact most of the lines of a general store, has been related.

He expanded steadily, invested in real estate, and demonstrated through the years remarkable ability.

In a note to the Examiner he write, in part: "The Flavelles were great business men. They moved off to Toronto, selling out here to Charles Brown . . . Memories make me feel like getting out to see the old place once more. I have to be careful and so has Mrs. Braund.

"The grocery store across the way on Simcoe St. was the old Nicholls and Hall grocery. In my time, Mr. Robinson ran the grocery business and William Hamilton was head clerk.

"Later Mr. Hamilton and his brothers acquired the grocery business and carried it on for years. It still bears their name."

Mr. Braund retired gradually from active business, closing out the last small office which he had retained at Alparka until 1949.

To the Examiner he said he always remembered with feelings of gratitude the neighbors and customers of the Alparka section of the city.

Production Cut At 3 Large Ont. Car Plants

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Production operations at three large Ontario automobile plants were cut yesterday due to a steel shortage resulting from the 39-day United States Steel strike.

At Windsor, Chrysler of Canada announced a suspension of operations. General Motors in Oshawa laid off 175 workers and warned there might be a complete plant shut-down after the July 26-Aug. 11 annual holiday period.

Some 900 men were released by G.M. last week when the truck production line closed. The workers released yesterday were employed in the parts-packing department and army truck assembly line.

At Hamilton, the Studebaker Corporation said it will close July 25 for holidays, but some 800 employees will be told not to return on Aug. 11 as previously planned.

Some 3,700 workers are affected by the Chrysler move. Although they will receive regular holiday pay for the first two weeks, any time out after that will be without wages.

Although Ford of Canada at Windsor has not as yet announced a shut-down, company officials said the huge plant is operating on "a day-to-day" basis.

In Detroit, the Ford Motor Company announced it will lay off up to 72,000 workers immediately. This will boost the auto industry's iddleness stemming from the steel strike to nearly 300,000 by Monday.

Modern Cars Not So Sturdy

STRATFORD—(CP)—Magistrate A. F. Cook said yesterday that modern automobiles are not as sturdy as those of bygone years.

He was considering the case of J. Heinbuch, charged with careless driving.

Evidence was that Heinbuch's truck, travelling at 20 miles an hour, crashed into the rear of a late-model car in a line of traffic that stopped suddenly June 21. The car, sandwiched between the truck and a car ahead, suffered about $230 damage, the court was told.

The magistrate said that, except for the large amount of damage, he would be inclined to dismiss the charge—"even though it is true that cars are more fragile today; some say they're made of tin."

He ruled Heinbuch was going too fast, considering conditions. He fined him $10 and costs.

Trial Of 106 Natives Opens In S. Africa

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — Trial of 106 non-Europeans accused of conspiring to commit public violence opened yesterday at Boksburg, an East Rand mining town.

The accused—Indians, Africans and Colored (mixed blood)—are all volunteers in the passive resistance campaign against racial segregation laws. They are on trial for travelling from one location to another without a permit or violating the African 9 p.m. curfew.

On application of the prosecution, the hearing of one group was adjourned until July 21 and of the remainder until July 24.

Churchill Silent On Ike's Nomination

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill got the news of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's nomination from a ticker in his office. A secretary said it was unlikely that Churchill would say anything publicly "on such a delicate question."

A Foreign Office spokesman recalled that about 1888 a British Minister to the U.S. "made the very grave error of suggesting that someone or other be elected president of the U.S. and it caused such a furore we've kept our traps shut ever since."

Vice-President Nomination Tops Nixon Meteor Career

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Richard M. Nixon came to Washington in January, 1947, admittedly one of the greenest of the big new batch of youthful veterans who had been elected to the 80th Congress. Now, barely 5½ years later, he's holding down second place on the GOP presidential ticket.

Nixon had a good idea right at the start. He believed that the most successful way to go after Communists, in and out of government in the U.S., was in a coldly methodical, strictly legal manner. He decried the demagogic, Red-baiting tactics used by so many Commie-hunters as un-American and not too effective. And if necessary, he thought, tighten the laws to help protect the country against the Red threat.

He parlayed this idea into one of the most meteoric political careers this country has seen in recent generations. It led directly to his nomination for the vice-presidency.

COULD BE SECOND YOUNGEST

If he is elected, at 39 he will become the second youngest man ever to hold that job. John C. Breckinridge, elected in 1856, was 35 years old when he took office.

Milestones in the amazing Nixon career include:

Responsibility for the contempt of Congress citation of the notorious Red leader, Gerhard Eisler, and the group indictment of Eugene Dennis and others.

Leadership in the expose of the activities of Alger Hiss which eventually sent Hiss to jail.

Authorship of several laws which have given Government officials new weapons for combating the activities of Red agents.

The climax of his career came in 1950 when he soundly trounced the popular Helen Gahagan Douglas for one of California's Senate seats. He had been appointed to that seat earlier by Gov. Earl Warren to fill out an unexpired term.

In addition to his fight against the Commies, Nixon won national attention for urging that John L. Lewis be charged with violation of a Supreme Court order in connection with the 1947 coal strike.

LIBERAL REPUBLICAN

His voting record in Congress stamps him as a typical liberal Republican. He voted to limit presidential tenure to two terms. He has regularly voted for income tax reductions.

He has voted for abolishing the poll tax, for the Taft-Hartley labor act, Greek-Turkish aid, and extension of reciprocal trade agreements.

Nixon has a thick mane of curly hair, a lantern jaw, and a lean, sometimes awkward frame. He speaks quietly and effectively and has developed into a persuasive public speaker since coming to Washington. He has exposed himself to Washington's active social life much less than the average Senator.

With his wife and two young daughters, he lives very modestly. Before embarking on his highly successful political career, Nixon practised law, worked for the government for a while and spent several years as an ofifcer in the Navy during the war.

His birthplace is Yorba Linda, Calif. He attended public schools in his state, won his B.A. at Whittier College, and went to Duke for his law degree.

Although Nixon's big vote-getting appeal has been based on his fight against Communists, his popularity among Congressmen and political leaders is based on something more than that. Not the back-slapping type, he is sincere and hard-working.

As typified by aggressive but clean tactics against the Communists, he is fair-minded and thorough in everything he tackles. Even most of the persons who have been hostile witnesses before the committees on which Nixon has served have admitted that.

On the whole, Nixon's tremendous popularity in the West, his great knowledge of the Communist problem and his sincere and crowd-winning personality makes him a valuable, strong running-mate on the G.O.P. ticket.

"COOL CONTROL"

THE STANCE

1-Square Stance

Balance and control are 'musts.' There are three basic stances — first, the Square Stance, as above. This stance requires both feet to be placed square to the intended line of flight.

2-Open Stance

All stances require the club to be soled directly back of the ball so that the bottom of the club sits evenly on the turf. If toe of club sticks up, you are too far away. If toe is down, you are too close. In Open Stance, left foot is drawn back from line of flight, and body is turned slightly toward left. Use when slice or fade is desired.

3-Closed Stance

Opposite from Open Stance. Draw right foot back from line of flight. Use when hook from right to left is required. Recommended for driving because of overspin imparted to ball when hit.

It's control that counts, in golf as in every sport — control which brings the balance, the comfort and the extra quality that sets one performer above the other. In the ability to approach things coolly, to control every move and moment, lies the answer to better results.

This is one of a series designed to increase the pleasure of Canadians who participate in sports.

The Red Dean and Germ Warfare

The Dean of Canterbury, like our own James Endicott, has been given a great deal of publicity because he has returned from China with what he calls "irrefutable proof" that the United Nations forces are using germ warfare in the Korean war. We have never joined in the outcry against Dr. Hewlett Johnson, because we do not think that indignation is a good weapon of defence for the democracies; reason is far more effective. Dr. Johnson's "irrefutable proof" will not stand up to reasonable examination; what he has seen in China is evidence presented to him by Chinese Communist scientists, and Dr. Johnson admits that he is no scientist. The only "irrefutable proof" of germ warfare in Korea would be a report presented by an unbiased committee of scientists capable of judging the evidence. Such a committee could be supplied by the International Red Cross, but the Chinese Communists will not hear of such a committee, on the foolish ground that it would probably be made up of Swiss. Why Swiss scientists are not considered as objective as any others, we do not know; we should have thought that they were less open to nationalist prejudice than those of virtually any other nation. The Communist refusal seems to us to prove that the Chinese Communists do not want an investigation by anybody who might conceivably find against them; they prefer non-scientific enthusiasts like the Dean of Canterbury.

* * *

There is an agitation in the British Parliament for the removal of Dr. Johnson from his church appointment by the Queen. This may happen. Churchmen have the same right of expression as other men, but Dr. Johnson has used his position as Dean of the principal cathedral of the Church of England to lend weight to his Communist professions of faith. He is an able man and we think a sincere one, but he has made himself an apologist for a country and a political doctrine which cannot be squared with his position as holder of a very prominent place in an established church.

* * *

If the Queen, acting on the advice of archbishops and bishops who think that Dr. Johnson has overstepped his privileges, removes him from his post because his continuance in it is a scandal to the church, there will be a Leftist uproar against the penalizing of a man who dares to disagree with most of his countrymen. But that will evade the real issue, which is that Dr. Johnson has used the church as a sounding board for personal ideas which the church abhors. Let him, as simple Mr. Johnson, do as he pleases. But as a man who rarely appears without every appurtenance of his ecclesiastical position, he must not talk obvious nonsense, and that is what he has been doing for several years.

Mr. Eisenhower Is Candidate

The Republican Party's nomination of General Eisenhower as their presidential candidate ensures that isolationism is dead as an American political force. The Democratic Party does not harbour in its senior councils—nor has it done so since Woodrow Wilson took office—isolationist sentiments. General Eisenhower is a convinced internationalist, and the Republican platform, accepted earlier in the week, reflected the realization by the party's architects that the growing commitments of the United States in every part of the world, and her supremacy, impose foreign intervention, however unpalatable this necessity may be to nineteenth century isolationists like Mr. Herbert Hoover.

It is pleasing to Canadians that the Republican Party's candidate is a known and close friend of Canada. Canadians will watch the campaign with interest as Mr. Eisenhower drops his military title and appeals to his fellow-citizens for the opportunity to serve them as Mr. President.

Billions of Capital Investment

We refrain from embarking on any extensive assessment and portrayal of "capital investment" in Canada — a technical term best understood by professional economists. However, capital investment plays such an important part in Canada's development and economy today that even uninitiates feel its consequence. Capital investment, including inventories, amounted last year to $5.59 billion dollars.

The Department of Trade and Commerce has published an extensive analysis of private and public investment in Canada during the last quarter-century (1926-51). This study defines capital investment as: "expenditures on durable physical assets made by entrepreneurs, that is (a) outlay on construction projects and for the purchase of machinery and equipment; (b) outlay on new house building, including major improvements and alterations made by both owner-occupiers and landlords; and (c) outlay by governments on public buildings, engineering works, installations, resources and development and machinery and equipment.

In the eighty-five years since Confederation, Canada has developed from a predominantly "extractive" economy (that is, an economy based on what can be extracted from what exists — timber from the forests wheat from the fields, fish from the sea, furs and flesh from the wild animals), to a commercialized community, and then to a highly industrialized nation. Capital has been the tool of the change.

Investment expenditure closely affects Canadians in all walks of life. The total direct employment in Canadian capital goods industries now exceeds 800,000. This group provides about sixteen per cent. of the national income. There are secondary effects: employment and income created in consumer goods industries through the spending and wages and profits earned in industries producing capital goods. There are profound underlying effects of capital investment. A high level of investment may affect the general price structure of the economy; it may intensify inflationary pressures. A low level of investment may impede development of a nation's resources and potential, and reduce the standard of living. (There was a low rate of investment in the Depression.) On Monday we shall comment further on this phenomenon of Canada's pyramiding recent capital investment.

The Temple Bells Are Ringing

The temple bells are ringing,
The young green corn is springing,
And the marriage month is drawing very near . . .

How often we have heard amateur sopranos warble this ditty from Amy Woodforde-Finden's Indian Love Lyrics at church concerts! We were reminded of it the other day, when a friend in India sent us the Matrimonial Column from the Hindustan Times Weekly. As we perused it we realized that the pretty song, which went with another one about pale hands somebody loved beside the Shalimar, gave a highly romanticised idea of the Indian approach to marriage; the real India, we discover, is nothing if not practical.

Consider this advertisement:

WANTED—A suitable match for a beautiful and graduate Agrawala virgin widow of 24 years, belonging to a highly respectable and cultured family of progressive views. The girl is healthy, well versed in household duties and of amiable temperament. Please write necessary particulars to Box 8722-CH, Hindustan Times, New Delhi.

A little further down the same column we come upon this, which might prove to be the perfect answer to the advertisement above:

WANTED—White fair coloured M.B.B.S. girl, for post-graduate business bachelor, having one lakh yearly income. Seth Phool Chand, Aligrah. 21645-M.

It will be seen that both sexes advertise for mates—or rather, it is their families who advertise for them. One family, for instance, seeks in the same advertisement a suitable match for "beautiful, educated, sweet-tempered and accomplished Brahman girls 19 and 17½", as well as for a wife for their son who is, it appears, twenty-six and employed as a permanent Class 1 civil servant. It is interesting to see how often civil servants advertise for wives in this column; perhaps there is a suggestion here for Ottawa, where ordinary social intercourse does not invariably result in suitable matches.

There is a frankness about these advertisements which we admire. Men always specify their income; the families of marriageable girls are more reserved, but state that a "suitable dowry" will be provided. One romantic young man advertises for a "poor, beautiful virgin", while another who describes himself as "highly connected and well settled in business" says that in his bride "family standing is a main consideration". Some say that caste is no barrier to a match; others state that Chritianity in a bride will not be objected to; some are strict in specifying that the girl must be of a particular caste and a vegetarian. One man, who knows what he wants, phrases his advertisement thus:

WANTED—A beautiful and cultured girl preferably a trained Mistress for a well-established graduate of 25. Correspond Box 15056-CA, Hindustan Times, New Delhi.

The two invariable demands of men who seek wives, and the invariable specifications of families seeking matches for their daughters are beauty and good education. It is observable that all the advertisers are of good income, and have university degrees or superior standing in army or civil service.

Once or twice in these columns we have suggested that a more realistic attitude toward marriage on this continent might lower the incidence of divorce. An association of married women in Britain has recently issued an interesting pamphlet advising that a more thorough discussion of finances and compatibility would prevent many a bad match, and without ruling out love as an important factor in marriage they suggest that it is not the only element to be considered.

The mysterious East appears to favour a good deal of frankness in arranging marriages, and divorce statistics from India, if we could obtain them, would throw a great deal of light on their success in this important social consideration—and on our own.

Dutch Fishermen Lose Their Sea

By HENRI SCHOUP (In The Hague)

IN THE SOUTH-WEST corner of their country, the Dutch recently closed a two-and-a-half kilometre wide sea-arm and thus took the first step towards the realisation of a project even more ambitious in concept than the building of the Zuider Zee dyke. The sea-arm is called the Braakman, and it divides the southern part of Zeeland into two parts.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE PROVINCE of Zeeland consists of various islands, including Walcheren. It is divided by sea-ways which, over the centuries, have eaten away the land, thus forming these islands and, at the same time, insidiously salting the fertile soil. To stop this steady deterioration of land, the Dutch Government aims to alter the whole coastline and shorten it by several hundreds of miles by closing off most of the sea outlets. This will entail years of work and planning, and the Braakman is the first piece of sea-water to be eliminated in this way. When the water is finally drained off, 1,300 hectares of new land will be available for agriculture. For the first two years it will be farmed by "pioneers"—capable farmers who are allotted this land for the two-year period.

✧ ✧ ✧

NOT SINCE THE DRAINING of flooded Walcheren has Holland watched with such interest yet another feat of its water engineers. Four years work had gone into the building of the Braakman dyke, until only a 110 metre gap was left. The ground work had been done, reed mattresses loaded with stone had been sunk to form an initial foundation for the concrete "matchboxes" filled with sand—each of which weighed fifty tons. Through the narrow gap which was left, the sea boiled in a fury at enormously increased pressure, and the sides of the gap were specially reinforced to take the strain.

IT ONLY REMAINED for two caissons to be towed into place by tugs, to close the gap as neatly as a double gate—a task entailing split-second timing with no margin of error.

Four tug boats arrived towing two huge Phoenix caissons, pieces of concrete sixty-three metres long, thirteen metres wide and twelve metres high, which had seen service in the artificial ports on the Normandy coast after the invasion. The first tug jockeyed for position, waiting for dead tide, when the water pressure is at its lowest. Then, without a moment's hesitation, the caisson was swung round into place, the doors in its sides opened and, filled with sand and water, it sank to the bottom.

✧ ✧ ✧

TWO DAYS LATER, with the next dead tide, preparations were made for the placing of the second Phoenix. This was a much trickier business for the water rushed through the halved gap at twice its previous speed. It was a breathless moment; shrill whistle signals gave directions to the two tugboat captains, whose heads were still humming with the detailed instructions they had received over a model of the Braakman set up by the Zuider Zee.

✧ ✧ ✧

MANOEUVERING the vast Phoenix a 33,000 ton monster, as delicately as though it might break any moment, they waited for dead tide. At one minute to two on the afternoon of June 30, the efforts and worries of months of backbreaking work were concentrated into a few seconds. With parade ground precision, Phoenix II ended a worthy life of service; she swung round into position and sank without a murmur. In three quarters of an hour the job was done, the water hissed into the sinking caisson, and a sigh of relief rose from the engineers, workmen and tugboat skippers. The lessons they had learned so bitterly at Walcheren had not been wasted; the only difference was that the whole world had watched the saving of Walcheren, but only the Dutch knew about Braakman. Until the end of next week a group of workmen will be busy pumping 18,000 cubic metres of sand into the water, to reinforce the dyke against the expected spring tide.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN COURSE OF TIME the whole of this area will change over to fruit growing, in order to swell the export trade. Amid the general joy and celebration only one sombre note was struck; a group of old fishermen watched the closing of the gap with expressionless faces; they sucked their pipes and said nothing. Perhaps they thought the white blossom of apple trees poor consolation for the sails of their boats, for they come from Philippine, a tiny fishing village nearby. Now there is no outlet to the sea for them, and they are too old to begin to learn fruit growing. On June 30 all the flags in Philippine flew at half-mast.

Letters To The Editor

GIVE WELDON A PIECE OF HIS MIND

Sir: I would like to take this opportunity to reply to Mr. J. Weldon and tell him a piece of my mind.

Because I've lived in Canada all my life I may not be qualified to do so. Just who does he think he is? Canada nor Ontario doesn't need U.S. dollars so bad that they have to cater to such an ignorant, ill-mannered jackass as Mr. J. Weldon.

Peterborough could knock a few spots off a few towns in the States—Buffalo for instance. Their hotels and restaurants aren't only dirty but their sidewalks and streets are so dirty it's disgraceful.

Mr. Weldon—step up to a Peterborough resident and tell him the things you have written to our face—you'd be shipped home in pieces.

You not only take good care of your pigs, you are inclined to shoot the bull.

If you make such big wages, surely our prices should be quite reasonable?

We welcome all Americans including men like yourself—You claim we are Russian dominated—you sure don't sound as if you are a good American. I think even your own wife and mother would be ashamed of your actions.

If you don't like our hotels, sleep in the big cars most of you drive. I'm sure our police wouldn't annoy you—of course maybe you didn't think of that.

Maybe our clerks would be more pleasant if they were making the big wages you brag about so freely.

Turn about is fair play—last year our dollar was only worth 90c—now it's Canada's turn to get rich quick.

Keep your money in your pocket instead of flashing it around and folks won't be so eager to take it away from you.

Listen, Mr. Weldon, you go home and vote for the next coming election and let us do the same.

You help run your country and we'll run ours without the help of your advice.

Did you see any slums in Peterborough? Well, we aren't starving.

I don't want to rush you, Mr. Weldon, but have a nice trip home.

Y. McDONALD.

GLAD WELDON AN EXCEPTION

Sir: Very sorry to see an American tourist so dissatisfied. He is probably sore because the brewery closed before he could get another case.

When he whined about our "horrible" restaurants he reminded me of Cleveland where the waiter served us our meal as he spit on the floor. I'll bet he could have written a dandy letter to the press down there about that.

He then claims we boast about the Canadian dollar over the American dollar. It wasn't too long ago that if you handed an American storekeeper a Canadian quarter he would just throw it back and sneer "That's no good."

He brags about how high wages are in the States and in the next breath he chews about our prices being high. We manage to survive at these high prices on our low income so why should be find it so tough? Anyone who wants to hang on to money so bad should never take a trip.

He would have been a big help in Chicago when my friend and I had about $400 worth of clothes and luggage stolen out of our car while parked on a main street in mid-afternoon. When we reported it to the police we received a very sympathetic, "Oh?" If he had been there no doubt he would have written to the press, gone to the mayor, and possibly had the culprits strung up on a lamp post.

If we Canadians are such a "gullible lot of fools" he should pity us, not ridicule us. And if he feels this is a "colony of Russia" rather than a democracy I would suggest he go back where he came from so he may be safe from the Canadian "gangsters."

It is a consolation to know that this type of American tourist is the exception. Otherwise wouldn't it be a hell on earth, with all Americans that go through here in a summer.

Yours truly,
A PETERBOROUGH CITIZEN.

REASONS WITH MR. WELDON

Sir: We in Peterborough know as citizens that we have to pay pretty steep prices at some places, but we do not have to pay exhorbitant prices which are charged in the larger places. It is a funny thing that our restaurants should be classed as horrible when I think myself that each and every one has passed the good health standards for eating places. I have eaten in most of the eating establishments in this city and have yet to find them any more unclean or expensive than anywhere in this country or the U. S. A.

The tourists have to be catered to in a fishing sense also. Fish as far as I am concerned is the only delicacy that can be obtained cheaply by the residents of this district.

Our dollar at the present time is worth five cents more than the U. S. dollar. But does this gentleman remember in the hungry 30's when we had to pay as high as 19c premium on the American dollar? Not only that but our money was not acceptable in the U. S. in the majority of cases. The shoe is on the other foot now and I am sure it hurts to have this happen.

Our hotel rates for the accommodation they have to offer I think is very fair and they I believe cater to our American visitors more so than our own people.

This gentleman must of been having a nightmare when he has the audacity to make such asinine charges.

We cannot take any such remarks made about our government which was elected by the majority of the people. If the speech made by Herbert Hoover and which I heard and saw on television on Tuesday night is any criterion of U. S. politics then I say that if the American people swallow such tripe they canot class themselves as an educated people, but more or less morons.

I really believe that the majority of our American visitors and others are quite satisfied with the holiday accommodation and prices charged. If this gentleman is so wrought up why does he not stay at home? We did not force him to come here and we do not have to take such baloney from him or anyone else. We have one of the richest countries in the world second to none and we could if we had to stand on our own feet. We are like everyone else, we are not infallible. But we do not try to tell any other country how it should or should not be run.

We Canadians are proud of our participation in two great wars and the policies used thereto and too we did not have to be stabbed in the back before we moved in.

But what really burns me up and rightly so is the idea of him selecting or singling out the city of Peterborough to vent his wrath on. We have here a progressive and industrial city second to none for its size. It also is located in as good a spot as it is possible for a site.

Men with money think that it will get them anything and some tourists can be classed in this category.

American industries have wormed their way into the production of this country which from my standpoint is quite o.k., but do not tell us who our government should be or we shall rebel. This gentleman is nothing more or less than a crank or pessimist, when he blasts out with such filthy rot and likens us to Communists or dictators. He had better see that his own doorstep is clean first.

I remain,
JOSEPH M. O'BRIEN.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Search me, O God and know my heart: try me, and know my thoughts: and see if there be any wicked way in me, and lead me in the way everlasting. (Ps. 139: 23, 24.)

Let us lift up our heart with our hands unto God in the heavens. (Lam. 3:25, 26, 40, 41.)

Elizabethans

(From the New Statesman, London)

Benjamin Britten and William Plomer are to write special opera for the Coronation—News Item.

Hee who the death of Culture doth lament
In this, oure new Elizabethan Age,
Shoulde now ask pardon,
For Poet and Musician will present
A goodly Royalle Masque upon the stage
Of Covent Garden.
What though society bee levelled downe,
By levelling some uppe, to make one class?
Future historians
May name these names to bee of such renowne,
They Georgians and Edwardians doe surpass—
Even Victorians!
Lette none then judge beforehand and disdain
Elizabethan opera not yet writ.
These tuneful revels
(Passed by the ancient Lord Great Chamberlayne)
May elevate the groundlings of the pit
To higher levels.
This Age hath genius too of high report,
And now, conjoined with some artistic Earls,
Arts Council gallants
Doe cheer them on to bow before the Court,
As Shakespeare once, and Spenser, Tudor churls,
Displayed their talents.
It may well bee that judges yet unborn,
Will finde these wordes and musick are as fine
As any written,
And say of oure Elizabethan morne,
"O dulcet ayres! O. Plomer's mighty line!
O, rare Ben Britten!"

McCrea Omemee Models Show Details of Early Homes Roller Bridge, Pigeon Creek

By RICHARD F. CHOATE

PART 2

(On exhibition of the Royal Ontario Museum is a unique collection of models of pioneer houses, industry and transportation carved in wood by J. N. McCrae of Omemee. This expert and exact historian in wood vividly preserves in his models an authentic image of this district's "Age of Wood." Here is the concluding instalment of a report on the display).

RICH IN INFORMATION

Mr. McCrea's "multum in parvo" models will be helpful beyond measure to all who seek a realistic view of the Trent watershed and its people in the stirring decades of the "Age of Wood." In the educational field they provide compactly a rich fund of information and are certain to stimulate the spirit of research. Renowned names cluster about the record of the "Age of Wood" among them Gilchrist, Gilmour, Rathbun, Boyd, Ludgate, Fowlds, Irwin, Guerin, Dunbar, Strickland, Dickson, Hilliard, Hazlitt, Rogers and Ullyot. Further afield, the "Gillies Limits" was widely known, a member of that family, Sidney Gillies, being now a barrister in Ottawa. A souvenir booklet "One Hundred Years of Felling", prepared by Mayor Charlotte Whitten of Ottawa, deals with phases of lumber operations when axes were ringing in Ontario's primeval forests.

Interesting models are those of the earlier bridges, one being an Omemee wooden span with walks on both sides. Another is of the old Cowan's bridge over Pigeon Creek. A set of rollers permitted half the floor to "telescope" over the other, lengthwise, while steamers passed. It was operated by a hand capstan until about 1870 when an exasperated boat captain with a lusty axe amputated the projected roller section which was not always amenable to discipline.

PIGEON CREEK BRIDGE

An interesting story of this Pigeon Creek bridge, about five miles from Omemee, is recalled by Mr. McCrea. About 1910 Hank Beatty, hotelman of Yarker, while fishing at the bride, hauled up a British ship carpenter's axe on his hook. The tool, which was bevelled on both sides, bore the imprint "W. Gilpin, Wedge's Mills. Warranted, 2¾ lbs." It had been in the water some 50 years, having been dropped when the bridge was built.

The models illustrate well how the earliest settlers coped with their first basic needs of shelter, water and food, in the days when the super-market was not even a dream. In miniature may be seen the pioneer shanty; the wells, with well-digger's bucket and windlass; the ingeniously-devised equipment for clearing and preparing the land, such as the wooden-toothed drag; and for harvesting, such as the long-fingered grain-cradle, with the flail for threshing. The two-wheeled ox-cart was the primitive means of transport over the rough land trails.

Refinements came with the advent of the pioneer house—not a mere shanty—with its ropebottom beds; spinning, laundry and dairy equipment. The maple sugar bush, even with its primitive wooden accessories, yielded products of high nutritional value, and cider-making began with the planting of apple-orchards. A fascinating glimpse is given of the interior of the pioneer kitchen, with its "boughten" furniture and its high-oven stove. Herbs and drying fruits and vegetables dangled from the beams.

ROOT HOUSE, SCHOOL HOUSE

Those primary necessaries of the "men-folks", the root and milk house; the horse-stable, wagon and buckboard; and the log barn are well reproduced in the miniatures. So also the facilities for the enhancement of social life values in the community—the shoe-maker's shop; the schoolhouse; the store with its ornate front; and the village hotel. Boats of many kinds are shown, dating from the dug-out days.

Mr. McCrea, whose family name runs far back in the Omemee district history, was a cabinet-maker at the age of 13. He has a rich fund of recollections of the earlier days of the village, which was first called Williamstown, and later Metcalfe (after Lord Metcalfe). The post office was Emily. With the coming of the railway the Indian name Omemee (meaning dove or pigeon) was adopted.

A Bible in his possession bears this inscription:

"A Bible for the Methodist Chapel, in Williamstown, Emily, 1849."

And below it the following:

"This is to certify that the above inscription is the handwriting of my grandfather, Robert Grandy, who was the first clerk of Emily Township".

(Signed) "Robert James Grandy, Omemee, July 27, 1949."

Three members of the Grandy family, Robert, Richard and Robert II served successively as Postmaster, their combined terms of office exceeding a century. Colonel J. J. H. Fee, who married Gertrude Grandy, now is living, retired, in Peterborough.

Omemee's historian of the "Age of Wood," working through the years with consummate artistry and almost incredible attention to detail, has carved from native Upper Canada wood a record that will increase in social value and become a treasure beyond price in the distances of the days to come.

How Not To Treat A Lawn

BY HENRY PREE (NEA)

The ever increasing use of motor-driven lawn mowers by the home gardener is resulting in damage to many valuable shade trees. Bumping trees invariably results in scars that take years to heal. All wounds should be treated with a tree surgeon's compound after the loose bark has been removed.

If you love to mow at top speed, keep away from the trees by maintaining a cultivated grass-free area a foot or more away from the trunk. An inch-thick mulch of peat moss in this area will be beneficial as well as decorative.

Treat tree wounds with tree surgeon's compound after the loose bark has been removed.

If you do not care for this protective area, do not cut the grass around your tree with the mower. Do it by hand with a pair of grass shears.

Chinch bugs are making their annual appearance in many lawns —so get busy with the Chlordane spray or dust. Should Japanese beetles be a problem, too, add an equal amount of D.D.T. to the mixture. Most lawn insects such as beetle grubs, cutworms and sod webworms can be controlled by D.D.T., while Chlordane will get rid of ants and chinch bugs. Incidentally, Chlordane is supposed to reduce crabgrass.

Go easy with watering, first because too-frequent watering increases the growth of crabgrass and quickly dissipates the major grass nutrients, and secondly, the less water you use the thriftier becomes the grass root system.

Don't use a tree as protection in a storm. Tree experts point out that a big tree with roots deeply embedded in moist soil is a prime target for lightning. Matter of fact, almost any tree is a natural collector of these bolts.

Many people die each summer from lightning and much property is damaged. Livestock are particularly vulnerable since they are apt to huddle under trees and near wire fences. Particularly in the open country, picnickers should avoid wire fences.

These fences frequently are nailed to trees. They act as conductors of the terrific electrical charges when such trees are hit. Contact with them can lead to electrocution.

Trees are also a hazard to the motorists who park under them during summer storms. Autos are completely insulated from the ground by the rubber tires. But they may be struck by falling trees and brancnes.

Limited areas can be protected against lightning, along with favorite trees. Rodding the tallest trees provides a "cone of protection" for surrounding areas. If you have valuable trees on your property, rodding is a safeguard.

Gardening Questions

Q.—Will regular watering of the lawn supply sufficient moisture for newly set out shade trees?

A.—No, because normal lawn watering only penetrates a few inches while shade trees need deep watering to reach their roots. Loosen soil about the trees and allow the hose to run slowly for a good half-hour to ensure penetration of a foot or more. Repeat at two-week intervals for newly set out trees and three or four times a season for established trees.

Q.—Squash vine borers have plagued us for several seasons. What is the best method of control?

A.—A three or five per cent DDT dust applied to the crown of the vine and at the base of the runners should control the borers. However, the poison is not effective unless the first application is made when the plants begin to vine out and repeated three or four times at 10-day intervals.

To Keep Ice Off Planes

A process which may be applied to keep aircraft windscreens free from ice and snow has been developed at Great Britain's National Physical Laboratory. It consists in coating glass with a thin, transparent film which will conduct electricity. The film can be heated by passing an electric current through it.

The layer on the glass is an extremely thin one of an oxide of a metal. Tin has given very good results. The metal is deposited evenly on the glass, which is heated to near the softening point and then cooled again. The tin oxidises and becomes transparent. Finally, the film is washed in water and dried. This increases its conductivity. It is now hard and inseparable from the glass surface and is resistant to chemical attack.

Visibility through the glass is reduced by a negligible amount. Enough current can be passed through it to keep the surface of the glass so hot that it is impossible for ice and snow to form on it or for condensation to make it misty.

This treated glass is suitable for windscreens of any vehicle and for shop windows to keep them from steaming over in cold weather. Ceramic materials can also be treated by this process. (UNESCO)

A·F·I·E·L·D with NICK NICKELS

Fishing for true sportsmen is not the relentless pursuit of bagging record breakers. The proximity to nature, and observing it, should be a great part of the enjoyment. Even the common water lily has a great place in the scheme of things, greater than you might think.

There are two worlds on the lily pads, a fraction of an inch apart. On the top leaf beetles live and during the egg-laying season the female riddles the pads with holes and deposit a circle of eggs around the edges of the holes with a gelatinous glue. Underneath, too, are the floating hatcheries of the eggs of snails, water beetles and cadis flies which in turn are the foraging grounds for red water mites.

These supply food for small fish and amphibians that are preyed on by game fish. The cycle of the lily pad shallows is as endless as all other phases of nature.

Resorts Crowded, Relatively Speaking

Summer resorts are bulging with tourists these days as the result of Government and individual camp advertising. Down at George Robertson's Elm Grove Camp, Hiawatha, visitors have chalked up some sort of record.

There are 81 guests, either relatives or close friends, from Central Ohio. The breadown is: 43 from Beach City, 14 from Brewster, 10 from Wilmot, five from Massilon, three from Navarre, two each from Cleveland and Ashland and two more from nearby Ambridge, Pa.

Each man, woman and child is a fisherman. Their tastes run from turtles to panfish to walleyes, bass and 'lunge and they are doing right well.

♠ ♠ ♠ ♠

Joe Winkle's store and gas station down Sharbot Lake way is a great tourist stopper, not only for Joe's service, but to view the small zoo he has established. Beaver, peacock, monkey, red fox, 13 deer and five fawns.

Since zoo keeper Winkle is also an expert bushman he knows what his wild boarders need to thrive on. Green elm brush seem to be just the ticket for the deer which are foraging, not grazing, creatures. Penned-up deer need elm leaves for fodder, Joe says, otherwise they get mangy and sickly.

Having seen the City Parks department trucks wheeling elm cuttings presumably to the city dump, it might be a good idea for them to take an experimental load to the Filtration zoo to find out if the Winkle theory is correct. If it is there should be plenty of food for them in the city that is now wasted.

♠ ♠ ♠ ♠

Had a phone call from J. R. Harper of the Royal Ontario Museum who is heading a party of archeologists on a digging investigation of the Serpent Mounds, Hiawatha. Things are shaping up well, he reports, and in a couple of weeks time promises me a bang-up story on their findings. Chance are the diggers are into something of national importance, and we probably will find that we have the greatest find of its kind in Canada. As a drum beater for tourist attractions in the Kawarthas I can see great possibilities on the far horizon. Much more later on this.

♠ ♠ ♠ ♠

A friend of mine who noted with interest the story and picture in this week's Examiner of George King and son Doug, Toronto, who caught a 4½-pound pickerel in his hands in the Otonabee River, feels slightly superior. He tells me he caught a 'lunge in his hands off Ship Island Light, Stony Lake. A keeper, too.

He saw a 'lunge surfacing several times as if it were in trouble and after three passes succeeded in snatching it into his boat. The fish had a damaged gill that was slowly but surely suffocating it. He thinks it got away from a nearby fishing party that damaged it in trying to horse it into a boat and lost it.

♠ ♠ ♠ ♠

Some encouraging news from observant game wardens reveals that life in the wilds is more abundant this season than for many years past.

Partridge broods are plentiful. There are a many fawns, the result of the wardens's drastic war on loose dogs through last winter and spring. More ospreys than usual have been noted nesting and bringing along broods of young; these eagle-like birds are the street cleaners of Kawartha waterways. They are protected by law.

♠ ♠ ♠ ♠

'Lunge, Early and Late

Regardless of the hot weather earlier in the week fishing took a decided upswing for the better, starting a week ago Friday. And when we talk about fishing in these parts we mean 'lunge.

Percy Boom on the Trent River below Campbellford produced the season's largest with a 36¾ pounder going to Fred Paulus, 18, of Kent, O. The next largest came from nearby Bradley Bay, a 24½ pounder to Harold Kirby. Bluckhorn Lake was next with another young man of 14, Jim Beery of Pittsburgh, who boated a nice one that scaled 23 pounds.

So much for the whoppers.

The prize for quick quantities went to Joe Forma of Depew, N.Y., who on Thursday morning snagged two 'lunge, 17 and 14, within 20 minutes of one another. Dick Pencak of Geneva, O., also got one in Pigeon Lake, 18½ pounds, his first keeper in four years of trying. The last two lads are guests at Frank Laurie's Camp Cleveland.

No exceptionally large black bass are being taken but some nice limit catches have been reported. Green bass are biting better than blacks and though the largest reported, a 5 pounder at Stony Lake by George Hoey of R.R. 4, Peterborough, I'm sure bigger ones have been boated.

Pickerel are supplying fine sport everywhere and Johnny Pacqualone of Geneva, O., topped the records so far with one that went 9 pounds.

A fellow reporter (police beat) came in this morning with murder in his heart. At 3 a.m. he was roused from a deep sleep by the night Sergeant telling him that an American visitor had flopped a huge 'lunge on his desk and was demanding to know how he could report it in to the Examiner fishing contest. The reporter suggested that the Sergeant lock up both fish and fisherman until morning.

Junior Lacrossers Take 12-5 O.L.A. Victory Over Mimico In Neat Tilt

Peterborough Filter Queens trounced Mimico 12-5 in Miller Bowl last night in their O.L.A. junior "A" fixture before a few hundred lacrosse fans. The victory improved the locals' chances at third place over Mimico in the hot junior race. Mimico had beaten Lou Vitarelli's squad 9-8 previously at home but were no match for the young Petes here Friday. The homesters had a 1-0 first quarter lead and built it to a 7-1 margin at the half. They outscored Mimico 2-0 in the third but the visitors drove hard for a narrow 4-3 edge in the final frame of a clean contest. A fight between Brioux and Kapasky drew majors in the fourth, but only four penalties marred the melee.

GOALIE HURT

Goalie Nicholls was hurt in the second quarter when hit on the head on a hot shot by the goal crease. He was replaced by Joe Hickson, both local netters turning in a stellar performance. Daniels was hit by the ball and hurt late in the first quarter but returned later to play. While there was a bit of rugged checking, play was kept quite clean and moved fairly fast throughout. The homesters snared loose balls and bored in fast for hot shots in a fine display, while the visitors didn't show much till the fourth frame.

Roger Smith shone with quick breaks to score four goals for the Queens, two each going to O'Reilly and Batley, as singles were notched by Curtis, Brioux, Morrissey and Mullen. Single assists were counted by Fitzgerald, McIlmoyle, Groves, Brioux, Mullen and O'Reilly. For Mimico Larry Ruse stood out with three goals, Venner and J. Ruse getting one each. Assists were tallied by Passmore, Walton, Kapasky, J. Ruse and Venner. Teams:

Mimico: Goal, Tomchesen; defence, Johnson and Kapasky; centre, Passmore; wings, Walton and L. Ruse; rover, McMillan; alternates, Harrison, J. Ruse, Venner, Harte and Clancy.

Batting Average Said Low In Ball Leagues

By RIP WATSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Ty Cobb, the old Georgia Peach who cut loose with a blast at the modern-day ballplayers, must have chuckled if he saw the batting averages adorning the respective line-ups in the All-Star game this week.

Only three of the American League's eight starters carried a .300 average into the classic, while the National League could boast only four hitters above that figure.

How does this compare with All-Stars of the past? Pre-All-Star game figures aren't available but, of the eight who started the 1942 game for the American League, only Ted Williams, .356, Joe Gordon, .322, and Joe DiMaggio, .305, were over the .300 figure at the end of the season. The National Leaguers of that era cut in even closer, with only Pete Reiser, .310, John Mize, .305, and Joe Medwick, .300.

How about the original game, back in 1933—weren't there some real hitters in those days? The baseball guide for the following year, which buried the "mid-season inter-league game" in the back of the book, discloses the following year-end figures for the 1933 heroes:

Chuck Klein, .368; Bill Terry, .322; Pepper Martin, .316; Wally Berger, .313; Paul Waner, .309; Frank Frisch, .303; Lou Gehrig, .334; Al Simmons, .331; Charley Gehringer, .325; Ben Chapman, .312; Joe Cronin, .309, Babe Ruth .301.

Some readers of the sports pages were surprised to find that Kid Gavilan, a young man of 26 years, was classed as the "veteran" welterweight champion who had taught a youngster, Gil Turner, the rudiments of boxing. The age of 26 scarcely seems to qualify even the survivor of 99 boxing bouts for the old men's home. If Gavilan is a veteran at 26, what does that make the venerable Mr. Walcott, 38-year-old proprietor of the heavyweight championship?

Hunt For Boats Only Partly Successful

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HELSINKI (CP)—Only partly successful in their hunt for replacement boats for Canada's Olympic scullers, downhearted officials returned here yesterday after a flying trip to Stockholm.

The team's three shells were ruined en route here from Canada and officials hoped to obtain substitutes in Sweden. The only good news they brought back: The loan of a double sculls from the Swedish Rowing Club.

That set things up for Bob Williams and Derek Riley, who will compete in the doubles when the rowing gets under way July 20.

But the crews for the four- and eight-oared events were a gloomy lot with no replacement shells in sight.

The four- and eight-oared crews were out twice yesterday in choppy Gulf of Finland waters, using boats rented from a Finnish club.

The eight was plagued by hard luck. Their shell shipped water and was forced to pull into a boathouse and call it a day after 45 minutes.

The small crew survived the rough water for 15 minutes longer.

Both groups were unable to use the boats for training. Canadians use starboard-rigged craft and the Europeans bow-rigged, making it impossible for the Canadians to work as a team.

---

Help was on the way. Tom Alison, equipment manager for the team, announced in Toronto that two boats will be flown from Montreal to Helsinki early next week.

An air freighter of Royal Dutch Airlines will be diverted from New York to Montreal to pick up the fragile crafts, especially built for the Olympic team.

They arrived from the British Columbia makers too late to make the voyage by sea. Those sent instead were badly damaged aboard ship in a stormy crossing.

The rush flight of the two craft will cost about $3,564, Alison said.

Benefit Games Attract Interest

More than a passing interest is being shown in tonight's benefit games for John Larkman of the Lakefield team, who broke his leg in a game here recently. The advance ticket sale is heavy which is an indication of the response of the fans. The first game between two teams of oldtime softball stars gets away at 7:00 o'clock and is followed by a tilt between Howie Dalton's Four Aces and the Lakefield crew of the Men's City Softball League who are sponsoring the affair.

The Oldtimers worked out last night at the Oval and most of the boys are ready to go. Lorne Bateman is driving 200 miles to take a turn on the mound. Stuffy Mahood says he is ready to do a stint of pitching or fill in anywhere. Ted Naish is slated for some pitching along with Lefty Sturgeon, Frank Shine and others. Folks will get a kick out of the four-man squad. These boys have been playing a number of exhibition games and are going over big.

Over fifteen draw prizes have been secured so fans besides seeing a couple of good games can also take home a good prize—if they are lucky.

Suspend Ross Lowe From Lacrosse League

TORONTO (CP)—Ross Lowe, defenceman with Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, has been indefinitely suspended from the Ontario Lacrosse Association intermediate league in which he plays during the summer months.

O.L.A. secretary Chuck Rowan said yesterday Lowe was suspended for striking a referee during a game at Orillia June 26 The referee, who was not named, suffered a fractured jaw.

Brooklin, Oshawa area team for which Lowe plays, was fined $50 and Luther Vipond of Brooklin and Murray Pearsall of Orillia were each suspended one game for fighting.

TRIBE SELLS REISER

Cleveland Indians yesterday sold pinch-hitter Pete Reiser to their farm club at Indianapolis in the American Association. Reiser, 33, an outfielder who played eight years in the majors with Brooklyn and Pittsburgh, had a .136 batting average this season for Cleveland —six hits in 44 trips to the plate.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

The other day we mentioned where Kitchener suspended a good ball player for not hustling enough. Brantford scribe adds this re the case: "Last week a Winnipeg team sent Lockett his expenses to return to that city. He didn't go, it being presumed that his finances were upped at Kitchener. Maybe, but indifferent play indicates Lockett was looking for a way out. He has it. With no one to stop him, since the two leagues aren't coupled Lockett can now leave or maybe has left for the west." We've always maintained that if an athlete really wants a transfer from a club he should get it—as he won't help any club he is forced to play for against his will.

Fresh from their victory over Belleville Redmen on the Quinte diamond earlier this week, the Petes tackle the loop-leading Reds in a floodlight fray Monday eve in Riverside. After a slow start, the Petes appear to be settling down now in the C.O.B.L., recently trimming both Kingston and Belleville rather decisively. In fact for a time it looked like Phil Clancy was on his way to a no-hitter here 'gainst the cocky K's. Bill Dadson hasn't struck his true slab form yet, but was good enough to beat Belleville. Bill Edger also is due to throw better ball. It'll be either Edger or Clancy on the Monday mound, and the Petes expect to rack up another senior win.

Larking For Larkman

The Daltons and the Walters were a merry fightin' crew,
They'd take you on in fisticuffs or tossin' the hoss shoe;
But all their rivals became afraid
So a four-team ball club then they made—
And still they're comin' through

That's free verse, folks, and cheap at half the price. It is just to remind you that the abbreviated Dalton squad takes on Lakefield in the nightcap tonight of the twin bill in the Bowl for the benefit of injured Jack Larkman. The Dormer and Harrison oldtimers play first, weather permitting, and their rheumatism being reasonable. Draw prizes, also. There 'tis, and one must take the bad with the good in this world, eh?

Petes' Timbermen trek to St. Catharines for a senior O.L.A. fray tonight. They go to Toronto next Tuesday and have Hamilton back in Miller's Bowl on Friday. St. Kitts columnist says: "Saturday will be a full day for four members of the Peterborough squad. Playing coach Bob Thorpe, Harry Wipper, Jerry Fitzgerald and Don O'Hearn will occupy a convertible in the Rex Stimers' Parade of Champions as representatives of the Canadian champion Timbermen. In another car will be the 1938-41 Athletics, Mann Cup champs, which will of course include Bill Whitaker and Tank Teather, still active members of the blueshirts." That genial radio announcer, Rex Stimers, is a going concern in what he calls the Miami of Canada".

Lou's Crew Triumphs

Filter Queens grabbed off a neat 12-5 junior O.L.A. win here o'er Mimico last eve before a slim gathering. Lou Vitarelli's pack hustled all the way and had a good edge throughout but for a belated drive by the young Mounties in the fourth frame. A clean contest, roughing a trifle in the dying minutes. Nicholls in goal was hurt and Hickson replaced him during the second stanza, both going well. Rog Smith sparked the home attack with four fancy goals, while O'Reilly was in on three. Whole crew clicked well to put the team in third place over Mimico in the standing. Tom Griffin won the bagless vacuum cleaner, drawn for at the joust by Dr. J. R. Epping. The locals' big game is here Monday p.m. when the top-place Brampton Excelsiors show. This should be the game of the season.

* * * * * *

Another intermediate scalp hangs on the belt of the Peterborough junior baseballers. They took Lindsay 3-2 last night after twice turning back Colborne Dodgers as this classy young squad handled by Al Menzies and Shockey Mein continues to show improvement. Nineteen-year-old Mac McMartin scattered eight hits, being tough in the pinches, and had fine support. They had to be good as Junior West tossed a four-hitter for the Scugog nine in a swell diamond scrap. Yes, this junior club which nearly folded ere it started the season is doing okay for itself and should go places yet by autumn. They're listed to play Bowmanville here at 6.30 Monday night.

Canada's second contingent of the Olympic Games got away yesterday in a flutter of excitement. They left from Montreal.

The athletes were agog over the long airplane flight and were looking forward to joining their fellow team-members who went by the same route July 5.

The teams that left yesterday were: Boxing, paddling, weightlifting, wrestling, fencing, cycling and both men's and women's swimming teams. Ken Farmer of Montreal, secretary of the Canadian Olympic Association, was in charge of the party.

Olympic dress was the style. The men wore dark blue blazers, bearing the Olympic crest, and gray trousers. The girls wore white skirts, white hats and dark blue jackets.

BIG REGATTA TURNOUT

About 60 boats are expected at Brockville today for the fifth international powerboat regatta which will draw sportsmen from Fresno, Calif., northern New York state, Ontario and Quebec. Ray Smith, Jr., of Kansas City, holder of the world's record in the 225 division 1 class, will be a competitor. His record over a measured mile is 97 M.P.H.

WINS QUEBEC TOURNEY

Mrs. Graeme Pyke of Montreal Whitlock yesterday won the Quebec women's golf championship with a 10-and-8 victory over Mrs. Joseph Dagenais of Montreal Laval Mrs. Pyke, 1950 Canadian champion, won her second provincial title in three years with long drives off the tee and accurate putting, going one under par seven times. The scheduled 36-hole final ended on the 28th.

TERRIBLE TOMMY OUT

A couple of old hands—Henry Ransom and Sam Snead—shot six-under-par 66s yesterday to stand one-two at the half-way mark in the $15,000 St. Paul Open Golf Tournament. Ransom's 36-hole score was 130—14 under par. Snead was two strokes back with 132, having duplicated his opening-day count. Terrible Tommy Boldt, Durham, N.C., lived up to his name. After taking two consecutive sixes, and breaking two clubs, he withdrew.

Gerry Knechtel Wins Second Junior Crown

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Gerry Knechtel of Kitchener came from away back yesterday to take his second straight Ontario junior golf championship. Out with a 75—two over opening-leader Jerry Magee of Toronto Lambton—Knechtel came home in the second 18 with a blazing one-under-par 71 to take the tournament.

The hot Kitchener shooter got his closest competition from a 15-year-old Londoner, Bill MacBeth. Young MacBeth went out in the opening round with a 76 and came home in the last 18 with a 73 for a 149. It was one of the finest scores ever recorded in the Ontario Golf Association by a golfer so young.

Big 4 Finish College Football Draft

OTTAWA (CP)—D. Wes Brown, secretary of the Big Four football league, yesterday announced completion of the Big Four's college football draft.

Montreal Alouettes and Hamilton Tiger-Cats named nine players each in the draft, Toronto Argonauts eight and Ottawa Rough Riders seven.

"Naming" of a player does not commit the player to play for a particular club. It is a "hands-off" agreement among other clubs that the club which has named a player has first choice in obtaining his services.

If a player named by Montreal, for example, wants to play in Toronto, Alouettes and Argonauts would make a deal or trade Only players in their graduating school year may be named.

The players were chosen one at a time by the four clubs, from five universities—McGill, Queen's, McMaster, University of Toronto and University of Western Ontario. The club finishing last in 1951 play—Alouettes—had first choice, Toronto second, Hamilton third and Ottawa fourth.

Following are the draft choices from Queen's University by the various clubs:

MONTREAL

Harry Lampman, Lineman.

TORONTO

Ross McKelvey, Halfback; Eric McIlveen, halfback; Robert McIntyre, snap.

HAMILTON

Athletics Trip Fergus In 12-9 Tussle

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

St. Catharines Athletics climbed out of the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior circuit cellar last night when they downed Fergus Thistles 12-9 right in Fergus. While St. Kitts upset the applecart, Toronto Yorks blasted Owen Sound Crescents 17-7 in Owen Sound.

The Fergus tussle was the roughest of the season with a total of 58 minutes being handed out by the referees for rule infractions. More than once a Donnybrook threatened.

Fergus held the lead well on into the final half, but the A's broke loose shortly before the final whistle and pulled off their win. In the other game, Toronto held a substantial lead almost from the opening whistle.

Emil Uhynuk led the St. Catharines attack with three goals while Bill Scott was the best for the Toronto club, pushing in five goals against Owen Sound. Eddie Teatro clicked for three of the Toronto tallies.

Olympic Team Wants More Mail From Home

HELSINKI (CP)—Canada's Olympic team wants more mail from home.

A few athletes here are receiving letters but the majority have had no word from the folks in Canada.

Most letters received are incorrectly addressed—they come only with the name of the athlete and marked "Olympic Games."

The correct address is: The athlete's name, the sport in which he is competing, Kapyla Village, Helsinki.

For Canada's women competitors, the address is Sairaanhoitajaopisto, Helsinki. That means "nursing home."

DUTCH LEONARD DIES

Hubert B. Leonard, 60, a leading major league pitcher 30 years ago, died in hospital at Fresno, Calif., yesterday. A contemporary of such baseball greats as Babe Ruth, Tris Speaker and Ty Cobb, Leonard played with Boston Red Sox and Detroit Tigers of the American League.

Gordon Brydson Leading Field In Canadian P.G.A. Opening

By FRASER MACDOUGALL

WINNIPEG (CP)—Gordon Brydson of Toronto Mississauga led the field yesterday in opening round of 54-hole Canadian Professional Golf Association championship. But the names of his four closest opponents started more tongue-wagging around Winnipeg's Niakwa course than his three-under-par score of 68.

The gallery loved the second-place combination of two unrelated Fletchers from Saskatchewan—Par of Regina Wascana and Pat of Saskatoon, each with a 69. And the Huot brothers—Jules of Laval-Sur-le-Lac and Rodolphe of the Royal Quebec Club—stirred almost as much comment with their identical rounds of 35-35—70 which put them in a fourth-place tie right behind the Fletchers.

LEONARD STILL FAVORED

Although an even par 71 game left him in a four-way sixth-place tie three strokes off the pace, defending champion Stan Leonard of Vancouver still ranked as the man to beat for the $350 first money and the Cohama trophy.

Leonard, Canada's most formidable tournament golfer, had the shots in the opening day's test but they didn't pan out for the par-breaking score his followers expected. He was tied with Stan Horne of Montreal, Stan Kolar of Ottawa and Fred Wood of Vancouver.

The field of 34 winds up the all-Canadian test today with two 18-hole rounds.

It was a big day for the Canadian pros who expect to yield to tournament-hardened invaders from the United States most of the glory and cash in the Canadian Open Golf championship to be played here next week.

Brydson, twice a winner of the P.G.A. event, boomed his wood shots on or near the green and putted with accuracy.

WANTED GOLF NAMES

Par Fletcher, who owes his first name to his father's love of golf, also made all his clubs work all the way. He didn't take more than two putts on any green as he clipped one stroke off par each way, taking a 34 on the out nine and coming home in 35.

His father, Freddy Fletcher, was a Winnipeg pro who wanted golf names for all his children. He succeeded with Par, Birdie and Dormie but was sytmied one one son, Earl, who got what the father wanted when he was nicknamed Eagle.

Pat Fletcher turned in a dazzling second round of 33—three strokes off par—to get his 69. He had three birdies and six pars on the home nine after going one stroke over on the outward trip with a 36.

The Huot brothers each produced four birdies. They played the out nine in even par and came home one under.

Lloyd Tucker of Kitchener punched out 35-40 for a 75.

Junior Petes Take Win Over Lindsay

The Young Petes pulled out a 3-2 Lakeshore Baseball League triumph over Lindsay Merchants on the latter's diamond last evening to climb up the loop ladder. They had previously come close twice to downing Lindsay and also hold two league decisions to date over the Colborne Dodgers. The Young Petes are juniors playing against intermediate teams. They are scheduled to play Bowmanville here Monday evening, though a C.O.B.L. tilt is also listed here that night.

Junior West pitched four-hit ball for the homesters last night but the visitors made the most of their blows to get a run in the first inning and win out with two in the fourth of a fine fixture. Mac McMartin scattered eight hits for Al Menzies' crew and was tight in the clutches, besides getting fine backing. Lindsay got a run each in the first and third inning. Grant Green and Bob Lewis each had two safe hits for the losers, and West clouted out a double in a losing cause.

Line score:

Young Petes .. 100 200 0—3 4 3
Lindsay ..... 101 000 0—2 8 3

Batteries—McMartin and Bigford; West and Widdis.

Orioles Edge Ottawa In Doubleheader

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Roy Weatherly, nicknamed Stormy, 37-year-old veteran outfielder, created his own storm in the International League last night as he slammed out four home runs in a doubleheader.

Weatherly drove in six of the seven runs as Baltimore Orioles edged Ottawa Athletics twice, 4-3 and 3-2. The four homers boosted Weatherly's output to 15, tops for the league.

Ottawa was held to six hits by Bob Miller in the opener and a like number in the nightcap by Jocko Thompson. The double win enabled Baltimore to move into fifth place.

Montreal Royals strengthened their hold on first place by sweeping a twin-bill from Springfield Cubs, 4-3 and 8-6. Junior Gilliam scored the winning run on a wild pitch in the fifth inning of the first contest. Jim Pendleton tripled in the 10th inning with the bases loaded in the second game to clinch matters.

Buffalo Bisons turned back the second-place Rochester Red Wings, 3-1. Babe Birrer scattered seven hits to gain his sixth victory of the season.

Syracuse Chiefs took both games from Toronto Maple Leafs, winning the opener 3-0 and the second 6-1. In the seven-inning first game Jack Griffore limited Toronto to three hits in winning his seventh game. Ray Hawworth drove in three runs in the nightcap to aid his batterymate, Art Hartley, to register his third victory.

Canada Whips Finland In Cage Game

HELSINKI (CP) — Canada's Olympic basketball team came from behind last night to defeat Finland 111-72 in an exhibition game.

The Finns led 31-29 at half-time but the Canadians caught fire in the third quarter to wrap up the game.

The Dominion's all-star squad, made up mostly of players from Tillsonburg Livingstons, was sluggish and shot poorly during the opening quarter and were down 18-13. They atoned for that with a commanding 81-58 margin in the third.

Harry Wade, 23-year-old centre from Windsor, Ont., was high scorer with 28 points. Guard Glen Pettinger of Toronto was next with 19 and Bob Pickell, Lithuanian-born centre from Edmonton, got 14.

Other scorers: Bill Pataky, 10, Bob Simpson, 10, Bob Phibbs, 9, Woody Campbell, 5, all of them from Windsor; Roy Williams, Winnipeg, 5; Wearing, Toronto, 5; Carl Ridd, Winnipeg, 4; Bill Coulthard, Tillsonburg, 3.

Canada now is paying for her ninth-place showing at the 1948 Olympic Games in London.

This year's representatives must play in a double-elimination round July 14-18 among the lesser lights to decide which six teams will join the top six squads, plus Argentina, 1950 world champions, Russia and Czechoslovakia, the two best teams in the 1951 European championships and host country Finland.

The Canadians are grouped with Egypt, Romania, Turkey and Italy and will meet Italy Monday morning. The winner will play Romania, which gets a bye, Tuesday morning.

The loser of this game will play the loser of the Egypt-Turkey match.

Two defeats in its group automatically eliminates a team.

Pirates Crumple N.Y. Giants In 6-2 Baseball Offensive

By RALPH RODEN, Associated Press Sports Writer

Judging by the brand of ball played by the Giants of late it appears the New Yorkers will have to stage another miracle run to win the National League pennant. The Giants have lost six of their last eight starts and have fallen 5½ games behind the front-running Brooklyn Dodgers.

Most of the blame has been directed at the failure of Larry Jansen and Sal Maglie to match their victory pace of a year ago but actually light hitting and poor fielding has been chiefly responsible for the Giants' latest woes.

Murry Dickson of the last-place Pittsburgh Pirates beat Maglie 6-2 yesterday, following Thursday night's setback when bonehead base-running and fielding caused the Giants to drop a 12-inning encounter.

Rookie Dick Groat drove home three runs and Ralph Kiner knocked in two on his 14th homer to lead the Pirate drive yesterday.

Maglie, who has completed only one game in his last 10 starts, was charged with his fifth defeat in 16 decision.

The Dodgers gained ground by edging Chicago Cubs 6-5. In other games, Boston Braves tamed Cincinnati Reds 6-1 and Philadelphia Phillies edged St. Louis Cardinals 4-3 in 10 innings.

In the American League, St. Louis Browns upset the pace-setting New York Yankees 6-3 but the world champions retained their 2½-game lead as Washington Senators nipped the runner-up Chicago White Sox 2-1 in 10 innings. Boston Red Sox swept a doubleheader from Detroit 16-6 and 5-3 and Cleveland Indians downed Philadelphia Athletics 8-7.

ERRORS HELP DODGERS

The Dodgers nicked three Chicago pitchers for only seven hits, including a home run by Duke Snider, but the Brooks made the most of five Cub errors.

The Cards' winning streak ended when Gran Hamner and Willie Jones singled and Stan Lopata flied out in the 10th against relief ace Al Brazle. Robin Roberts went all the way for Philadelphia although yielding 14 hits and five walks.

Lefty Warren Spahn limited Cincinnati to seven hits while the Braves pounded out 16 against three Red pitchers.

The Browns halted their nine-game losing streak as Tommy Byrne, a former Yankee who had lost six straight, stopped his old mates on seven hits. The Browns snapped a 1-1 tie with four runs in the seventh inning.

Ed Yost singled home Hal Keller in the 10th as Washington beat the White Sox.

HOMERS DECISIVE

Successive ninth-inning home runs by Al Rosen and Larry Doby off Carl Scheib enabled the Indians to beat the Athletics. Rosen tied the score with his 16th homer and Doby won the game with an inside-the-park belt, his 14th. Mike Garcia in relief for starter Bob Feller, picked up his 12th victory. Ferris Fain of the A's collected one hit to run his batting streak to 23 games.

Rookie Dick Brodowski breezed to his third victory in the opener at Boston. Vern Stephens hit two homers and Brodowski and Hoot Evers blasted one each. Evers' belt was a grand slammer.

Billy Goodman, who drove home three runs in the opener, and Del Wilber led the Red Sox to victory in the second game with timely run-scoring hits.

Children Crave Companions Do Make Them Welcome

By NANCY CLEAVER

"Johnny wants to play in my sand-pile. Have you another old spoon to dig with?"

"Susan and I are going to pretend the doll house is a store. What can we use for money?"

"Mum, Bill is coming home with me after school to help with my new model plane."

"Could Jean go on the family picnic with us next Saturday?"

What happens in your home when Junior wants you to make his friends welcome? What is your reaction?

Some mothers are irritated by the mere suggestion that they have any responsibility for their child's companions. When Paul was tiny Mrs. Black announced:

"One small boy's noise and untidiness is all I can stand! I just can't put up with the neighbor's kids under foot!"

Paul was disappointend and angry. "I got to have somebody to play with!" was his theme song.

Yes, children do crave the companionship of other youngsters. When they ask mother if they can bring a chum home they are not being perverse—they are just "doing what comes naturally".

If you do not welcome your children's friends at your house they are going to disappear down the street, around the block. In other people's homes in search of friends. They are sure to go!

Parents might as well face up to the fact that either they must be glad to see their children's chums "on the home ground," or accept the consequences of absentee youngsters. If your son's or daughter's friends never feel "at home" under your roof, don't be surprised if your child always seems to be straying away!

In their leisure time activities, children do make a terrible noise at times and create a lot of confusion—But what a marvellous time they have together! They play with an abandon which somehow most grown-ups loose.

They also seem to need a lot of "props". A yard where children have been playing has a distinct look about it. Not only is the grass worn, or the snow well tramped, but bits of play equipment are likely to be scattered about.

Mother may weary in her attempt to keep the yard presentable. Here is one place where Dad can be a big help. He can give son a little hand in helping him put away his playthings.

Then, too, father can provide a place in the garage for play material. Because he is not at home so much of the time, and because he is a man, he can impress the neighbour's youngsters, as well as his own, with the rule:

"If you play here you must take care of play things and put them back where they belong before going indoors."

Weather conditions sometimes make outdoor fun out of the question. Play in the house of active children is rather hard on mother's nerves. The racket, as well as the clutter and occasional quarrel are all "hard to take."

If at all possible boys and girls should have a corner of the attic or a dry part of the basement, or any one place in the house which is their own for play time. They don't enjoy getting in mother's way! Have you not overheard a child making a remark like this?:

"Don't let's play at Andy's house . . . His mother is too tidy. Do you remember what a fierce time we had last Saturday keeping out of her hair?"

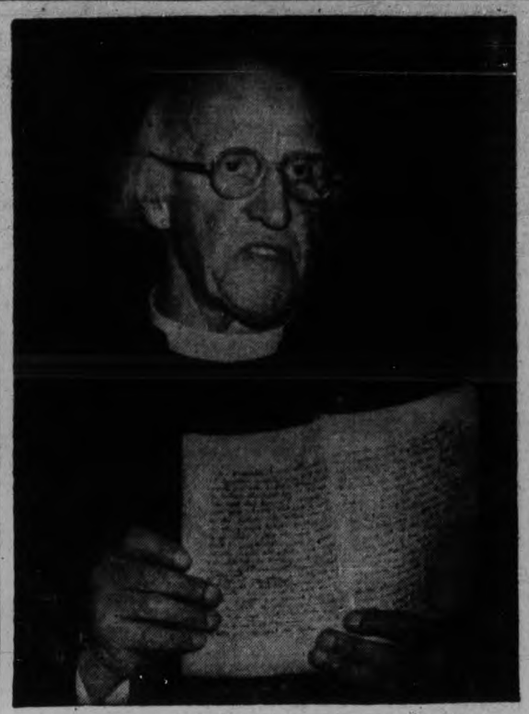
A very different atmosphere is found in another home when the mother said:

"When my daughter was quite young I decided that I might as well enjoy her friends who dropped in. Together we have planned a tea party every other week. It didn't cost very much. My little girl always helped to get it ready and to wash up afterwards."

"When my child was tiny we used a gay picnic set of unbreakable dishes. I do believe my daughter's interest in cooking can be traced in part to her enjoyment in making sandwiches and cookies or drop cakes for those tea parties."

Friendship is an essential part of happy living. When mother and dad are sympathetic to their child's desire for companionship, they are in a position to point out that they expect to see their own friends too!

Daddy isn't "selfish" or Mummy "mean" when occasionally they go on an adult leisure time expedition, without a child "at their heels." If you welcome Junior's chums for an unexpected tea-party, then he can make an effort to be civil when a friend of yours calls and you serve afternoon tea.



DR. HEWLETT JOHNSON, the (Red) Dean of Canterbury, holds up a photostat copy of an alleged statement by U.S. airmen describing their methods of training in germ warfare. Dr. Johnuson produced this "evidence" at a press conference in London after he returned from a 7,000 mile tour of Red China.

Escapee From Guelph Arrested At Ipperwash

IPPERWASH (CP)—A man described as an escapee from Guelph Reformatory was arrested here last night.

Police took a man identified as Bruce Barton, Kingston, to Sarnia jail. He was employed at Camp Ipperwash as a civilian worker under an assumed name, police said.

He escaped from the reformatory June 17, police said.

Traders Kept Wary Eye On Chicago During Week

By DICK BAIDEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadian and United States traders kept a wary eye on Chicago this week while stock market prices drifted in cautious trading.

The possibility of a victory for the more Conservative section of the Republican party in the Presidential nomination convention held many investors from the market, Toronto professionals said.

New York brokers, they said, were concerned about the effects of an administration which proposed substantially to reduce foreign aid. United States markets, they claimed, were geared to armament and foreign-aid budgets. Professional observers now see a general continuity of foreign policy regardless of whether the Democrats or Republicans win in November.

TRADING SELECTIVE

Selective trading featured Canadian markets. Industrials drifted lower in response to New York weakness but Toronto base metals and western oils showed strength.

Golds staged a moderate advance and, in a final-hour drive yesterday, climbed to the highest level of the year on the Toronto index. Leading junior producers drew most support.

Toronto opened the week with a slow advance. By the session's close, however, only golds held substantial gains as industrials, base metals and western oils turned mixed. In Montreal, papers and industrials were steady.

Prices closed lower in Toronto Tuesday as profit-taking spread irregularly from leading issues. Industrials turned upward in Montreal but papers slipped.

A final-hour flurry of selling in Toronto Wednesday depressed most issues but industrials and papers were firm in Montreal. Industrials slipped again Thursday in Toronto but base metals showed strength. Papers and industrials continued firm in Montreal.

GOLDS STRONG

Golds, metals and oils climbed strongly in Toronto yesterday. Industrials remained firm in Montreal but papers eased.

Prices dipped in quiet New York trading Monday. Prices drifted irregularly lower Tuesday and Wednesday but mild support rallied the list Thursday. Steels and rails led a slow upturn yesterday.

From Friday to Friday, the Toronto Stock Exchange indices showed industrials down 1.73 at 318.25, golds up 1.97 at 93.11, base meals up 2.22 at 189.54 and western oils up 1.47 at 138.65.

In the Montreal averages, banks were down .25 at 30.35, utilities unchanged at 85.0, industrials up 1.6 at 205.7, combined up 1.1 at 165.5, papers down 8.07 at 706.06 and golds down .35 at 65.39.

In New York, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks slipped 50 cents at $106.70.

Ontario Gov't To Set Up Pollution Control Board

TORONTO (CP)—Health Minister Phillips announced yesterday a pollution control board will be set up by the provincial government.

The board, composed of members of the Departments of Health, Lands and Forests, Planning and Development, Mines, Agriculture and Municipal Affairs, will advise the provincial administration on pollution problems and co-ordinate activities of all departments.

Dr. Phillips said one of the board's first jobs will be to review all legislative procedures for dealing with pollution of both air and water.

A major industrial problem is the atmospheric contamination by sulphur dioxide released in smelting operations in the Sudbury district.

The Minister cited Sauble Beach on Lake Huron, 15 miles northwest of Owen Sound, as an example of a resort needing sanitation and anti-pollution facilities.

In an interview, he compared it with Wasaga Beach on Georgian Bay. He noted that Wasaga Beach has been incorporated and handles its own pollution problem while Sauble Beach remains part of the adjacent municipality.

Rev. A. L. Sisco Called To Warkworth Charge

WARKWORTH (ENS) — An official board meeting of the United Churches of St. Paul's, Warkworth, Dartford and Oak Heights was held in St. Paul's United Church, Warkworth, on Monday evening. Dr. D. M. Smith, of St. John's United Church, Campbellford, as representative of the Cobourg Presbytery, presided. He reported the Pastoral Relations Committee, which was composed of William Bowen and W. Grant Allen, of St. Paul's, Lorne Evans, of Norham, F. H. Denike, of Dartford, and A. P. Sayles, of Oak Heights, had contacted the Rev. A. L. Sisco, B.D., of Tweed, and that they wished to have the official board meet him, and so this meeting had been arranged.

Rev. H. G. Lester had accepted a call at Shawville, Quebec.

Dr. Smith said Mr. Sisco was under no obligation to move from Tweed where he had served for the past seven years, but that he had been contacted by the pastoral relations committee and they had requested him to meet the members of the official board. Dr. Smith introduced Mr. Sisco.

After some questions had been asked by the members and discussion of various arrangements, it was moved by Ben Buchanan and seconded by Bruce Birney that a call be extended to Mr. Sisco, of Tweed, and a unanimous vote was taken.

Mr. Sisco asked for a couple of days to consult his family and consider the matter. On Wednesday, he contacted Mr. W. Grant Allen, of Warkworth, and accepted the call, to take effect October 1st.

Deborah: A Great Woman

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

Deborah (Judges 4, 5) was truly great among women.

It was in that somewhat unorganized, difficult period for Israel, emerging out of the bondage in Egypt, and the wandering in the wilderness. The great leaders had passed on.

Joshua had conquered the enemies opposing the resettlement of the Jews in Palestine, but the kingdom of Hazor, recovered from that conquest, was taking revenge and oppressing Israel.

Deborah, this forceful woman, was aroused, and called on Barak to delived the people. He refused to fight unless Deborah went with him; but, a fighter as well as a judge, Deborah did her part, and the result was the overwhelming defeat of Sisera, and the deliverance of Israel.

Another woman then entered the picture, with a very grim story. It is the story of Jael, who slew the fleeing Sisera in a bloody and terrible way (Judges 4 and 5).

Though Deborah apparently approved of Jael's violent act (Judges 5:24) her own honorable record is free from the questionableness of Jael's patriotic, but violent, act of assassination.

It is for her prestige and wisdom as a judge among her people that Deborah is most justly noted. No one seems to have appointed her, but by sheer force of character she attained power among the people, and to the great tree under which she sat they came to seek her counsel.

Yes Deborah was married. She was "a mother in Israel." Her husband's name was Lappodoth (Judges 4:4) but that's all that either I, or the Bible, can tell you about him.

My recent article, "What Has Happened to Sunday?" has evoked some interesting replies. Three correspondents, evidently members of the Seventh Day Adventist body, or influenced by the views of that body concerning the Sabbath, offer extensive comment, and one correspondent challenges me to a debate regarding Biblical matter.

To this correspondent, as well as to others, I would say that in the present circumstances of my life and work debate or controversy is quite impossible.

I have sought courteously to acknowledge any letters that come to me, and to make a brief reply, if it were a matter of helpfulness, but an extensive discussion is out of the question.

My purpose in these articles of Bible Comment is non-controversial.

So far as the question of a religious day of rest is concerned, I hold strongly to the words of Jesus: "The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath." To me it is not the particular day that is important, but the principle of the one day of rest in seven. I am satisfied to accept the day predominantly recognized by Christendom, leaving to others the right to act as their belief and conscience may direct.

PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

VOL. CV. No. 10 — SATURDAY, JULY 12, 1952 — PRICE TEN CENTS

MAIN STREET TOPICS

SUSPEND LESSONS

Music lessons on stringed instruments, being conducted for school pupils weekly at the Knights of Columbus Hall, will be suspended for the month of August.

BRAKES OVERHEAT

Firemen went to George and Ware Sts. Friday night to make sure a fire didn't break out in a city bus. The brakes of the bus overheated and began to smoulder. A handpump was used on them.

CITY MANAGER

Dick C. Pepin, 39-year-old son of Mrs. Margaret Pepin of Peterborough, the former Margaret Elmhirst, has been appointed city manager of Odessa, Texas, a city of approximately 30,000. Mr. Pepin has been city manager of Pampa, Texas, for the past three years.

KENNER APPOINTMENTS

Two teaching appointments to Kenner Collegiate have been confirmed by the Board of Education. A. J. Arnott will teach art, mathematics and science; and Norman Erskine will teach science and social studies. Mrs. Alex Sollitt has received a one-year appointment to teach home economics; and Albert Croasdale, P.C.V.S. band director, will teach vocal music at Kenner.

PLEASED WITH TWEED

The Tweed Parks Board was thanked this week in a letter from R. I. Elliott, president of the S. & A. Club of the Western Clock Co. here, for facilities provided the recent Westclox picnic in Tweed. Mr. Elliott said in part: "Yours is an ideal setting for a picnic of our size. We look forward to visiting Tweed again."

NO INQUEST

Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan of Belleville said today there will be no inquest into the drowning Tuesday night of Donna Jean Moxam, 10, and Beatrice Eileen Moxam, 14, two sisters from Maynooth. They fell off a shoal into deep water while wading in Horseshoe Lake, four miles southwest of Maynooth. "It was obviously an accidental drowning," said Crown Attorney Donnan.

MORE CHILDREN

Enrolment at city schools keeps increasing. In June, 1951, there was an average attendance of 4,161 in June, 1952, there were 4,527, or 366 more. As an indication of the accommodation problem, K. S. Wightman told members of the Board of Education that 330 boys and girls will be graduating from Grade VIII and going into Grade IX (i.e. transferring from public schools to secondary schools). But this is more than offset by newcomers. Already 663 children have been registered for kindergarten in September.

POSTPONE NEGOTIATIONS

Negotiations between Local 570, International Union of Electrical Radio and Machine Workers and the Western Clock Co. have been postponed until after the holidays that begin today. The union is negotiating on a wage opener clause that was inserted in the contract and on certain "inequities" in job classification. They are asking for an increase of 10-13 cents an hour for labor grades. This is in addition to the 12 cents an hour received last December. Postponement became necessary when a top company official was unable to come from the United States to sit in on the discussions.

Trouble Maker

Highway 7 traffic was halted for about 20 minutes Friday evening about 9 p.m. until there was a solid line-up about a mile long stretching east from the Locks bridge. Visitors were puzzled and local residents thought there must be a very large boat passing through the swing bridge. But the cause of all the difficulty was an ordinary-sized 28-foot cruiser, the Sarabell, from Cleveland. But on top of its cabin there was a 10-foot aerial. It was too high to pass under the bridge and so the span had to be swung open for it.

C.G.E. Observes 60th Anniversary Has 12 Plants

The Canadian General Electric Company will celebrate its 60th anniversary on Tuesday.

On July 15, 1892, the C.G.E. was granted a company charter. The first head office was situated where Toronto's Union Station now stands on Front Street West. At this time electricity was still almost unknown. It was even viewed with some suspicion and hostility.

Early in the 1890's a small machine shop was the first of three buildings erected at Peterborough and was the largest plant of its kind in Canada.

During the pioneer days the Peterborough works was the centre of the company's operations. Its products were many and varied. They ranged from electrical sockets to generators. Also produced were the closed street cars, then the last word in luxury transportation and comfort.

One of the pioneers of the company was Senator Frederic Nicholls, who served the company successively as vice-president and general manager, president and chairman of the board. Senator Nicholls was president from 1913 to 1921.

Other presidents of the company were. W. R. Brock (1892-1913), A. E. Dyment (1921-1925), D. C. Durland (1925-1946), H. M. Turner (1946-).

In the 60 years of its development the company has grown to become Canada's largest electrical manufacturers, with 12 plants, more than 30 sales offices, and 14,000 employees.

Woman Complains Of Road Dust

Aggravated by dust which sifts into her home every time doors are opened, makes her verandah look as if a bag of flour had been shaken on it, and worst of all ruins her washing, Mrs. Alex McIntyre, 157 Crescent Street, phoned the Examiner today to complain about the nuisance.

Last week, the city engineering department tarred Crescent Street then topped it off with fine gravel, which Mrs. McIntyre says is just like sand.

For a few days she was able to keep the dust down with water. However, the Utilities Commission put an end to this practice with its regulation early in the week prohibiting the use of water for sprinkling except for an hour two days a week.

The city has not yet used chloride on the street and as a result, every time a car passes, Crescent St. residents experience a mild version of a desert sandstorm.

"You can't even see the T wharf," Mrs. McIntyre says, which is only a short distance away. Thursday when she took her washing off the line, it was "just gray." Mrs. McIntyre says she has to keep all her doors closed to keep out the sifting dust regardless of how hot it gets and as for next Monday's washing—unless something is done in the meantime, she is certain it will collect more dust than a vacuum cleaner and will be dusky grey shade by the time it dries.

FISHERMEN ARE MADE, NOT BORN, as far as initial instruction is concerned in the Kawarthas. On Friday evening more than 100 gear-equipped boys of the Y.M.C.A.'s Camp Pow-Wow gathered at George St. Wharf to learn the ins and outs of conservation and proper casting procedure. Shown above with education chairman Campbell Rowatt of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association (centre) and camp director Fraser Wade (behind him) are Ken Sage, Jack Watson, Billy Simmonds, Larry Scott and Peter Reynard.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

$100,000 Asked To Build Public School

The Board of Education are asking city council to issue debentures of $100,000 to cover the cost of erecting a four-room junior school on Cameron St.

The Department of Education have approved an expenditure of $100,000 though members of the accommodation committee are hoping that the actual cost of the building will be $85,000. It will consist of three classrooms and a kindergarten.

The school will be located at Cameron and St. Catherines Sts.

PURCHASE PROPERTY

The Board have also approved the purchase of four acres lying north of St. Mary's School in North Monaghan at a cost of $1,000 an acre. They are buying it from Fred Stenson.

This will accommodate children living west of Monaghan Rd. and will relieve the pressure on Prince of Wales School.

"We think it is an excellent site," said G. Wilson Craw, chairman of the accommodation committee. "It will cost very little to develop because the land is flat. At $1,000 an acre we feel we are getting a good buy."

106 Boys Attend Camp Operating Within City

For 106 boys between the ages of eight and 14, who otherwise would be at loose ends putting in the time these hot summer days, camp Pow Wow is providing a varied program of supervised summer recreation. In its second year of operation, the camp which has its headquarters at the Y.M.C.A. is even more popular this year than it was last.

"When one lad drops out, we have about 30 who want to take his place," says Y.M.C.A. Physical Director Fraser Wade who is in charge of the camp.

Although it has its headquarters right in the heart of the city, the idea behind camp Pow Wow is "to provide a summer recreation program and camping experience for boys who cannot get out of the city." Mr. Wade has lined up an agenda which includes overnight camping hikes, and bicycle hikes to the country to give the boys an opportunity to learn how to camp out of doors.

BEGIN AT 9

The day's activities begin at 9 a.m. with a devotional period which either takes the form of a religious service conducted by a guest speaker, or a thought for the day discussion, led by Mr. Wade.

The camp operates six days a week and usually winds up at 5 o'clock except when Mr. Wade has something planned for the boys in the evening.

Friday night, Mr. Wade arranged for a fishing demonstration which was in charge of Campbell Rowatt, secretary of the Ontario

Car Shears Pole Two Men Injured

Two men were injured, one requiring hospital treatment when the car in which they said they were riding sheared off a hydro pole and knocked over a road sign on Parkhill Rd., at 11:30 Friday night.

Lloyd Peacock, 31, 267 Bethune St., was taken to Civic Hospital by ambulance for treatment of scalp lacerations and a cut blood vessel in his head. Ron Greenly of Campbellford complained of a sore knee and was given first aid treatment for the injury.

They told police they were given a ride by an unknown youth they met in the beverage room of a downtown hotel.

After the 1929 model car knocked over the sign and hydro pole, both Peacock and Greenly got out of the car and they said the car drove away.

Later, Donald L. Brant, 21, R.R. 3, Peterborough, was arrested at his home by O.P.P. Constable Harold Armstrong.

He appeared in police court today, charged with drunk driving and leaving the scene of an accident.

Housing Project Promised East Of River

If the city can extend sewer and water services on Otonabee Street (No. 7 Highway, east of the river) some 75 to 100 houses might be built by Toronto interests, according to a letter to the council from Moldaver Brothers Lumber Company.

Fifteen acres are available next to the company's lumber yard and a further block of 25 acres can be acquired. The company wrote that several Toronto men are interested in a housing project in that locality, but their estimate of the possibilities shies off at the lack of water and sewer mains.

The extension of pipe lines across the river is the major obstacle to both the council and the Utilities Commission. The latter body is responsible for water services.

The lumber company and others have applied for adequate fire protection at various times. Even water mains would become help in developing the section of the city at East Gate, the company has commented, but to the Examiner they said that both sewer and water services should be provided.

Roughrider

O.P.P. Constable James Healey urged his mount across the finish line, inches ahead of City Constable Dennis Traynor, in the donkey race held at Riverside Park Friday night. Each policeman had to get on a donkey and guide it 50 yards or so to the finish line. But it was a hollow victory. After an excited running commentary of the race the callous announcer said that Constable Healey's 1st prize was the privilege of cleaning up the ball park Saturday morning.

Driver Sleeps Car Clips Ten Posts

Youth, 18, Escapes With Shaking Up Little Damage To Car

Jack Nurse, 18, of 1 Lansdowne St. dozed off while driving his car south on Highway 28 early today and didn't wake up until his car had clipped off 10 guard rail posts.

Nurse was shaken up but uninjured.

His car also got off lightly. The right fender of his 1939 car was crumpled and the bumper was bent. Damage totals about $35.

Nurse told provincial police that he was driving south on the highway, six miles north of Peterborough, when he dozed off. The car wandered off to the right and knocked down 10 guard rail posts and then stopped on the right shoulder of the road.

He was alone in the car at the time.

O.P.P. Constables James Healey and Ken Barber investigated.

HOME FROM KOREA

Ralph Lucano left for Toronto early this morning to greet his son Gerard, who was due to arrive there with the Canadian soldiers coming home from Korea. He was accompanied by his brother, Frank Lucano, and niece, Leona.

Baseball Or Mayhem?

Dignity Takes a Pratfall From Bucking Donkeys

By DAVE WHITE

We weren't dying of curiosity or anything like that but Friday night we thought we'd like to see a game of donkey baseball. It only cost 75 cents and it was worth it.

To be quite frank about it, though, we weren't exactly a free agent. We were in company with a prim friend who takes a poor view of the grosser aspects of Peterborough night life. That is, smokey beer parlors are not for him and even the Summer Theatre is suspect since a reverend gentleman denounced a play this season as immoral.

"Get out in God's open air, boy," he said.

So we went to the donkey baseball game.

As we walked into Riverside Park we got in the lineup and noticed that the Peterborough Lions Club were playing the police.

Right there is the key to the whole game. It all revolves around dignity having a pratfall. Most people like to see conservative business men behaving out of character. And of course everybody gets a big laugh when a cop takes a tumble.

NO CASUALTIES

There were plenty of tumbles alright, but so far as we could see, no casualties. One businessman had his shins barked when one of the donkeys let fly with his hind feet and both cops and Lions are no doubt a bit stiff today.

We studied the lineup to see how many of the players we knew.

The cops were a hybrid entry of city and provincials: Bob Menzies, Dennis Traynor, Claire McGillen, Emmett Crough, Jim Healey, George Louth, Harold Mesley, Wally Mohns and Bert Rowe.

Upholding the Lions' cause were Nick Carter, Dean Baker, Larry Lawless, Bill Osborne, George Hutchinson, Lynn Morrison, "Dee" Sproule, Nick Corp and Ron Teasdale. As an extra feature the Lions had a coach, Harold Freeman, and a manager, Ron MacGee.

MacGee, no fool, did his managing from the safety of the press box which is only accessible by means of a 15 foot ladder. He whispered to us that he knew the donkeys were smart enough to play baseball but he was willing to bet they couldn't get up the ladder.

He was right, too.

We never did learn all the rules; and nobody could ever learn by watching. The game is one of milling confusion with the donkeys looking bored and obviously completely in charge of the situation.

HERE'S HOW

As near as we could figure it, here's how it goes:

Every fielder has a donkey. The ball is pitched and the batter knocks it out for a hit. Then the batter has to climb on a donkey by home plate and get two of the donkey's feet within the first-base ring before the fielder retrieves the ball, climbs on his donkey, and throws to the first baseman who is also on a donkey.

So on around the bases.

If the runner is thrown off his donkey twice, he is automatically out.

One vicious beast (that's the way it looked to us) took a particular delight in dumping cops. About the only one able to stay on him was Denny Traynor who, in order to remain seated, leaned back in a horizontal position until his head almost touched the donkey's tail.

Claire McGillen fouled up the game by a novel stunt that had all the donkey baseball lawyers leafing furiously through their rule books. Instead of riding the donkey after he had knocked out a hit, he picked it up and carried it around the bases.

Luckily it was a colt and didn't really wake up until the sergeant was jogging around second base.

George Hutchinson, clad in a suit of long red underwear, and Hal Freeman, in a plug hat and frock coat, did the clown act.

LIONS WIN

The score, by the way, was three to two, in favor of the Lions Club. As it was the Lions who put in the swimming pool and wading pool at Riverside, most of the 500 spectators felt that was fair enough.

When the game was over and the contestants were counting their lumps, we decided to go behind the scenes and find out who runs the donkey show.

We found that the owner was Bud Smith, a toll suntanned native of Colorado, who retains his western drawl. He was dressed in a T-shirt and light pants. No western cowboy hat, chaps and the rest of that fooferaw for him.

He told us that this is his fourth season in Ontario. He likes it here, has a cottage at Musselman's Lake, and is transferring his business to Canada permanently.

Mr. Smith tries to get daily bookings in towns and cities about 50 miles apart. The donkeys are transported in a comfortable trailer and the front compartment is divided off so he and the other attendants can bunk down for the night, also in comfort.

FEW CHOSEN

"We find that there's only about 15 donkeys in every hundred that are suitable for donkey baseball," he said. "We have to weed them out after a period of training."

The animals are trained for the particular position they are supposed to play.

For example the white donkey, appropriately named "Dynamite," that kept throwing the cops, was specially trained to buck. Field donkeys are trained to run after the ball. Donkeys at first and third bases are trained to stand still, near, but not in the base circle. The one at short-stop is supposed to be just plain ornery and obey no orders.

"The whole idea is for the donkey to do just the opposite to what the rider wants him to do," said Mr. Smith. "That's what makes the fun."

The night's activities certainly bore this out. Some of the hapless riders were furiously pulling on the reins as the donkeys ambled toward the river. Only the fences saved the would-be jockeys from a ducking or worse.

KNOCKS OUT STUFFING

Mr. Smith is a bit of philosopher in his own right; though he doesn't take himself too seriously. He feels that donkey baseball reflects the North American aversion to stuffed-shirtism. Somewhere, deep down inside, every true 200 per cent North American likes to see dignity take a tumble, says Mr. Smith.

"Combine the banker and the jackass and you've got a sure-fire source of amusement.

"Two things are essential to donkey baseball: the novelty of seeing donkeys in a baseball game and the fun of watching local people take part."

"Sure I like the business," said Mr. Smith. "My 19-year-old son Jim here is just as enthusiastic about it as I am. I have another lad in the U. S. Airforce at Okinawa. Why, he enquires about the donkeys before he does about us."

We thanked Mr. Smith for his information and turned down the offer of a drink (our prim friend was still tagging along).

And that was our introduction to donkey baseball.

Books On Canada To Be Given To German School

TORONTO (CP).—Books about Canada are to be presented to Germany's ancient Marburg University.

A collection of 353 volumes on all phases of Canadian life, mostly written by Canadians, has been shipped to Europe. It will be formally presented to Hon. T. C. Davis, Canada's ambassador to the West German government, at a ceremony June 28 which coincides with the 425th anniversary of the University of Marburg.

Selected by a group of Toronto professors, the shipment is representative of Canada's bilingual culture. It includes both French and English publications as well as books about Canada by foreign authors. Works such as the Massey Report and the Canada Year Book are presented side by side with Stephen Leacock's "Sunshine Sketches of a Little Town" and Marjorie Wilkins Campbell's "The Saskatchewan." Texts on science and religion, poetry and art, history and biography are balanced with literary criticisms and Canadian fiction.

POST-WAR GESTURE

Alan Coatsworth, Toronto insurance agent, helped arrange the gesture of international goodwill. Shortly after the Second World War, he noticed a letter in Saturday Night magazine requesting reading material on Canada for Marburg students. Mr. Coatsworth sent 12 volumes. In 1950 he flew to Germany to see university officials.

Four professors at the University of Toronto were invited to co-operate. They are Prof. G. W. Brown of the History Department; Prof. H. Boeschenstein of the German Department; Prof. Robert Finch of the French Department and Prof. Norman J. Endicott of the English Department.

It is the hope of this committee to establish the university of Marburg as a centre of Canadian studies in Germany. Marburg, 60 miles north of Frankfurt-on-Main, is famous for its university and the shrine of St. Elizabeth.

Soviet Writers Scared Stiff, Line Backfires

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

NEW YORK (AP)—There's a spook over the Kremlin.

The ghost of Andrei Alexandrovitch Zhdanov has the Kremlin's arts and letters experts on the horns of a terrible dilemma. Things are bad, too, for Soviet writers and playwrights.

Zhdanov died in August, 1948. The politburo member, once considered heir-apparent to Stalin, had just cooked up a kettle of artistic stew which Soviet belles lettres never really digested and which now is giving it an acute bellyache.

Today there is a raging "discussion" in the Soviet press, about playwrights and novelists. It seems they are in a rut dug for them by Zhdanov before he died. The discussion is also reaching into the satellite countries, where writers scarcely had time to swallow the Zhdanov stew before they were obliged to start coughing it up.

TRIPPED OVER LINE

The "Zhdanov line," laid down in 1946 in the wake of the war, was held so taut that Soviet letters tripped over it. It still waits for party directions on how to struggle to its feet.

The "discussion" in the party press, both in Russia and the satellite countries, must have the writers dizzy.

In several months of this "discussion" Communist writers have been told, among many other conflicting things, that the titles of plays and books are poor and unimaginative, there is no contact between actors and playwrights, there is too little comedy, too little satire, too few plays in verse, "low ideological content," too much complacency, and playwrights seem to think that "a crook or a rogue must be dragged into every play as a standard villain."

What it all amounts to is that all Soviet artists and writers are scared stiff, and now the Zhdanov line is boomeranging.

Just after the war Zhdanov and others in the politburo decided that the millions of Red Army soldiers who had gone abroad had seen too much of the world for the good of the U.S.S.R., and the party line demanded immediately the production of stereotyped works depicting the Soviet Union as the most glorious place under the sun.

CULTURAL PURGE

Since the Soviet system knew no peer in human history, there could be no inner conflict. The Soviet writer and playwright was hard put to it to find conflicts for his works. If he was smart, he didn't try very hard. Those that did got the boot in the famed cultural purge which Zhdanov staged between 1946 and 1948.

Not being allowed to think, the intelligentsia was caught in a tight spot. It was ordered to look only to the Communist party for guidance, and the party had a way of being confusing. Stereotyped characters were the order of the day.

This was all right with the party, but the Soviet public began staying away from such plays and books. The Kremlin's experts found themselves mouse-trapped. They fumed, but neither writers nor critics would take chances with introducing "conflicts." They stuck to safe things, like denouncing bureaucrats and praising fine, upstanding young Communists.

Butter into which anchovy paste is creamed can be hardened in the refrigerator and served with boiled fish.

SMILES AND TEARS dissolve 35 years of separation as James Perkins, a former member of the legislative council of the British West Indies, was re-united with his mother, Mrs. Mabel Perkins, in Montreal recently. Mr. Perkins was welcomed by a family delegation as he reached the Metropolis to begin a vacation "at home." Until ill-health forced his retirement from politics last year, Mr. Perkins was a member of the legislative council of the presidency of Montserrat and a member of the general legislative council of the Leeward Islands. His arrival in the city completed the Perkins family circle here—four other children are living in the city.

Visitors Seldom See Rocky Mountain Goat

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—The Rocky Mountain goat is seldom seen by the naked eye in this resort area 85 miles west of Calgary. But from a highway vantage point five miles west of Banff good binoculars often bring into view these sure-footed mountaineers.

Alexander Henry was the first white man to describe on paper the Rocky Mountain goat. On Feb. 9, 1811, while in the Kootenay Park in the Great Divide, he wrote:

"Des Jarliax, my hunter, I left behind to kill a white goat as it is here they are most numerous. We could perceive three, still standing abreast upon the edge of the precipice, looking down upon us, but they were at a great height."

The mountain goat, its underwool sometimes as long as four inches, has long been known as the only true North American wool-bearing animal. Its wool, extremely fine, rivals the best Cashmere.

RECOGNIZED VALUE

Indians were quick to recognize and take advantage of this product. They made world-famed blankets of the yarn, the most famous of the weaves being the Chilkat robe.

The mountain goat lives on the highest peaks of the Rockies but can be tamed to some extent. Banff's sister national park, Jasper, boasts a salt lick where one may walk right up to a goat and take a picture or pat its back.

The dizzy heights favored by the Rocky Mountain goat are protection enough for the animal. Beasts of prey are unable to follow the goat as it gallops up almost sheer cliffs. Occasionally, however, an eagle will make off with a kid that has strayed from its parents.

Hot Weather Sewing Hints

Midsummer is hard on summer clothes. Despite earlier preparations, the supply of wash dresses on hand for both mother and children never seems to add up to enough changes. It's worth a little effort to add that one extra dress which will make all the difference in comfort. Sewing in hot weather need not be fatiguing, if you follow a few simple shortcuts. You can learn from your nearest sewing centre, for example, which are the easiest fabrics and patterns both to sew and to wear on hot days.

Choose one of those "quick and easy," "make-it-in-an-afternoon," patterns, with the least number of pieces to join, and therefore, fewest seams. Make your closings light wrap-around or tie, to avoid work on buttonholes or zippers. Neckline and sleeves can be finished with bias binding to avoid collar and cuff details. Leave the finishing touches to be added by a decorative button or summer costume jewellery. There are many patterns with good styling in the summer pattern books, and they are as cool to wear as to sew. Try cotton chambrays or ginghams or the more easily handled sheers like organdie. And select a shade in sheer for which you already have a matching slip or petticoat to save making another one.

Plan to do your sewing at the coolest time of the day, early morning if you can, and do the finishing touches after supper in the cool of the evening. Make up a light sandwich or salad lunch for the childen and pop it into the icebox before you begin your sewing. Wear your coolest housedress to work in, preferably sleeveless or one which gives you easy arm movement. Move sewing machine, pressing board, and iron into your coolest room near a window where you can get the breeze. Draw the blinds to shield yourself from the sun. If you are fortunate enough to have a back verandah, take some extension cord and move machine and ironing board outside. Have refreshing cologne and talcum handy, and a pitcher of ice awter or orangeade close by. If you have a dress form, you will be spared the sticky trial of fitting yourself.

Go about your summer sewing this way, and you and the children should always have something fresh to put on when you need it.

Cottesloe W.M.S. At Forsyth Home

Some 21 ladies met at the Forsyth home for the July meeting of the Cottesloe W.M.S. Miss H. Tedford, the vice president, was in charge of the worship and business part of the program.

Mrs. George Barr read the scripture and Miss Tedford led in prayer. Mrs. Fred Bolton, the christian citizenship secretary, gave a worthwhile reading from the Missionary monthly, entitled "Good Samaritan."

The group have handed in their share towards the building of the new United Church Training School. The remaining funds received from the recent strawberry social, was voted to be kept towards a building fund.

Mrs. William Forsyth gave the prayer of dedication for the W.M.S. offering. Mrs. J. Blakely took charge of the program and took as her scripture lesson John 1:1-5. Her message was entitled "Light shineth in darkness. Mrs. J. Golloher sang a solo "In Jesus." Mrs. F. Bolton closed the meeting with prayer. Lunch was served by Mrs. J. Kidd and Miss Tedford.

The August meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Walter Girven, an associate member. Mrs. Chas. McMillan will be the program convener and Mrs. Fred Toms and Mrs. Merd Clysdale are on the lunch committee.

NEW COIFFURE

The chrysanthemum coiffure is bursting into bloom for late summer and fall. Like the curling petals of a blue-ribbon winner, the hair is whisked into place with a skilful brush. It makes you think of the old windblown coiffure — but it's infinitely softer and prettier. Vogue says this coiffure needs a basic set; then an artist with a hairbrush to rough it up.

Aleutian Gauze Popular Fabric

PARIS—Most successful of all the sheer fabrics for summer dresses has been Aleutian gauze, that Shantung-type organdy that looks best in deep pastel shades or in light tobacco brown. Many an otherwise simple dress is given new beauty when accompanied by a long scarf of Aleutian gauze in some contrasting color.

The charm of these scarf effects continues to attract Paris designers and many of the more slender-skirted evening dresses are provided with an illusion of width by scarf effects of all kinds.

Swimsuit Dress For Eating Mango

NASSAU, Bahamas.—The thousands of lady visitors who help make Nassau's beaches more decorative are finding a new use for their swimsuits.

A swimsuit, their Bahamian cousins claim, is the only logical costume to wear when eating a mango.

The mango, a lush tropical fruit with a delicious, though indescribable, flavor, was designed by Nature to fool people. Its flesh is firm and hard to the touch, and it gives the uninitiated the impression that it is going to be no trouble to eat. But the first bite into its succulent interior showers the mango-eater with a stream of rich, golden juice. Hence, it is no fruit to eat when wearing a new summer formal.

Bahamians themselves have been advising visitors for years that the best way to eat the mango is in a swimsuit, and preferably in the sea. Most Bahamians, however, seem to prefer their mangoes refrigerated and sliced, except when on a picnic. Then they follow their own advice and take their mangoes into the sea with them, dipping them into the salt water between bites, to give the fruit an added touch of flavor.

About half-a-dozen varieties of the delicious fruit are currently in season in Nassau, ranging from the tiny peach mango to the giant Haydn. Their biggest attraction to lady visitors, apart from their incomparable flavor, lies in the fact that one can eat them and not gain weight. Surprisingly, the fat content of the sweet, juicy fruit is less than one-half of one per cent.

WHITE A GOOD CHOICE

Gleaming white is always a good choice for warm weather hats whether they are small or large toppers. First of all white gives a cool and flattering effect and it is also a shade that will go with any costume from summer black to the palest of pastels.

THE BRAKES CAME TOO LATE for his playmate. The Killer car sped coldly away leaving this tense little drama of death and devotion. The mishap occurred in downtown Montreal following a shower.

List Things To Do This Coming Week And Enjoy Life

It's a matter of routine with many housewives to plan their week's work on Monday morning.

Well, how about taking time out Monday morning to make some plans for the family's enjoyment of the week to come, too?

Take a sheet of paper and divide it into three sections.

On the first make a list of several things you would like to do this particular week. Maybe you'd like to lunch with a friend whom you haven't seen for some time. If so, call her up and decide on a day.

Perhaps you'd like to have several friends over for morning coffee or for an afternoon of sewing and talking. If you would, get that arranged. Now you've got something to look forward to yourself.

Next figure out what you and your husband might do together. Any shows you want to see? Any couples you would like to have to dinner? Any ball game or lecture or political meeting you might attend together?

JOT DOWN REMINDERS

Jot down a few suggestions, so that you can say casually on Monday night: "I thought we might have a few couples in for supper Wednesday. Does that suit you?" or "We haven't seen a ball game this year—would you like to go to Friday night's game?"

Then make a list of some things the family might do together—a picnic supper, a swim, a movie. Put down what you might do that week for fun as a family.

You don't have to stick strictly by the lists, but either do some of the things on the list or substitute others for them.

Don't just let this week drift along like last week, with nothing planned, and so eventually ending with nothing much done.

Plan your leisure the way you plan your work. Or you may, like so many women, find that life is mostly work with little fun.

Make Monday's planning for the week's fun a habit, and enjoying life will get to be a habit, too.

Lavish With Color In Beach Attire

NEW YORK — Gabriellasport used colors with a lavish hand in a beach costume which showed below-the-knee pants in blue linen with a loose linen jacket made of bright squares of green, white, and violet linen, and belted in a sandy beige.

As the costumes were shown with their own accessories, from wide, shady hats to the dainties, slips of shoes, gloves, jewels and a few luxurious furs, they represented an integrated sense of harmony often lacking where clothes are accessorized in a more haphazard way. Ferragamo and Frategiana of Florence are names already familiar to Americans who appreciate beautiful footwear, and their strip sandals accented many of the smart ensembles.

Baked Tomatoes With Soup Sauce

Baked stuffed tomatoes are one of the first joys of the summer vegetable crop, even better with a mushroom sauce. To make 6 servings, just remove stem ends from 6 tomatoes and scoop out pulp. Mix the chopped pulp with a little cooked chopped onion and 2½ cups soft bread cubes. Fill tomato shells with mixture and bake in moderate oven about 20 minutes. Make the sauce with 1 can of condensed cream of mushroom soup; mix this with one third cup milk and simmer till hot. Pour over tomatoes. A supper in itself with cold cuts and hot rolls.

Unduly Alarmed

The diagnosis that discovers some heart condition often unduly alarms the patient who may become somewhat panic stricken. Yet that same person would not be frightened and fear blindness if the eye doctor ordered him to wear glasses for impaired vision.

By following the doctor's instructions implicitly with regard to diet and exercise, many people with heart trouble live to be a good old age.

Lots Of Good Things To Eat Make Picnics So Popular

A picnic? Let's go!

That pretty well expresses most people's feelings about picnics. Of course, there are picnics — and picnics, with success hinging on the food. We're including some plans that will help make your picnics a definite highlight for an outing with the family or a group of friends.

There won't be much organizing needed if you use one of these novel picnic menus we're suggesting today. Either menu will provide for some mighty good eating, and some elegant taste surprises too. One picnic plan features a stuffed french roll and the other stars hidden cheeseburgers. These are real treasure-burgers, for tangy cheddar cheese or slices of processed cheese are actually hidden — in between two thin beef patties. Done just to a turn over the fire, the cheese imparts a welcome delicacy to the filling between the bun halves. The stuffed french roll is a new and wonderful picnic food, easy to make and even easier to eat — away from civilization. A crusty loaf of french bread is hollowed out and "stuffed" with a succulent mixture of zesty cheddar cheese, seasonings, corned beef and crunchy celery. Chilled and then sliced just before you "take off," you won't even have to remember knives, for you won't need them.

PICNIC MENU 1

Stuffed French Roll
Small Tomatoes Tossed Salad
Butter Tarts Fruit
Milk Iced Tea

For a picnic, slice the stuffed french roll to within ¼ inch of the bottom crust. Then roll in waxed paper. At the picnic just tear each slice from the loaf. Pack small tomatoes to be eaten whole. Prepare the salad greens at home, then carry in sturdy transparent bags. Add the dressing from a jar right at the picnic. Wrap each butter tart individually in waxed paper. Store apples, oranges and bananas in the picnic basket. Fill vacuum jars with milk and iced tea.

STUFFED FRENCH ROLL

(Serves 8 to 10)

1 loaf of French Bread
2 (4-ounce) packages pimento cream cheese
1 (4-ounce) package plain cream cheese
¼ cup melted butter
½ cup ground corned beef, ham or luncheon meat or chopped walnuts
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 teaspoon minced onion
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons chili sauce
¼ teaspoon monosodium glutamate
⅛ teaspoon salt

Cut off the end of a loaf of french bread and carefully remove the soft centre, so that only a half inch shell of crust remains. Mix remaining ingredients thoroughly. Fill the loaf with the cheese mixture. Fasten the end of the loaf on with tooth picks. Wrap in waxed paper and chill in refrigerator overnight. To serve, cut in thin slices.

Note: You'll find many uses for the soft bread removed from the loaf — for flavorful poultry and meat dressings and for top-notch bread puddings.

✧ ✧ ✧

PICNIC MENU 2

Tomato Juice
Hidden Cheeseburgers
Potato Salad
Brownies Melon Wedges
Milk

Cook the cheeseburgers and place in buns at home. Then roll in waxed paper, newspapers and finally in a blanket or prepare the raw cheeseburgers at home, then grill in a skillet over a camp fire. Potato salad should be carried in jars and served in paper cups. Brownies should be frosted in the pan and carried that way. Wrap the whole chilled melon in cold, damp newspapers and then again in dry papers. Vacuum jars may be used for chilled tomato juice and milk.

HIDDEN CHEESEBURGERS

(Makes 6 cheeseburgers)

1 pound ground beef
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2/3 cup tomato juice
1 small onion, chopped
2/3 cup rolled oats (uncooked)
6 thin slices Canadian processed cheese, or
¾ cup coarsely shredded Canadian cheddar cheese.

Combine all ingredients except cheese. Mix well and shape into 12 thin patties. Cover 6 of the patties almost to the edge with the sliced or shredded cheese. Top with remaining patties and press edges together to seal cheese inside. Pan broil or grill (8 to 12 minutes). Serve in toasted hamburger buns with catsup, relish, etc.

DOROTHY DIX

Assertion Of Superiority Wrecks Woman's Marriage

DEAR MISS DIX: We have been married four years and, due to our financial circumstances, do not have children. We are in our early thirties. My husband hasn't much education and has a routine job, while I am a college graduate. Since the beginning, our marriage has been marked by constant quarrelling. At first he handled the finances, but I discovered that his gambling was depleting the purse, so I took over and have proven a very economical and efficient manager.

I am unusually talented. Everything I do is above average in accomplishment—cooking, sewing, fine arts, music, even such masculine tasks as furniture finishing, papering, painting, carpentry, etc. My husband is not talented at all. He enjoys relaxing, sleeping and arguing. He is very poor as a man around the house as he never seeks perfection in anything.

Perhaps I contribute something to our constant arguing as I am quick-tempered. The tension led to a severe breakdown of my nervous system, which has been repeated twice. With each illness my husband's treatment has become worse. He has no patience at all when I am sick. Occasionally, however, he goes into a burst of overwhelming consideration, but soon reverts to his usual nagging, quarrelsome self. We can't maintain peace long enough to have friends visit us.

At present I am recovering from my last illness and wonder how long I can stand this kind of life.

C. M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Well, lady, my question is how long can your husband stand it? It's about time he had a nervous breakdown, too, and when it comes it should be a beauty. Your plethora of talent has made you s overbearingly conceited and self-sufficient that only a paragon of angels could live up to your expectations. You have thwarted your husband in every masculine prerogative, then you expect him to sit down meekly while you proceed to run everything and criticize his shortcomings.

HE'S HEAD OF HOUSE

You usurped his right, as head of the house, to run its finances. The excuse you give for doing so is flimsy. You refuse to have a child because of financial conditions—though you could afford to buy a house. If your parents were willing to offer assistance in that purchase, surely they wouldn't have been less generous in the case of a baby. A woman of your capabilities should have no trouble in financing a child—thousands of women with far less money than you can do it.

There is no reason why your household can't be peacefully maintained, but it is you who will have to do most of the reforming—not your husband.

It's a fine thing, indeed, for a woman to be as gifted as you, but when accomplishments are constantly brought up as a reflection on your husband's lack of them, they become a grave hindrance, rather than a help to successful marriage. Suppose your husband isn't too handy or capable around the house. Let him do the things he wants to do, shut your eyes to their imperfections and graciously acknowledge his assistance. After all, he wants to be more than a pay check in his own home and you won't give him a chance!

Stop reminding him constantly of your superiority and learn to extoll his virtues. He must have some good points, and it's a nice idea to show appreciation of them occasionally. Recognize him as head of the household, render more respect and admiration, and watch the war clouds disappear.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a young wife of 25, married six years, and have three children. My doctor tells me I have only a year to live and I cannot bring myself to tell my husband. Should I tell him now, and give him his freedom so he can prepare for life without me, or should I try to keep his happiness by withholding the news?

E. A.

ANSWER: By trying to carry this terrific burden yourself, you are doing the entire family a grave injustice. Your husband most certainly should know exactly what your condition is and I'm surprised that the doctor hasn't already acquainted him with the facts.

Perhaps you are taking a more hopeless view of the situation than is necessary. Many a person has walked around, worked, and been most active for years after being given the same news you have heard. Medical skill advances so rapidly today that many conditions once considered hopeless, respond miraculously to treatment. Make it your immediate business to consult a specialist in your particular malady. You are also greatly in need of spiritual aid for which I recommend a long talk with your minister. You will get more help trough prayer than from any other source.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Because my mother and father are so harsh with me, I want to leave school and go to work. I am 15.

M. M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your parents are probably strict with you because they want to safeguard your own health and reputation. The worst thing you can do is leave school and try to face a business world with inadequate education. Finish high school, then you'll be better equipped to enter the highly competitive business world.

PRINTS TO THE FORE

PARIS—Prints have come to the fore in recent weeks, notably the more abstract type of two-color prints showing no definite pattern. Most popular of all are patterns showing a single strong color relieved with black, and Ducharne's lovely foliage-bouquet print in black on white has been one of the most popular whether on twill or taffeta.

Question: Would you please print that recipe for super tea biscuits or "De Luxe Tea Biscuits" . . .they had cream of tartar in them. H.T.C.

Answer

BISCUITS SUPREME

Two cups stirred but not sifted all-purpose flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon cream of tartar, ½ teaspoon salt 2 teaspoons sugar, ½ cup butter or shortening at room temperature, 2/3 cup milk. Sift dry ingredients together, and cut shortening into them with pastry blender. Add milk all at once. Quickly stir. Pat out on lightly floured board to ½-inch thickness. Cut out with 1½-inch cutter to be very dainty. Bake at 450 Fahr. about 10 minutes.

Question: I was wondering if you could tell me where I could buy a cake tin the shape of a lamb, I had a cake given me made like a lamb and I have tried to get one but can't.—Mrs. L. C.

Answer: Yes I know where you can purchase a cake tin in shape of a lamb but do not know whether you will go to the trouble. Lewis & Congers in New York City is the largest hardware store I have ever been in. They have them. They will mail or express one to you. Write to them telling them the size you want, ask price; when they reply saying whether they have one in stock, if they have buy a U.S. money order for the amount they specify plus shipping charges and mail it to them with your order and address. Customs duty will be low.

Question: I have used your recipe for one-egg cake quite often and find it very good, also at Xmas cooked half turkey after your advice. I have two lady boarders and living is high. . . they think $12.00 is high. . .I give them a large variety of food . . .Newfie.

Answer: At $12.00 per week I think it is all work and no pay. Evaluate your work and be sure you are paid 90 cents per hour—minimum for skilled labor, which cooking certainly is.

Question: Our letter from the correspondent with the child allergic to wheat, eggs, milk spinach and flour brings my reply. My sister has 28 allergies. . .I was feeling sorry for her restricted diet until she said "Well I can still eat a good beefsteak and as long as I can have that I'll get along!" To replace the wheat though here is real news for allergy sufferers. . .a dietitian has invented a flour from oatmeal and has made muffins for them . . . my sister carries these muffins with her wherever she goes (they are available in many U.S. stores). Meantime here is a cake the child might have as it contains no butter, eggs or milk.

MYSTERY CAKE (No Butter, Eggs or Milk)

1 cup sugar; beat until soft and blend in 2 tablespoons shortening, sift in 2 cups bread flour. (Mrs. Moore can you substitute here for the rye or soy flour?). Resift the flour with ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon each cloves and nutmeg, 1 teaspoon soda. Stir the sifted ingredients in about 3 parts to the sugar mixture, alternately with thirds of a 10½ oz. can tomato soup. Beat until smooth. Fold in 1 cup each nutmeats and raisins. Bake in greased 9-inch tube pan in moderate oven 45 minutes. Spread the cake (when baked) with the following icing:

White icing Sufficient for top of an 8 or 9-inch cake, Sift 1 cup confectioners' sugar. Beat till soft 1½ tablespoons butter OR 1 egg yolk. OR 1½ tablespoons hot cream OR 1½ tablespoons heated canned milk OR 1½ tablespoons coffee or orange (for this one pick your allergies, chum! ! !)

ECONOMY SPICE CAKE

This uses cake flour too but is good for the egg, milk and butter sufferers. . . (could you substitute soya or rye or rice flour?). Boil for 3 minutes 1 cup water, 2 cups seeded raisins, 1 cup brown sugar, 1/3 cups shortening ½ teaspoon each cinnamon, all spice, salt, nutmeg. Cool. Sift 2 cups cake flour. Resift with 1 teaspoon each baking powder and soda. Stir flour gradually into other ingredients, beat till smooth. Add 1 cup chopped nuts. Bake in greased 9-inch tube pan at 325 deg Fahr. for 1 hour or more.

None-allergy victims will like this cake if made with white icing. I will try to find out about obtaining the oatmeal flour. —J. C. M.

ANSWER: You are wonderful! Thanks for such a careful and unselfish letter. I have good news for you. I got some of the oatmeal and am making bread with yeast from it at the moment I am writing. I will soon have news for the mother of the allergic child. Ever since I have been home I have been experimenting with wheatless bread for her and soon will print my findings. Let me know any more news you have for allergy sufferers. Thanks for the cosmetic tips—I'll save them. I printed the one for facial you gave me earlier.

A Message From FOSTER'S RESTAURANT

WE regret that at the present time, due to staff difficulties, we will be unable to operate on Sundays as originally planned.

We feel obligated to close one day a week and feel Sunday is the logical day, as ninety-eight per cent of our staff are married and are entitled to spend one day a week with their husbands and families. Many of our regular customers, who are working people, were very disappointed when we had originally planned to close Monday, and we feel that our regular customers should be considered before the casual potential Sunday patrons. We would sincerely like to accommodate everyone and operate seven days a week, but at the present time it is an impossibility.

Our business, thanks to the people of Peterborough and the American tourists, has far surpassed our highest hopes. We appreciate your patronage and do hope you will understand the necessity for our decision to remain closed on Sundays, and operate every day of the week from 7.30 a.m. to 1 a.m.

Yours truly,

Dave Foster

106 Boys

Federation of Anglers and Hunters, Zone 5.

Down at the George St. wharf, Mr. Rowatt had several expert anglers on hand who instructed the youngsters on the fine art of plug, bait and fly casting. Several brought along their own rods and reels, while others stood around watching and picking up all the tips they could about how to get a bite from one of those fighting maskinonge, pickerel or bass that have made the Kawarthas famous as a fisherman's paradise.

The five members of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association who assisted in the demonstration were: Dit Clapper, Stan Purser, secretary of the association, Don Smith, Bud Tulley, and George Willshaw.

DAILY SWIMS

Three swims daily in the Y are a daily feature of the program in the morning, at noon and in the afternoon.

When the boys are not on hikes, or swimming in the pool, they are learning how to make kites, toys tie knots, and given instruction in leathercraft.

Then, to round out the educational-recreational program, they are taken on tours of local industries.

Early in the week, they visited Westclox and Canada Packers, and Friday afternoon Mr. Wade took the whole gang over to the Quaker Oats where they saw how their morning bowl of cereal is manufactured.

Thursday evening they all went for a bicycle trip out in the country and on Wednesday night, they took in a lacrosse game. The program is designed to provide such a wide range of activities that there will be something of interest to practically every boy during the day.

Mr. Wade has his hands full at times keeping his 106 boisterous and energetic charges under control, but the boys get a real kick out of the activities and on the whole are very co-operative.

Four high school students assist Mr. Wade on a part-time basis and Charles Forsyth, Y.M.C.A. general secretary, and Alex Sinclair, chairman of the Recreation Commission, are also helping him with the program which keeps the youngsters off the streets and gives them an opportunity to take part in an interesting and varied program of healthy group recreation.

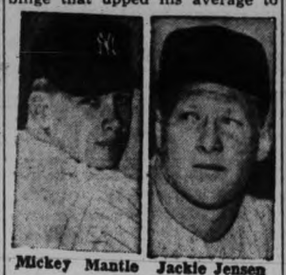
Manager Lets Ex-Yankee Play His Own Game

By JOHN McCALLUM
NEA Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Jackie Jensen has't wasted any time convincing railbirds he is the greatest thing to come to Washington since Mr. Smith.

All the fervor generated by the young outfielder is understandable. He is flourishing the hottest bat in the American League.

Just the other day he ended a consecutive 20-game batting binge that upped his average to



Mickey Mantle Jackie Jensen

.320. He was batting .105 when the Yankees sloughed him off to the Nationals in the Irv Noren deal, May 3.

The transformation of Golden Boy from Yankee flop to super slugger with the Nationals is attributed largely to the way Bucky Harris has handled him.

"He's restored my confidence," beams Jackie.

"The first day I joined the club he said 'You're our right fielder, and you're batting third.' That's all he said.

"He made it sound as if I was the right fielder for a long time to come.

"It's nicer playing with Washington than New York.

"Harris doesn't get panicky if you go hitless or lose a game.

"With Casey Stengel it was different. You either produced or didn't play.

"When I was on the bench, I heard him making cracks about guys who were in the game.

"That meant there were cracks about me, too, when I was playing.

"Casey was always on us about watching out for the curve and laying off the slider.

"Harris leaves us on our own.

"It's quite a contrast.

"I felt the change against the Athletics shortly after I joined the club.

"Harry Byrd is pitching, and I can't buy a hit my first three times up. Then I'm up with the bases bulging, and if I was still a Yankee I'd never get to the plate.

"Bucky leaves me in there, and I hit one that breaks up the game and I'm as happy for Bucky as I am for myself."

Manager Harris is higher than an angry cat's back on the former California athlete, blandly forecasts he is one of the few college football stickouts who will attain the super star class in big-league baseball.

The gameness, courage and tenacity which Jensen displayed as fullback at Berkeley marks his play.

At bat, he is the calm of a Summer evening before a thunderstorm. Almost casually he stalks to the plate, takes an easy, natural stance, and a free, untrammeled swing. There is no hitch, no jerk in his batting style.

There is ordinarily nothing piggish about Harris, but when it came to Golden Boy he simply had to go whole hog.

"I liked everything about him," admits Harris. "I wanted his big bat, his strong arm, his speed. I wanted him playing for us, not the Yankees. In short, I wanted the whole ball player."

Generalissimo Harris says frankly that Jensen, in one or two respects, has more potential than Mickey Mantle, who perhaps is the most-advanced young ball player he has ever seen.

"Jackie is a more accurate thrower, is physically sounder, and has a more level stroke than Mantle, who's inclined to hit up on the ball," declares the Nats' pilot.

"Jensen simply murders a ball between the belt and the knees."

He does all right on a ball between the belt and shoulders, too.

WHEELED WORKERS jam all highways leading from the plant as shifts change. Each day 11,000 private cars swarm in and out of the project, requiring 150 traffic officers to handle them.

WHEELED TRAILERS house Savannah River Hydrogen plant construction workers in hundreds of parks, like this one at Augusta, Ga. Most of 4,000 available trailers are rented.

BIG BARRACKS were built along with trailer camps to house construction workers, but only 1,500 of the 4,500 rooms are rented. Contractor subsidizes rents for the empty barracks.

New Hydrogen Bomb Plant Will Give West Lead Producing Nuclear Weapons

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

AUGUSTA, Ga. — America's most vital defense project, the Savannah River hydrogen bomb plant, is one of history's largest and most fabulous single construction jobs.

When this fantastically large and complicated plant is completed it shoul give United States a new, commanding lead in the race with Russia to produce nuclear weapons.

And despite Congressional harassment, and weak support from government production officials, it is going up on schedule. That's the claim of Trumble Blake, engineer and spokesman for the E. I. duPont de Nemours Co., which is building the plant and will run it.

Some statistics reveal its almost unbelievable size. The site, on the East bank of the Savannah River in South Carolina, occupies 315 square miles. This is five times the size of the District of Columbia and about one-third the size of the whole state of Rhode Island.

36,000 WORKERS

More than 36,000 construction workers draw about $4 million a week. In the Fall a peak of 45,000 workers is expected. The permanent employment at the plant is estimated at 7,000.

The 32 million cubic yards of earth being moved for the various plants and roadways would fill a hole one-quarter of a mile square, more than 500 feet deep.

Each day 11,000 private cars swarm in and out of the project, requiring 150 traffic officers on the site. A crew of 25 men works on nothing but pest and insect control. The project has a complete weather station.

The $1,2 billion estimated cost makes it about one-third larger than the Hanford, Wash., atomic plant, which had been the world's biggest single construction job. That comparison includes increases in costs.

Today all but 15 families have been moved off the site. At a cost of $20 million about 1,500 persons with their homes and businesses, plus 4,500 graves, will have been completely transplanted to nearby farms and towns. The small cities of Ellenton and Dunbarton are included.

Exact progress of construction of the plant and the date it will get into full operation are secret. Some of the 250 permanent buildings, scattered all over the site in individual areas, are completed. The rest, consisting of huge, strange-looking concrete and steel structures, factories resembling huge petroleum refineries, and gigantic power plants are in various stages of construction.

Trumble Blake, the key du Pont engineer, says:

"We are right now on the time schedule we promised the AEC at the start of construction."

However, he admits, that if production officials in Washington had given the plant a top priority for materials it would now be ahead of that schedule. Instead, the plant has had to compete for materials with far less important defense projects.

PRODUCE TRITIUM?

All the Atomic Energy Commission has said is that the plant will produce materials for both hydrogen and atomic bombs. It is assumed that this means the hydrogen substance known as tritium, basic ingredient in the H-bomb, and plutonium for A-bombs.

The project has been harassed by nine separate congressional investigations, probing such things as alleged loafing, discrimination and improper housing. Not one of them has resulted in a suggestion to the AEC or du Pont for changes.

Any person who is familiar with construction jobs can see evidence of good co-ordination. There is a minimum of loafing, plenty of signs of economy-minded management. All superintendents and key project men are in constant touch through an efficient communications system which includes eight short-wave channels.

Housing for workers has been a major headache. Based on previous experience, AEC and du Pont signed a contract with private firms to build barracks and set up trailer camps, and guaranteed to pay the difference in rent if they were not filled.

Approximately 3,000 of the 4,500 barracks rooms are empty. The trailers are full. However, a federal rent board ordered trailer rent cut from $82.50 per month to $60, and rent per week for double barracks rooms cut from $16 to $10.

An appeal has shown comparable housing in the area to be more expensive. The average worker gets more than $100 a week. If the appeal is denied and the barracks stay as empty as they are, the total bill for subsidizing the workers' rent will be $6,112,000.

However, the barracks, which are far better than the average army barracks, are slowly filling up. The jamming in nearby Augusta and Aiken could soon help fill the barracks completely.

Former citizens of Ellenton are now adjusting to their new environments and the citizens of adjoining towns are enjoying new prosperity.

The site was selected for the ample, mineral-free water supply of the Savannah River and because there was a lot of land with few people on it, located near much larger centres of population.

Charge Reduced Man Fined $150

COBOURG (ENS) — Indecent assault charge against Richard Hart, of Cobourg, was reduced to assault occasioning bodily harm in police court Friday, and Hart was fined $150 and costs or three months by Magistrate W. R. Philp, of Peterborough.

On June 29, Mrs. Elizabeth Wells, 45-year-old Cobourg widow, was accosted by Hart who was under the influence of liquor, around 11.30 p.m., and forced to accompany Hart from the busiest section of the town down a nearby side street.

Hart had her by the arm and she fell on the road just as two Oshawa men, who had noticed her struggling, came to her rescue. The men, Harold and Charles Rogerson, took Hart to the police station. Mrs. Wells told the court that apart from hauling her along by the arm, he did not otherwise touch her.

Magistrate Philp said that there was no evidence of indecent touch nor was there the intent necessary to support the charge. However, she suffered abrasions on her knees in falling and received medical attention. Accordingly, there was sufficient evidence to show assault causing actual bodily harm.

Among the defence witnesses giving character evidence was Constable E. Butler, of the Cobourg police department, who said that the accused had a very good reputation.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

A VITAL PRODUCT

William G. Ovens seems to have a good thing down at Campbell's Dairy. It ought to be referred to the advertising department for follow-up purposes. Says the manager: "It'll take ten years off your age." It's buttermilk; still has its imbibers. A girl went into the dairy the other afternoon and drank a quart. Mr. Ovens thought that quantity was slightly on the excess side.

NO RELIEF YET

"The citizens have done so well this week in helping us to keep up water pressure that we hope they will follow the lawn and garden sprinkling schedule until we get rain," R. L. Dobbin, Utilities manager, said today. "We felt sure that rain was coming the other night, but it took off in all directions. We did get a little. Please, no watering on Sunday; then 9 p.m. to 10 p.m. only in Ashburnham Monday and Thursday; north of Sherbrooke, Tuesday and Friday; and south of Sherbrooke, Wednesday and Saturday."

European Papers Pleased With Nomination

LONDON (AP)—Most west European newspapers heaved sighs of relief today that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower—the American they know best—won the Republican presidential nomination. The Communists, as usual, dissented

In government and diplomatic offices, however, there was a discreet, tactful silence. Officials declined comment for fear of being accused of meddling in United States domestic affairs.

A British Foreign Office spokesman limited his remarks to the statement "Eisenhower is very much admired and respected over here."

CONTINUE U.S. AID

Most newspapers happily assumed the Republicans' choice meant that, regardless of the outcome of the November presidential election, Europe would be assured of continued U.S. economic and military aid in the fight against Communism.

They reasoned that the former North Atlantic Treaty commander knows European needs and will be friendly towards them if elected. If the Democrats win the newspapers figure, they would continue President Truman's foreign policies.

Some typical European comments:

England—London's independent Times says Eisenhower's victory means that "once more the Republican party has refused to commit itself to a campaign of isolation. It is now certain that the broad stream of American leadership in the world will not be diverted or dry up."

The Liberal Manchester Gardian: "We all like Eisenhower. . . .but we are as ignorant as his countrymen of what precisely he stands for and what kind of men he would get around him if he is elected."

Sweden — Stockholm's Liberal Dagens Nyheter, hitting Sen. Robert A. Taft for "isolationism", says Eisenhower's nomination "must be received with pleasure all over the free world."

APPROVE FOREIGN POLICY

The Netherlands—Rotterdam's independent Algemeen Dagblad: "The nomination of Eisenhower proves the Republicans in general approve of the foreign policy so far conducted by the White House. . ."

Germany—Berlin's independent Der Tagesspiegel: "Eisenhower's victory must undoubtedly be considered a victory for those who, in spite of doubts and discontinent, still have confidence in Europe."

Italy—Rome's independent Il Tempo predicts Eisenhower will become president and will not forget Europe.

France—Rouen's independent Paris Normandie: "Eisenhower's nomination eliminated from the scene Taft and the anti-European policy of Gen. Douglas MacArthur which Taft supported."

The only sour note came from Communist and extreme left-wing papers. Moscow radio broadcast the fact that Eisenhower won the nomination but made no comment.

TOO OLD TO RUN

Edgar Maree, fitter employed at an Orange Free State power station, has been refused permission to run in a 54-mile Durban-to-Maritzburg marathon—most arduous road race in the world—because of his age. Maree, who has finished the South African course nine times since he first ran in it as a 46-year-old novice in 1933, is 65.

Long Hitters and Gamblers Be In Trouble At Winnipeg

Written for The Canadian Press
By BERT GREER

WINNIPEG (CP)—Five years ago Bobby Locke of South Africa said trees were an unfair hazard on a golf course. He had just lost a tournament by clipping a tree on the edge of the last green.

Just what visiting pros will have to say about Winnipeg St. Charles and its many trees when the Canadian Open starts here July 16 will be interesting. Those who can place their shots will be grinning like Cheshire cats while others will be dumping their clubs in the Assiniboine River.

Actually the course is not tough and an accurate player should have little trouble nicking the odd stroke off par here and there.

But there's lots of trouble for the long hitters and gamblers. The course offers a wide variety of shots.

There are dog-legs, straightaway holes lined with high trees, and in a number of spots the players will be confronted with trees a short distance from the tees.

That's when placed shots will come in handy. There are also numerous bunkers but they are the fair type—not too deep.

DETAILS OF COURSE

The course will be reversed for the Open with the present ninth becoming the 18th. Following is a description of each hole the way the layout will be played for the tournament:

1—344 yds. par 4. Bush right of fairway and roadway to left. Rolling green well trapped.

2—395 yds. par 4. Line of traps from 50 yards out to 180 yards in line with green. Placed shot needed or long, high drive. Trap 200 yards out on right of fairway to catch slicers. Wide trap on right of green and narrow trap on left. Rolling green.

3—262 yds. par 4. Small gully in front of well-trapped green. Trees to right and left. Tricky green.

4—400 yds. par 4. Trees 200 yards on left of fairway. Small gully in front of green. Large trap to right and narrow trap on left.

5—487 yds. par 5. Slight dog-leg to left with trees on either side of fairway. Gully in front of elevated green. Large trap on left. Sloping green.

6—129 yds. par 3. Trees to left and back of green. Green well guarded by front traps.

7—373 yds. par 4. Slight dog-leg to left with traps on right 210 yards from tee. Sloping green well trapped.

8—200 yds. par 3. Long traps flank rolling, elevated green.

9—564 yds. par 5. Trees each side of fairway. Big spreading tree just to right of fairway centre about 350 yards from tee. Bunkers at front and side of green.

10—335 yds. par 4. Trees border left. Cluster of traps to right of fairway about 190 yards from tee. Narrow opening to green which is almost surrounded by traps.

11—139 yds. par 3. Tall, spreading tree guards front of sloping green with traps either side.

12—407 yds. par 4. Slight dog-leg if player elects to shoot around tall, scattered trees on left. Nest of traps on right of fairway 200 yards from tee. Green well trapped.

13—528 yds. par 5. Several traps to right of fairway 150-210 yards out. Left lined with small trees. Large fir tree to left and elm at right form gateway to green. Traps on each side of undulating green.

14—517 yds. par 5. Dog-leg with large trees at the turn near green. Small trees lines left of fairway and opening to narrow green.

15—180 yds. par 3. Avenue of trees with Assiniboine River running along right side.

16—349 yds. par 4. Dog-leg, but tall trees on left can easily be carried by well-hit ball, providing player doesn't shoot too straight for green. Traps guarding sloping green.

17—37 yds. par 4. High, spreading tree 50 yards from tee and almost directly in line with green. Traps either side of green.

18—431 yds. par 4. Trees littler fairway to green. Placed drive necessary to avoid tree stymie. Bunkers at back of green.

Total distance—6,377 yards.

Ventilating Crawl Space Below Your Dwelling Floor

QUESTION: The plans I have selected for a house plan to build north of Huntsville show large ventilation openings for the crawl space under the floor. Are there any alternate methods of preventing condensation without having below-zero winds whipping along under the floor?

ANSWER: Since in many northern areas it is not practical to allow a free sweep of cold air below a dwelling floor, the problem of condensation may be alleviated instead by covering the ground with a durable vapour-resistant material to prevent moisture from coming out of the gorund. A good waterproofed concrete slab or heavy roll roofing has been shown to be effective. A roll roofing, either mineral surfaced or plain, weighing at least 55 pounds per 100 square feet, laid with 2-inch lapped joints over a rough graded surface, may by expected to serve satisfactorily for many years. Generally, the laps need no cementing material.

Where a good cover is applied over the entire surface of the ground in the crawl space, very little ventilation is needed. However, to be on the safe side, at least 10 per cent of ventilation openings shown in your plans should be provided.

Material Price Index

QUESTION: Could you give me some figures showing increase in cost of materials used in home building—say for the last ten years?

ANSWER: The following is taken from the latest government price index bulletin, giving the "composite" price index materials used in residential contruction since 1929:

| Year | Year's Average |
|---|---|
| 1929 | 112.4 |
| 1932 | 87.5 |
| 1939 | 102.3 |
| 1940 | 110.3 |
| 1941 | 122.6 |
| 1942 | 130.9 |
| 1943 | 139.1 |
| 1944 | 146.6 |
| 1945 | 148.3 |
| 1946 | 154.5 |
| 1947 | 180.4 |
| 1948 | 217.5 |
| 1949 | 228.0 |
| 1950 | 242.7 |
| 1951 January | 269.6 |
| 1952 January | 291.6 |

Minimum Ceiling Heights

QUESTION: What is the generally acepted minimum ceiling height for first floor rooms and basement?

ANSWER: The following figures from "N.H.A. Building Standards" give minimum ceiling heights for homes built under the National Housing Act. Whether you build under N.H.A. or with private financing, your home should have ceiling heights not less than the following:

Basement floor to underside of beams—6'4 " clear height. Standard and combination rooms except bedrooms—8' 0" clear height. Other habitable rooms—7' 6" clear height.

(Provided that sloping ceilings may be used in such rooms if at least 50 per cent of the required floor area has a clear height of 7' 6". Any part of the floor over which the clear height is less than 4' 6" shall not be considered in computing the minimum floor area.)

Bathroom—7' 0" clear height.

Locating Exhaust Fan

QUESTION: We plan to instal an exhaust fan in our home to keep it more comfortable during the hot summer months. Is it necessary to locate it directly against the attic louvres — or can it be installed downstairs to draw the hot air down and out at ground level?

ANSWER: Exhaust fans can be located downstairs to draw warm air down from upstairs rooms—but such installations aren't too efficient. Warmest air in the house during the summer will be right under your roof, and that's the best location for your fan.

You can install your fan near the louvres so that it exhausts directly out-side. This will work well only if the eaves are tight, and air can't seep itno the attic, except from the rooms below. Air leaks badly affect the efficiency of this installation. A point to remember, too, is that the fan must discharge with the wind.

Best location is to mount the fan on the attic floor, directly over an escape grille. In a one-story house, this grille should be as near as possible to the centre of the house. In a two-storey over the stairway landing.

Cracks In Concrete

QUESTION: We have just moved into a home built in the 1920's. The concrete floor in the back sunroom is badly cracked, as well as the walk down the sides of the house. Can you tell me, in not too technical terms, the best procedure for repairing these cracks?

ANSWER: Step - by - step, in non-technical language, it shall be

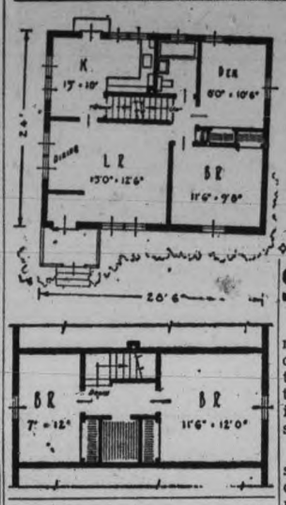
1. Cracks of areas to be patched must first be thoroughly roughened and cleaned. Roughening is done with a chisel. Edges of areas to be patched should be slightly undercut. Then the surface should be wire brushed and all dust and loose particles washed away with clean water.

2. Next, thoroughly dampen the area to be patched. The old concrete should show only dampness—no excess water should be present on the surface.

3. Make a thick, creamy mixture of Portland cement and water and brush it on prepared surafce. The patch should be placed before this creamy mixture dries.

4. Then mix the mortar stiff, of 1 part Porland cement to 3 parts sand. Let it stand thirty minutes, mixing it occasionally without adding water. Tamp this mixture firmly into the cavity and smooth off lightly with a good float. After concrete has begun to stiffen, finish with steel trowel or wood float.

5. Keep the freshly placed patch damp a minimum of five days.



NO. 685—There's certainly nothing pretentious about this small house. Its charm lies in its simplicity—with emphasis on careful proportion, good choice of exterior colours and foundation planting. Applied ornamentation is non-existent. For maximum value for your building dollars you'd find it hard to beat. The suggested plan, in reverse to the photo above, is exceedingly simple—providing a convenient arrangement throughout. The kitchen is well planned, with plenty of space for a breakfast corner. Ample closet space is provided. Colours: red brick, green roof, white trim. For working drawings write House Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Summer Comfort At Home

While most people think of mineral wool insulation as an excellent innovation for winter protection, few realize that it has the additional advantage of keeping the house cool during the summer months.

It has been estimated that outside surfaces or a roof exposed directly to radiation from the sun may get as hot as 140 degrees during a blistering mid-summer day. In an uninsulated house, this heat from the sun's rays stores up in the attic and hollow walls in frame construction forming heat pockets. As the outside air cools during the evening, the heat pockets in the attic and the walls continue to throw off heat into the house far into the night.

The way to keep out this unwanted heat, of course, is to prevent it seeping through the walls and ceiling, and mineral wool insulation can do this for you if it is properly installed. Much in the same manner in which it keeps heat inside the house during the cold winter months, mineral wool insulation keeps the heat out during short intermittent periods of hot weather.

During lengthy periods of hot weather, however, there is strong possibility of the heat leaking into the house through windows or other open areas. As a protection against this, it is advisable that all windows having a western exposure should be properly shaded and the house provided with proper cross-ventilation. In the event that your house does not lend itself to natural cross-ventilation, then it may be necessary to install a motor-driven fan in the attic gable wall. Your insulation contractor or building materials dealer will be glad to offer you advice on this.

If you are using the attic as an extra room, then the roof and attic side walls should be insulated to prevent the sun's radiation from building up a heat pocket in this area. However, if you intend to close off the attic, then it is only necessary to install mineral wool insulation in the attic floor as this will retard the spread of heat through the ceiling to the downstairs rooms.

Mission Ships' Work Described To W.M.S.

BETHANY (ENS).—The Women's Missionary Society of the Bethany United Church met at the home of the president, Mrs. T. J. Jackson.

Mrs. Mervyn Porteous told about the nine Marine mission vessels who take the gospel to so many isolated people up and down the coasts of Canada.

Mrs. Walter Rowland related the story of a pioneer missionary Elizabeth Douglas, who with her husband brought so much to the Indians in the North-west. Mrs. Henry Jakeman gave a short review of the work in China and told how the doors have been closed to our missionaries, who are now finding new fields of labor. Mrs. Jackson related items of interest regarding the mission school in Pointe Aux Trembles, Quebec. This school ministers to around 175 boys and girls who otherwise would not be given this chance to get a knowledge of the christian faith and the pupils are taught to make a worthwhile contribution to our national life.

The worship service centred around the subject "Dearth On The Earth." "There are those who have little and give all. There are those who give with joy and that joy is their reward. There are those who give with pain and that pain is their baptism. There are those who give and know not the pain in giving, nor do they seek joy, nor give with the mindfulness of virtue. It is well to give when asked, but it is better to give unasked through understanding. Therefore give now, that the season of giving may be yours and not your inheritors."

At the close of the meeting lunch was served by the hostess.

Let Canadian Bakers Enrich White Bread

OTTAWA (CP)—The National Council of the Baking Industry announced yesterday that after Jan. 1 Canadian bakers will be able to enrich white bread with both vitamin "B" and iron.

In a statement, the Council said new flour and bread standards set by the federal Health Department will enable bakers to enrich white bread.

Enriched white bread has been mandatory in Newfoundland both before and since Confederation and has been the standard bread throughout the United States for many years.

Deny Ottawa Liberals Paying Election Costs

RIVIERE DU LOUP, Que. (CP) —Prime Minister St. Laurent last night termed "absolutely false" paid Union Nationale newspaper advertisements saying that the federal Liberal party is footing the bill for the Quebec Liberals in the July 16 election.

The advertisements, said Georges Lapalme, Quebec Liberal leader, is "drawing money from an Ottawa electoral fund for his publicity, his salary and his campaign."

Mr. St. Laurent told newspaper men:

"I prefer not to say what I think of such false statements."

Prisoner Files Newspaper Suit

OTTAWA (CP)—Elias Meek, 21-year-old Cornwall district man, yesterday filed suit against the Journal Publishing Company of Ottawa in a $10,000 libel action.

Meek was convicted last March 10 of the murder of Mrs. Allen Alguire. His conviction has been appealed and a new trial ordered for this fall.

The writ claims damages for an alleged libel contained in a news story published in the Ottawa Journal last April 7. A heading on the story referred to the plaintiff as "Murderer Meek."

It is the second libel action arising out of the case. Meek several months ago filed action against the Dell Publishing Company of New York, seeking $100,000 damages for alleged libel in a magazine article. Mr. Justice Aldous Aylen, the judge who presided at the original Meek trial, fined the Dell Pbublishing Company $500.

Democrats Say Eisenhower Won't Be Elected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's first-round knockout victory in the Republican Presidential nomination spurred predictions from the Democratic camp yesterday that he will be "sadder but wiser" in November.

Two candidates for the Democratic Presidential nomination—Senators Richard B. Russell of Georgia and Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma—said they thought they could beat Ike in the fall run-off.

"After Nov. 4, he will be a sadder but wiser General," Kerr told reporters in Washington.

President Truman, like millions of other Americans, watched the convention wind-up via television, but sent out word to White House reporters that he had no comment on Eisenhower's triumph.

Political strategists turned to the next big question: Who will be nominated at the Democratic National Convention opening in Chicago a week from next Monday?

See No Signs Of Senility In Churchill Performance

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP)—Winston Churchill is an old man in point of years, but there's still no sign of senility in his performance as Prime Minister or in Parliament.

At an extraordinarily buoyant 77—he'll be 78 in November—Churchill is as cocky and commanding as ever.

Recently there have been reports that Churchill, with five decades of active politics behind him, is tired and ailing, a shadow of his former self, that some of his followers would like to see him give way to a younger man. There appears to be little substance in such stories.

[illegible] in the House of Commons, day after day, resort to words like fantastic and amazing in describing his performance.

"OLD MAN" NEVER BETTER

His physical condition is a private matter between himself and his personal physician, Lord Moran. Reports from other sources may be little better than hearsay, though several Conservatives say their impression is the "old man" was never better.

His one concession to the years is a hearing aid, which he wears when the occasion warrants. He started wearing it after a heavy cold, followed by a bout of catarrh—one of his few recent ailments.

As for reports of party dissension over Churchill continuing as boss man, there are few Conservatives who will admit that any such feeling, if it exists at all, goes further than an occasional lament at the Premier's insistence on trying to do too much himself.

Most conservative back-benchers affirm Churchill was never better loved or more dominantly in power than he is today.

SORONOUS WORDS

He still revels in parliamentary rough and tumble. The Churchillian tongue dwells with all its old delight on sonorous words and such aphorisms as his recent:

"A prisoner of war is a man who tries to kill you and fails, and then asks you not to kill him."

A back-bench Conservative member, who asked not to be quoted by name, said that reports about discontent with Churchill's leadership started with Communist and left-wing papers. This informant said he has attended nearly all the meetings of the 1952 committee of the Conservative party, and has never heard any criticism of Churchill.

Two weeks ago the Tories gave a private luncheon for Churchill. It was felt that if any criticisms were to be made they would be heard then. But none was forthcoming, and the Premier made plain that [illegible] his good

The "old man" still works punishing hours. When he went back to Downing Street last October, the secretaries went on a three-shift basis.

LOVES FULL LIFE

His eating and drinking are legendary — and probably exaggerated. Although he undoubtedly loves a full life, and the things that go with it, insiders say he is reasonably moderate. He favors champagne, brandy, and scotch and soda, but nurses a glass of scotch, so tenderly it may last several hours. The cigar which is his trademark is often unlighted, put there "because people expect it."

So in this, the eighth decade of his life, Churchill still is a remarkable man, defying age with exuberance, convinced the country has need of him, regarding—in the words of a recent article in the Times—"national politics as the war in which, for him, there is no discharge."

Charges Drug Used To Get Confession

HONG KONG (Reuters)—A United States lawyer recently expelled from Communist China said today the Communists injected him with a hypnotic drug to make him sign spy confessions.

Lawyer Robert T. Bryan, 59, reached here last month after being expelled from China where he once served as municipal advocate for the international community in Shanghai.

He said the Communists used drugs on him to make him sign confessions of spying for the U.S. and documents criticizing the U.S. State Department.

Negro Singers Firm Holders Blues Monopoly

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Ethel Waters, a gal who should know, says there are only two white singers who could cross tonsils with Negro blues singers.

Miss Waters picked Ella Mae Morse and Mel Torme as the two who come closest to threatening the Negro blues monopoly.

"I don't know what it is they've got," she added, "but my ear tells me they've got it."

"All your girl singers today try to copy Ella Fitzgerald, but they can't do it," said Ethel. "The Negro feels the blues differently than the white person."

TRUE BLUE LOVE

Although Ethel is recognized as one of the top dramatic actresses on Broadway, she apparently considers singing her great love.

"It's my bread and butter," she commented.

Currently her non-singing talents are earning her enough Hollywood money to buy cake. She is out here for the movie version of her Broadway hit, "Member of the Wedding."

Singing, however, is where she made her first fame. She was the first of her sex to ever sing "St. Louis Blues," and she also introduced the old time hit "Dinah." In the first technicolor musical she sang "Am I Blue," still a classic on her recording.

She rates the late Bessie Smith and Ma Rainey among the greatest of the Negro Blues singers.

"I never sang the blues like they did. I didn't have a loud enough voice."

Then, glancing down at her buxom figure, she smiled: "Of course, in those days I had a good shape. They used to call me 'Long Goodie.'" That, she explained, referred to her then-slender figure.

CAPSULE REVIEW

"The Quiet Man" is John Ford's best picture since "The Informer," but much, much funnier. Best scene: John Wayne and Victor McLaglen stage a real knock-down drag-out fight across the Irish countryside, finally land in front of a pub. Time out is taken while the participants take a friendly drink and then resume the fight.

Reserve Decision On Commission

GUELPH (CP)—The Ontario government today reserved decision until Monday on whether to appoint a royal commission or other body to further investigate the Ontario reformatory riot here Saturday.

Meanwhile, more than half of the 929 prisoners have been returned to their cells while the others spent their sixth day in an open compound. They will be returned as repairs are completed.

Last night they huddled in blankets as the temperature dropped to 55 degrees for the second successive night.

Both Premier Frost and Reform Minister Foote said estimates that damage ran at about $200,000 were "grossly exaggerated."

Teachers Graduate

TORONTO (CP)—Some 500 teenage teachers will enter elementary school classrooms all over Ontario in September. They are the first graduates of an emergency six-week course instituted by the Department of Education and designed to relieve the present teacher shortage. Lectures are at Bloor Collegiate here.

Want Home For Deaf

TORONTO (CP)—Delegates to the 30th biennial convention of the Ontario Association of the Deaf yesterday decided to petition the federal government for help in establishing a home for aged and infirm deaf persons. The government would be asked to contribute 75 per cent of the cost of such a home with the association raising the remainder.

Farmer 101 Dies

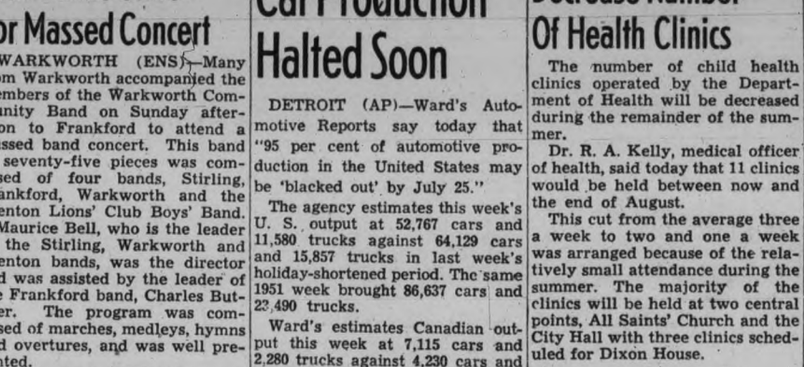
CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—Robert Furness, prominent Prince Edward Island farmer who once directed the first federal experimental poultry-fattening farm, died yesterday.



THE HIGH ROAD—These three double-decker buses from London, England, added yet another detour to their already lengthened trip when they were unable to get through the underpass (lower left) on highway No. 9 on their way into Montreal from the U.S. recently. Their proposed 8,000-mile tour of the U.S. was extended to 10,000 miles because most North American bridges and underpasses give clearance of from 12 feet, six inches to 12 feet, nine inches and the buses are 14 feet, six inches in height. When they were unable to use the above underpass they climbed the embankment and crossed over the tracks.

Four Bands Unite For Massed Concert

WARKWORTH (ENS)—Many from Warkworth accompanied the members of the Warkworth Community Band on Sunday afternoon to Frankford to attend a massed band concert. This band of seventy-five pieces was composed of four bands, Stirling, Frankford, Warkworth and the Trenton Lions' Club Boys' Band.

Maurice Bell, who is the leader of the Stirling, Warkworth and Trenton bands, was the director and was assisted by the leader of the Frankford band, Charles Butcher. The program was composed of marches, medleys, hymns and overtures, and was well presented.

Those from Warkworth who took solo numbers were: Mrs. W. B. Baker, Miss Wylanne Hermiston, Edward Thompson and Ben Thompson. Mrs. H. Buttars, Mrs. R. F. Jolliffe and Mrs. Douglas Knight gave a saxophone trio and a trumpet duet was given by Wylanne Hermiston and George Potter.

Lunch was served by the Frankford ladies at the close of the program.

On July 27, a massed band concert will be presented at the Ball Park in Warkworth.

Killed By Train

HAMILTON (CP) — Michael Yaffe, 35, was fatally injured yesterday when his car was hit by a train at an east Hamilton crossing. Police said Yaffe stopped for the train, then changed his mind and started across. The car apparently stalled on the tracks.

Ottawan Best Pupil

PARIS (Reuters)—The S.H.A.P.E. school, which has 148 pupils, children of Supreme Headquarters officers, yesterday awarded the boys' prize for "the best international spirit" to Michael Angus MacKinnon, 13, whose father is a group captain in the R.C.A.F. from Ottawa.

THROTTLING A RIOTER—London police subdue a Communist demonstrator during an outbreak of rioting at London Airport as Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway arrived for a two-day visit with British leaders. Fighting broke out after about 30 Reds rushed onto the field and began scattering leaflets while the Allied Supreme Commander's plane was landing.

Car Production Halted Soon

DETROIT (AP)—Ward's Automotive Reports say today that "95 per cent of automotive production in the United States may be 'blacked out' by July 25."

The agency estimates this week's U. S. output at 52,767 cars and 11,580 trucks against 64,129 cars and 15,857 trucks in last week's holiday-shortened period. The same 1951 week brought 86,637 cars and 23,490 trucks.

Ward's estimates Canadian output this week at 7,115 cars and 2,280 trucks against 4,230 cars and 1,820 trucks last week and 5,441 cars and 2,179 trucks in the same 1951 week.

Lost Home In Fire Neighbors Aid Couple

EMILY (ENS)—A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Dowall when they opened their home to a large number of their friends and neighbors. The occasion was the presentation of a miscellaneous shower to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Toms whose home and contents were destroyed by fire a short time ago. They received many useful gifts including dishes, bedding and cooking utensils. After the gifts were opened, Mrs. Toms thanked everyone, also the hostess. A most delicious lunch was served.

Loss $50,000,000

CLARKSBURG, W. Va. (AP)—Loss in a warehouse fire was estimated yesterday at as much as $50,000,000. An exact accounting of the destruction may never be made public since the government, for security reasons, won't say how much crude rubber it lost. The rubber supply was one of the major items burned in the warehouse facilities of the General Storage Co. Wednesday night.

Decrease Number Of Health Clinics

The number of child health clinics operated by the Department of Health will be decreased during the remainder of the summer.

Dr. R. A. Kelly, medical officer of health, said today that 11 clinics would be held between now and the end of August.

This cut from the average three a week to two and one a week was arranged because of the relatively small attendance during the summer. The majority of the clinics will be held at two central points, All Saints' Church and the City Hall with three clinics scheduled for Dixon House.

Cruel To Daughter Father Goes To Jail

DETROIT (CP)—On May 24, police said, George Trammell took his 12-year-old daughter, Phyllis, along on a bar-crawl. When he offered her beer in one establishment, he was thrown out.

When he arrived home he began to beat the girl with a strap and when his wife, Annie, 30, intervened, he began to beat her too, they said.

Trammel, 37, yesterday drew a one-to-four-year prison sentence for cruelty to children.

Premature Baby Dies

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—A baby girl, who aroused medical interest when born here 12 days ago three months prematurely, died yesterday. She weighed one pound seven ounces, five ounces less than when born. Her mother is Mrs. Donald Calderwood of Akron, Ohio, who was visiting here.

Drunk? Don't Sail

TORONTO (CP)—Laws covering drunken drivers have been extended to cover operators of motorboats or sailing craft on Toronto harbor. The Toronto Harbor Commission said yesterday that under a new bylaw drunk-driving charges can be laid against an offender.

Canada Helping Ceylon Industry

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada will send money, boats, and men to Ceylon to build up the fishing industry of that tiny Commonwealth country, it was announced last night.

The Department of External Affairs said Canada and Ceylon "have agreed on a statement of principles for the co-operative economic development of Ceylon under the Colombo plan."

The fisheries development and research program is the first of the number of projects Canada will sponsor in Ceylon as part of her share of the Commonwealth's six-year Colombo plan to build up south and southeast Asia.

The project will be financed by the $25,000,000 recently voted by Parliament for the plan this fiscal year. It extends Canadian econonomic aid under the plan to a third country, India and Pakistan, the other two, will continue to get the bulk of the aid.

Woman 67, Dies In Fire As Caesarea Hotel Razed

Four People Dead In Alaska Fire, Toll May Reach 50

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—Four or more persons were believed dead and several were reported missing in an early morning hotel fire that may reach the proportions of a major disaster. Complete confusion made it impossible to get any accurate check on the dead and missing. Guests who escaped from the third floor, estimated up to 50 persons might be burned to death. Nine persons were in a hospital, two of them in critical condition. The fire was in the crowded Pioneer hotel, where there were approximately 250 occupants.

Within minutes after the fire started shortly after midnight, the old, wooden, block-long structure was a blazing inferno.

ESTIMATE TOO HIGH

Night clerk David Littlefield, who raced through the building warning sleeping guests, said he believed the estimate of 50 dead was far too high.

"I saw one body on the second floor just before I left the building," he said. "I am certain that at least four people died, but I can't say how many more."

Fire Chief E.B. Woodcox said there was no way of estimating the death toll.

The building was in flames when we got here," he said. "We pulled out some people. There are probably more in there."

JUMPS FROM WINDOWS

Scores of guests jumped from windows, and others leaped to a building next door.

Firemen on the way to the fire found the street swarming with fleeing guests some of them almost naked.

All hotels here are crowded to capacity because of the big boom in military projects. The Pioneer was the city's second largest hotel.

It was in ruins—ashes and warped sheet metal—two hours after the first alarm.

Two guests, Cy Hughes and Haskell Dickerson of Fairbanks, escaped from the third floor where the fire centered and where guests were feared to have been trapped. Hughes and Dickerson were the only two from the third floor in the front of the building who could be found in a frenzied search in the confusion outside the structure.

Britain Orders Red Envoy Out Of Country

LONDON (AP)—Britain yesterday ordered Soviet diplomat Pavel Kuznetsov to get out of the country within a week on grounds that he had received official secrets from a British Foreign Office radio operator.

The operator, William Marshall, was convicted Thursday of passing to Kuznetsov secret information of value to an enemy and was sentenced to five years in prison.

He had a series of meetings here this spring with Kuznetsov, for three years the second secretary at the Russian embassy. Government agents arrested them together in a suburban park June 13.

The withdrawal order marks the first time that Brtaiin has named a Russian directly in a spy case. It appeared clear that the government is fed up with such cases and has decided to get tough.

Under normal diplomatic custom, Russia has no alternative but to comply with Britain's demand and withdraw Kuznetsov.

WIDELY PREDICTED

The jury asked leniency for Marshall, saying he had been "led astray." Convicted on four counts, he might have been sentenced to as much as 56 years.

Action against Kuznetsov as the other half of the spy case had been widely predicted in the British press.

The Foreign Office said that a note had been delivered to the Soviet Charge d'Affaires requesting the withdrawal of Kuznetsov within one week.

Britain replied to a Soviet note of June 17 which protested against the searching of Kuznetsov by British secret service operators at the time of the arrest.

Marshall and Kuznetsov were nabbed as they were strolling out of King George's Park in a dingy section of South London.

Kuznetsov has lived with his 25-year-old wife Elizabeth and their son Mischa, 5, in a modest four-room apartment in West London. British observers believe him to be one of the M.G.B., Russia's diplomatic secret police.

He had few of the traditional diplomatic graces. But he was one of the few Soviet officials permitted to mix with Britons outside the high walls of the Russian Embassy.

Pick MacNamara As Conciliator

OTTAWA (CP)—Arthur MacNamara Deputy Minister of Labor, has been named federal conciliator in the wage dispute between Canadas railways and the non-operating unions.

M. M. Maclean, director of industrial relation for the Labor Department, and other Labor officers will assist Mr. MacNamara.

The announcement was made in a telegram signed by Labor Minister Gregg and issued here by the Labor Department.

Request for appointment of a federal conciliator to aid in the wage talks was made by the railways and 17 unions of the "non-operating" trades. They reported Friday that they had failed to reach agreement in their newly-opened negotiations for a new contract.

The request for conciliation came a week after the railways received wage demands for an estimated $150,000,000 a year or more for the 125,000 non-operating employees.

Labor Department officials said the conciliation officer is expected to report back in about 10 days. After that, the department can name a conciliation board, which would investigate the dispute and propose terms of settlement.

Fear Gang Fights In Resort Areas

TORONTO (CP)—Provincial Police said today they fear gang fights, prevalent in nearby resort districts three years ago, may be breaking out in some areas.

Two dance hall fights were reported during the weekend and proprietors used baseball bats and rubber hose to break them up. About 15 men were involved in the scuffle at Lake Wilcox but all escaped before police from Newmarket, Thornhill and Vandoff arrived.

At Huttonville 20 men engaged in fights. Some suffered cuts and had their clothes torn.

Oshawa Man Dies After 2 Accidents

TORONTO (CP)—John Knox, 24, of Oshawa, involved in a second accident while an ambulance was taking him to hospital here after he suffered head injuries in an earlier accident near Lindsay, died today.

Hospital officials said he suffered no further injuries in the second crash.

Two companions, Fred Coakwell and Bob Gray, both of Oshawa, escaped with minor injuries when their car went out of control, about 30 miles north of Oshawa, and struck a tree.

The ambulance collided with a car driven by Joseph Parsons, 35, of Oshawa at suburban Scarborough. Mrs. Parsons suffered neck injuries and was taken to hospital.

Also injured was nurse Mrs. Doris Wells, who suffered bruises and cuts. Two other ambulances were required to remove Knox and the two women to hospital.

Two Wounded Near Reserve

SUTTON (CP)—Two men were wounded yesterday in a shooting on the Georgina Island Indian reserve, three miles northeast of this Lake Simcoe town.

Police said a man flagged down the motor-car driven by Munroe McCue, 23. He fired one shot through the open car window, the bullet grazing McCue's forchead and lodging in the right leg of Thomas Porte, 20, sitting beside him.

Corbett Johnson, of Georgina Island, was later arrested and a sawed-off .22-calibre rifle seized.

Find Body In Ditch At Kingston

Say Toronto Man Stabbed 11 Times By His Assailant

KINGSTON (CP)—The body of 30-year-old William Calhoun of Toronto, stabbed 11 times in the heart, was found today in a ditch in Kingston's residential west end.

First reports were that he had been dead two or three days.

Police said robbery was not the motive; $46 was found in his pockets.

The body, almost hidden under high grass in a deep ditch, was discovered by penitentiary guard Douglas Moulton.

BODY MOVED

Police said they believed the man was killed elsewhere and dumped into the ditch from a car. No weapon was found near the body.

One officer said the wounds were clean, as though "plenty of time had been taken in inflicting them."

Coroner Dr. M.J. Morison ordered the body removed to a funeral home. An autopsy will be performed.

Red Supply Areas Heavily Bombed Again

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—United Nations planes carried the fighting deep into North Korea today, hit-and damaging one Red jet fighter that ventured south of the Manchurian border.

Allied fighter-bombers strafed and bombed into rubble 27 supply shelters and 10 bunkers behind the front. Nineteen bunkers and 17 gun positions along the front were hit.

Sporadic ground fighting centred on the rugged eastern front where Allied troops seized a strategic hill after a three-day battle and held it in the face of a counterattack by North Koreans.

U.S. carrier-based planes Sunday again bombed generating facilities at the Kyosen hydro-electric plant, in east-central North Korea, one of four big power complexes attacked heavily by U.N. warplanes last month.

A navy announcement said the Kyosen facilities were being repaired when Skyraiders and Corsairs attacked them the second time.

Flames Sweep 2 Oil Tankers

MARTINEZ, Calif. (AP)—Flames touched off by a spark engulfed two oil tankers at the Union Oil refinery Saturday.

Capt. Eugene Fulton, skipper of the 8,168-ton tanker Victor H. Kelly, died of a heart attack as his ship was wracked by internal explosions alongside the flame-swept pier at nearby Oleum.

Two men are missing and 30 or more were injured.

Damage was estimated at $5,000,000.

The other flaming tanker, the 10,448-ton Lompoc, was hauled out into San Pablo bay by a navy tug. Crew members and fireboats put out flames on her decks in an hour' battle.

Witnesses said a spark on the 1,800-foot pier touched off leaking oil as the Kelly was discharging a cargo of crude oil.

Hint U.S. Strength In Korea Can Be Increased In Pinch

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Gen. J. Lawton Collins, United States Army chief of staff, today hinted that U.S. strength in Korea could be increased "in a pinch."

He said the U.S. Eighth Army "as a general proposition" has been furnished all the "means readily available" for battle, but added:

"In a pinch if it were essential to do so, we could employ other means."

He called the mass flight of Thunderjets bound from the U.S. to Japan an indication that "we are growing in air strength."

The general is on a tour of the battlefront.

STEP-UP ATTACKS

He said recently stepped-up U.N. air attacks on North Korea certainly did not decrease the chances for peace.

Without an armistice, Collins said "the Communists can expect hard attacks from the air."

The Far Eastern commander, Gen. Mark Clark, and Eighth Army commander, Gen. James A. Van Fleet had authority to order bombing of Chinese territory.

Collins said "the U.N. commander (Clark) has the local authority" but he added that no order to bomb Red China would be given without consultation among the United Nations.

Collins said he knew of no more targets in North Korea that had been spared air assaults as the Red hydro-electric plants had been until heavily attacked last month.

KAWARTHA COTTAGERS SWELTERED as well as city folks, as the humid temperature walked into the 90's and stayed there all day Sunday. A promise of thunderstorms and cooler weather in the setting sun failed to materialize. The heat continues. Hotels were jammed with languid visitors and fishermen bade their time to try still fishing off the deep holes at sunset. Those in fast boats who sought a cooling ride in the afternoon found heat too oppressive on the water and returned to gasp on shaded cottage verandahs. Many dips in the lake relieved the heat situation temporarily, enough for swimmers to agree that "it's pleasant in here, at least."—(Examiner Staff Photo)

New York Plans Celebration For Liner's Crew

ABOARD THE S.S. UNITED STATES (CP)—The S.S. United States sailed toward a speed record today for an Atlantic westbound crossing.

When she steams past Ambrose Light, the official eastern end of her voyage, at 5 p.m. EDT today she will have clipped about 10 hours from the Queen Mary's record.

The United States, on her maiden voyage, completed the east-west trip in three days, 10 hours and 40 minutes—10 hours and two minutes better than the Queen Mary's record.

The westbound record, set in 1938, is three days, 21 hours and 48 minutes.

Already, on her trip home, the United States had racked up still another record—the longest day's run ever made by a commercial ship. In the 25-hour period ending Saturday she covered 902 nautical miles, an average sped of 36.08 knots.

New York prepared the "most colorful and elaborate" welcome in the port's history for the new American sea queen, her skipper Commodore Harry Manning and his crew. Manning already had announced that he would anchor in the harbor tonight and bring his 1,650 excited passengers into dock at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

The city's 60-mile waterfront was to be draped in holiday attire. Fire boats were slicked up and prepared for the traditional water salutes. On Friday a traditional Broadway ticker tape parade will honor Manning, his officers and his crew.

Seaway Orders Given Priority

LONDON (CP)—Canada's St. Lawrence seaway project hit the front pages again today with a report that the British government will give top priority to seaway orders.

The News Chronicle said in a front-page story the government will give allocations of steel, scarce materials and labor to British firms filling Canadian orders on what the paper described as "the biggest engineering feat since the Panama Canal."

A Board of Trade spokesman said there was no immediate comment on the story. A Canada House spokesman said the reported priority seems a little premature, since the seaway authority has not yet been formed.

"These reports are about 18 months too early," he said.

Sir Albert Braithwaite, Conservative member of Parliament, is reported heading a drive by British constructional engineering firms to get in on the ground floor on seaway developments. Reports here suggest Sir Albert will meet leaders of steel, engineering and cement companies this week with a view to forming an export group with the St. Lawrence scheme in mind.

Sir Albert was quoted as saying the government or the City of London should be allowed to help Canada finance the project.

Social Credit Party To Pick British Columbia Premier

VANCOUVER (CP)—The victorious Social Credit party will meet tomorrow to pick the man who will be British Columbia's next premier. The party which never before had been represented in the 48-member House Saturday captured the vital 19th seat as the marathon count under the alternative voting system finally ended.

| | 1952 | 1949 |
|---|---|---|
| Social Credit | 19 | 0 |
| C.C.F. | 18 | 7 |
| Liberal | 0 | 26 |
| P.C. | 4 | 13 |
| Labor | 1 | 41 |
| Independent | 0 | 1 |
| Totals | 48 | 48 |

The 19 Social Credit legislators will choose a House leader tomorrow. He will automatically become Premier when Byron Johnson, the present Premier, hands over the reins of government, probably at the end of this month.

Most likely choice for the premiership is the stormy petrel of B.C. politics, William Andrew Cecil Bennett, 51, the member for South Okanagan.

STORMY FIGURE

Mr. Bennett, wealthy hardware merchant, was first elected to the Legislature in 1948 in a by-election as a Progressive Conservative. He split with the party two years ago and has sat in the House for the last two sessions as an independent. He joined Social Credit some six months ago.

Other possibilities for the job are Lyle Wicks, member for Dewdney, and R. E. Sommers, member for Rossland-Trail.

Mrs. Tillie Rolston, who also split with the Progressive Conservatives two years ago, won the 19th seat in Vancouver-Point Grey at 2:43 p.m. PDT Saturday, 29 days, 18 hours and 43 minutes after polls closed June 12 in the province's general election.

3 WOMEN ELECTED

Mrs. Rolston was the third woman elected. The others are Liberal Mrs. Nancy Hodges, speaker of the last house, in Victoria, and the C.C.F.'s Mrs. Laura Jamieson in Vancouver centre.

Mrs. Rolston may receive a Cabinet post. It was she who introduced a bill in the last Legislature which now permits coloring of margarine by the manufacturer.

Trenton Plane Aids In Aircraft Search

TRENTON (CP)—Central Command of the R.C.A.F. Sunday despatched one of its search and rescue squadron Dakotas to Fort William to aid in the search for a Seabee amphibian missing with four persons aboard since Friday.

The Seabee was last heard of 10 minutes after leaving Houghton, Mich., on a 45-minute trip to Isle Royal, Mich., an island 35 miles off Fort William in Lake Superior. The aircraft was piloted by Don Tervo of Houghton and carried three passengers.

The R.C.A.F. received a request to aid in the search on Saturday. The Dakota searched Canadian water in the area all day. It will resume searching tomorrow. The R.C.A.F. plane is piloted by FO. O. M. Piper of Trenton.

Says Red Dean Can't Be Tried

LONDON (CP) — The "Red" Dean of Canterbury, Dr. Hewlett Johnson, was assailed in the House of Commons today as a "wicked and irresponsible old man" but the attorney-general said there are no grounds to try him for treason. "I am of the opinion that the evidence available does not disclose a prima facie case of treason," Attorney-General Sir Lionel Heald told the House.

Miss Irene Ward, a Conservative member of Parliament raised the issue. She charged that the Dean's allegations about United Nations forces using germ warfare in Korea are "prejudicial to the interests of Her Majesty's subjects."

CAN'T PROSECUTE

Miss Ward suggested that prosecuting the Dean "would provide an invaluable opportunity of proving the falsity of the evidence of this wicked and irresponsible old man."

But the attorney-general said it just wasn't possible.

"I am afraid my decision has had to be based on the unfortunate fact that it will not provide such an opportunity," he replied.

"If anyone else has any further evidence to offer I am prepared to consider it," he added.

Prime Minister Churchill will be asked in the House of Commons whether the government will set up a tribunal to investigate the Dean's conduct "in furthering and disseminating the propaganda of persons engaged in hostilities with British troops and in claiming he had proof of the truth of such propaganda."

Sources close to Parliament say Churchill is unlikely to agree to a tribunal, requested by John Langford-Holt, a Conservative member of parliament.

The government is likely to take the line that the disciplining of the Dean is a matter for the church, not the state.

8 Others Escape But Owner's Wife Trapped On Return

CAESAREA (ENS)—The crippled wife of the owner of the Kenosha summer hotel in Caesarea ran into the building early Sunday morning to save some valuable papers, and lost her life. Eight guests escaped. Victim of the flames which consumed the two-storey frame hotel was Mrs. Fred Harran, 67. The building itself, apart from its contents was valued at about $15,000. The fire which apparently started somewhere in the front of the hotel, 15 miles southwest of Lindsay, was so far advanced when it was first seen at 4:30 a.m. that nothing could be done to save it. Those who saw it first said it just seemed to go "poof."

Eight Toronto people, holidaying for the weekend, got out of the hotel in the nick of time. Four had to leap from a second-floor window to save themselves. One man made the 20-foot jump with his son in his arms as the flames were racing through the house.

BREAKS LEG

Mrs. Sally McBride, of 170 Major St., Toronto, is in St. Michael's Hospital with a broken right leg following her frantic jump to safety.

Mrs. Helen Skene of 16 Four Oaks Gate discovered the fire soon after 4 o'clock Sunday morning. She said Sunday that she and a friend, Marjory Barton of 106 Dixon Ave., Toronto, with whom she was sharing the room had booked into Kenosha House at 8 o'clock Saturday night and had spent the evening at a friend's cabin. The two women returned to the hotel at 2 a.m.

"Everything was quiet and everybody was asleep when we got in," Mrs. Skene said. "Suddenly, after we'd been asleep for a couple of hours, Marjory woke me up and said 'I'm sure there's a fire somewhere.' I jumped up and raced downstairs."

Mrs. Skene said even before she opened the front door she could see a red glow. "When I looked along the verandah, I saw the old couch they had there ablaze and the flames creeping up the walls. The crackling was terrific.

SAVE CAR

"I ran upstairs and into the old couple's room and shouted, 'Madam, the hotel's on fire,' and then I ran into our room and told Marjory to get out, but quick. We grabbed our things, including my cocker, Brucie. My car was parked right next to the house, and I'd forgotten my key. Men were around by this time, and I'd opened the door, and we pushed it down to the lake. I've never felt such heat. Cinders were flying and nobody could get near the place. It all went up in a few minutes."

Fruit Prices High If Heat Continues

TORONTO (CP)—Unless there is rain and cool weather soon, Ontario housewives will have to pay more for their fruit and vegetables this year.

Heat and lack of rain are threatening crops across most of the province and Agriculture Minister Kennedy predicts one of the smallest crops in 25 years unless the weather changes. Mr. Kennedy said food prices are "bound to go up."

The hot, dry spell may spoil what promised to be a bumper raspberry crop. If it continues, apples, peaches and other fruits will be smaller and in short supply.

Ed Pearson, assistant agricultural representative for York county, said vegetable crops were being dried out. The pea crop is not as good as last year and the spring grain yield is down.

Report Seven Survivors Of Air Crash Recovering

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)All seven survivors of a B-17 crash in the mountain wilds near the Alaska-Yukon border were reported by the United States Air Force yesterday to be recovering satisfactorily here.

Names of the seven men and their fellow crewman who died in the Friday crash are expected to be released later.

Only one of the survivors was in serious condition with severe burns, and he was said to be improving. Four others had varying degrees of burns and bruises, while two escaped with only minor bruises.

The air force said the B-17 search bomber of the 10th Air Rescue Squadron crashed and burned near Snag, Y.T., in the area it had been assigned to hunt for an R.C.A.F. Mitchell bomber missing in the Yukon since June 30 with six men aboard.

Within two hours of the time they were reported overdue Friday afternoon at Whitehorse, Y.T., other search planes from their squadron had spotted them. A doctor and three other airmen parachuted down to give them first aid.

Soon helicopters reached the scene and the airmen were ferried out one-by-one to Snag, about 30 miles away.

150,000 Act As Volunteer Plane Spotters

WASHINGTON (CP)—More than 150,000 volunteer aircraft spotters today began operating on round-the-clock shifts helping guard the United States from air attacks.

The plan, designed to plug the gaps in the country's radar screen, went into operation at about 6,000 stations in 27 states across the northern rim of the U.S.

In conjunction with this program, the U.S. Army last month disclosed it had moved anti-aircraft batteries into positions of readiness around strategic targets.

Exact locations were not disclosed but generally the guns were placed around vulnerable industrial plants, big cities and air force centres.

JUST PREPAREDNESS

The army said this precaution had no special significance other than "an increased state of operational readiness."

The air watchers, using binoculars, will report suspicious or unidentified aircraft to 32 filter stations. The information will be passed along and checked in a co-operative network set up by the air force and the air defence command.

Jet interceptors will be ready on a 24-hour alert to meet any verified threat.

The watcher network extends across the Canadian border and the northernmost Atlantic and Pacific coastal states.

Canada has enrolled about 35,000 civilians willing to watch for enemy aircraft but there are no intentions of putting them on a 24-hour-day schedule until the Defence Department considers an emergency has arrived.

Canada originally announced plans for a 150,000-man corps herself but this has been scaled down.

Girl Murdered At University

NEW YORK (AP)—Eileen Fahey, was shot to death on the Columbia University campus today. Her slayer fled with a gun still in his hand.

The shooting was in the university's physics laboratory. Seconds later, a man emerged, a gun still in his hand, and told a passerby: "I just killed a girl: call the police."

But he disappeared from the scene before police arrived.

The slaying was about the time university classes were beginning in most buildings. Students were streaming to-and-fro across the campus as police began a search for the slayer.

Miss Fahey was employed by the American Physical society which has an office in the building.

Bystanders said the killer was an exceptionally tall, slim man, more than six feet in height, about 28 years old.

Five ejected .22-calibre cartridges were found at the scene of the shooting. Officials said four bullets apparently entered the girl's body.

Looted House Larder Jailed 12 Months

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Convicted of looting the larder of a local home, Melvon E. McDonald, 59, of Port Stanley went to jail for 12 months from city court today.

Loaded with milk, cookies, jam, chocolate bars and a couple of dish towels, McDonald was on his way out of the kitchen of Elmer Sage early July 8 when he knocked over the cookie tin. The clatter roused Sage who collared the man, banged his head through a pane of glass and held him for police.

The man's record, introduced by Crown Attorney C.C. Savage, Q.C., dated back 22 years, covering western Ontario from Niagara Falls to Sarnia in a series of theft, assault and liquor convictions.

Canadian Plants Hit Hard By Steel Strike

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The United States steel strike has begun to bite deeply into Canadian industry and the effects are widening with each day the strike continues. A Canadian Press survey indicates that the industrially-rich area of Central Canada has been hardest hit. Steel and automobile plants have curtailed [illegible] workers. The construction industry is feeling the pinch, particularly in structural parts and materials which can only be imported from the United States.

At Montreal, an official of Algoma Corporation said many smaller Canadian steel plants will be forced to close if iron-ore shipments from the U.S. continue to be interrupted.

LAYOFFS EXPECTED

Layoffs can also be expected, the official said, in the country's largest steel mills within four or five weeks if no settlement is reached.

At Windsor, Chrysler of Canada has suspended production Ford of Canada said it is operating on a day-to-day basis. At Oshawa, General Motors has laid off more than 1,000 men and warned there may be a complete plant close-down when the vacation period ends Aug. 11.

The Studebaker plant at Hamilton will close July 25, also for a two-week vacation period, and officials indicated it will remain closed.

Meanwhile, at Hamilton, R. G. Hilton, president of the Steel Company of Canada, denied rumors that the company will be forced to close completely because of the iron ore shortage. However, he said the situation is "nip and tuck."

General Seeks New Manager

CHICAGO (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Republican Presidential nominee, searched today for a new campaign manager after reluctantly letting Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts step aside.

Lodge's retirement from active direction of the General's campaign had been expected. Eisenhower said he agreed to the move "only because I attach the greatest importance to his re-election to the Senate."

The General said in a statement last night that Lodge—who successfully directed Eisenhower's bid for the nomination—had informed him he wants to devote as much time as possible to the Senate contest in Massachusetts where Representative John Kennedy, a Democraft, is seeking Lodge's seat.

The General Saturday resigned from the army, as he previously had announced he would do if he won the Republican nomination.

9-Hour Fire At Tank Farm

EDMONTON (CP)—A nine-hour fire, fed by oil from a 140,000-gallon-capacity storage tank, yesterday caused extensive damage to pump and motor installations on a tank farm at the Interprovincial Pipeline Company's western terminus, just east of here.

The tank farm is a pumping station for the pipeline.

The blaze was believed started by a short circuit in a motor.

Company officials estimated the damage at $25,000.

Key Industrials Climb Steadily On Exchange

TORONTO (CP)—Key industrials and base metals climbed steadily today in early afternoon stock market dealings. Golds and western oils, however, made little headway.

Trading dwindled from a steady opening. Volume for the first three hours was 954,000 shares.

Steels led industrials' upswing with a scattered list of fractional advances. Liquors and refining oils also drew firm support but papers, agricultures and retail stores turned downward.

Western oils balanced gains and losses, Canada Southern, Canadian Collieries, National Petroleum and Trans Empire strengthened while Britalta, Punch and Sweet Grass weakened.

Base metals climbed as Consolidated Smelters, Hudson Bay, International Nickel, New Calumet, United Keno Hill and Waite Amulet turned upward.

Senior golds and junior producers edged lower. Prospects held gains and losses in balance but holding companies slipped.

The exchange's 1 p.m. indices showed industrials up 1.04 at 319.29 golds down .13 at 92.98, base metals up 1.05 at 190.59 and western oils down .17 at 138.48.

Sees British Prices Soon Rolling Back

EXETER, Devonshire, England. (Reuters)—Richard Butler, Chancellor of the Exchequer, said Saturday that the price of basic materials used by British industry now is rolling back to pre-Korean levels.

He said the country as a result can look forward to stable or falling prices for all goods and services, with the exception of food.

Butler told a Conservative party meeting that the wholesale price index soared about 75 per cent between June, 1950, and March, 1951.

"But it is now over 25 per cent below that peak—that is over half-way back to its pre-Korean level. The downward trend of last summer has been renewed and this shoud mean that we are certain of fairly stable retail prices for manufactured goods for several months."

U.S. Dollar At Discount

Labor Party Facing Big Division

LONDON (Reuters)—A situation is developing which indicates that the Labor party may find itself split from top to bottom by the rival philosphies of the Bevanites and the "old guard."

The showdown will come at Morecombe in September, when the party holds its annual delegate conference.

The unions do not plan the Labor party's Parliamentary strategy but their voice influences the policy on which such strategy is based.

In any test of strength with Bevan, party leader Clement Attlee can call on the vast strain of loyalty towards him among the majority of party members.

The delegates as a whole would have to be deeply affected by the political issue facing them before they would undermine Attlee's position by rejecting his views on a fundamental issue.

Call Ana Pauker Traitor To State

BERLIN (AP)—The Communists accused Ana Pauker of siding with wealthy estate owners in Romania and sabotaging the collective farm system.

The charge was leveled by Premier Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej in an article in the Cominform journal.

The article amounted to an indictment. Pauker, the amazon of Communist politics, has been deprived of all her high jobs, including the role of Foreign Minister, and probably faces trial.

In disclosing a week ago she had been thrown into disgrace, the Communists hurled vague complaints Pauker had acted in a manner inimical to the party and the state. The journal account gave some details.

Gheorghiu-Dej wrote that Pauker, with the connivance of V. Luca and T. Georgescu, other purged cabinet ministers, had committed two "crimes":

1. She helped former estate owners to get back part of their land which had been seized by the state, and led a drive to break up the collective farm systems.

2. She formed her own organization inside the party, a cardinal offense in the Communist world.

Pauker's tinkering with the collective farm machinery, the party boss said, enabled "a number of enemies of the state to make their way into the socialistic administration of agriculture."

Her creation of a personal machine "was against the basic rules of the Marxist-Leninist policy, which says the party can be strong only by unity of will."

Canada Gets Jet Airliners

LONDON (Reuters)—The first of two Comet jet liners ordered by Canadian Pacific Airlines will be in the air in two months, it was learned today.

The plane is nearing completion at the Hatfield works of de Havilland's, the Comet manufacturers. She is expected to undergo preliminary tests in September, and after development trials will be delivered probably toward the end of the year. The second plane should be ready soon afterwards.

Canada will be the first country outside Britain to operate the record-breaking Comets, of which 10 now are flying. Canadian Pacific will use them on the Sydney-Honolulu section of its Australia-Canad service.

8 Others Escape

Police believe that a smouldering cigaret butt, which had slipped behind the chesterfield on the verandah, caused the disaster. The fire tore through the recently painted building in a few minutes, and at sunup, all that was left of the 14-room, two-story hotel were heaps of black, smoking ruins.

Mrs. Griffith Pritchard of 142 Wellesley St., Toronto, who was staying at the hotel with her husband and 5-year-old [illegible] said she was [illegible] of "Fire."

"But there didn't seem to be much excitement," said Mrs. Pritchard, so we just got together our bags and were ready to leave when Mrs. McBride rushed into our room and screamed that we couldn't go downstairs because the stairs were on fire.

"My husband tore out the screens and I jumped first, thinking I'd catch David. But then Griffith was beside me.

"He'd jumped with our boy in his arms. David only had pyjamas on and we carried him to a friend's place nearby."

Mrs. McBride was slightly panicky and fell when she hit the ground after her jump. Doctors at St. Michael's reported that her condition was satisfactory.

SLIGHTLY INJURED

The daughter of the Harrans, 48-year-old Mrs. Alice Padget, of 21 Washington Ave., Toronto, was slightly injured when she fell carrying buckets to the fire. The bucket brigade of neighbors and vacationists was driven back by the heat and gave up when they realized nothing could save the hotel.

The heat from the blaze blistered the paint on the village store more than 60 feet from the hotel. Store owner Art McColl and his family evacuated their premises because they believed that their building would catch fire in the intense heat.

In the height of the confusion, Mrs. Harran thought she might have a chance of fighting her way through the flames to reach the upstairs living room where the strongbox was kept.

Neighbors yelled at her but it was too late. She disappeared in a pall of smoke. Port Perry firemen recovered her body several hours later. It is believed as she was groping her way upstairs the second storey collapsed and she went with it. Not far from Mrs. Harran was the charred body of Lucky, her dog.

LAST PERSON OUT

Last out of the house was 59-year-old Annie Ralph, of 23 Glebeholme Blvd., Toronto, who was sharing a room with Mrs. McBride. She refused to jump until helpers had placed a ladder against the vehandah where she was standing.

"There were plenty of ladders around and I didn't want to hurt myself," she explained.

A mystery late-model car — parked outside Kenosha House and completely burned out — caused firemen to probe the charred hotel ruins for nearly six hours. They feared that several more people, including a blind couple, had been let into the hotel by Mrs. Harran early Sunday and had also died. The hotel register was a heap of ashes but neighbors knew that there were several empty rooms in the hotel.

Only when the owner of the car, Bruce Mackey, of 112 Chatham Rd., Toronto, returned from a 10-hour fishing trip on Lake Scugog, to find his car a shambels, did police establish that he, two other people in the same fishing party, and the blind couple, never entered the hotel.

Luckily for the small summer resort town about nine miles from Port Perry, there was no wind and although paint was blistered by the heat on houses across the street, no other building caught fire.

"Providence was with us," said a resident. About eight guests of the hotel got out safely, along with owner Fred Harran, but no one saved anything. They were left with only the night attire they wore on their backs.

On the night before the Caesarea Businessmen's Association had held a donkey baseball game as part of its program to raise money for fire equipment.

FIREMEN HELPLESS

The volunteer fire brigade of Port Perry answered the call, but one citizen said even a pumper right in the town could not have saved the building. For some time after the first was first discovered, people slept on knowing nothing of the danger that threatened three quarters of the village.

The hotel was situated on the main street about 100 yards from Lake Scugog away from the main business district, but close to many cottages and houses. The hotel had 16 rooms, a dining room and annex.

The Harrans built the hotel in 1912 and had many U.S. and Canadian tourists who came back year after year to spend their holidays there. The dining room was famous for its duck dinners in the fall.

Says Barkley Man To Beat For Nomination

By RELMAN MORIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Senator Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado said today Vice-President Alben Barkley is "the man to beat" in the battle for the Democratic presidential [illegible]

Johnson himself is supporting the candidacy of Senator Richard Russell, of Georgia.

Russell's backers are coming into Chicago, a full week before the opening of the convention. They have been driving hard at this early date in promoting his candidacy.

WIDE POPULARITY

In a press conference today, however, Johnson said he believes Barkley's wide popularity with Democratic leaders and the rank and file will thrust the vice-president into a formidable position early in the balloting.

Johnson said he does not believe Governor Adlai Stevenson of Illinois will be a candidate.

President Truman will have great influence at the convention, Johnson predicted. "But I don't look for him to attempt to dominate it," he said.

The Democrats are already streaming into Chicago in advance of the convention they expect will be rough, rugged and wide open.

Going Over Boundary Town Tells Collegiate

LINDSAY—A protest is being addressed to the Victoria County High School Board by the Lindsay Parks Board regarding encroachment on property.

Carl Brown, superintendent of the parks board said that a hole had been dug beyond the boundary of the Lindsay Collegiate Institute property 20 feet into the park during the erection of additions to the collegiate.

He explained that no permission had been given for this encroachment by the parks board. The only permission given to the contractors had been for the erection of a fence around the excavation to protect children playing in the park.

The park is the property of the town and the collegiate the property of the county.

Mr. Brown said he expected the two boards to come to agreement in the matter soon.

Civil Defence Director Of Transport

Martin Announces Appointment Will Be Made Soon

WINDSOR (CP) — Health [illegible] for Canada's civil defence program, disclosed today that a director of transport for civil defence will soon be appointed by the federal government.

In a speech to a radiological defence training course, Mr. Martin reviewed the progress Canada has made in establishing a system of civil defence. He said a federal committee has been studying the transportation problems that would arise in an emergency.

Without elaborating, he added: "We will be shortly appointing a director of transport for civil defence."

PROGRESS 'STEADY'

Canada's progress in building a civil defence system, he said, has been "unspectacular but steady."

About 50,000 persons now are enrolled in civil defence, exclusive of organized groups such as police and fire departments, public utility workers and employees of various agencies of government.

Key points have been selected in all target areas and advance warning systems have been installed in more than half of them. Some 200 sirens have been manufactured for all target areas.

More than 700,000 respirators and substantial quantities of helmets, anti-gas suits and other protective clothing have been issued to the provinces for use of civil defence workers. A small quantity of radiation detection instruments have also been distributed and further supplies are being obtained.

For training auxiliary firemen, 4,000 stirrup pumps have been issued.

Courses have been provided for training personnel.

RESEARCH UNDER WAY

Research and development in civil defence matters is going ahead.

Complete and detailed [illegible] ments have been worked out for the stockpiling at strategic locations of essential medical stores for hospitals and first aid stations for speedy distribution to target or possible disaster areas in the event of attack," he said. "We now are moving ahead with the first stage of our program involving an expenditure of $2,250,000 in federal funds."

Mossadegh Asks Sweeping Power

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Iran's lower house of Parliament, the Majlis, tomorrow is expected to take up a request by Premier Mohammed Mossadegh for sweeping new emergency powers.

A pro-Mossadegh deputy told reporters the aged Nationalist leader put his unprecedented proposal—to rule for six months by decree—before the Majlis at a five-hour closed session yesterday.

Stiff opposition appeared likely to confront the proposal, which Mossadegh said is necessary to halt Iran's present skid toward bankruptcy. The lawmakers—mostly wealthy men and big landowners—have supported him in his past programs but may balk at his proposed scheme for stiff levies on higher incomes, redistribution of labor, austerity controls and land reforms.

The deputy said Mossadegh asked for authority to initiate and enforce rigid economic measures for six months. The Premier promised that he would let both houses of Parliament pass on his program at the end of the period.

US Navy Lays Keel Of Giant Carrier; Powerful Weapon

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP)—The United States Navy today laid the keel of a giant aircraft carrier whose range and planes can bring within reach the "innermost lairs" of any aggressor country. Deputy Defense Secretary William C. Foster described this as one of the capabilities of the 60,000-ton carrier Farrestal, to be the biggest warship of the world's navies when completed. Behind his words in an address at the keel-laying ceremony was the fact the ultra-modern, flush-deck carrier is designed to launch and recover atom-bomb carrying planes and heavy, swift jet fighters to provide for its own protection against enemy attack.

COSTS $218,000,000

The ship, first of two of the class which Congress so far has authorized the navy to build, will cost an estimated $218,000,000, excluding cost of the 100 or more planes of the carrier.

READY IN 1954

At normal construction rate, the Forrestal will be ready to join the fleet in late 1954. In an emergency building can be speeded up.

The Forrestal is being constructed by the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company, builder of the passenger liner United States which set a transatlantic speed record on her maiden trip to Europe.

Foster did not specify in his speech the expected range of the Forrestal's aircraft. But his mention of the "innermost lairs" of an aggressor power suggested targets deep in Russia, now well beyond the operational radius of present-day carrier-based aircraft of 600 or 700 miles.

SIZE OF CARRIER

The Forrestal will grow into a carrier of these dimensions and appearance:

A flight deck 1,040 feet long, 252 feet wide. An "island" structure, housing the bridge, which can be retracted to provide an unobstructed flight deck.

A speed probably more than the 33 knots rated speed for the present largest carrier, the 45,000-ton Midway.

A bow completely enclosed up to the flight deck, to thrust aside the biggest waves.

Television to give the crew "eyes" for steering and navigating the ship when the bridge is retracted during landing operations.

Chinese Coup Fails In Burma

RANGOON (AP)—Two Nationalist Chinese officers were killed and 13 others were executed later in an attempted coup at graduation exercises at an officers' training school at Monghsat in northeast Burma June 27, a reliable source reported today.

Capt. Si Fang-leong and Col. Ein-nang opened fire on Lt.-Gen. Mah Chaw-yee, a deputy commander of the Nationalist Chinese, and Brig.-Gen. Wa Yu-tan, recently arrived from Formosa, the report said, and the two plotters were killed in a 10-minute gun duel with guards.

A Maj. Po was accused of being the brains behind the plot and was executed along with 12 of his friends the next day. Another 270 are being held for court martial and 100 others are being sought as deserters, the informant said.

About 10,000 Nationalist Chinese established themselves in Burma's frontier region when they were driven out of China by the Communists.

Stole Potatoes From Employer, Jailed 1 Month

Robert Reynolds, 262 Simcoe St., was sentenced to one month in jail by Magistrate W. R. Philp today when he pleaded guilty to stealing a quantity of potatoes.

Reynolds was charged with stealing the potatoes, valued at more than $25 from his employer, Ronald Pace, between January and July 8 of this year.

Mr. Pace said Reynolds was receiving $55 a week as a truck driver and after wage garnishees had been deducted he had $40 take home pay. Mr. Pace said he had employed Reynolds off and on or had been associated with him as a partner for a number of years and had employed him steadily for the last year.

He said he had only started to notice produce missing during the last three months. No figures as to the total amount of potatoes stolen was mentioned in court, but while Reynold's counsel, John Currelly was asking for suspended sentence for Reynolds, Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw interrupted to say it was "around $500."

Mr. Currelly asked for suspended sentence because "he was crowded with debt." Reynold's wife testified that hospital bills for herself and their children amounted to almost $500 during the last year.

LIGHT SENTENCE

In sentencing Reynolds, Magistrate Philp commented that the one month suggested by Mr. Bradshaw was "very light for this amount and under these circumstances."

Before the charge of potato theft was heard, Reynolds and his brother William, 139 Stewart St., were arraigned on charges of stealing a quantity of scrap copper wire from the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission, also valued at more than $25.

The charge against William Reynolds was heard first. After crown evidence was in and failed to establish if the wire William Reynolds allegedly sold scrap dealer Oliver Keller in January had been taken from a barn used by the hydro for storage or whether it had in fact been stolen from the commission, Mr. Bradshaw agreed with Mr. Currelly that the case was weak and the charge was dismissed.

Then, Mr. Bradshaw said he would offer no evidence on the same charge against Robert Reynolds.

William Reynolds, also charged with stealing potatoes was further remanded on $1,000 bail until Wednesday.

Report Duke Introduces Economy Drive

LONDON (AP)—The Reynolds News says the Duke of Edinburgh has launched "the most drastic economy drive ever known in the Royal Household." It says the new belt-tightening policy comes at the request of the Queen.

The Labor Sunday newspaper in [illegible] says: "High on his list for immediate attention is a proposal to close the Royal estate at Sandringham while there is a need for national economy."

The Reynolds News says the Duke has issued instructions to senior officials that staffs must be streamlined and centuries-old duties, based more on tradition than on usefulness, abolished.

One of the Duke's economy steps would be to scrap the time-honored procedure allowing any member of the Royal household to drop in at the palace for a free meal at any time.

Next to go, says the paper, "will be the custom of placing a bottle of whisky in the Royal bedroom every night and removing it in the morning, for it is never touched."

"Someone," says the paper "gets 365 bottles of scotch a year at the Queen's expense."

New Method Of Massaging Heart Used

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—While heart massage operations have become quite common, the Hollywood Presbyterian hospital reports an unusual one in which a physician reached a patient's heart by thrusting his hand through the abdominal cavity.

Paul C. Elliott, the hospital's administrator said the incident happened on an operating table last Wednesday. Elliott explained that in most instances where massage is used to restore heartbeat the doctor opens the chest to reach the vital organ.

But in the operation Wednesday on a 45-year-old man his abdomen had been opened for an ulcer operation. Elliott said he had been on the table more than an hour when his breathing stopped. One of the surgeons promptly slid his hand into the abdominal cavity and up to the membrane that separates this cavity from the chest cavity. Working through the membrane he gently massaged the heart. Elliott said that after about 2½ minutes there was a feeble heartbeat that gradually gained strength. Then pulse and respiration became restored.

The hospital official said the patient is now resting comfortably and apparently is suffering no ill effects from the heart stoppage.

ALLEN WOOD

Oshawa Man Lands 2 'Lunge, 14, 33 Lbs.

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — Allen Wood of Oshawa seldom fails to bag his season limit of 'lunge when he fishes each year at a Bradley Bay summer resort. Mr. Wood has fished at the bay for many years, and each year his catch is the envy of most of the other fishermen in the area.

He decided to try his luck on one of his frequent visits to the area on Friday, and was rewarded with two 'lunge—one weighing 33 pounds and the other 14 pounds. They were taken while trolling with a pikie minnow. The big fellow battled for about a half hour before being subdued and boated. The larger of the two fish measured 48½ inches, while the small one registered 34 inches.

Wood said he thought he would eat the fish, and not bother to mount even the big one. He's got a couple of bigger ones mounted back home in Oshawa.

Union Rejects 10-Cent Raise

KINGSTON (CP)—The offer of a 10-cent hourly wage increase to employees of the Aluminum Company plant here has been rejected by members of Local 343, United Steelworkers of American (C.I.O.-C.C.L.), it was learned today.

More than 350 workers turned down the company offer at a mass meeting yesterday. The Steelworkers union embraces about 1,500 plant workers.

The offer was announced Saturday and was accepted by Local 54, International Association of Machinists, which has about 275 workers in the plant.

The union negotiating committee recommended that the company's offer be rejected. The workers' resentment that the company did not submit the 10-cent offer through the negotiating committee was given as one of the main reasons why the offer was rejected.

The company offer would be retroactive to June 29 and the union felt it should date back to May 24.

31 Lodges Meet At Springbrook For Orange Walk

MARMORA (ENS)—Never before in the history of Springbrook was that village thronged as it was on Saturday when its Orange Lodge No. 442 commemorated the Twelfth of July with 31 lodges on parade and catered to a crowd of close to 6,000.

This is the year of the centenary of the lodge, and so Centre Hastlodge at the annual February meeting the right to call it a county celebration.

Fred Bateman, of Springbrook, is Grand Master of Ontario East for the second successive year.

A string of cars lined both sides of Highway 14 for about half-a-mile at the north and south approaches to the village and the Union Jack was displayed at almost every residence. The greater number of watchers found accommodation under the shade of the trees of Percy Mumbry's grove directly across from the Orange Hall. Lunches were obtainable in cafeteria style from the basement of the hall.

About 2 p.m., led by Stirling Citizens' Band and County Master Kenneth Holland bearing the Union Jack, and marshalled by County Marshal Carman Fitchett on a fine grey steed, the visiting lodges paraded to Mt. Nebo cemetery and back in the following order: Tyendinaga L.O.L. 295; Lime Lake L.O.L. 1113; Wellman's Corners L.O.L. 172; Pride of Marmora Girls' J.O.L. 329; Marmora Harmony L.O.B.A. 600; Marmora Boys' J.O.L. 34; Marmora L.O.L. 319; Malone Nickle L.O.L. 285; Eldorado L.O.B.A. 1185; Allen Settlement L.O.L. 253; Queensboro L.O.B.A. 265; Queensboro L.O.L. 437; Madoc L.O.L. 160; Madoc Star of East L.O.B.A. 1193; Eldorado L.O.L. 517; Flinton L.O.L. 907; Millbridge Ruth L.O.B.A. 409; Millbridge L.O.L. 1070; Hazzard's Corners L.O.L. 1133; Foxboro L.O.L. 3; Halloway L.O.L. 251; West Huntingdon L.O.L. 300; Stirling L.O.B.A. 655; Stirling L.O.L. 110; Ivanhoe Beulah L.O.L. 435; Downey L.O.L. 425; Sulphide L.O.B.A. 1203; Sulphide Bogart L.O.L. 1135; Tweed Elliott's L.O.L. 392; Moneymore L.O.L. 838; Tanner L.O.L. 509.

Older members of the Order interviewed in the grove and seated near the speaker's platform included Thomas Freeburn, Flinton L.O.L. 907, aged 84, member of the Order for 66 years; W. J. Webb, Elliit's L.O.L. 392, member of 63 years' standing; Ed Blakely, Eldorado L.O.L. 517, member of the Order for 62 years; William Preston, Tanner L.O.L. 509, 61 years a member; and William Courtney, of the same lodge, having completed 60 years of membership.

Also completing 60 years' membership on the day itself was John Moffatt, now of Nickle L.O.L. 285, initiated into Marmora L.O.L. 319 in 1892.

Beulah L.O.L. 435 had three hardy veterans out for the walk, Past County Master John Geen, 42 years; Eb Benson, 59 years; and Ben Crough, 52 years a member.

E. J. Clark, of Foxboro L.O.L. 3, looked back 55 years to the day of his initiation, and Joseph Rollins, Allen Settlement L.O.L. 253, said: "You can put me down for 51 years of membership."

W. E. Harrington, of Frankford L.O.L., present as a visitor, claimed 50 years of membership. With regard to the Host Lodge, Thomas Webb, of Springbrook L.O.L. 442 is now considered the oldest member with 59 years of service to his credit.

The Rev. H. E. Beare, pastor of Springbrook United Church, and Deputy Grand Chaplain of Ontario East, is the master of Springbrook Lodge this year. After the parade, and following selections from the band, he welcomed the large crowd and thanked those in charge of the arrangements, before turning the chairmanship of the platform speeches over to County Master Holland who tendered congratulations to Springbrook Lodge and expressed pleasure at the large attendance.

Elmer Sandercock, M.P.P., first speaker, commended the home lodge on its arrangements for the day and tendered greetings from Belleville Lodge. It was a credit to the district, he said, that Fred Bateman had been elected to the Grand Master's chair.

Roscoe Robeson, M.P.P., enlarged a little on the thought inscribed on one of the banners decorating the village: "The Orange Association Stands for National Freedom."

Grand Master Fred Bateman brought Grand Lodge greetings to his own lodge. He devoted his address to comments upon the history of the lodge. He mentioned that at its organization in 1852, meetings were held in the township hall at Harold. Unfortunately the lodge had lost the minutes of the succeeding years until 1871, when the W.M. was David McQuigge. The first Orange Hall was erected in Springbrook in 1888, to be replaced by the present hall on the same site in 1926.

The Rev. Boyd Beckel, member of the Order, stated that the 12th was a great day for all Protestant people and all Canadians. "We are fortunate," he said, "to live in a country like Canada where there is freedom to worship as we will. We should not think destructively of what the other fellow thinks but rather constructively upon what is our Protestant belief."

Archie Sinclair, County Chaplain, spoke appreciatively, too, of the day's arrangements, and eulogized the Grand Master. The Rev. J. McMurray, who is newly arrived in Foxboro from Ireland, as closing speaker, gave an address on "The Quisling Breed."

At the recreational centre, a seven innings game of softball between Springbrook and English Line resulted in the visitors being victorious by the score of 7-4.

Cobourg Couple Hurt In Truck-Car Smash

COBOURG (ENS) — Mr. and Mrs. Tom Medhurst of Cobourg were injured Saturday on the outskirts of Port Hope when a truck, which police said was driven by Ronald Taverner of Markway, Muskoka, ran into the back of the Medhurst car. Mrs. Medhurst was badly cut about the face while her husband sustained a broken left shoulder. Due to the crowd in Port Hope watching the Orange parade, it was too difficult to get to Port Hope hospital and the injured couple were brought to Cobourg General Hospital. The accident was investigated by a Peterborough provincial constable and later the investigation was turned over to Constable Robert Smith of Port Hope police department.

50-Day Sentence Starts Weeping

COBOURG (ENS) —Fifty days in jail was the term imposed on Cecil Fulford, 52-year-old farm hand on a charge of theft of $40 from his employer, Ralph Hill of Murray township. Fulford's record revealed a number of theft convictions.

"There is not much we can do to correct him," said Crown Attorney Harry Deyman.

When the constable led Fulford away the elderly prisoner started to weep loudly and it was only after a prolonged effort on the part of the constable to quiet him down, that the constable learned that Fulford was under the impression that Magistrate W. R. Philp had also imposed a sentence of lashes. Fulford was himself again after it was explained that 50 days was the entire sentence.

Capital Investment and Prosperity

Private and public investment in Canada is so complicated and significant that a study of it by the Department of Trade and Commerce occupies 250 double-column pages. It is impossible here even to summarize the findings. We can point out that the rate of both public and private investment has been phenomenal in the last six years. Canadians have been adding to their stock of physical capital in the post-war period at a rate hardly matched by any other industrial country. For instance, although the total capital investment in Canada has been less than in the United States, Canadians have devoted a greater proportion of their national output to new investment than have Americans.

✧ ✧ ✧

These tables show the comparison:

| | Amount ($ Million) | Per Capita $ | % Gross National Product |
|---|---|---|---|
| Canada | | | |
| 1929 ..... | 1,330 | 133 | 21.6 |
| 1933 ..... | 239 | 22 | 6.7 |
| 1939 ..... | 605 | 54 | 10.6 |
| 1945 ..... | 986 | 81 | 8.3 |
| 1949 ..... | 2,974 | 219 | 18.1 |
| 1950 ..... | 3,199 | 231 | 17.7 |
| United States | | | |
| 1929 ..... | 14,262 | 117 | 13.7 |
| 1933 ..... | 2,925 | 23 | 5.2 |
| 1939 ..... | 9,476 | 72 | 10.4 |
| 1945 ..... | 11,479 | 82 | 5.3 |
| 1949 ..... | 36,260 | 243 | 14.1 |
| 1950 ..... | 44,529 | 294 | 15.8 |

These tables show not only the total amounts being spent in new investment in plant, equipment and housing; but also, for comparative purposes, the amount per person, and the variation through twenty-one years.

✧ ✧ ✧

It will be seen from the figures that heavy capital investment is associated with boom times, inflation and prosperity; light investment with Depression, contracting money and unemployment. The table, in its Canadian figures, gives the lie to those who have complained that the Government's taxation policies have prevented the expansion of Canadian business and industry. In no period in history has the rate of private investment been as great. Public investment (of governments, utilities and the like) only began to take full effect in the last two years; the greatest increases in the rate of investment were caused by private business, industry and domestic investment.

✧ ✧ ✧

Is a high rate of capital investment good for Canada? It would seem so, since the biggest periods of investment have coincided with the best times. However, here is an expert's note of warning, on the relationship of capital expenditures to inflation. It is taken from the report of the Royal Commission on Prices, 1949:

"This effect of investment upon prices is directly related to our willingness to save part of our current income. These savings are only partially made by the same individuals or business firms that do the investing. In fact, the investment decisions, the decision of an individual to buy a new house or a business firm to build a new factory are often made quite independently of the decision to save part of current income. Although part of the investment may be financed out of current savings, a substantial part may also be paid for by drawing on past savings or by borrowing from the banks or other financial institutions. This means that some groups in society are spending more than their current income. Unless other groups save enough to offset this excess, the country as a whole will be trying to spend more than it is currently producing. If this occurs, the attempt to make these extra expenditures places an upward pressure on prices. In general, once the economy is fully employed, if investment expenditures just balance the amount of savings which all groups in society are prepared to make, prices are likely to stay at about the same level. If investment expenditures are greater than this, an attempt to make these expenditures will tend to force up the level of prices. On the other hand if investment expenditures fall short of the amount of savings which all groups in the economy are prepared to make, total expenditures will prove too small to maintain the existing price and income levels. The result will be a decline in prices or in production or in employment or in all three."

If the world is really going to the dogs, it will at least be interesting to see what the dogs will make of it.

Again At Chicago

A week from today, a hall not far from the stockyards at Chicago will resound again with the traditional hullabaloo of a United States major political convention. The Democratic Party will meet to select its Presidential candidate to run against General Dwight Eisenhower, first-ballot choice of the Republican Party, and at the moment there appears little likelihood that the actual voting will be over as quickly next week as it was last. The convention as a whole may not last as long, since there may [illegible] there are radical shifts in delegate strength, several ballots will be held before a Democratic candidate will be elected.

The Republican race for the nomination was strictly a two-man affair from the time General Eisenhower indicated he would accept the nomination. In the Democratic race, however, the successful candidate may prove to be a man who has so far said he would refuse the nomination, Governor Adlai Stevenson of Illinois. And apart from Governor Stevenson, there are at the moment two candidates with fairly strong backing, one with sectional backing, and one who may control the choice with the vote of the Southern States. There is the further factor that President Truman has so far withheld official approval of any candidate.

Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee leads the field in number of delegates committed, largely as a result of the favourable publicity he received while head of the Senate crime investigation committee. W. Averill Harriman, able ambassador extraordinary, is regarded at the moment as Mr. Truman's favourite, in the absence of Governor Stevenson. Mr. Harriman has the further handicaps of bearing a name associated with the "robber barons" of another era in the public mind, and of being a very wealthy man. Senator Robert Kerr of Oklahoma is also handicapped by wealth, but has sectional support. Senator Richard Russell of Georgia, ablest and most experienced politician of the four, has almost solid support in the South, but little elsewhere.

If the situation remains unchanged, political observers expect a series of ballots and intensive political manoeuvring before a candidate is chosen. These observers, however, all have fingers crossed in the expectation of a change that will alter the entire situation.

Raucous Convention

The ballyhoo at the Republican party's Chicago convention last week gave outsiders a disturbing and even distressing display of Americans in political action. We in Canada are used to quieter and more parliamentary ways, not to bands parading up and down corridors, delegates and "professional demonstrators" careening and shouting, the chairman attempting without success to get order so that business could be got on with, silly slogans, silly hats, silly squeaks, the whole razzle-dazzle circus, feeding on its own antics and absurdity until a kind of hysteria develops. One asked oneself, if this was the Grand Old Party, was it not time that that old party was put in a cage?

Probably the nonsense, the acrimony, and the windbag oratory (especially on Thursday evening) was no more ludicrous than at other party conventions in other years, but this year even Americans must have been astonished. This year millions were able to see the convention, through television, as well as to hear it by radio and read about it in print. Whether the spectacle was pleasing to the sincere and orderly majority of Americans we cannot say. Probably the kind who trooped to Mr. Taft's hotel before he arrived, to gaze with awe on the bed he would sleep in, liked the show if not the results. At any rate, the shindy is over, its mission to nominate a candidate completed despite the raucous meetings and the dust and heat. The shekinah of Republicanism has settled, with honour to the party, on General Eisenhower.

Learn To Read In A Week

By MICHAEL DAVIDSON
(In Kuala Lumpur)

A SIXTY-SEVEN-YEAR-OLD American has started a revolution in Malaya. Through his genius—there seems no other word—nearly one million Malays above the age of fifteen may soon possess s[illegible] they never dreamed of possessing; the power [illegible] must think.

Frank Charles Laubach, who was born at Benton, Pennsylvania, was invited to Malaya through U.S.I.S. (United States Information Service) by the local Adult Education Association. He started work last month and within a week one or two groups of adult illiterate Malays were able to read some two hundred simple words and to sign their names. In one town seventy-nine out of a class of eighty passed the first test after one hour a day for six days. Dr. Laubach's method is as magical as that.

✧ ✧ ✧

A CONGREGATIONAL MISSIONARY who spent his early working years helping the vagrants and pubcrawlers of New York, Laubach twenty-three years ago went to the Philippines and there found a different kind of helplessness and ignorance. He decided to wipe illiteracy off the face of the earth. He invented his system and since then has applied it in sixty-four countries of Asia and Africa and in 239 different languages and dialects. It has been estimated that through him fifteen million people may have learned their ABCs.

His method can make a man read the language he speaks incredibly fast and almostly without effort—it is like a game. And once learned, it is easy to teach; hence his slogan, "Each one Teach one".

✧ ✧ ✧

TEACHING IS by pictures, and is effective in any language which has an alphabet and not ideographs, like Chinese. The letter "a", for instance, is taught by showing a black "a" superimposed over a man's open mouth so that the top hook of the "a" forms his upper lip and the loop his chin. That is obviously a man saying "ah"; therefore "a" means the sound "ah". Next, perhaps, comes a full face with an "m" framing the eyes like spectacles. MATA is Malay for eye; the class know already what "a" says, so now they learned "m" and "t" and what their word mata looks like.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT IS FASCINATING to watch the excitement in the eyes of pupils as the names of things familiar to them in daily life take shape on Laubach's large pictoral charts. There is the secret: everything must be familiar and instantly recognizable. That is where Philip Gray comes in: he draws the pictures. Gray was formerly an insurance man in America; one day he decided to use his talent to help other people, and offered it to Dr. Laubach.

✧ ✧ ✧

HERE IN MALAYA, teaching is in Romanised Malay and not in the Jawi Arabic script used traditionally and in Malay schools. This has evoked some obstruction in the Malay States, where religious heads regard it as a violation of Holy Law. It also may have caused some qualms in the heart of Government; what might be the consequence if two or three million Malays (one may expect that schoolchildren now learning Jawi will eventually be attracted to the new writing) lap up the literature of Indonesia, where Romanised Malay is universal? Anyway, the Government of Malaya took some time to make up its mind about financing the Adult Education campaign; it has now put up the equivalent of thirty thousand pounds.

✧ ✧ ✧

INITIALLY the Adult Education Association owed almost everything to Mr. Heah Joo-seang, a Chinese businessman in Penang, who is its president and who found most of the money needed.

Plans are underway to fill a gap which if left open would make the whole campaign meaningless: reading matter with which new literates can follow up the two elementary textbooks which introduce them to reading. The second of these gives a vocabulary of five hundred words and consists of stories about one Hussein who describes the wonders he has learned by reading—how to combat hookworm, for example; or the use of fertiliser in rice growing or how to get more eggs from the hens.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT THERE is a vast field of illiteracy which Dr. Laubach cannot touch: the New Villages where nearly half a million former "squatters", mostly Chinese, are now living. It is hoped that Mr. James Yen, a Chinese educationist believed now to be in America, may be persuaded to come here and apply to these adult illiterates the pictorial method he used in China before the Communist victory. His system extracts one thousand basic characters from China's vast array of forty thousand and provides a foundation for literacy.

Yen would be welcomed, too, in the colony of Singapore, where a flourishing Adult Education scheme exists: eight thousand students attend two hundred and forty classes three or four times a week. But he might encounter a political snag. These students are learning English; English is the official language and it is believed that encouragement of increased literacy in Chinese might be opposed by some members of the Legislative Council and perhaps by Government too.

Putting Ottawa's Wires Underground

(Ottawa Citizen)

An important forward step in the Ottawa Hydro Commission's program for placing its wires underground is now to be taken. The Commission has been setting aside $100,000 a year for this purpose, but underground wiring has thus far been confined largely to new areas and to streets already being torn up for other purposes. But as Mr. Frank Plant, the Hydro chairman, pointed out recently, the need to merge Ottawa Hydro's 2,300-volt with the 4,000-volt installations of the old Ottawa Light, Heat and Power Company, has created an opportunity for additional burial of wires. In deciding to seize the occasion, Hydro has demonstrated alertness and concern for public needs beyond the mere supplying of power.

Letters To The Editor

TAKE IT IN OUR STRIDE

Sir: I find it impossible to believe that any of our American cousins could have been guilty of writing the letter which appeared in your columns of July 9th under the caption, "A Tourist Speaks His Mind" (mind! forsooth!).

Are you sure someone didn't cook up that tirade just as a stunt to get the ball rolling on a series of indignant replies?

As for me, I'm not inclined to feel indignant, because I've lived in the U.S. for years and never have I met any American so crude, so impolite, so ill-informed as the writer of that letter seems to be.

The thought has just occurred to me that perhaps the writer might be a "Red" agent bent on stirring up a little ill-will between our two countries. Surely, no one other than a Red or a practical joker would have been guilty of writing such a grossly rude, ill-informed letter about the country in which he was a guest! If there is such a misguided person, all I can say is that he has done his country a real disservice.

As for Canada, I guess she can take such a tirade in her stride, especially when she knows that the accusations are untrue and also that the rank and file of Americans would be both indignant and ashamed at such a display of bad manners and ill-will on the part of one of their fellow-countrymen.

Yours truly,
E. R. WILLSON

(Ed. Note: Letters are not manufactured by The Examiner and Mr. Weldon's is on tyle.)

SHALL WE REFORM FOR MR. WELDON?

Sir: We felt it someone's duty to extend to the writer of, "A Tourist Speaks His Mind", our profound sympathies. Not only was this unfortunate person exposed to our swill troughs, flophouses and nit-wit clerks, but we fear, more serious consequences an overdose of our unseasonably warm sun.

Of course one might think that such a letter was written by some poor soul who had just received 97c for their $1.00.

With the first paragraph one must agree. There are some lousy places in Canada however, there is no reason for jealousy on our friend's part as a tour through the southern states of the U.S.A. would assure him that they too have spots which compare very favourably. Why Peterborough was selected as the ultimate in lousiness we cannot understand.

As for the second paragraph there is no need for comment. There being, no doubt, pigs blessed with considerably more intelligence than some people, should automatically be entitled to the best of swill whether in this country or any other.

The fourth paragraph we shall let lie as is. The writer has hinted that he "May Exaggerate". Nothing further need be added.

The fifth would suggest that our writer had a little difficulty convincing some unknown clerk that Canada should become the 49th State perhaps?

From the fifth on we fear the sun and current rate of exchange has taken its toll. Another ten degrees plus having his "Dollar" refused altogether, or maybe trimmed down a bit by amounts varying up to 25% and we fear we might never have read his pathetic letter.

Perhaps if we might put Canada through a complete political reformation within the next year we will have a government to please our Tourist Friend. Should he decide to come, he might be kind enough to salvage a few of the cow-bells, whistles, and rattles being used at the present nominations in the U.S.A. Our children have been asking since listening in Thursday night why grown-ups can make all that noise, and have all the fun when they cannot.

Yours truly,
PRO PATRIA

(Ed. Note: We feel that Mr. Weldon has been thoroughly answered, and no more letters on this subject will be printed.)

MODERN BREAD

Sir: The other day I watched a young grackle — ankle deep in the stream that flows under the bridge at Reid Street. He was feeding—and quite excited with his find which consisted of an old lunch—discarded and partly submerged. But instead of eating the bread, he was filling himself up on the wrapper! And evidently enjoying his meal. I tried it myself when I got home—and found out what made the bird do it. There was no difference between the taste of the bread or the wrapper!

Yours,
FRED HORN

Press-Button War

(Brantford Expositor)

The U.S. Air Force announces a jet-fighter lacking guns but bristling with rockets carrying an electronic target-finder. It is stated that the pilot and radar operator have little more to do than take the plane off, bring it to the general target area and then switch on the electronic device. After that, all the pilot has to do is land the plane. The press-button war seems to be nearer than anticipated.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Behold, I give unto you power to tread on serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy: and nothing shall by any means hurt you . . . All things are delivered to me of my Father; and no man knoweth who the Son is, but the Father; and who the Father is, but the Son, and he to whom the Son will reveal him. (Luke 10:19, 22.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And I stood upon the sand of the sea, and saw a beast rise up out of the sea, having seven heads and ten horns, and upon his horns ten crowns, and upon his heads the name of blasphemy . . . . And I beheld another beast coming up out of the earth; and he had two horns like a lamb, and he spake as a dragon . . . . And he causeth all, both small and great, rich and poor, free and bond, to receive a mark in their right hand, or in their foreheads: and that no man might buy or sell, save he that had the mark, or the name of the beast, or the number of his name. (Rev. 13:1, 11, 16, 17.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And I looked, and, lo, a Lamb stood on the mount Sion, and with him an hundred forty and four thousand, having his Father's name written in their foreheads . . . . And I saw another angel fly in the midst of heaven, having the everlasting gospel to preach unto them that dwell on the earth, and to every nation, and kindred, and tongue, and people, saying wtih a loud voice, Fear God, and give glory to him. (Rev. 14:1, 6, 7.)

And I saw as it were a sea of glass mingled with fire: and them that had gotten the victory over the beast, and over his image, and over his mark, and over the number of his name, stand on the sea of glass, having the harps of God. ## Retort Discourteous

(Windsor Star)

Our Parliament is lacking in men able to coin the telling phrase. Hon. C. G. Power, former minister for air, whose voice is too seldom heard now in the Commons, is the peer in this respect.

Mr. J. G. Diefenbaker, Cons., Lake Centre, got off one the other day at the expense of Dr. E. A. McCusker, parliamentary assistant to Minister of Health and Welfare Paul Martin. Irked by a charge he had reneged on his word, Mr. Diefenbaker told Dr. McCusker he has "a vested interest in his own insignificence".

That's one Dr. McCusker won't forget or forgive. It's similar to that which is attributed to Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, that Rt. Hon. Clement Attlee "is a modest man with every reason to be modest."

We're afraid, however, we can't give Mr. Diefenbaker credit for originality. It was Thomas D'Arcy McGee who, in Halifax, Aug. 14, 1864, said: "Only those who have a vested interest in their own insignificance." He was referring to opponents of Confederation.

All Exchanges Considering 5-Day Week

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

If the New York stock exchange should decide on a five-day week and extended trading hours, it is regarded as virtually certain that Toronto and Montreal exchanges will follow suit.

For one thing, if New York were open after the Canadian exchanges closed, Canadian exchange members would be unable to protect themselves and their clients in the event of a late swing in New York prices.

It is reported that the Board of Governors of the New York Exchange may consider a five-day week and extended trading hours at its monthly policy meeting July 27.

New York and the Canadian Exchanges now are on a five-day week for the summer months, but with no extended hours. The New York Curb, however, is trying out an extra half-hour of trading on its five-day summer schedule.

LOAN TO PERU

The International Bank for Reconstruction and Development has made a loan of $1,300,000 to Peru to pay for imported agricultural equipment such as tractors, plows, threshers and scrapers.

The new machinery will be supplied to farmers through pools, on a contract basis. In this way, says the bank, farmers who cannot afford to own machinery or who are unfamiliar with mechanized methods of agriculture, can avail themselves of the services of the pool to cultivate and harvest their crops, irrigate their land and build farm roads.

Agriculture is the principal economic activity of Peru, employing two-thirds of the working population. However, population has increased by 30 per cent during the last 15 years, while food production has risen by only 20 per cent.

Say Steel Strike Decision Now Up To Steelworkers

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Industry today tossed the steel strike into the lap of the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.).

The latest negotiations hit a snag after industry proposed a watered-down version of the Union Shop—compulsory union membership—and other undisclosed suggestions for ending the strike, now in its 43rd day.

An industry statement said:

"Those suggestions are still under consideration by the union. There are no definite arrangements for further meetings."

MEETING FRUITLESS

Top steel executives left Pittsburgh yesterday after an apparently fruitless meeting with Philip Murray, head of the 650,000 member steelworkers union.

Murray had nothing to say about the industry statement. His only remark was that future negotiations are "contingent upon developments." He did not elaborate.

U.S. Stel Corp., bellwether of the industry, asked the government for a steel-price increase Saturday. This set off the weekend talks between Murray and the industry.

This is the crux of the dispute: Murray wants a union shop. Industry is willing to go along on a modified plan if the government grants a price increase.

The union shop in its conventional form, requires all workers, old or new, to join the union.

Under the modified plan offered by the industry, new employees would be required to join the union but could withdraw between the 20 and 30th day of employment.

INCREASE GRANTED

It was learned the government has agreed to a price increase of at least $5 a ton to compensate the industry for wage increases it may grant the strikers. Steel now sells for about $110 a ton.

One other issue also must be considered—wages. The companies have offered a pay increase of 16 cents an hour, retroactive to April 1.

The union says it wants the retroactive date back to March 15. Indications are the industry will go along but only if the union agrees to a modified union shop.

Industry's offer also included paid holidays, higher shift differentials and other fringe benefits. Pre-strike wages averaged $1.95 an hour.

London Bus Fare Jumps 20 P.C.

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—London bus fares will jump about 20 per cent this month to meet costs of wage increases and other benefits accepted Saturday by street railway employees in a "package deal" with management.

C. K. Morningstar, general manager of the line, purchased by the city for $1,000,000 about 1½ years ago, announced the following adult fare structure:

Tickets at the rate of five for 50 cents, cash fare at 12 cents, exact change of 15 cents if change is required; instead of the present three tickets for 25 cents or 10 cents cash.

Eva Peron's Doctor Flies To Italy For Aid

ROME (AP)—A South American source said yesterday an Argentine physician on a mission to consult with a Viennese cancer specialist about possible treatment for Eva Peron, wife of Argentina's President, has arrived in Italy.

A government bulletin issued in Buenos Aires last Thursday said Mrs. Peron's condition was "unsatisfactory." There has been no official statement she is suffering from cancer.

200 Candidates Wind Up Que. Campaign

QUEBEC (CP)—More than 200 candidates rolled out their best platform oratory today as the race for 92 Legislative seats at stake in Wednesday's Quebec election went into its next-to-last day.

Radio speech-making ended at midnight last night as required by CBC regulations, but candidates still have two more days for public speaking before the voting begins Wednesday. Polls are open from 9 a.m. to 6.30 p.m.

Principal adversaries in this battle are the Union Nationale party, led by 62-year-old Premier Duplessis and seeking its third term in office, and the Liberals, headed by a new leader, Georges Lapalme, 45, and striving to regain the power it lost in 1944.

BUSY DAY PLANNED

Both major party leaders plan whirlwind tours of as many constituencies as possible today and both will return to their home ridings — Premier Duplessis to Three Rivers and Mr. Lapalme to Joliette—tonight to spend pre-election day with their organizations.

Mrs. Therese Casgrain leads the C.C.F. party which has put up 25 candidates, most of them in the ridings of industrial Montreal. It ran seven in 1944.

Four candidates are running in Montreal seats for the Labor-Progressive party headed by Gui Caron.

The Union Nationale, campaigning on the basis of its record, is strfving to repeat its sweep of 1948 whe nit won 81 of the 92 seats. This was the party standing at dissolution May 28 last:

Union Nationale, 81; Liberals, 8; Nationalist, 1; Independent, 1; vacant, 1; total, 92.

SOCIAL CREDITERS—Rev. Ernest G. Hansell, left, Sociali Credit Member of Parliament for Macleod, Alta., and Lyle Wicks, president of the British Columbia Social Credit party, directed the Social Credit in the close B.C. provincial election. Mr. Hansell, although taking an active part in the campaign, was not a candidate. Mr. Wicks was elected in the Dewdney riding.

Norwood Baptists Hold Bible School

NORWOOD (ENS)—The summer Bible school sponsored by the Norwood Baptist church began this week with 60 children registering. There are four classes beginning at 9 a.m. with a brief worship service, and concluding at 11.30 a.m.

Teachers for the classes are: beginners, Mrs. Ward Good, Mrs. William Chamberlain, Mrs. James Dallman; primary, Mrs. Robert Baker, Mrs. Alex Clements; juniors, Mrs. Golden Newall, Mrs. Allan Baker, and the junior high by Miss Barbara Burritt.

At the closing of the class the parents and friends will be invited to an open house where the children's work will be on display.

There will also be similar classes held at the Gospel Hall and the Pentecostal church which in all will take up six weeks of school.

Truman Fears Foreign Trade Curbs Threaten Mutual Security Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman said yesterday that recent United States curbs on foreign trade may threaten the mutual-security program and pose "a very real dilemma for our whole foreign policy."

He called for a new study of the policy of banning free-world trade with the Communist orbit.

Truman directed the 12-man Public Advisory Board for Mutual Security to study the whole field of tariffs, import quotas, trade in farm products and customs procedures.

The Board will make recommendations to the White House and to congress.

Truman suggested that growing trade barriers in the U.S work at cross purposes with the aims of mutual security. The U.S. was trying to build up the military and economic strength of friends and allies in the free world and was spending "very substantial sums" of money to do it.

"This is why we have urged upon them programs of increased production, trade expansion and tariff reduction," he said, "so that through world trade they can expand their dollar earnings and progressively reduce their dependence on our aid.

"Yet, at the same time, we find growing up in this country an increasing body of restrictive laws attempting to further the interests of particular American producers by cutting down the imports of various foreign goods which can offer competition in American markets."

He said the "cheese" amendment to the Defence Production Act—restricting imports of fats and oils—is a "striking example" of the trend. It was enacted, he added, despite a number of existing safeguards.

Canadian cheese manufacturers as well as others have protested against U.S. tariffs on cheese.

"COOL CONTROL"

OVERHEAD BAIT CASTING

1 Control is all-important. Index finger of right hand grips trigger of rod firmly. Thumb rests lightly on spool. Other fingers press handle of rod into palm. Thumb should be relaxed, rest of grip firm but not rigid.

2 Control comes with experience. Practise moving rod back for cast, applying thumb pressure to allow weight of bait to carry tip of rod back, for extra casting power. Relax thumb pressure when rod begins forward movement; apply again just before bait hits water.

3 Keep arm close to body. Movement comes from wrist and forearm. Fingers on handle open as rod moves back, close as rod comes forward. Concentrate on wrist movement for accuracy. Aim; come back fast; forward twice as fast. Remember — only experience gives perfect control.

Yes, it's control that counts, in fishing as in every sport — control which brings the extraordinary quality that sets one performer above the other. In the ability to approach things coolly, to control every move and moment, lies the answer to better results.

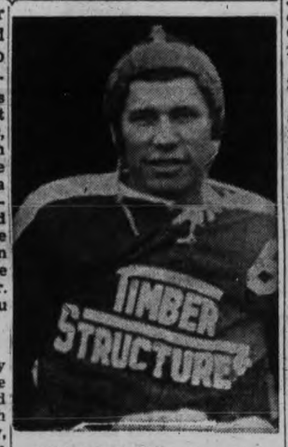
Timbermen Turn Back A's To Climb Closer To Top

Playing like real champions Peterborough's 1951 Mann Cup holders, the Timbermen, scored a decisive 14-6 victory over St. Catharines Athletics at Haig Bowl on Saturday night. By their victory Petes moved to within four points of the league leading Mimico Mounties. With the exception of a six-minute span in the first quarter, Petes were never headed, leading by period scores of 5-4, 7-4 and 11-5. Two Indian players on the Peterborough roster, sophomore Ross Powless and a youngster just moved up from junior ranks, Roger Smith, paced Timbermen in scoring. Powless scored three goals and also found time for a fight with Big Bill Nelson, Athletic defenceman. Smith scored two important goals early in the third quarter. Other two-goal men for Petes were Don Ashbee, Ike Hildebrand and Russ Slater. Singles went to Jack Mason, Lou Nickle and Harry Wipper.



BIG MEDICINE—Ross Powless, classy Indian lacrosser, made big medicine for his club in St. Catharines on Saturday. Ross notched three goals in the Petes' 14-6 triumph over the A's.

MOON GOOD

Emil Uhrynuk was the only player to score twice against the sensational goal-tending of Lloyd (Moon) Wootton while one each were scored by Bill Bradshaw, Don Frick, Don Moore and Norm Corcoran. The Athletic defeat was costly as they possibly lost the services of speedy Max Woolley for the balance of the season. Woolley was tripped by Don O'Hearn in the fourth quarter and suffered a fractured elbow. However, a consoling factor was that Steve Oneschuk and Don Frick both came out of retirement and played their first game of the season with Athletics on Saturday night. Petes were without the services of playing coach Bob Thorpe, on the sidelines with bruised ribs. Thorpe guided Timbermen from the bench.

Petes: Goal, Wootton; defence, O'Hearn and Wipper; centre, Mason; wings, Hildebrand and Powless; rover, Slater; alternates, Fitzgerald, R. Smith, Burns, Nickle, Ashbee and Robinson.

St. Kitts: Goal, Whitaker; defence, Teather and D. Smith; centre, Moore; wings, A. Frick and Dewar; rover, Howe; alternates, Nelson, Oneschuk, Woolley, D. Frick, Uhrynuk, Corcoran and Bradshaw.

Olympic Woes Give Officials Ulcers

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—If Avery Brundage and all his co-workers on the United States Olympic committee haven't a good case of ulcers by now, they'll never have them.

The entire team of about 340 athletes is in Helsinki but just eight days ago—when virtually all the tryouts were over—no one knew for sure just how much money was in the till or whether any of the hopefuls would have to be left home.

For months Brundage had been talking up the fact that the United States needed funds to get the team across the Atlantic. He must have had a stock speech because he's been doing the same thing every four years for longer than he cares to remember.

"I suppose we'll get over the top, but it's the same old story," he sighed. "We never know until the last minute if we'll make it.' This was some 24 hours before the team was scheduled to depart.

TELETHON TRIED

A big telethon was held with the intention of raising money. Bob Hope and Bing Crosby wheedled pledges for the team.

A little arithmetic would reveal that this was more than enough to send the team to Helsinki, plus enough to get a start on the next games. But to date, perhaps one-fifth of the money has been banked, and that's a generous estimate.

As Brundage said, the tough thing is not that the money didn't come in, but that the telethon virtually halted all the other donations and drives since everyone thought all problems were solved.

Well, all's well that end's well, but when they start thinking of a telethon four years hence, the lesson should be learned.

Russians Offer To Help Canada

HELSINKI (CP)—Russia offered a friendly hand to Canada Saturday.

The Russians heard that Canada's rowing shells were wrecked during a North Atlantic storm and offered to fix things up.

They made the offer to Gordon Jennens of Kelowna, B.C., builder of the boats who just arrived from Canada. They said, through an interpreter:

"We are very sorry to hear about it and will do anything to help."

The Russians had brought along spare single and double sculls and four- and eight-oared shells. They said they could be used either for practice or for the Olympic Games.

The offer was turned down with thanks. Replacements are coming from Canada.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Quinte columnist remarks of the last C.O.B.L. game down that way. "The win-hungry Petes took full advantage of Belleville lapses to get their second win in a row. The Liftlockers came up with their best display of the season here, fielding flawlessly, coming through with 11 clouts, and taking advantage of the Reds' pitch-and-toss pastime. At that the McCabe men outhit the Stewarteers 14-11 but they failed dismally in the clutches. The defeat didn't hurt them any and the Petes' win was not only good for the league but proved that the Liftlock squad is a force to contend with. They defeated Kingston 6-1 in their last outing and it looks like Joe Stewart has injected some of the old team spirit into the club." Yes, Joe has been teaming up with Ed Whitehill in handling the club lately.

* * * * * *

The same clubs clash at Riverside this eve under the arcs in a C.O.B.L. fixture, and there's nothing the Petes like better in baseball than beating Belleville good. They haven't had too much success at their favorite stunt so far this season, till the last joust, but they're due to pin their ears back again right here—and why not tonight? Provided the weather is okay. Bill Edger or Phil Clancy will go on the home mound, and the Quinte crew has a flock of flingers, including High Pockets McCabe, ex-pro. This should be a dandy diamond duel and ideal entertainment outdoors this hot spell. No junior joust on tap till Tuesday, that one being transferred.

But Roses Can Wither

Bowmanville Roses—a sweet smelling outfit in the Lakeshore League—play the Young Petes at eight Tuesday e'en here. The local junior ballsters have twice taken Colborne Dodgers and last start beat Lindsay Merchants on the Scugog diamond, so they can't be ignored any more by the intermediate clubs, not even the leading Roses. Tommy Cupoli drops us a line suggesting that our juniors and seniors play opposing clubs in the odd double-header here at one admission price as they do in Toronto or in softball here. It would give senior fans a chance to see the future senior players, too, and shouldn't hurt either gate. Not a bad idea.

* * * * * *

While the junior lacrossers run by Lou Vitarelli are happy over halting Mimico 12-5 here Friday to move into third spot, they know they have a toughie tonight at Miller Bowl. It's the O.L.A. junior leading Brampton bunch, carrying a couple of young senior players and aiming directly at the Minto Cup and trip west this fall. Mayhap pride goeth before the fall. Anyway, the scrappy Filter Queens figure they can take the potent B's here to improve their position and give an indication of things to come in the playoffs. It'll be a hard-fought fray all the way this e'en.

Petes Down Athletics

Timbermen turned in a solid job down in St. Catharines on Saturday to beat the Athletics 14-6. A fairly rough fray with O'Hearn and Howe in one fight, and Powless and huge Bill Nelson in another. Powless turned in a whale of a game, scoring three goals and driving hard all the way—as he has been doing right along this semester. His Indian protege, Rog Smith of the juniors, was used and he bagged a couple of counters in a nifty showing, too. Moon Wootton was almost unbeatable in the visitors' cage, and the club as a whole showed plenty. They're keeping right on the leading Mounties' heels, but have a tough one tomorrow in Toronto and back here Friday against Hamilton.

* * * * * *

Men's softball executive put on a neat show in the Larkman benefit twin bill Saturday eve at the Bowl. A goodly gallery raised a nice sum for the injured player. Howie Dalton and four helpers—not the original four-man club—walloped the bejabbers out of Lakefield with fine flinging, first-class fielding and terrific thumping. An 18-2 count, no less. Percy Harrison's old crocks defeated the Dormer has-beens 14-11 and many of those classy veterans of a decade and more ago turned in a worthy effort. By far the oldest, of course, was Bill Simmons but he saw slab service once more. An okay show. Loop play resumes Tuesday night.

Down Sports' Rialto

Toronto beat Mimico 18-8 so now the senior O.L.A. standing is: Mimico 26 points, Petes 24, Toronto 22, Hamilton 18, Owen Sound and St. Kitts 10, Fergus eight . . . Toronto has scored most with 226 while Hamilton with 145 has least scored against 'em . . . P.M.L.A. midgets drill at 6:30 tonight, followed by the juves . . . # New Champion Wins At Tourney Pat Fletcher Captures Crown

By FRASER MACDOUGALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—Canadian professional golf got a new tournament champion Saturday—big Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon who squeezed out the first major golf victory of his 19-year playing career in a field of 34 competitors from across Canada.

Fletcher, making his putter behave on the lush greens of Winnipeg's Niakwa course, carved three strokes off par in the 54-hole Canadian Professional Golfers Association championship. He put together rounds of 69-69-72 for a total of 210, one stroke better than veteran Jules Huot of Laval-Sur-le-Lac, a three-time winner of this blue-ribbon event for Canadian pros. His victory was worth $350.

ENDS LEONARD'S REIGN

His victory ended a two-year reign of Stan Leonard of Vancouver. It marked the first time that a player from other than British Columbia, Quebec or Ontario clubs had carried off the Cohama trophy and first-place money since the competition began in 1912.

Fletcher, 36-year-old native of Victoria, B.C., earned his victory. He hit the ball well all through the three rounds. He added to the solid irons play for which he is noted a deft putting touch which brought him the triumph—a popular one with the gallery of some 2,500 who followed the players on the tough 36-hole decisive grind Saturday after 18 holes Friday.

He needed all his shots to stave off Huot, who shot a sparkling third-round 69 for his 211, and Gordon Brydson of Toronto Mississauga who wound up in a third-place tie with 212 after leading the field Friday with an opening-round 68.

Lloyd Tucker of Kitchener Rockway offered another stout challenge, recovering from an opening 75 to shoot rounds of 69 and 68 Saturday. He three-putted the final green in a moment of relaxation.

The draw made for a tense finish. Fletcher played with Brydson and Par Fletcher of Regina who had a starting 69. Pat Fletcher duplicated his starting round with a 65 to take a two-stroke lead over Brydson who slipped to 72 while Par Fletcher dropped back with a 75.

The new champion and Brydson battled on even terms through the final 18, each finishing with a 72, one over the course par. But Fletcher had to save the day with a rousing iron shot on the last hole. His drive went off to the right and gave him a bad angle to the green. But he drove a 185-yard No. 3 iron shot some 15 feet from the pin when a false move might have knocked him out of the winning spot.

LEONARD, GRAY TIE

Leonard, whose putting was sour, finished in a seventh-place tie with Bob Gray of Toronto Scarboro. The Marine Drive pro, Canada's most formidable competitive golfer, had only one par round, the first with 71. He shot 74 and 72 Saturday for 217. Gray, who started off with a seemingly hopeless 78, came back with rounds of 68 and 71. Stan Horne of Montreal shot 71-73-72 for 216 and fifth place.

The Canadian pros moved out to the Winnipeg St. Charles club yesterday to tune up for the four-day Canadian Open championship, starting Wednesday. In it they will meet top-flight Americans, including defending champion Jim Ferrier and Julius Boros, United States Open champion.

North Toronto Gets Win Over P-W Club

By C. H. IRESON

North Toronto defeated the Peterborough-Whitaker Cricket Club here Saturday 111 to 49. Batting first, they piled it up with C. Leach getting 31, T. Foster 29 and T. Challenger 20, with no others reaching a double score, to run it to 111 for the side. F. Dyer had three wickets for 22, G. Boardman three for seven, R. Smith three for 15. The winners had 82 for five wickets but Smith and Boardman soon got rid of the rest.

The local inning was disastrous, except for fine work by F. Booth, who went in on the second wicket with the total at nine and was not out at the finish of 18. He had no useful partner and it was seven wickets down for 14. Armstrong and F. Dyer each scored eight then, leaving Booth not out at 18, and the total 49.

Oldtimers and Five Aces Entertain Big Crowd In Benefit Double-Header

Jack Larkman of Lakefield is a happier boy today as a result of a benefit show staged Saturday night on his behalf at the East City Bowl, by the executive of the men's senior city softball league. A large crowd attended the softball twin-bill and the entire proceeds were given to the boy who suffered a broken leg in a regular game played June 12 against Revoy's. The first game saw Percy Harrison's old and new timers pitted against a similar group led by Harold Dormer, and the north end fireball injected sufficient spark into his crew to edge out the Dormer pack 14-11. It was a battle royal for five innings, as birthdays were forgotten in the hectic fray.

Harrison's boasted such old stars as Stuffy Mahood, Frank Shine, Pop Montgomery, Speed Curry, Freddy Scates and Hub Vinette, with younger active stars Lou Parsons, George Hawkes and Chum Fryia. Even more venerable, however, were some of the names adorning the Dormer roster with such grand veterans of yesterday as: Bill Simmons, who started the first inning (he has over 30 years on Satchel Paige), Rube Brady, Jim Gilligan, Scotty Maudsley, George Dormer, Ted Naish, Pat Calladine, Harold Dormer, Red Creighton, Jack Playford, Ron Akers and Jack Gardner.

An eight-run splurge in the second after each team tallied three in the first, gave Harrison's a reasonably safe lead in the abbreviated tussle, though the homesters fought to the finish. Jim Ellis and Parsons each had three safeties for the winners, while Frank Shine had two. Chum Fryia, Fred Scates and George Hawkes had one apiece.

Pat Calladine and Jim Gillespie had the only extra-base blows, the former hitting a double, the later a triple, and Calladine caught a fine game for the losers. H. Dormer, Maudsley, Rube Brady, Jack Playford, Ron Akers and George Dormer all hit safely once. Frank Shine's running catch off H. Dormer in the third was a gem, and Rube Brady's hit in the fifth drew a big hand; he later scored.

FIVE-MAN TEAM

Howie Dalton's five-man all-star aces defeated Lakefield Merchants 18-2 in the seven-inning nightcap of the twin set. Dishing up an assortment of fast underhand stuff, including fastball deliveries, versatile Howie had little difficulty subduing Lakefield's best clubbers aided by grand support from his three back mates, Reg Luther at first, Neil Thompson at short and (Long John) Mackness in the outer pasture. Tom Walton caught in his usual steady manner.

The big five were mean with the mace, too, adding insult to injury as they smote the combined offerings of Hinton and McCracken to all comers of the lot with merciless abandon. A total of 17 hits, with triples by Dalton and Thompson and a double by Mackness, told the story. Dalton drove in five runs on five hits and scored three; Thompson drove in three on six hits and scored seven runs; Mackness drove in two and scored three; Luther drew four passes and scored two; Walton hit two and scored two. Three double plays by the aces and one by Merchants featured. Dalton scattered six hits, fanned seven and walked none.

Shantz Shuts Out Sox 6-0 One Game Of Doubleheader

By JOE REICHLER, Associated Press Sports Writer

Bobby Shantz, Philadelphia Athletics ace southpaw can: 1. Become the biggest winner in Philadelphia's American League history. 2. Become the first second-division hurler in the last 50 years to lead his league in won-and-lost percentage. 3. Become the first 30-game winner in the majors in 18 years and the first American Leaguer to reach that total in 21 years.

Shantz spun a seven-hit 6-0 shutout yesterday as the Athletics split a doubleheader with Chicago White Sox. The Sox took the second game 7-4. It was Bobby's third shutout and his 16th complete game in 18 starts. He has won 15 and lost three.

The five-foot seven-inch pitcher has a chance to equal or better the highest total of victories ever racked up by a Philadelphia hurler. Jack Coombs of the 1910 Athletics and Bob Grove of the 1941 club each notched 31 triumphs.

Groves, incidentially, was the last of eight American League hurlers to win 30 or more in one season. Dizzy Dean was the last major leaguer to accomplish it. He won 30 for the 1934 St. Louis Cardinals. The major league record of 41 was set by Jack Chesbro of the 1904 New York Highlanders, now the Yankees.

Only one pitcher hurling for a second-division club ever led the American circuit on a won-and-lost basis. He was Bill Bernhard who won 18 and lost five for the fifth-place Cleveland Indians of 1902. Shantz can join Bernhard provided he maintains his current pace and the Athletics don't improve their current fifth-place standing.

Shantz was not the only pitcher to shine yesterday. Vic Raschi came within four outs of pitching a no-run, no-hit game for New York as the Yankees twice overwhelmed Detroit Tigers 11-1 and 12-2.

GINSBERG HOMERS

Raschi had two out and two strikes on Myron Ginsberg in the eighth inning of the opener when the weak-hitting Tiger catcher blasted a 350-foot home run into the right field stands. It was the Tigers' only hit.

The victory was Raschi's 100th major league victory and his ninth against two losses this season.

Mickey Mantle hit a homer in each game for the Yanks. Yogi Berra belted his 18th and Joe Collins his seventh for the Yanks.

Mike Garcia turned in a brilliant two-hitter for Cleveland as the Indians swept a doubleheader from Washington, 1-0 and 2-1, to remain 3½ games behind the pace-setting Yankees. Garcia's win was his 13th this season.

Cleveland got only four hits off Con Marrero. Al Rosen's 17th home run, with Bobby Avila on base and in the eighth, gave the Indians the second game.

BROWNS DROP TWO

Maurice McDermott also hurled a two-hitter for Boston as the Red Sox took a pair from St. Louis Browns 8-5 and 4-0. The young left-hander beat Ned Garver for his win in the nightcap. Catcher Sam White's 10th-inning homer with two out snapped a 5-5 tie in the opener.

Gus Zernial provided Shantz with more runs than he needed, blasting a pair of home runs, one with the bases loaded, to increase his homer total to 16.

Philadelphia Phillies moved to within four games of the fourth-place Cubs in the National League, whipping Chicago in a doubleheader, 7-3 and 9-2. Richie Ashburn led the Phils' 23-hit attack in the two games with five safeties, including a double and triple.

Davey Williams' ninth-inning triple drove in two mates and gave New York Giants a 4-2 nightcap win and a split with Cincinnati. The Reds, behind Harry Perkowski's six-hit hurling, took the opener 10-2.

Veteran Matt Surkont and rookie Virgil Jester pitched Boston Braves to a 4-2 and 2-1 double win over Pittsburgh. Ralph Kiner slammed his 15th homer with a man on base in the ninth for Pittsburgh.

The brooklyn St. Louis game was rained out.

York Wallops Mimico 19-8

BRAMPTON (CP)—Toronto West York Saturday night trounced Mimico Mountaineers 19-8 in a senior Ontario Lacrosse Association tilt played here.

It was the Mountaineers' second straight defeat.

Pop Chard led the Mimico scorers with four goals. Leading Toronto were Stu Scott with five, Nick Ferri and Leo Teatro with three each, and Frank Facts with two.

BENTLEY WINS AGAIN

Ernie Bentley of Toronto Weston came in with a 36-hole total of 148 to win the Kingston Whig-Standard and Eastern Ontario golf championship at Kingston's Cataraqui Golf and Country Club Saturday. It was Bentley's second consecutive win.

2 Top Golfers To Share London Trophy

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Two of Canada's top amateur golfers, Gerry Kesselring and Nick Weslock, who have waged many an exciting battle, never staged a more dramatic finish than the one they put on in Saturday's London and District amateur golf championship at the Highland Golf Club.

Tied at the end of 36 holes with 138 apiece, Kesselring and Weslock battled through four extra holes before darkness called a halt to proceedings with the two still tied. Kesselring and Weslock will share the London Winery trophy, emblematic of the championship.

Kesselring, the Kitchener Rockway sharpshooter, blew his chance to win without a playoff when he took a five on the par four 18th hole of his second round, missing a six-foot putt.

Meanwhile, Weslock, of Windsor Essex, rolled home with two steady rounds of 69 for a 138.

John Watson of Chatham, defending champion, after a good round of 68 which left him right in contention, dropped from consideration with a 77 on the last 18.

BRODA 'ASSISTS'

Kelowna Packers won the Canadian summer hockey championship at Nelson, B.C., Saturday night, beating Nelson Maple Leafs 5-3 in a star-studded off-season exhibition before a sellout crowd. The temperature was near 80. Both line-ups featured well-known pro stars, headed by the Toronto Maple Leafs veteran, Turk Broda, who played one period for each club.

Broda allowed one goal in each stint, the final one coming in the game's last minute when he was caught up the ice on a forray of his own and Bill Haldane scored on a breakaway. Broda received an "assist" on the play.

Calumet Horse Two Lea Wins

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—The famed devil red silks of Kentucky's Calumet Farm raced to victory for the second straight year in the $100,000 Hollywood Gold Cup Saturday when Two Lea, the stable's distinguished and elderly mare, won the 13th running of the mid-summer event at Hollywood Park.

Just as Calumet's great Citation scored in the western classic a year ago, so did Two Lea, the favorite, come through on schedule to win by half a length.

Second was Clifford Mooer's Cyclotron, once a Calumet horse but cast off last year because of ailing feet.

Third in the race, staged before 50,088 fans, was F. N. Phelps' Sturdy One, No. 2 betting choice in the pari-mutuels.

Jockey Henry Moreno finished the 1¼ miles in 2:00 1-5.

Yesterday's Stars

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Batting: Gus Zernial, Philadelphia Athletics—crashed a pair of home runs, one with the bases loaded, to lead the Athletics to a 6-0, first-game victory over Chicago.

Pitching: Vic Raschi, New York Yankees—came within four outs of a no-hitter, yielding one hit—a two-out eighth-inning home run by Myron Ginsberg—as the Yankees whipped Detroit Tigers, 11-1.

SHELTER STATUE — A shelter is erected around the statue of Queen Victoria in the Parliamentary library at Ottawa to prevent it from being damaged during replacement of the large windows broken in a recent storm. It was damaged slightly by falling debris once before when repairs were made to the windows. This time no chances are being taken.

U.N. Bombers May Return To Yalu Power Plant Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — United Nations bombers may have to return to the Yalu River power plant where a heavy attack last month blasted Communist electric-power development.

Reports are coming in which shows the Reds are seeking to repair at least some of the four big power complexes hit in the raids.

During the three-day series of blows at the major power sources of the enemy, the United States air command took particular care to avoid breaching the Supung dam at Suiho and other similar dams.

A Defence Department spokesman gave this official explanation:

"The bombing. . .was intended to cripple the war-making potential of the Communists without at the same time destroying the dam (at Suiho) which would be beneficial to the people in peacetime."

The Suiho power project was constructed by the Japanese in the mid-1930s when Japan controlled Korea and Manchuria.

Aerial photographs taken during and after the bombing attacks on the Suiho project show the precise care taken to hit the generating equipment and avoid damage to the 350-foot high, half-mile-long dam.

M.P. Protests Court Racket

LONDON (AP)—A woman Member of Parliament suggests that the pre-war practice of paying sponsors to get debutantes presented at court is rearing its head again in Britain.

She urged abolition of the presentation ritual so that the Queen could use the time to meet some of the 5,000 students from Commonwealth countries who come to Britain each year.

Writing in the Sunday Express, Mrs. Elrene White, Labor member for East Flint, said:

"In pre-war times the snobbery associated with presentation at Court was exceedingly distasteful, to say the least. The rumors of money paid to receive the favor were well based."

The sponsors always were well-placed socially and often had titles. Mrs. White said 10,000 pounds—then worth almost $50,000—was believed to be the most ever paid to a sponsor. The usual fee ran about 1,000 pounds.

Two New Constables Policing Suburb

LA SALLE (CP)—Two newly-hired police constables took over policing of this Windsor suburb yesterday from the Ontario Provincial Police officers who had been patrolling the town since Thursday.

They were Delbert Taylor and Ernest Lauzon, hired to replace Vincent Bergeron and Thyrl Baltzer who resigned Thursday after Town Council asked for and received the resignation of Police Chief C. G. Spink.

Bergeron and Baltzer reiterated their previous charges that Councillor Ted Clarke had told them to allow the town's bootleggers to operate unmolested.

Escaped From Train

AURORA (CP)—Charles Dale, 42, smashed a train window and escaped police custody yesterday while being taken from Haileybury to Sarnia to face a charge of auto theft. Dale leaped through the broken window, rolled down a 25-foot embankment and ran away, apparently uninjured.

New Carpet Needed

OSLO (Reuters)—A red carpet intended to be spread on the quayside for the Duke of Edinburgh on his forthcoming visit was found to be full of moth-holes, says the newspaper Dagbladet. The carpet hadn't been used since King Haakon returned from a visit to Britain in 1945.

'Quick Fox' Out

BERLIN (AP)—The quick brown fox has been retired by the Soviet telegraph network. The daily wire opening between east and west legs of the system yesterday dispensed with the usual test message known all over the world—"The quick brown fox jumped over the lazy dogs's back." Instead the Communists opened with: "Pest General Ridgway and national traitor Adenauer."

PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

VOL. CV. No. 11 — MONDAY, JULY 14, 1952

MAIN STREET TOPICS

STOP THE PRESS

The Examiner's thermometer showed 96 degrees, in the shade, at 2 p.m. this afternoon.

A WEATHER CLINCHER

A main streeter remarked today: "It must be really hot; Claude Sherwood was carrying his coat on his arm."

PURSE LOST

A messenger getting change at the Canadian Bank of Commerce Friday lost a blue draw string purse containing $45 of her own money. The finder can help out a lot by phoning 24409.

AWNING BURNT.

A cigarette butt tossed up on an awning of the Peterborough Credit Jewellers, 291 George St., started a small fire Sunday night that burned a small hole in the awning. A handpump was used to extinguish the blaze.

RASPBERRIES 32c

North Monaghan raspberries were 32c a pint on main street today. They looked appetizing and a good size in spite of the dry weeks through which they have come to ripeness. They are not the biggest specimens from the township the last ten years.

STELLAR ATTRACTION

Peterborough is overlooking one of its best tourist attraction, declares one U.S. visitor, returning for his fifth successive year. The attraction is the drinking water fountain in Confederation Park. It gives, said the visitor, "the coldest, purest water" he has tasted in years.

EARTH IN SALAMANDER

You won't find this in the Zodiac or any book of astronomy, but it should read that the planet earth is now sizzling in Salamander. It would be more significant than Sagittarius, Gemini or any of the other areas of the sky. The ancients missed a point of nominal pertinence when they conjured the name Aries instead of Salamander.

PLANT GATE COLLECTION

Tuesday noon six strikers from Local 522, United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America, will come from Kingston to take up a plant-gate collection outside the C.G.E. They will be headed by Harold Shannon, president of the local and a Kingston alderman. They are employees of Frontenac Tile, Kingston, and have been out on strike for 17 weeks. About 250 workers are affected by the strike at the tile company. The pickets will be soliciting cash or canned goods.

GALS HIT THE ROAD

If the reports from two offices are an indication, it is the girls these days who think nothing of dashing off on long distances. Two of them had a month each on the Pacific coast, and another to England; a third is back from the Maritimes; another spent a holiday in Atlantic City and still another is about to fly to Bermuda. That's getting away from the local scene for some reason or other; probably just a complete change. Another is off motoring in N.Y. State.

This Is Only The Beginning, Six Weeks Of Boiling Hot Summer Weather Ahead

No one needs to be told, it looks like a hot summer ahead. The youngsters of the city will be happy. They don't have any trouble sleeping at night.

When June came along with a first class heat wave that hit a peak of 88, most people thought it was some sort of a freak and the weather would soon settle down to a fine comfortable summer.

But the week before last and last week, the weather slapped the country again with a heat wave just to show it meant business.

At noon today the official temperature was 88, but downtown the thermometers were over the 90 mark and still climbing indicating that Monday was going to be hotter than Sunday when it hit a high of 91.

City people streamed out of Peterborough in search of relief, but didn't find it much better except in the shade beside a lake.

In the late afternoon a few storm clouds blew up and one or two thunderclaps rolled across the land, but that was all. The sun came out again and it was just as hot as ever.

The weatherman says that we may have a few showers and thunderstorms tonight and Tuesday and they will lower the temperature a little.

But we can now be certain, any relief will just be temporary. Summer, 1952, looks like a scorcher.

2,500 Orangemen Parade To Honor Battle Of Boyne

PORT HOPE—With 78-year-old flag bearer Frank Thickson setting the pace behind a pair of prancing horses, an estimated 2,500 Orangemen from 42 district lodges paraded through Port Hope Saturday while a crowd of more than 10,000 lined the two-mile parade route.

Headed by scarlet uniformed parade marshall, James E. Arkles, county marshall of the order and his assistant George Dolley, both mounted on grey percherons, the parade assembled in Memorial Park, proceeded to the west end of the town and returned to the band shell in the park for a short program and presentation of prizes.

Sixteen fife and drum bands, plus the music of pipe and brass bands set the tempo for the walkers, and all except a few stuck with the parade through the entire route, regardless of their age or the blistering sun which beat down, heating the pavement to furnace hotness.

Mr. Thickson of L.O.L. 309, Port Hope, who carried the flag at the head of the parade was carrying the second flag staff he has used in orange walks. He explained that the first one he had for more than 20 years wore out, but he is still going strong and was able to set the pace ahead of Orono brass band for the entire distance.

OLDEST 81

Another old-timer, possibly the oldest Orangeman to walk in the parade was 81-year-old Walter McGee of Emily Township, who has walked in 63 Orange parades and never missed one since 1889.

When the parade returned to the park, Orono Brass Band assembled on the platform and entertained the crowd with martial music while the remainder of the parade was completing the route.

As the last of the lodges marched into the park, Sir Knight Arthur Holden of Peterborough, Grand Lecturer of the Orange Order for British America, welcomed the Orangemen on behalf of the order. Mayor D. N. Moore, of Port Hope, and John James, M.P. for Durham, addressed the gathering briefly and extended welcomes on behalf of the town and county.

Seven Peterborough lodges attended and the Peterborough loyal true blue lodge was awarded the prize as the best loyal true blue lodge in the parade.

BEST LODGE

L.O.L. 43, Cartwright, was awarded the Port Hope Board of Trade prize as the best all round lodge taking part.

Gerard Lucano Finds Japanese Friendly People

Pte. Gerard F. Lucano, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lucano, 511 Albert St., arrived home Saturday from Korea.

About 1,000 Canadians put foot on native soil again when they landed last Tuesday at Vancouver. The direct trip, leaving Japan 28, was uneventful, except that one of the men died at sea.

"The weather last winter wasn't too bad," Pte. Lucano said. "Those who were there before us, said it was a lot better than the previous winter. People told us the Chinese had cleaned up just about everything in that part of the south they had overtun. Farmers put in a crop this year and in that respect appeared to be more normal in the south."

Conditions in Seoul, the old capital of Korea, reflected what the news had reported to the rest of the world. Pte. Lucano was inclined to be reticient about his experiences.

During his stay in Japan he had picked up some of the language.

"The Japanese appeared to be a hospitable people. One of the places I saw was Hiroshima, one of the first cities hit by an atomic bomb. Quite an area of it has been built over again. It seemed to me that the Japanese would continue to be with us in the future. However, the average soldier hasn't the opportunity to get around enough for broad impressions. We certainly found them friendly."

Pte. Lucano was employed with the Examiner and Review before going to Montreal where he was with the Canadian General Electric Company when he enlisted for the Orient.

Start Made To Replace Barn At Exhibition

Fred Robson began work this morning on the 100 ft. by 60 ft. cattle barn at Morrow Park, replacing the building that was destroyed by fire toward the end of May.

Dimensions are somewhat wider and not so long as the comparatively new barn that was reduced to ashes about two months ago.

G. A. Gillespie, secretary-manager, was on hand at 8 a.m. for the breaking of ground not in sod but in the blackened soil of the former site.

RECORD-BREAKER BLACK BASS weighing 7 pounds two ounces, and measuring 23 inches in length and 17 inches in girth was landed on Sunday by Jack McEwen (left) in Pine Lake. Carpenter Isadore Gordon doubted the monster's size and applied his folding rule, shook his head and admitted that it was the largest smallmouth he had ever seen taken in the district for many seasons. And experts who saw it said the same.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Orange Walk Largest In History Of Havelock

HAVELOCK (Staff)—Approximately 580 Orangemen from Peterborough East and Northumberland counties paraded in Havelock Saturday to celebrate the 262nd Battle of the Boyne. It was believed to be the largest walk in the village's history.

Speakers for the day urged that the ideals for which the Orange lodge stands be studied and followed today—a time when they are needed more than ever before.

The Minister of Welfare, the Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, who was the main speaker, explained that the ideals of the Orange lodge must be tolerance in religious views. But, he continued, the main thing is to have a religion.

ERA OF EXPANSION

The minister also said that there was a need for responsibility in Canada today. He pointed to the country's present development as the greatest era of expansion this country has ever seen. But that self confidence must not blind Canadians to the responsibility that they should have for new citizens in the country.

'We must help them and train them to make good citizens and point out to them the advantages of this great country," he said.

The other speakers of the afternoon included: Ernest J. Leeson, reeve of Havelock; Richard Sanderson of Norwood, deputy grand master of Ontario East; the Rev. R. D. Duncanson of Havelock Presbyterian Church; the Rev. N. Cole of Hastings United Church; the Rev. W. J. Bingham of Norwood Baptist Church; Mr. Cummings of Little Lake; the Rev. G. Dyson of Warsaw; L. Bigelow of Havelock Baptist Mission; R. J. Ross of Brighton.

Howard Gardiner, county master of Peterborough East, was master of ceremonies.

The parade was led by the Havelock brass band with H. J. Adams of Havelock, county marshal of Peterborough East; and Fred Skinkle of Warkworth, county marshal of Northumberland, riding two white horses.

The parade consisted of 22 lodges and 12 bands including fife and drum bands and pipers.

The parade started from the Havelock park and returned there for the speeches after walking through the village.

The day's activities came to an end with a dinner in Havelock United Church. The ladies of the church served the dinner.

David Seabrooke, 83, of Belmont township, was believed to hold the record for attending the greatest number of walks. Mr. Seabrooke has never missed a walk in the past 64 years.

Cow Moose Sighted North Of Havelock

HAVELOCK (ENS)—Constable R. W. Hall of Havelock, driving Sunday in the Rush Point district north of the village, was startled to see a large cow moose cross in front of his car. The animal disappeared into the bush.

This report is the second one on moose seen in districts east of Peterborough. Several weeks ago, two train crews reported seeing a young moose where the eastbound CPR tracks cross the Ouse river.

Tourist's Answer Rebukes Weldon For Carping Letter

"Have you heard the story about the chap that got kicked by a mule? Well, after it happened a friend of mine asked him why he didn't beat the stuffin's outa the mule. 'Because I considered the source,' was the answer." This was one American tourist's answer to a letter of complaint regarding treatment in the Peterborough area by another American tourist.

"It's regrettable that such people write these things," H. M. Groat of Alliance, Ohio, said today. Mr. Groat was referring to a letter written to The Examiner by J. C. Weldon, an American tourist, and published July 9.

Mr. Weldon criticized the prices charged at restaurants and hotels in the city and complained that he had been treated with discourtesy during his stay in Peterborough.

"My wife and I have been coming here for the past six years and we certainly have no complaints," Mr. Groat said. "In fact, we like it so well we are planning to buy a cottage on Rice Lake when I retire and spend about four or five months here every year.

ILL-MANNERED

"I think Mr. Weldon was ill-mannered to say the least. But as in any group there is always a few bad ones among the good, and he is one of the bad ones."

Mr. Groat went on to say that his American tourist friends, who come up each year to Rice Lake, are feeling badly about the letter. He said they had always been treated well and that at least 90 per cent of the Canadians they meet go out of their way to make their stay more enjoyable.

"We come into church in Peterborough every Sunday and eat at your restaurants and have no complaint to find whatsoever. We have always been served good meals and shown the greatest courtesy wherever we went. And prices for meals over here are lower than at home."

"As far as Mr. Weldon's complaints about the current rate of exchange, he probably would have saved himself a lot of trouble if he had changed his money for Canadian money at the border. I don't see why any American should complain about the situation now, after we have had the advantage in this respect for so long. I can remember getting $1.20 in Canadian money for $1 American money at one time."

Mr. Groat concluded by saying he believed most of the American tourists in the district would second his remarks.

Motorcyclist, Boy Hurt In Crashes

A motorcyclist and a two-year-old boy were injured slightly in two accidents Saturday evening.

James A. Smith, 25, 742 Frank St., was thrown from his motorcycle and into the headlight of a car driven by Frank C. Wallwork, 822 St. Mary's St., when the two vehicles collided at Charlotte St., and Clonsilla Ave.

Smith was travelling west on Charlotte St., and Wallwork was driving north on Clonsilla Ave., and was just making a left hand turn when the accident occurred.

Minor damage resulted to both the motorcycle and the front end of the car.

The driver of the car took Smith to Civic Hospital where he was given out patient treatment for head cuts and leg abrasions.

Paul Heard, 2, 189 Lake St., was knocked down by a car driven by Robert L. Knox, 415 Stewart St., Saturday evening. Knox was travelling east on Lake St., and told police the boy suddenly ran in front of his car. Knox was driving only slowly at the time and was practically stopped when he hit the boy. Dr. Donald Clarke examined the boy but he apparently was not injured.

County Repairs Roads, Bridges Spends $11,000

County workmen are now improving four roads in Peterborough County, the total cost of the work being about $11,000. They have finished two bridges—one in Anstruther and the other in Harvey township—at a total cost of $5,000.

About $4,000 is being spent to widen nearly three miles of the Cordova Road in Belmont-Methuen township. Besides widening the travelled surface to 30 feet, the workmen are grading and gravelling and eliminating some of the curves.

Jack Kean, county engineer and road superintendent, said that the trend throughout the county is to widen the travelled surface of the roads to 30 feet. Many of the present roads are just 20 feet.

A rounded six-foot shoulder is then cleared on both sides of the road, giving 42 feet of graded surface. A shallow ditch is dug at the edge of the rounded shoulder for drainage.

The wide shoulder also permits the weed cutter to operate to better advantage.

A two-mile stretch of the Ennismore - Gannon's Narrows road is being finished up in Ennismore. The road has been widened, the surface gravelled and graded, and one hill cut down. Total cost is $3,000.

McCRACKEN'S ROAD

The last half of the McCracken's Landing road in Dummer township is also being completed. This $1,000 project includes widening to 30 feet, grading, and straightening out some of the winds in the road.

Last Friday workmen turned their attention to improving the most worn section of the middle line of Smith township.

For several years the reeves and deputy-reeves of Smith have been asking the county to fix this road, and County Council have asked the Department of Highways to take it over as a development road. The Department turned down this request; so this year the county are spending about $3,000 to have two miles of the 4½-mile road improved.

HEAVY TRAFFIC

Mr. Kean said the section of the road most in need of repair is right in the middle. The north and south ends are in better shape. Heavy traffic—particularly gravel trucks — use the road regularly and give it a pounding, especially in the spring.

Work to be done includes widening, grading and gravelling.

Mr. Kean said the $3,000 Sandy Creek bridge in Harvey Township is now completed. The bridge spans the creek on the township road joining Sandy Lake and Buckhorn Lake.

Some 300 feet of fill was dumped into the creek; a culvert 13 feet wide and eight feet high was laid to maintain the flow of water. Pit run gravel was laid over the top.

BOOTH BRIDGE

A steel truss was purchased from Percy Township for the new Booth bridge in Anstruther township. The bridge had a 42-foot span and goes over Eel's Creek. A concrete floor was then laid on the bridge.

Total cost was $2,000.

Three other bridges should be finished before the end of the year.

Two Infants, Youth Drown In Three Accidents In Peterborough District

Girl, Boy Fall While Playing Along Shore Neither Seen Until Too Late Youth Takes Sick Swimming At Fenelon Falls

Two infants and a boy of 14 years were drowned in the Peterborough district over the weekend. The dead are: Paul Gamble, two-and-a-half-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gamble, Birchview Dr., Lorne Park P.O., at Hall's Lake, 60 miles northwest of Peterborough. Susan Rooth, two-and-a-half-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Rooth, 7 Richardson Ave., Toronto, at Round Lake, 30 miles northeast of Peterborough.

Kenneth Roy Young, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Young of Fenelon Falls, in the Fenelon River, 35 miles northwest of Peterborough.

FELL OFF DOCK

A resuscitator was used for three and a half hours Saturday in a vain effort to save the life of Paul Gamble who fell off the dock and drowned when his mother left him alone for a few minutes.

The Gambles have a cottage on Hall's Lake, located on the northeast shore. Young Paul was playing about the water's edge with his two brothers, John, 10 and Mark 5. Mrs. Gamble was keeping an eye on them.

When the iceman arrived Mrs. Gamble left for two or three minutes to pay him. The two brothers dashed up to the ice truck to get some ice chips.

Left alone, Paul apparently toppled into the water and unable to save himself. Mrs. Gamble returned and saw that he had disappeared. His body was found, floating face down by the dock.

Coroner Dr. Agnes Jamieson of Minden gave a verdict of accidental drowning. There will be no inquest. O.P.P. Constable Charles Hardy of Minden said it was the first drowning this year in Haliburton County.

PLAYING IN WATER

A somewhat similar accident occurred at Round Lake Sunday afternoon.

Susan Rooth, 2½ years, was playing along the shoreline about 4:45 p.m. when she too fell into the water and drowned.

There were no eyewitnesses to the fatal accident. But Coroner Dr. H. G. Carleton who examined the body later said there was a mark on the back of the child's head, indicating she had struck something when she fell.

As there are numerous stones along the water's edge it is thought that Susan slipped and struck her head on one of them, temporarily stunning her. She drowned before she could recover.

The body was found a short time afterwards, floating face downward, by Mary Ann Simpson, 8, of Havelock. Mary Ann was staying at the next cottage with her aunt, Mrs. W. E. Conway of 265 McDonnel St.

Nearby cottagers, including several firemen from North York, applied articial respiration for more than two hours but without success. They were directed by Dr. W. N. Judd of Havelock.

The child's parents said the young girl was afraid of the water and wondered how she got near enough to it to apparently fall into the water.

Dr. Carelton said today he had not yet consulted the Crown Attorney but he didn't think there would be an inquest.

TOOK SICK

A sudden attack of stomach sickness while he was swimming proved fatal to Kenneth Roy Young, 14, of Fenelon Falls, Saturday night.

Along with his brother, Cecil 12, and a friend, Lloyd Gainer, also 12, Kenneth had gone swimming in a small bay on the Fenelon River, close to where the river runs into Sturgeon Lake.

Not a strong swimmer, Kenneth was just paddling about most of the time. He then decided to swim out some distance and when he got beyond his depth he suddenly became sick at his stomach.

He called out to his brother and friend and both jumped into the water to reach him. Before they could do so he flopped over on his back and sank into the 20-foot deep water.

The body was recovered about 40 minutes later by John Restivo of Fenelon Falls who dived repeatedly until he was successful in locating it.

The three boys were having a swim to cool off after attending the 12th of July celebrations in Bobcaygeon. It is thought that Kenneth may have had too much sun making him sick.

Coroner Dr. G. C. Graham said there will be no inquest.

John F. Condon Fell On Street, Dies In Hospital

John F. Condon, 76, 471 Bolivar St., who fell headlong from the sidewalk on King St., Wednesday evening, died in St. Joseph's Hospital Sunday at 8.30 p.m., without regaining consciousness.

Coroner Dr. Herbert N. Young said today there would be no inquest. It is not known whether he stumbled or how he came to fall. City police are still investigating the mishap.

At first it was thought he had suffered a heart attack, but later it was found that was not the case.

BORN IN DOURO

Mr. Condon was born in Douro township, son of the late David Condon and Catherine Hogan. He came to Peterborough 12 years ago from Douro after retiring from farming.

He is survived by four nieces, Sister Mary Oswald, St. Joseph's Community, Toronto; Mother Saint Gabriel, Loretto Convent, Sidley, Sask.; Mrs. Frank Carey, Toronto; and Miss Marguerite Guerin, and a nephew, Leo Guerin, both of Toronto.

Mr. Condon was a member of St. Peter's Cathedral.

The body is resting at the Lane funeral home until 8.45 a.m. Tuesday, thence to St. Peter's Cathedral for requiem mass at 9 a.m. Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery, Douro.

MR. AND MRS. ARTHUR MILLER, the bride formerly Miss Mae Willshaw, are seen as they cut their wedding cake Saturday at the reception following their marriage.—(Parks Studio Photo)

Mae Willshaw Is Bride

In St. John's Anglican Church Saturday afternoon, the Rev. J. A. Purser performed the marriage of Mae Louise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Willshaw, to Mr. Arthur Finlay Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Miller, all of Peterborough.

Delphiniums and fenrs formed the setting for the occasion and wedding music was played by organist Mr. F. G. Mann. Mrs. Al Spencley sang during the signing of the register "O Perfect Love."

The bride's gown was fashioned of nylon net over taffeta. The fitted bodice with sweetheart yoke and johnny collar had a row of tiny covered buttons to the waist. The flowing skirt was accentuated with bands of taffeta and finished in a sumptuous train. Her close-fitting headdress of Chantilly lace was lightly trimmed with lily of the valley and held in place her veil of tulle illusion which was bordered deeply with matching lace, falling to fingertip length. She carried a cascade bouquet of deep pink carnations.

Miss Agnes Willshaw, as maid of honor for her sister, and Misses Audrey and Phyllis Willshaw as bridesmaids, were frocked in the rainbow hues of green, yellow and orchid. The gowns had tightly fitting bodices of brocotel in embossed pattern trimmed with ruffles of nylon net and full skirts of nylon net, starting from hipline points of the brocotel. Tiny matching jackets had deep revered collars. Junior bridesmaid Barbara Gail Rae was in mauve nylon net over taffeta fashioned with puff sleeves and full skirt, and she wore a band of flowers in her hair. The attendants wore matching sweetheart headdresses and mittens and they carried bouquets of white roses, yellow roses and sweet peas. Carolyn Anderson, cousin of the bride, presented her with a silver horse-shoe as a token of good luck.

The groomsman was Mr. Robert Miller, and the ushers were Darrell Willshaw and Ronald Miller, all brothers of the bride and groom.

The reception was at the home of the bride's parents, 717 Elcombe Crescent. Her mother received in a gown of turquoise sheer and she wore white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. The groom's mother wore flowered silk and had white accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller left afterward on a wedding trip to the United States. The bride travelled in a navy nylon dress and redingote ensemble and she wore white accessories and a corsage of talisman roses.

They will live in their new home at R.R. 5, Peterborough, on return.

Smartly-Styled Petticoat Lends Model Look To Sheers

By MURIEL NARRAWAY.
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON — (CP) — This is the season for "sheers," said Britain's fashion writers as the Court came out of mourning. And events proved them right.

Light and frothy organzas, the filmy chiffons, fine lace and lawn nylon, broderie anglaise, and cotton voiles have floated their way from garden parties and Royal Ascot to cocktails, dances and balls.

Debutantes with limited bankrolls were quick to realize the value of smartly-styled, wide-skirted expensive petticoats lending a model look to simple sheers run up at home at small cost.

Beautifully - finished crinoline petticoats of cambric, lawn and taffeta formed a daytime foundation to chiffons or voiles with delicate flower patterns of rosebuds, hollyhocks and poppies, or a filmy tracery of leaves. Nighttime saw them swishing beneath calf-length cocktail and evening dresses in dark organzas decorated with white eyelet embroidery and given a Gainsborough look by the face-framing beauty of a shawl collar.

One useful petticoat outfit has sheath-like black taffeta strapless underskirt beneath halter-neck overdress in white embroidered cotton, its waist caught by wide black cumberbund belt. For evening wear one goes out in the underskirt, with or without an overskirt of sequined tulle.

HANDY UNDERSKIRT

Such a petticoat gives at least three completely different dresses —and there are few limits to its capabilities. It is, for instance, equally successful under white broderie anglaise or the sheerest nylon overdress with floating fullness to a gathered skirt.

This is the first year that nylon garments in quantity— at prices acceptable to many pockets — have been available on the British market. There is ample choice in everything from lace-trimmed panties at under 10s to filmy pastel-shaded dresses with matching underskirts for just over four pounds.

The choice of sheers has also been noted in the Royal Family. During a recent London heatwave, the Queen in pale grey organza gown with wide skirt, cape sleeves, and deep V-neckline, inspected members of the two-year British North Greenland expedition, sweltering in wind-cheater jacket with fur collars and fur-lined boots.

On the same day, Princess Margaret visited a hospital for incurable children in Folkestone. She wore a grey organdie dress with three-tier cape sleeves, its flared skirt flounced with tiered frills.

Guides Establish Camp Near Ottawa

SOUTH MARCH (CP)—Into territory normally occupied by men, some 1,200 happy teen-aged Girl Guides from many parts of Canada will march today for the start of a 12-day stretch under canvas.

The camp, largest ever undertaken by the Girl Guides Association, will be established on a site —15 miles southwest of Ottawa—normally used for male rifle competitions.

The Guides, ranging in age from 13 to 16, were hand-picked. Instead of attempting to train the girls in camping and life-saving techniques, an effort will be made to teach them the finer points of citizenship.

The camp was designed to help the youngsters to think as Canadians, not as the natives of any particular province.

Y.W. Day Campers Conclude Program

The Y.W.C.A. Day Camp finished a successful two-week course today with entertainment for the campers' mothers and other members of their families at the Y. Mrs. Irene Campbell, director of the camp, arranged this concluding feature.

Mrs. Eisenhower Favors Bangs

CHICAGO (AP)—Thanks to Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower bangs now are a high-style hair fashion in the United States.

The wife of the Republican Presidential nominee has worn some version of bangs for more than 30 years.

Through the years "Mamie and her bangs" have been a topic of conversation among army wives. She would let hairdressers curl them this way or that, cut them a little shorter perhaps, but bangs she insisted upon.

It is almost as though Mamie Doud Eisenhowed was determined to remain a definite personality in her own right instead of just a wife overshadowed by the increasing fame of her husband.

Although Mrs. Eisenhower has held to bangs — regardless of whether they were in or out of style—she likes clothes right up to the minute in fashion. She has kept her slim figure and wears clothes well. In jewelry, she favors earbobs.

Charges Beauty Contest Rigged

ROME (AP) — "Miss Italy" charged in a newspaper interview yesterday that the "Miss Universe" contest at Long Beach, Calif., was rigged in favor of "Miss Finland" as an Olympic Games publicity stunt.

The winner should have been a United States girl, said dark-haired Giovanna Mazzotti, 19, now back at work as a movie startlet here.

Miss Mazzotti said it wasn't sour grapes.

"I should have been ranked in last place," she said. "They were all so beautiful."

Start Lessons In Swimming At Lakefield

LAKEFIELD (ENS) — Lakefield's Red Cross swimming and water safety program is in full swing this week. Instructor Ron Kingdon and lifeguard John Lickly are busy teaching the 90 small children enrolled in the beginner's class the A.B.C. of swimming. In previous years a number of the older pupils acted as guards, but they have all been employed this season, and in the interests of safety a guard was hired.

Mrs. Harold Wilford, chairman of the program for the Red Cross, is in charge of all the arrangements at the beach, which position she has held most capably for several years. Mrs. Wilford has made some rules for swimmers at the beach and feels that the parents could do a great deal towards the carrying out of these rules by their co-operation. One of the most important is that no one except senior swimmers may swim from the cat-walks to the diving tower. The water there is deep and dangerous except to experienced swimmers.

Dogs have caused considerable nuisance at the beach also and are dangerous especially to the smaller children. In future, action will be taken if they are brought there. At the present time there is a by-law prohibiting dogs from running at large in the village.

Besides the 90 beginners there are classes for all ages and examinations will be held a little earlier than previously, if arrangements can be made to do so, Mrs. Wilford stated.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Canadians Are Good Cooks

There are a few things that make me blazing mad. Otherwise I'm fairly even-tempered. No. 1 is discourtesy of children to their parents, (2) garbage not disposed of and (3) sophisticated travellers airily claiming that Canadians have no cooking culture.

It is those latter upstarts I'm tearing into today. If they could see the letters I receive from you girls with original recipes you have worked out — things you could not find in cookbooks so worked out yourselves; OR the samples—yes meal-size samples—of your cooking that come by mail to me—if they really knew what goes on in some private Canadian kitchens they would have to change their tunes or hold their tongues.

For instance, read this letter from Mrs. J. D.:

Dear Mary Moore: Your column gives me much pleasure as I am a stickler for a balanced diet . . . I have been experimenting with whole wheat flour . . . it improves the texture and taste of fruit, spice and other soda cakes. Cookies just vanish since I started making them with whole wheat flour. Here is a favorite recipe.

WHOLE WHEAT COOKIES (by Mrs. J. D.)

Three quarters cup each brown sugar and shortening, ½ cup white sugar. Cream these well. Add 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla and ½ teaspoon nutmeg or cloves. Blend well. Mix together 3 cups whole wheat flour, 1 teaspoon soda, ½ teaspoon salt. Gradually mix into first mixture. Roll thin and bake at 400 deg. Fahr. until golden brown.

I want Mrs. J. D. to know I made these. They are all she claims for them. I divided the dough into halves and to one-half added ½ cup plump seeded raisins, because Pete is working at Stelco for the summer and carries his lunch and I pack all the nourishment I can into its contents. Thank you, Mrs. J. D.

Then I want to give you "Ada Pal's"

CHERRY CONSERVE (sent in by Ada Pal)

(Tricky pen name isn't it? Personally I don't think she needs much help.) She vows he pickles "Draw visitors" because they come 20 miles from the next farm for them—out West of course, where 100-mile drives are an evening's jaunt.

Congratulations on your weight reducing program.

Question: Your column beats them all for plain everyday helpfulness . . . Would you be so kind as to print some recipes for frozen desserts—just the family kind . . . Can you tell me what I can make for the table from black currants, red currants, gooseberries, etc? I've heard of black currant pie but do you have recipe? I'd like to use as many as possible while in season . . . Many years ago I worked with a girl whose mother came from Denmark. She told me of a recipe that called for soda crackers rolled fine (were they buttered in frying pan?). A baking dish was lined with crumbs —a layer of sweetened applesauce put in and a layer of crumbs, continue until dish is filled and topped with crumbs. This was baked and chilled. Covered completely with whipped cream . . . that is what I remember. Do you know if that is the right recipe? . . . Now to bed.—M. S.

Answer: There's some kind of devotion in a letter written at 3 a.m. I hope I'm worthy of it. You ask for "just the family kind" of frozen desserts. Alas, the most economical one I can find at the moment is Apricot Refrigerator Cake ("with cookies or cake" as requested by M. S.).

It is not cheap, but neither is it as expensive as most of them.

One 6-oz. can evaporated milk, 1 tablespoon gelatin, 1 tablespoon cold water, 1 teaspoon each lemon juice and grated orange rind, 1 20-oz. can apricots, ¼ cup each sugar and orange juice, 16 sponge lady fingers or equivalent in sponge or plain cake. Soak the gelatin in the cold water five minutes. Scald the milk in double boiler and dissolve soaked gelatine in it. Freeze until nearly set in freezer tray. Beat until three times its original volume, adding lemon juice after it begins to stiffen. Meanwhile drain and force apricots through sieve. Add their juice and the orange juice and rind and sugar, stir until sugar is dissolved and chill. Fold into whipped milk mixture and pour into two refrigerator trays lined with lady fingers or strips of cake. Chill until set. Serve with or without whipped cream.

(Answer to M. S. letter continued on Saturday.)

One lb. raisins, 2 lbs. sweet or sour cherries, juice and rind 3 oranges, 3½ lbs. sugar, 1 cup water. Boil sugar and water 5 minutes with the grated orange rind. Add the cherries and raisins and boil carefully until thick, without burning (Ada uses asbestos mat under it)—this takes about ½ hour. Add orange juice and boil 2 minutes. Pour into sterile jars and seal. Thanks Ada Pal for sending this while cherries are in season.

And see how this appeals to you—

HE-MAN'S BARBECUE OR STEAK SAUCE (by "Distant, Critical Admirer—male)

(All I have are his initials—the coward— D'A. O'M. which he vows are correct. Anybody gotta clue?)

"One-half cup Worcestershire or H.P. sauce, 2 small lemons, ¼ cup each vinegar and lime juice, ¼ cup butter (don't substitute margarine!), ½ teaspoon each dry mustard, chili powder, black pepper, ½ cup catsup, ½ clove garlic, 1 very small onion, 1 bay leaf. Combine all ingredients (I mean—mix the whole business together) and boil it up for 5 minutes. It should be about as thick as thin catsup (specific isn't he?) If you think it is too thick pour in a blob or two of tomato juice. Strain into a pitcher with a wide top. After that it's my wife's job to find a cover for it and keep it until I can earn enough money to buy the steaks to smear it over then we start all over again."

I tried it, kids. It's a honey. I bow to you D'A. O'M. All of you giv-ees come again sometime.

DOROTHY DIX

Show Silence Best Policy Of Past Life

DEAR MISS DIX: Many years ago I had a love affair that ended when the man married another girl. I went through a very difficult time emotionally. However, I threw myself into my work and carried on a normal social life. In time, I found that life was still good and I overcame my original bitterness and resentment.

After a few years I married a fine man whom I love dearly. Before our marriage I told him of my relationship with the other man. I wish I never had! While it is so remote to me, it never seems to leave his mind. Every now and then he will make some remark about it, perhaps comparing himself unfavorably with the other man. He is keeping the thing alive in his mind. I have brought it out in the open trying to explain just how I feel.

I'm not of a "roving nature." All I want is to be a good wife and mother. I've done nothing since our marriage to make him distrust me; I never shall, yet he has these times when he seems to have no faith in me. What can I say or do to make him see my past for what it is — a dead thing? I am sure he loves me, yet he seems impelled to hurt himself — and me — with my past.

JANET L.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Whenever I express my firm conviction that a wife should withhold information on a past love affair, I am besieged with mail from indignant moralists who assert, with fervor, that a man and woman should approach the altar rail with absoluely no secrets between them — each one's past life an open book! The theory would be fine, if people were made of theories instead of emotions. The words of a wife who has lived through such an experience may carry more conviction than advice from me.

COVERS TWO PROBLEMS

Janet's letter, in fact, offers solutions to two problems. She is proof that one can recover quite adequately from what is considered at the time as mortal heartbreak. She also bears witness to the fact that a husband, being completely human, will not forgive or forget a confessed indiscretion on the part of his wife.

At the time Janet admitted her transgression, she was really more intent on salving her own conscience and prostrating her past life before the masculine superiority of her husband-to-be than in being honest for honesty's sake. If the fiance had been a theoretically perfect man of compassion, forgiveness and understanding, the matter would have ended there. But where in humanity does one find such a combination in a husband? Occasionally, perhaps, but very, very seldom. These nagging reminders will come up, recriminations will be made, suspicions will creep in. Nothing can stop the onslaught. Once a wife puts herself on the defensive by confessing a past sin, she is open to the consequences. Her married life can be as exemplary as an angel's, but she cannot annihilate the past.

Of course, if the past affair was an open scandal that everyone knew, it must be told, but a closed door should cover such a case as Janet's.

One can continue to protest undying fidelity to the doubting husband, and pray for a return of his faith—to achieve a basic change in his nature is possible in no other way.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My problem may not seem serious, but it is driving me to distraction. Two weeks ago we bought a TV set, and since then my husband refuses to go out to the movies, or anywhere else. We used to go out at least one night a week, but not any more. Wednesday night he gave me some money and told me to go to the movies with some girl friends. Will our life be like this from now on?

G. R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your husband is a victim of an epidemic that has been sweeping the country for the last three or four years. Practically every new owner of a TV set acts the same way. As a matter of fact, I'm surprised that you haven't been bitten by the same bug.

As the novelty of the new toy wears off, your husband will assume at least some of his former social habits, but I cannot guarantee that he'll ever be as willing to go out as he was before entertainment walked into his house.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Some time ago I lived next door to a very nice girl, but we were never particularly good friends. Now I have moved away, and find myself dreaming of her. I know I don't love her, and she is engaged to another boy, so what can these dreams mean?

A. L.

ANSWER: Be assured, your dreams are absolutely meaningless. Perhaps something has made you think of the girl during the day and the thought has been translated into a dream. You can set your mind at rest about the meaning of dreams. They seldom portend more than overtiredness or indigestion.

Paris Is Stressing Plaids In Her New Fall Fashions

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters)—Pretty little French mannequins, togged out like highland lassies, are "sweating out" the summer in heavy coats of tweed and plaid as leading French designers test the fashions the world's women will be wearing next fall and winter.

Plaids are stressed in a variety of designs and effects, in every type of material from heavy, furry coatings to the new sheer woollen fabrics, silks, and taffetas.

A popular type is seen in classic clan and glen plaids, copied from the highlands of Scotland.

DARK TONED PLAIDS

Next comes a wide choice of dark toned plaids, in both coat and suit fabrics, wide patterned designs and princes de galle.

Shadow and checked plaids are also in the spotlight. Bright colored plaid coatings are noted in vivid toned, horse blanket and steamer rug patterns, as well as plaid taffetas presented in a rainbow hue of cathedral window colorings.

Another important trend is the continuation of soft finish, easy to drape fabrics, which have almost entirely replaced crisp silks and stiff woollens.

Leading houses feature long haired coating, often including a large percentage of animal hair in soft, muted designs, often barely visible under the silky finish.

A significant trend in patterns is the small notif, such as a round medallion of plaid or bright domino check, widely spaced across solid toned grounds.

Tweeds continue to be popular, especially classic and novelty tweeds.

For day wear, the forecast indicates a definite trend away from grey, as rich tones of mink, beaver, sable and the deep earth browns and reddish browns star in all the houses.

BLUES AND GREENS

Blues and greens will also be important, favoring the bright eye-electric blue, and off-toned greens.

Old favorites among dress fabrics have reappeared in a new guise. Lesur features an entire new color range of flannels, in both solid toned and patterned weaves and plaids.

Wool jerseys take on added importance in dress and suit weights in new tight weaves, often difficult to distinguish from worsteds or crepes.

A new effect in light weight alpacas and woollen dress materials noted in "tapestry wools", featured in stitched weaves which resemble aubusson tapestries. New cut velvets promise to be one of the stars of the dress circle.

In formal fabrics, there are trends towards the directoire and victorian eras. Petillualt goes back to the 1830s for muted off-toned shades of old rose, wine, misty blues and greens in irridescent changeable silks.

One of the loveliest evening fabrics is petillault's white taffeta, worked in broad panels of dull and shiny stripes. Cross woven, above the border, are two bands of peacock blue and American beauty, forming a type of gigantic plaid out over a square yard of material.

Cocktail suit and evening fabrics suggest metallic reflections. The all-over glittering Christmas tree look of last winter is out. Failles, bengalines, alpacas and silk twills and faccones may all be woven with a back thread in silver or gold or bronze or tarnished threads. But the final effect is always retrained.

FINE HARBOR

Milford Haven in South Wales is said to be the finest natural harbor in Britain, running 17 miles inland.

New Toni
WITH PRICELESS PINK LOTION
Holds the set longer than any other permanent!

Which Twin's Toni was set a week ago—and which was set today?

Yes, both twins have Toni's. Julia Lacy, on the left, had hers set just before this picture was taken—Cynthia, on the right, had her Toni set one whole week before and never re-set it! You can't tell the difference. Here's proof that Priceless Pink Lotion gives a wave that stays lovely without re-setting!

You'll forget all other ideas about permanents the first time you use New Toni with Priceless Pink Lotion. For the new Toni process is faster, gives a wave with the vibrant spring and silky-softness of a natural wave. Yes, and it holds the set longer than any other permanent you've ever had!

Never a lotion so wonderful! You've never used anything like Toni's new Priceless Pink Lotion! It curls more completely—yet is kinder to your hair! And that means a lovelier, livelier wave for you. Less re-setting. New freedom from the nightly chore of pin curls.

Never a neutralizer so fast! You save 20 minutes with the new Permafix method of neutralizing. And because Permafix neutralizes more thoroughly, it "locks in" your Toni wave so it can't come out. New Toni means all day—every day beauty for you month after month.

Never a guarantee so complete! If you don't say your new Toni looks lovelier and holds the set longer than any other permanent you've ever had, the Toni Company will cheerfully refund your money. So try New Toni—and you be the judge.

Ask for the New Toni at any cosmetic counter.

6—In Memoriam

LUCANO—In loving memory of Mrs. Lucy Lucano, who passed away July 13, 1939.
A loving smile, a heart of gold,
Dearest mother this world could hold.
'Tis sad but true,
I wonder why,
The best are always first to die.
She never failed to do her best,
Her heart was true and tender,
She toiled too hard for those she loved
Then left them to remember.
—Ever remembered by Michael, Joseph and Marcelle and family.

THEOBALD—In loving memory of Teddy Theobald, who passed away July 14, 1951.
He was a flower too sweet for earth.
Sent here but for a while,
God marked him when He gave him birth,
And took him with a smile.
—Ever remembered by Mother, Dad and Billy.

THEOBALD—In loving memory of Baby Teddy, who passed away July 14, 1951.
Sweet little flower of heavenly birth,
He was too fair to bloom on earth.
—Ever remembered by Uncle Ron and Aunt Loretta.

Obituaries

GEORGE STOCKDALE

George Stockdale, 50, a taxi operator for some years in Orillia, died Saturday in hospital here after an illness of about three months.

Born and educated in Orillia, he spent almost all of his life there. Surviving are his widow, the former Pearl Adeline Byers, and a son, Mervin, of Orillia.

Funeral service will be held Tuesday at the Doolittle Funeral Home, Orillia, and burial will be in St. James' cemetery there.

Mr. Stockdale had a number of relatives in the Peterborough district.

MRS. JAMES HENRY CARR

Mrs. James Henry Carr, the former Alice Coleman, 84, 258 Mark St., died Sunday following a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Carr was born in Tivetshall, Norwich, England, daughter of the late John Coleman and Mary Howlett, and has lived in Peterborough for the past 45 years, coming here from England.

She was an adherent of George St. United Church.

She leaves two sons, James Harold and William John Carr, both of Peterborough.

The funeral will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. from the Comstock funeral home. The Rev. W. S. Crone of the Church of the Open Bible will conduct the service. Burial will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

MRS. ADELAIDE GOODWIN

A resident of Peterborough for the past 40 years, Mrs. Adelaide Mary Goodwin died Sunday at 335 Mark St., where she has been living with her daughter, Mrs. J. Smith. Mrs. Goodwin, in her 90th year, had been ill for about a year.

She was born in London, England, and educated there, later moving to Liverpool where she lived before coming to Canada. Mrs. Goodwin was a member of Mark St. United Church.

Surviving are four daughters: Mrs. J. Smith (Nellie), Mrs. Walter Townsend (Marjorie), Mrs. Bert Finley (Queenie), and Mrs. D. MacKirdy (Doris), all of Peterborough. One son, Thomas, died in the First World War. There are as well eight grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Funeral service will be held Wednesday at the Kaye funeral home, with the Rev. B. S. Morwood officiating, assisted by the Rev. E. W. Rowland. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

MRS. LORENE ALLISON

Mrs. Lorene Allison, 65, 593 Bethune St., died Sunday in hospital after a long illness. A resident of Peterborough for the past 17 years, she was born in Havelock, and lived in Perth before coming here.

A daughter of the late W. J. Chapman and Kathleen Walroth, she was educated at Havelock, and was a member of George St. United Church, belonging to the Women's Missionary Society, Women's Auxiliary and Bowling Club of that church.

Surviving are her husband, William James Allison, one daughter, Doris McGarrity, Peterborough, two brothers, Harold Chapman of Edmonton, Jack Chapman of Toronto, and three sisters, Mrs. G. A. Noonan (Helen) of Westport, Mrs. G. F. Clark (Margaret), and Mrs. D. W. Lang (Marion) both of Toronto.

Funeral service will be conducted Wednesday at the Belleghem funeral home by the Rev. Dr. D. Bruce Gordon of Trinity United Church and burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

New Car Stocks Continue To Dwindle

DETROIT (AP)—Stocks of new automobiles continue to dwindle as the car industry begins to feel the full impact of the steel shortage.

More than a few dealers are predicting there will be few, if any, new cars in dealer showrooms by Aug. 1. In manufacturing sources it is being said July production will be the lowest month's output in four years.

Yet, there still is a chance for the production of more than 2,000,000 cars in the year's final half—if steel again starts to flow in full volume from mill to auto factory.

The trade paper Automotive News in its current issue reports that new cars in dealers' hands and en route from the factory July 1, numbered only 276,725 compared with 302,036 a month earlier, and 448,306 july 1, 1951.

New car inventories now would be even lower, dealers reported, but for the fact June sales were made in accordance with some of the strictest trading policies in recent months. This means there have been no price discounts and no high trade-in allowances

Dealers handling popular low-priced lines, Automotive News said, reported they were "turning down deals that did not involve a full profit on the new car and a reasonable profit on the trade-in."

Report Some Progress In Textile Talks

MONTREAL (CP)—Officials of Canadian Cottons Ltd., said today that "some progress" has been made in contract negotiations with the Textile Workers Union of America (C.C.L.-C.I.O.), representing the company's 4,000 workers in plants at Hamilton and Cornwall, Ont., and Marysville and Milltown, N.B.

Company officials said they and union representatives have agreed not to elaborate until Thursday on the talks, which were held here last week.

Contract negotiations have been going on for some time and company and union officials are awaiting an Ontario conciliation board report.

Truman Has Virus Confined To Bed

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman suffered a mild virus infection today and had to cancel all his appointments.

He stayed in his residential quarters and was in bed much of the time but aides said he kept himself busy working on a number of congressional bills requiring his action.

Truman's press secretary, Joseph Short, said the President "probably has some slight temperature." Maj. Gen. Wallace H. Graham, presidential physician, directed Truman to slow down yesterday when he became indisposed.

Plan New Negotiations Between Egypt, Britain

CAIRO (Reuters)—Interior Minister Mohammed Hashem today said Egypt will soon start negotiations with Britain with a redefined policy towards Anglo-Egyptian relations, the western powers and Middle East regional defences.

Negotiations probably will have to wait, however, until after Premier Sirry Pasha has talked next week with El Sayed ABdel Rahman El Mahdi, leader of the Sudanese Independence party.

El Mahdi may hold the key to a solution of the Anglo-Egyptian dispute over the Sudan.

Egypt wants the Sudan added to Egypt under King Farouk as "King of Egypt and the Sudan." Britain holds out for self-determination for the territory.

Finds Austerity Still In England On Visit To Family

The small Ontario cheese which Mrs. Mabel Smith of the Examiner included in a box of groceries which she took to relatives in England received more flattering and welcoming attention than all the other details of the large parcel.

"The cheese of their rationing just doesn't compare at all with ours," Mrs. Smith said. "And you know how the English people like cheese."

In the smaller county towns and villages, the evidences of Britain's continuing austerity are not so noticeable as in the large centres. Nearer to the land and its agriculture there appeared to be ample food. But, it is quite another story in London and other big cities. You have to queue up for meat, and when you move into the store you take what you get. There is no such a thing as picking and choosing, looking over the supply to suit your wishes and fancy.

"They told me most of it is mutton or lamb. What you get is your week's ration, and it may be all gone in one meal."

"But, the English countryside down in Kent and Sussex is beautiful. I missed the early flowers, but the rhodoendrons were still in bloom, and almost every home had its garden, even the humblest, with roses in profusion."

Mrs. Smith visited her mother and sister at Barnhurst in Kent, and her brother at Horsham in Sussex, and got about considerably elsewhere.

"I thought the people generally were well dressed. Stores are stocked with fine clothing, but the English wage is not so high as here. There is also a scarcity of jobs. A relative of mine at Nottingham had to take my letter to his boss in order to get off work on a Saturday morning."

Swimming in the sea at Bognar and Brighton was relief from the hot weather during part of Mrs. Smith's stay in England. Heat was excessive.

"The people are evidently keenly conscious of the advantages of the dollar currency. On board over, they were delighted to change our Canadian money into sterling, but on the way back they were holding on to it. You had to change the English money into Canadian at Quebec."

Ruest Moved Back To Jail

QUEBEC (CP)—Genereux Ruest, in hospital since June 24 with a liver condition, has been removed to Quebec jail where he is awaiting transfer to Montreal Bordeaux jail for his scheduled hanging July 24 as the maker of a time-bomb that destroyed an airliner Sept. 9, 1949.

Can Operate For Month Despite Strike

HAMILTON (CP)—Several Hamilton steel companies' officials said today that the steel strike in the United States would not affect them too greatly for at least a month, and many plants who are sources felt that they might not be affected at all.

A few steelmen declined to comment on their firms' positions, because they felt the whole situation would "break" soon.

A National Steel Car spokesman said that their production would not be affected too greatly for the next month, but after that it would be "touch and go." National Steel Car obtains steel from both Canadian and American sources but so far there had been only occasional hold-ups on the odd item.

A Burlington steel official felt that his firm would not be affected to any great extent, as they rely largely on Canadian supplies. Lysaght's Canada Limited can also carry on as usual with Canadian steel.

The Stanley Works of Canada, which relies on a "fair amount of American steel" felt that there would be no cause for alarm or curtailment of production for "another four or five weeks."

Another plant which relies on American steel, Canadian Drawn Steel, is counting on its large inventories to tide it over for a while. A spokesman for the firm said that the situation was critical in that the total amount of steel received from the United States will be greatly reduced this year.

Ask 8 Officials Dismissed From Posts

BONN, Germany (AP)—A special parliamentary committee recommended today that two high officials in West Germany's new Foreign Office be dismissed immediately and six others employed only in limited capacity.

The committee, appointed to study charges that the office is packed with Nazis who served Hitler, said the eight officials endanger the democratic government of the Bonn republic.

The committee said that employment of Werner von Bargen and Herbert Dittmann was "intolerable" and that they should be fired. Both Bargen and Dittmann were suspended by Chancellor Konrad Adenauer before the committee made its report.

Bargen, 54, was a leading member of the legal department of the Foreign Office and Dittman, 48, was director of personnel.

CHARGE ACTIVE NAZIS

Bargen represented the Nazi Foreign Office at German military headquarters in Belgium during the war. He was accused of having known about the deportation of Belgian Jews and of doing nothing to prevent it.

The committee said that Dittmann was an active Nazi who took no part in any resistance movement against Hitler.

The committee said it has investigated 21 major cases in the Foreign Office.

The committee cleared nine of the accused. In the four remaining cases it made no specific recommendations because one had already been dismissed, one had quit, one had been pensioned and the fourth was near retirement age.

Say 46 Yachts Becalmed In Race

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (AP)—A fleet of 46 yachts, paced by the 65-foot cutter Orient, was practically becalmed today some 75 miles from the finish line of the 28th annual Port Huron to Mackinac race.

Officials of the Bayview Yacht Club said the lack of a strong wind could mean that no craft would cross the finish line of the 235-mile race until late tonight or early tomorrow. A three-mile-an-hour southwesterly breeze blew intermittently, but did little towards getting the fleet home.

The Orient, owned by Paul Smiley of Detroit, held a 15-mile lead over Vixen, a 55-foot yawl sailing out of Green Bay, Wis. Copperhead, Fred Seyfang's 48-foot sloop out of Toledo and Marita, Charles Burbach's 40-foot sloop out of Chicago and Detroit, were 35 miles back of Orient.

Orient, the pre-race favorite and a scratch boat, would have to figure an estimated 10 miles ahead of the field to assure herself Class A cruising honors.

Will Give Jets To Tito In Next Year

BLED, Yugoslavia (AP)—High-ranking United States army officials informed Premier Tito yesterday that Yugoslavia can count on greatly strengthened military aid, including jet planes, tanks and heavy artilery, during the next 12 months.

The information was turned over to Tito at his villa in Bled, this country's summer diplomatic capital, at a dinner.

The decision to strengthen the U.S. military aid program to Yugoslavia came after a check-up of Tito's military establishments and troops and the use to which a limited amount of U.S. equipment already delivered has been put.

In general terms the reports described the conditions, training and morale of Yugoslav troops are excellent, their equipment in small arms as adequate and their greatest needs as planes and heavy armor.

Of particular importance was the decision to supply Yugoslavia's patchwork air force with modern jet planes. Of perhaps equal importance, the U.S. military delegation also told Tito that U.S. dollars will be used to strengthen Yugoslavia's own munitions industry and enable it to produce arms and ammunition which it now must import from the west.

Statue Site Proves Problem

LONDON — (CP). — A problem has developed over the selection of a suitable London site for the proposed statue of King George VI. A committee has discovered that the city already is crowded with statues and good locations for such memorials are at a premium.

Statues of three earlier sovereigns are spread over a square mile of Central London.

It has been suggested, however, that the statue of the Queen's father should stand on one of the green spaces at the head of the Mall, just off Trafalgar Square. The statue would then look towards Buckingham Palace.

A public appeal for funds for the memorial is expected to be launched soon.

Wins Three Titles

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Harold Burrows, Charlottesville, Va., ace, walked off with three titles in the Eastern Canada tennis championships at Quebec and Mrs. Hanna Sladek, the Czech now playing out of Montreal, won two.

Biggest prize for top-seeded Burrows was the singles crown he won yesterday over Lorne Main, Vancouver and Montreal, 6-4, 1-6, 6-2, 7-5.

Saturday night, he teamed with Mrs. Sladek to defeat Toronto's Mrs. Louise Brown and Don Platt in mixed doubles 6-3, 6-1.

Yesterday, in men's doubles, he paired with a veteran Canadian Davis Cup player, Henri Rochon of Montreal, to walk over Robert Bedard, Sherbrooke, Que., and Jack Spencer, Montreal, 6-0, 6-0, 6-0.

Mrs. Sladek won her singles championship from Mrs. Brown 6-2, 6-2.

Mrs. Brown avenged her singles defeat by teaming with fellow-Torontian Dorothy Hurst to win the women's doubles title over Mrs. Sladek and Ruth Porter, Montreal, 8-6, 3-6, 6-0.

Canada Downs Italy 68-57 In Cage Tourney

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HELSINKI (CP) — Canada defeated Italy 68-57 today in the preliminary Olympic basketball tournament but the Canadians were given a big scare.

Leading 35-25 in the first half, the Canadians almost threw this one away by erratic shooting. This was pointed up by 17 missed foul shots—eight in the first half and nine in the second.

Canda led 45-32 early in the second half before the Italians took command. Less than seven minutes of the game remained when Italy had chopped the lead down to 51-49 and the Canadians looked disorganized.

REGAIN SHOOTING EYES

Bob Phipps, Bill Pataky and Bob Pickell recovered their shooting eyes and within two minutes sent Canada into a 10-point lead.

The Canadians froze the ball near the end to assure victory. They meet Romania Tuesday morning.

The Dominion's all-star squad, made up mostly of players from the Tillsonburg, Livingstons, are in the midst of a double-elimination round among the lesser lights in the Olympic games.

Purpose of the round is to decide which six teams will join the top six squads, plus Argentina, 1950 world champions, Russia and Czechoslovakia, the two best teams in the 1951 European championships, and host country Finland. Losing teams have a second chance to stay in the running.

NINTH IN 1948

Canada finished in ninth place at the 1948 Olympic games in London.

Pickel was Canada's big scorer in today's match with 13 points.

Others were Woody Campbell, 11 all in the first half, Phibbs, 11, Bob Simpson, 8, Harry Wade, 8, Bill Coulthard, 6, Pataky, 5, Carl Ridd, 3, George Wearing, 3.

Canada's shooting was woefully weak and must be sharpened up considerably if the Dominion is to make a decent showing.

McKenley Plans To Try Dash

HELSINKI (AP) — The 100-metre dash in the 1952 Olympic track and field Games is so wide open that Herb McKenley, the Jamaica 400-metre star, says he thinks he can win it.

Herb, who is now 30 and no longer the great runner who set the world quarter-mile record of 46 seconds flat in 1948, had finished eating at the Olympic village last night when he began toying with the idea.

"I think I will pratice starts and if I can get out of the hole quickly enough, I'll run the 100 as well as the 400," said Herb who is entered in the 200 as well. "I think I can run 10.4 or 10.5, and that's enough to win."

McKenley, who ran the 100 in 10.3 seconds three years ago, picked Emanuel McDonald Bailey of Great Britain to win here — if Herb doesn't compete, that is.

Syracuse Clubs Toronto In Twin Bill

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The International League went on a home-run spree yesterday as batters in three games slammed 20 baseballs over the fences.

Nine were lofted over the fences at Toronto as Syracuse Chiefs beat the Leafs 2-1 and 10-3.

Another nine were clouted as Buffalo Bisons and Rochester Red Wings split a doubleheader; the Bisons taking the opener 7-6 and dropping the second 7-5.

The other two homers were hit as Ottawa Athletics beat Baltimore Orioles 9-1.

ROYALS FOUR UP

The only games that lacked four-baggers were the 3-1 and 8-0 victories that the league-leading Montreal Royals scored over Springfield Cubs.

The sweep by the Royals enabled them to move four full games ahead of Rochester. The Royals broke a 1-1 tie in the seventh inning of the opener as Mal Mallete picked up the win, and then got going early in the second game to let Tom Lasorda coast to victory.

Rochester rallied to go ahead in both the ninth and 10th innings of the first game with Buffalo but lost on an error by Fred McAlister in the bottom of the 10th. Starting Wing pitcher Ellis Deal hit a pair of homers and teammates Rip Pepulski and McAlister each had one in the losing cause.

But in the nightcap Ray Jablonski hit his 14th and Pete Riggan also connected to offset Bison four-masters by Damon Phillips and Eddie Kazak.

LEAFS LOSE TWO

The home run was the only scoring weapon Toronto had, and it wasn't enough. In the opener, Ed Stevens' solo belt was doubled by both Bill Drescher and Hank Workman. In the second game, Paul Lehner and Marv Rickert slammed four-baggers, but so did Johnny Blatnik, Carden Gillenwater and Fenton Mole for the Chiefs. Mole hit two.

Tom Kirk and Bob Moscovich were the out-of-the-park boys for Ottawa as the tailenders cooled off red-hot Baltimore.

In Saturday's four singles games, Buffalo beat Rochester 10-4, Baltimore defeated Ottawa 3-1, Toronto edged Syracuse 6-5 and Springfield defeated Montreal 4-3.

MARLENE DEFENDS TITLE

Marlene Stewart, Canadian women's open and closed golf champion, defended her Lookout Point Golf Club women's title at Fonthill yesterday by defeating Ann Sharpe, 4 and 3. Miss Stewart was three under par and conceded only three holes. She shot a 38 for the first nine and 25 on the first six of her final round.

Czech Woman Singles Champ

QUEBEC (CP)—Mrs. Hanna Sladek, a tiny Czechoslovakian blonde who slipped under the Iron Curtain two years ago to play tennis in a free world, emerged from the Eastern Canada tennis championships yesterday a tired and slightly-ill girl, but Canada's No. 1 women's singles player.

Suffering from an upset stomach and the heat wave which lasted for most of the week-long tournament, Mrs. Sladek lost out in the doubles title with Mrs. Ruth Porter, Montreal, against Mrs. Louise Brown and Dorothy Hurst, Toronto, but not before she had won the women's singles and mixed doubles crowns.

The 23-year-old freckled-faced tennis star escaped two years ago from Czechoslovakia with her husband and father who is the famous Czech Davis Cupper Aton Vozeluh.

Voseluh nursed his daughter from a promising teen-age star to No. 1 spot in Czech tennis While awaiting entry to Canada last year, she won the Berlin tennis tournament and first rank in German play.

She arrived in Montreal six months ago and took a drafting job in an architect's office.

She is Ontario women's singles champ, Quebec province title-holder and now Eastern Canadian champion.

2 Lawyers Get $81,575 In Surprise Win

CHICAGO (AP)—Two Knoxville, Tenn., lawyers were enriched by $81,575 by the surprise victory Saturday of their Mr. Good in the $108,985 Arlington Futurity before a crowd of 24,716 at Arlington Park.

Jockey Douglas Dodson, a veteran of many Stakes victories, brought the two-year-old son of Easy Mon and Grim and Gay across the finish line three lengths ahead of Mr. Paradise, owned by Mrs. Ada Rice of Chicago and ridden by Eddie Arcaro.

The King Ranch's horse, Kamehameha, was third in the 15-horse field.

Mr. Good sprinted the six furlongs in 1:11 4-5. The Knoxville lawyers, Karl L. Martins and W.N. McKinney, formed a partnership in the thoroughbred racing business only this year and paid $7,500 for Mr. Good at a yearling sale at Keeneland.

The Arlington Futurity was Mr. Good's third victory in five starts. His total earnings of $85,675 makes him the top money-winning two-year-old in the United States.

How To Keep Cool

Go Tropical In Heat Spell

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP)—In a heat wave, one tip for keeping cool is to go tropical.

That means plenty of fruit and vegetables, light and loose clothing, a sun helmet if you go out at noon, an afternoon siesta if you can convince your boss.

Another tip—stay mentally cool. The hints on health and coolness in summertime are receipted by Dr. Morris Fishbein of Chicago, well-known physician and author. There are 14 points in this summertime recipe:

1. Don't overwork.
2. Don't overplay.
3. Don't overeat.
4. Avoid fats and an excess of sugars and starches.
5. Get plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables. Vegetables and fruits supply minerals and essential salts. We need more of them in summer because we lose salts in perspiration. Fruit should be eaten at least once and preferably twice a day. Salt lost in perspiration also can be replaced by using more salt on foods, or taking salt tablets.
6. Avoid food that is not properly refrigerated. Don't eat anything that carries the slightest suspicion of being spoiled.
7. Avoid an excess of alcoholic drinks.
8. Drink plenty of cool water but take iced drinks in moderation.
9. Don't drink water if you are not sure about the safety of the source of supply.
10. Wear light, loose clothes.
11. Take a noontime nap, or rest during the day as much as possible.
12. Wear a helmet or hat of porous material if you work in the sun.
13. Avoid over-exposure to the direct rays of the sun.
14. Don't worry—and don't let people get your goat.

For cooling down, physiologists advise not a cold shower but lolling for 20 minutes or more in a tepid bath. That gets the heat out of the deep tissues of the body, and you stay cooled off longer.

For comfortable sleeping in the hottest weather, a good bet is your basement. Toss a mattress on the cellar floor. Chances are you'll need a light blanket before the night is over.

No. 1 Communist In Hungary Soon To Be Put On Purge List

VIENNA (Reuters)—Matyas Rakosi, Moscow-trained No. 1 Communist leader in Hungary, is the new 'high man' on the Kremlin's purge list, say experienced observers.

These observers maintain that the Kremlin has decided, for its own reasons, to purge the Moscow-trained "international" school of Red leaders and replace them with "national" figures.

"Now," they said, "the time has come when the Kremlin wants to save the last vestiges of popularity of its regimes in the Iron Curtain lands by making scapegoats of the 'international elements,' pandering to the relics of anti-Semitism left over by Nazism in these parts. . .

"Thus, for example, the dissatisfaction of the Czechoslovak people with short rations, lack of consumption goods, long hours and high prices had to be assuaged by the jettisoning of Rudolf Slansky, deputy prime minister, head of the economic organization of the country, confidential agent of the Kremlin in Czechoslovakia and a group of his associates, many of whom were Jews."

SACRIFICE STOOGES

In every one of the satellite lands, the Reds have had to sacrifice one deputy premier as a Titoist, have had to frame great "treason trials" and to condemn old and loyal Communist leaders as arch-traitors and long-time spies and agents of the "imperialist west," the observers say.

As in Czechoslovakia and Romania, the workers in Hungary are getting tired of long hours, short rations, and the tyranny of the state security police.

Some one will have to be thrown to the wolves. If the pattern in other Iron Curtain lands means anything, they ask who would be more suitable than Matyas Rakosi, deputy prime minister, agent of the Kremlin in Hungary, and leader of the Communist party?

Girl Disobeys Order To Wed

TOKYO (Reuters)—A Japanese woman who refused an "arranged marriage" because she wanted to marry for love alleged today she was drugged and kidnapped into a private lunatic asylum by her "feudal father and jealous stepmother."

One of Japan's leading lawyers, Tatsuji Fuse, said he will plead her case as an instance of the importance of defending basic human rights in Japan. He is suing for $85,000 damages.

Masayo Arai is only a year younger than her 38-year-old stepmother Mitsu, who when marrying 72-year-old Teitaro Arai is alleged to have insisted that no woman but herself be permitted to live in the house.

Masayo says her father promised her a substantial allowance if she would agree to an arranged marriage. She refused.

SOUGHT COURT ORDER

The father tried to get a court to order that she get married. But the court refused and advised the daughter to use Japan's new laws to secure her share of the family property before leaving home.

Masayo alleges her father and stepmother drugged her and had her carried off to an asylum in May 1951. She claims she was held four months before she got word out to friends, who had police free her.

A Tokyo court is hearing charges laid by police against the father and stepmother. The Asylum authorities have been charged with violating the Japanese medical code.

The courts have accepted Masayo's suit but have not fixed a date for the hearing.

Christmas Presents

LONDON (Reuters)—Christmas presents are already on their way from Britain to children living in isolated parts of Labrador and Newfoundland. Many of the presents are from children in Britain.

Director Does Stunts First, Actors Follow

By JACK QUIGG

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"I never ask an actor to do anything I wouldn't do," says director Budd Boetticher.

Boetticher is an athletic young fellow with red hair, bull-shoulders and bulging biceps who will do practically anything. By setting the example, he has been able to lure some of film-land's top leading men into risking their necks.

After Boetticher tried it first, Scott Brady climbed aboard a bucking Brahma bull for the ride of his life; Anthony Quinn, who Boetticher says suffers from claustrophobia, emoted from a diving suit for an underwater earthquake scene; Jeff Chandler drove a truck through a raging oil fire; Robert Stack fought a bull.

RIDE THE PRIDE

The secret of luring actors into action, he says, is playing on their egos.

"I say 'Let's do it this way,' then I go ahead and do it. After that, their pride won't let them back down.

"An actor should do stunts that it is natural for him to do. . .In close-ups, there is no substitute for the actor himself."

Here is an example of how Boetticher works.

A scene for "Seminole," required a cannon and a wagon to sink from sight in quicksand. It was filmed by rigging a hydraulic platform under water in a tank. The water surface was covered by eight inches of ground cork.

As cameras ground, Rock Hudson and James Best, the latter wounded and lashed to the wagon, slowly sank beneath the surface.

At this point many directors would have yelled "cut." Boetticher kept the cameras rolling. Working in the water, with the pitching platform threatening to overturn the cannon on him, Hudson freed Best. After 45 seconds, Hudson broke to the surface, Best in his arms.

Before trying the scene, Boetticher sputtered through the action himself. He had a professional diver underwater during the actual filming.

Sacrament Is Subject Of Lesson Sermon

"Sacrament" was the subject of the Lesson Sermon which was read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, including First Church of Christ, Scientist, Peterborough, on Sunday. The Golden Text was "What shall I render unto the Lord for all his benefits towards me? I will take the cup of salvation, and call upon the name of the Lord."—(Psalms 116:12, 13).

Selections from the Bible included the following from Matthew 5:8, "Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God."

Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook, included the following, "Willingness to become as a little child and to leave the old for the new, renders thought receptive of the advanced idea. Gladness to leave the false landmarks and joy to see them disappear,—this disposition helps to precipitate the ultimate harmony. The purification of sense and self is a proof of progress."

That's Different

LONDON (CP)—A national insurance medical board said in a report that a man was suffering from a "bilateral hallux valgus." The man's baffled and worried wife asked what it meant. "In plain language, a two-sided bunion," was the reply.

Boy's Foot Severed

STRATFORD (CP)—Three-year-old Stewart Dow had his left foot severed just above the ankle Saturday when he became entangled in a hay mower on the farm of his father, Elmer Dow, of nearby Cromart. The boy was watching his father clear the mower of an obstruction. Unknown to Mr. Dow, his son ran into the machine as he was starting it in operation again.

ANYONE HOME?—This dairy truck rolled down a hill at Providence, R.I., and crashed into the second story of a frame house. Police quoted the driver as saying he had his brakes on and the truck's wheels pulled to the curb. How the vehicle was able to roll down the hill no one seemed to know.

Democrats To Grapple With Candidate Scramble

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Democrats take over the centre of the political stage this week in a wide-open scramble to pick a man to beat Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The "ins," aiming at a sixth straight Presidential victory, concede that they face the hottest election battle in 20 years as they head for their own nominating convention opening in Chicago July 21.

Unlike the Republican hassle, a two-man contest between Eisenhower and Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, the Democrats have candidates everywhere they look, with 20 names figuring in the race. Seven are avowed aspirants. The others figure as dark-horse possibilities.

Two big question marks hovering over the Democratic convention are these:

1. Will Governor Adlai Stevenson of Illinois be available for the Presidential nomination?

President Truman is reputed to favor Stevenson but some political bigwigs say Stevenson has been so coy about running that Truman may switch to Averell Harriman, Mutual Security Administrator, or someone else.

2. Will the convention write another strong civil-rights plank as it did in 1948 or compromise the issue with southerners threatening another revolt?

Truman says there will be no retreat on this question of equal treatment for whites and Negroes if he can help it. He won in 1948 without the solid south.

None of the 20 candidates has anywhere near the 616 majority needed for a nomination.

The latest Associated Press tabulation based on pledged votes and known first-ballot preferences shows Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee leading with 252. Senator Richard Russell of Georgia is second with 117½, exclusive of 18 in Mississippi and at least 22½ in Texas' 52-vote delegation which will be contested by rival factions. Harriman is third with 101½. Stevenson has 54, others 259½, and there are 417½ uncommitted and in dispute.

2 By-Elections Expected By November

OTTAWA (CP)—At least two federal by-elections probably will be held before the next session of Parliament opens Nov. 20.

Two Quebec seats—Outremont-St. Jean and Richelieu-Vercheres—are vacant.

The government has until Aug. 12 to announce a date for a by-election in Outremont-St. Jean, made vacant February last when Hon. Edouard Rinfret, Postmaster-General, was appointed to the Quebec bench.

The second vacancy occurred recently when Gerard Cournoyer resigned to run as a Liberal candidate in Richelieu constituency in the Quebec election of July 16.

Date for the Richelieu-Vercheres by-election does not have to be fixed until January, but the government has been running off by-elections in groups.

The date of a by-election must be fixed by the government within six months after a vacancy occurs.

The present standing in the Commons:

Liberals 182; Progressive Conservatives 49; C.C.F. 13; Social Credit 10; Independent Liberal 2; Independent 4; vacant 2; total 262.

A total of 28 by-elections have been held since the general election in 1949. The Liberals and Progressive Conservatives have each elected 13 members. Three of the Liberals ran as Independents or Independent Liberals and later officially were admitted to the party. The remaining two seats went to Independent Liberals.

Canada Shipping Radar Equipment To NATO Armies

By DOUGLAS HOW

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's three-year defence program has quietly passed a milestone. She has started to ship new equipment off her post-Korea assembly lines to help Atlantic Pact allies in the strengthening of Europe. The arms and equipment she has sent in the past have been things left over from the Second World War.

It was announced yesterday that the first of 300 secret new radar sets, a type to be used by the army in its anti-aircraft set-up, is due in Britain shortly, possibly today.

It came out of the Leaside, Ont., plant of Canadian Arsenals Ltd. a short time ago and was shipped to Britain aboard the Empress of Canada complete with the truck and large trailer which make it mobile.

FIRST OF MANY

The set is the forerunner of a variety of types of modern equipment and arms Canada has promised to send to allies in Europe at no charge as part of her share of the joint rebuilding of western military strength.

Officials say the flow of this new gear—including F-86 Sabre airframes, artillery howitzers, walkie-talkie wireless sets and the radar sets—won't really hit its stride until the fall.

On the basis of more than $600,000,000 so far voted by Parliament for this mutual-aid program, Canada has been sending weapons and gear she had in use or in stores when Korea came along—notably Second World War British-type arms for several infantry divisions as well as artillery pieces, mortars, grenades and other things.

The new radar sets are designed to replace a type which became familiar to Canadian soldiers in the last war. They were mobile sets which moved about from field to field, scanning the horizon for enemy aircraft.

The army has taken over some of the new sets itself for use in Canada and they will gradually usurp the previous type.

Small Tornado Near Chatham, $40,000 Damage

CHATHAM (CP)—A tiny tornado cut a narrow swath of destruction through southern Kent county last night. It left damage estimated at $40,000.

Winds of hurricane force toppled trees and tombstones and flattened a large barn in which 100 animals were trapped.

Forty cattle and 63 pigs were found in the wreckage of the barn, owned by Lawrence Kerr. Two pigs and a cow were killed.

Before rescue operations started, some pigs were feeding at the automatic feeder in the ruins.

High winds cut a swath about 100 yards wide along Indian Creek Road, uprooting trees and hydro poles. Hydro and telephone service to many points was cut.

Several tombstones in Maple Leaf cemetery were blown down.

LEVELLED TREES

The winds levelled trees, crops and power lines in Raleigh and Harwich townships although their speed reached only 10 miles an hour in Chatham itself. The heaviest part of the wheat harvest had already been gathered but some fields with the ripened crop were flattened.

One witness said the storm made a noise "like a dozen freight trains." Ten trees were knocked down in Maple Leaf cemetary alone.

The district forecaster at Toronto today termed the storm a little tornado and said winds up to 100 miles an hour probably were present to do the damage reported.

Small Plane Flies Atlantic

NORTH LUFFENHAM, Rutland, England (CP)—Flt.-Lt. W. J. Watson and FO. Arthur Titus, both of Ottawa, arrived in their twin-engined R.C.A.F. Beechcraft "Expeditor" at noon today.

It was the first R.C.A.F. Atlantic crossing in that type of plane and probably the first crossing for anyone in an Expeditor.

The veteran pilots left Ottawa Sunday, and stopped at Goose Bay, Labrador, Greenland and Iceland en route to No. 1 fighter wing at North Luffenham.

They jammed available space with extra petrol as the normal radius of the ship is 600 miles. The ocean hops were about 775 miles each.

The Beechcraft Expeditor is a five-passenger plane and will be used to transport airmen throughout Europe.

Planes Hit Targets In Pyongyang Area

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—United Nations planes today battered Communist targets near the North Korean capital of Pyongyang and along the western front.

Fighter-bombers hit a locomotive repair shop and cement factory east of Pyongyang. Pilots said they also smashed two buildings.

Military targets in Pyongyang were blasted heavily in giant raids last week.

Ground fighting lapsed into routine patrol skirmishes.

A United States Eighth Army staff officer said that in four days of hill fighting on the east coast the Reds have lost an estimated 327 killed and 265 wounded U.N. troops held control of the contested heights.

U.S. Liner Breaks Second Record

NEW YORK (AP)—The liner United States easily broke the westward speed record across the North Atlantic yesterday and came home as queen of the seas.

For the first time in 100 years, she brought to the U.S. the mythical blue ribbon—emblem of speed supremacy along the world's commercial sea lanes.

The United States beat the British liner Queen Mary's 14-year westward record on her maiden voyage by nine hours and 36 minutes. She clipped 10 hours off the Mary's eastward record earlier this month.

Knifing through calm seas at an average 34.51 knots, the 53,000-ton United States slid past Ambrose Lightship at 4:29 p.m. EDT, three days, 12 hours and 12 minutes from England.

On the eastward passage to Europe, the United States made it in three days, 10 hours and 40 minutes. The Queen Mary's best time 14 years ago was three days, 20 hours and 42 minutes.

Say Stabbing Wounds Self-Inflicted

KINGSTON (CP)—Dr. M.J. Morison, Frontenac county coroner, said today that William Calhoun, 30, of Toronto, found stabbed to death here yesterday, died from self-inflicted chest wounds.

Dr. Morison made his announcement after receiving a report from Dr. W.D. Hay, pathologist, who examined the body. He released the body for burial.

Crown Attorney T.J. Rigney also said he is satisfied Calhoun killed himself.

Soldiers with mine detectors sought the weapon which inflicted 12 horizontal slashes on Calhoun's chest. It is believed to be a penknife.

Calhoun left Toronto by bus and arrived here Saturday on his way to Fredericton to take a teaching course. His body was found in a ditch.

Confirm New U.S. Plane Flies Twice Speed Of Sound

MOFFETT FIELD, Calif. (AP)—An apparently-inadvertent disclosure that the Skyrocket research plane has flown twice the speed of sound was confirmed here today.

It also was indicated that the Skyrocket carries refrigeration equipment enough to cool a theatre of 3,000 seats.

This would be necessary—in a plane flying more than 1,300 miles an hour—in order to keep the pilot from being roasted alive, and to keep the plane's metal from turning soft.

The United States Navy has announced officially only that Douglas test pilot Bill Bridgeman flew its D558-ii Skyrocket faster and higher than any other piloted aircraft has travelled. The details were kept secret. Last Saturday, however, an announcer said the Skyrocket had flown more than 1,300 miles an hour.

Officials of the national advisory committee for aeronautics said the disclosure of the speed was correct.

The altitude mark—"more than 79,000 feet"—was in an article in the aviation trade magazine Pegasus a month ago.

The Skyrocket was launched from a B—29 mother ship, at about 30,000 feet.

It has a turbo-jet engine with a rocket engine for the additional thrust to move into supersonic flight, and has wings swept back 35 degrees.

TONGUES OF ORANGE FLAME and clouds of billowing black smoke shot over 500 feet into the air late Saturday when two oil tankers in Martinez, Calif., caught fire while they were tied up at the Union Oil Co. docks. Fire first started aboard the tanker V. H. Kelly then rapidly spread to the tanker Lompock. In an attempt to prevent the flames from spreading and engulfing the entire dock area, the Lompock pulled out into the middle of the stream. Damage to the pier and the two tankers has been estimated at $5,000,000.

Plan First Seaway Hearings

OTTAWA (CP)—The International Joint Commission will hold a series of preliminary public hearings next week in a new step toward clearing the way for a start on the vast St. Lawrence seaway and power project. The commission's preliminary hearings will be on applications by the governments of Canada and the United States for approval of the construction and operation of hydro-electric power works on the International Rapids section of the St. Lawrence, and on the reference from the two governments relative to the levels of Lake Ontario. The hearings will be to decide on the scope of the investigation which the commission will make into the two joint applications. The main hearings on the application will not start until the fall.

Hearings on the St. Lawrence power development application will be held at Toronto, Ogdensburg, N. Y., and Cornwall, Ont., July 23, 24 and 25 respectively. Hearings on the lake levels reference will be held in Rochester, N. Y., July 22 and also at the July 23 meeting in Toronto.

The U. S. administration joined Canada in the joint reference to the commission on the two power-phase questions of the seaway project following action of the U. S. Congress in delaying approval for joint American-Canadian construction of the whole $850,000,000 undertaking.

The power phase, if approved by the commission, is to be undertaken by the Province of Ontario and some United States authority, possibly the State of New York. Commission approval is necessary because the power project would affect the levels of boundary waters.

The Canadian government has said it will undertake the navigational end of the seaway alone if the U. S. Congress does not approve joint construction. The navigational phase envisages a series of canals permitting Atlantic deep sea shipping to reach Great Lakes ports.

Peterborough Flier Star Of Jet Show In Belgium

BRUSSELS (CP)—R.C.A.F. airmen of 441 Silver Fox Jet Squadron paid tribute to Canadian veterans of two world wars yesterday when they saluted Mons and the Vimy Memorial in a fly past. Canada's jets were en route to North Luffenham, England, from the mammoth air force display of North Atlantic Treaty allies held in Brussels during the weekend. The squadron was based at Schieves Airdrome, 10 miles from Mons. As time didn't permit an official acceptance of Mons' invitation to be entertained, they did the next best thing.

The Belgian press gave rave notices to FO. Dean Kelly of Peterborough, who was the star turn at the big show Sunday. Kelly thrilled 200,000 spectators by diving from 42,000 feet to 20,000 feet, producing two "sonic booms" as he levelled off. He finished with eight upward rolls and flashed past the royal grandstand 50 feet off the ground at slightly less than 760 miles an hour. King Baudoin watched the show.

PRESENTED WITH MEDALS

Kelly and pilots of 441 Squadron were presented with medals and senior R.C.A.F. officers were given a plaque in commemoration of the three-day display.

Space given Canadians in yesterday's newspapers was second only to the N.A.T.O. show itself, with 14 countries participating. Canada supplied the punch of the three-day display.

Order Russ Embassy Stop Pamphlets

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department today ordered the Russian embassy to stop publishing and distributing pamphlets in the United States.

An announcement said the U.S. is suspending publication of a Russian-language magazine called "Amerika," which it had been distributing in Russia.

The twin actions were taken because the Russians were obstructing distribution of "Amerika" in the Soviet Union.

A spokesman said the magazine was so popular that stands sold out all copies within a few hours wherever the Russian government did not interfere.

"Amerika," is a lavishly-illustrated monthly patterned after Life magazine.

In a note addressed to the Russian foreign office, the state department asserted:

"As a result of this obstruction, the number of copies which can be presumed to reach the Soviet public has become so small as not to justify this effort of the. . . United States to. . . promote understanding between the two peoples."

Helicopters Try To Fly Ocean

WESTOVER AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (AP)—Two huge helicopters—pointed for Europe—took off at 9 a.m. EDT today in an attempt to make the first helicopter flight across the Atlantic.

The "flying windmills," heavily laden with supplies of gasoline, got off the ground after taxiing along runways instead of the customary straight-up take-off of helicopters.

The craft, accompanied by a C-54 service plane, are testing the feasibility of delivering helicopters by air to Europe. Their route will cover 4,000 miles to Weisbaden, Germany.

Six stops are planned—Presque Isle, Me.; Goose Bay, Labrador; Narsarssuak, Greenland; Keflavik, Iceland; Prestwick, Scotland and Manston, England.

Name 23 Prisoners In Riot Report

LANSING, Mich. (CP)—Twenty-three Jackson Prison desperadoes were named today in a state attorney-general's report charging kidnapping and wild immoral offenses during the April 20-24 prison riot.

High on the list are Earl Ward, the psychopathic "brains" of the riot and his number one enforcer, (Crazy) Jack Hyatt, a native of Leamington, Ont.

Attorney-General Frank Millard said he would recommend warrants accusing them of kidnapping guards and staging immoral orgies during the 4½ day riot.

Is Eisenhower To Be General Or Mister? Army Hints Title Nice Mark Of Courtesy

WASHINGTON (AP)—If you are wondering whether it's General or Mister Eisenhower now, you won't get much help from the United States Army.

An army spokesman said yesterday that formal action will be taken in a day or so to complete the resignation from the army of Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican presidential nominee. Eisenhower submitted his resignation last week.

When that formality is completed, the spokesman said, Eisenhower will be "beyond the purview of army regulations."

That means that the army will have nothing to say about Ike's title.

The spokesman noted, however, that "courtesy and respect for his accomplishments" would indicate that the use of General in referring to Eisenhower "would not be amiss."

Britain Told To Tolerate 'Red' Dean

Free Speech Carries Unpleasant Things Churchill Declares

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons today that the "Red" Dean of Canterbury has to be tolerated as part of the price of free speech.

"Free speech carries with it the evil of all the foolish, unpleasant, venomous things that are said, but on the whole we would rather lump them than do away with them," Churchill said.

Churchill was replying to demands for the establishment of a tribunal to investigate Dr. Hewlett Johnson, the 78-year-old Dean whose Communist sympathies have been getting him into continual hot water in Britain.

"The establishment of such a tribunal," Churchill replied, "would in the opinion of the government invest the activities of the Dean of Canterbury with an importance they do not deserve."

LIFETIME OF UPROARS

The biggest uproar in a lifetime of uproars was raised by the Dean last week when he returned from a visit to Red China and supported Communist charges that United States and the United Nations forces are using germ warfare in the Far East.

A group of U. S. Protestant clergymen arrived in England today and announced they had sent a message to the Queen urging that something be done about the Dean.

Dr. Johnson said last week he had compiled evidence of U.S. germ-warfare in the Far East. What he disclosed at a press conference—a 12-yard scroll signed by Chinese Church leaders and a story about chinese children picking up germs with chopsticks, drew ridicule in the British press and brought demands in Parliament that he be removed from office.

J.A. Langford-Holt, a Conservative member who had asked for the establishment of the tribunal to inquire into the Dean's conduct, said that no one wanted to prevent Dr. Johnson from expressing his views as a private individual but the Dean was going beyond that.

Charge Convicts Getting Liquor

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Winnipeg Tribune in a newspaper story says prisoners in Manitoba's Stony Mountain penitentiary can get all the liquor they want—if they have the cash.

Police reporter Bob Metcalfe reports that homebrew is made in the prison from potatoes, with subbing alcohol and brand liquors "imported" from the outside, usually by a guard who makes a handsome profit on the deal.

Reporting on a talk given at the prison by the Winnipeg branch of Alcoholics Anonymous, Metcalfe says he was told by two prisoners that they knew of one guard who "cleaned up" peddling liquor.

One prisoner, an A.A. member, slipped up, went on a drunk and had to be helped back on his feet by other A.A. prisoners, Metcalfe writes.

121 To Stand Trial

GUELPH (CP).— Col. Hedley Basher, deputy minister of reform institutions today reported that the 121 active leaders and followers in the Guelph reformatory riots of July 5 and 6 have been named to stand trial on various charges of violence in connection with the disturbances.

Gunman Vanishes In Woods Near Kenora

KENORA (CP)—Road blocks and an intensive search have failed to uncover a gunman who vanished into the woods near here Sunday after threatening to kill a police officer.

A companion, 41-year-old Joseph Vallee of Three Rivers, Que., was captured after a rough-and-tumble fight with Ontario Provincial Police Constable C. G. Flewelling.

Flewelling caught up with the two men near Kelmar, 27 miles west of here, while investigating reported break-ins at summer homes and camps. Vallee was captured, but the other man, armed with a shotgun and pistol, barricaded himself in a shack and threatened to shoot.

He fled into the bush when Flewelling returned his prisoner to another constable.

Police said the man would "shoot just as soon as look at you."

Planned Increases Total 16 Per Cent In 3-Way Move

OTTAWA (CP)—The railways today applied for a new series of freight-rate increases that would amount to more than $80,000,000 a year. Two proposed general increases totalling about 16 per cent would bring to 97 per cent the accumulation of post-war rate boosts on the types of traffic to which they apply. These make up about half the railways' $900,000,000-a-year freight movement. In a three-way move before the Board of Transport Commissioners, they asked:

1. An immediate general increase of seven per cent.

2. A further—but not necessarily immediate—hoist of nine per cent.

3. An increase in rates on grain and grain products moving in the west for domestic consumption, bringing them up to Ontario-Quebec levels. This would not affect the statutory "Crow's Nest Pass" rates on export grain traffic in the west.

The board set Sept. 22 for hearing on the seven per cent application. No date was set for hearing on the nine per cent case.

COAL, COKE INCREASES

Under the two general-increase proposals, coal and coke would be exempted from the percentage boost but under each of the two sections of the application would be subject to increases of between 10 and 20 cents a ton.

Along with the application, the Railway Association of Canada served notice that the carriers will seek further increases if current wage demands of their unions result in higher operating expenses.

The unions representing 125,000 non-operating employees —those who do not operate the trains—are asking a general wage increase of 45 cents an hour and other concessions. The companies have estimated these would cost $150,000,000 a year up.

ON OPERATING COSTS

Without taking into account the prospect of higher wage costs in that direction, the railways based the seven-per-cent application on other increased operating costs including those of materials and of wage increases obtained this year by other groups of employees including locomotive engineers.

They noted specifically that prices of ties and steel had gone up. The application suggested, too, that certain changes in the character of freight traffic might affect earnings this year.

DROP IN NET

The effect of the new conditions, the application said, was that the Canadian Pacific Railway—used by the board as the "yardstick" in rate making—would suffer a drop in its net earnings below the level assigned it under a formula worked out by the board.

PLANNED INCREASES

Middle East Countries Vie To Get Schacht

CAIRO (AP)—Hitler's financial expert Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, was reported in considerable demand today in at least two hard up countries of the Middle East.

The independent Cairo newspaper Al Akhbar said the one-time wizard of the German Nazi economic machine will be invited to try his skill on Egypt's sagging financial position.

The Tehran newspaper Etelaat reported last night that Schacht has accepted an invitation from Premier Mohammed Mossadegh to help solve near-bankrupt Iran's economic dificulties.

There was no official confirmation of either report.

Schacht recently opened a private bank in Hamburg, Germany. Last summer he went to Indonesia to counsel that new republic on financial problems.

Red Prisoners Wave Goodbye To Canadians

SOMEWHERE IN KOREA (AP) — A Canadian company commander today said Communist prisoners on Koje Island jeered and shouted insults at his men when they arrived—but cheered and waved to them when they left the island.

Maj. E. L. Cohen of Pembroke, Ont., commanding B Company of the First Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, brought his 105 men back to headquarters Monday after 42 days of guarding Red internees on Koje. They had pulled out of the front lines May 23 and rushed to the turbulent island off southeast Korea by train and boat.

The guard was originally posted around troublesome Compound 66. The Canadians later were teamed with a company of the King's Shropshire Light Infantry and placed in charge of enclosure three.

2,030 PRISONERS

The enclosure contained a total of 2,030 Chinese and North Korean prisoners.

Red prisoners are not the only people on Koje who will remember Cohen's men.

Miss Ada Sandall, a Canadian-born missionary from Magog, Que. who has spent 25 years in Korea, will remember them too, but for different reasons.

Before the company pulled out all ranks contributed food and other supplies to the growing pile of foodstuffs to be distributed to families and orphanages by Miss Sandall.

New Explosion In Gang Warfare

FAIRFIELD, Ill. (AP)—A violent explosion in a building owned by the notorious Big Earl Shelton early today wrecked the structure and damaged several other buildings.

Most of the city's 6,000 residents were awakened by the blast.

Police were without clues in a hunt for persons who set off the blast, apparently another in a series of reprisals against the fading Shelton clan.

No one was injured. The building was the last piece of property owned in Fairfield by the one-time southern Illinois gang leader.

The Shelton gang terrorized southern Illinois in the prohibition era.

Big Earl, 58, left Fairfield more than 18 months ago. On May 24, 1949, he was seriously wounded as he played poker in the building bombed today.

Three of Big Earl's brothers, were slain in gang style. A cafe-roadhouse of Shelton's sister, Lulu Bell, was bombed near Fairfield June 19, 1949.

Hint Tougher Bombing Plan If Korean War Prolonged

TOKYO (AP)—Gen. J. Lawton Collins, United States Army chief of staff, said today that even tougher bombing of North Korean military targets is in store for the Communists if they "insist on prolonging the war."

United Nations planes within the last three weeks have hurled some of the mightiest air attacks of the war at Red power-plant facilities in North Korea and at military targets in and near the North Korean capital of Pyongyang.

He told a press conference on his return from the front that the U.N. Command is prepared "to use anything—except germ warfare—to protect its forces in Korea from being driven out."

Collins said the controversial decision to bomb the Yalu river power plants was a routine one, made as part of a "shifting bombing pattern."

He said also that "within a few years we will use atomic artillery on the battlefield."

The general said the U.S. Eighth Army would not be pushed out of Korea without "an outside power throwing considerable weight into the struggle." He said the U.N. could even push the Reds out of North Korea "if we thought it was worth the cost."

Girl 12 Saves Life Of Nephew 7 After Fall In Lake

HUNTSVILLE (CP)—Judy Young, 12, yesterday saved the life of her seven-year-old nephew, Wayne Cooper, after he was pulled unconscious from the Lake of Bays. Wayne was playing on the wharf at Seabreeze, 20 miles east of here, when he toppled into eight feet of water. His grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Young, heard the boy's dog barking and ran to the waterside. After grappling for some time with a pike-pole Mr. Young brought the boy to the surface.

Judy applied artificial respiration, learned in a Red Cross life-saving course last summer.

"She just kept crying and pressing Wayne's back," her father said afterward. "Finally, after she had been working for about 35 minutes, Wayne groaned and started to regain consciousness. She cried all the harder then and kept up with the artificial respiration all the harder."

WORK DONE

Finally, a messenger managed to summon a Dr. Campbell who lived in a cottage not far from the scene of the near-drowning. When the doctor arrived, the boy had already regained consciousness.

Although there is no exact knowledge of the length of time the boy was in the water, it is estimated that it must have been close to 10 minutes.

The boy is now as well as ever except for several bruises on his back where the young lifesaver worked her hands to pull him from the brink of death.

He had been spending a holiday with his grandparents. Wayne is the son of Mrs. Vera Cooper of Huntsville.

11 Boats Still On Course In Yacht Race

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (AP)—Thirty-six boats were in and 11 were still on the course today in the annual Port Huron-to-Mackinac yacht race.

There still was no indication, however, as to which would be the winner on the basis of corrected time. The Orient was the first across the finish line by nearly eight hours, arriving at this resort island at 11:52 a.m. (EST) yesterday.

Behind her in order up until last midnight were the Copperhead, Vixen, Apache, Rangoon, Falcon, Vitesse, Royona, Soubrette, Redhead, Martia, Fleetwood and Last Straw.

BOAT DISQUALIFIED

The Rainbow, second behind the Great Bear across the line after midnight, was disqualified for using power to finish.

A good northeast wind of 18 to 20 miles an hour aided those still on the course. Visibility, bad during the early morning hours, cleared during the day.

Sailing in after the Rainbow today were the Sashay, Flying Cloud, Revelry, Pearl, Flying Dutchman, Shamrock, Marbill, Kandu, Voyager, Gurhka, Joanie, Moselle, Malabar, Glory Bea, Rambler VI, Jolly Roger III, Happiness, Albacore, Indigo and Rarity.

Sewer Pipe Escape By Convicts Foiled

SALEM, Ore. (AP)—An attempt by two young convicts to escape from the Oregon state prison through a 15-inch sewer pipe ended in death yesterday for one of them.

The body of Harold Allen Hayes, 20, was found inside the sewer pipe about 375 feet from a manhole which the pair entered. He apparently suffocated.

Another convict, 17-year-old Franklin Clingenteel, had gone 125 feet in the prison sewer pipe before he got stuck and called for help.

U.S. Dollar At Discount

MONTREAL (CP)—The American dollar was at a discount of three per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today, EDT. Monday's noon rate was 97 5-16 cents. The pound sterling was $2.70¾, against $2.71¾ Monday.

Golds Climb Slowly On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO (CP)—Golds climbed slowly today in early afternoon stock market dealings but other sections made little headway.

Profit-taking checked yesterday's industrial upswing within the first hour. Leading issues rallied again in noon trading but slipped later. Base metals and western oils drifted.

Activity slowed from a dull opening. Industrial trading remained within a narrow range of selected leading issues and few golds, metals or oils attracted speculative interest. Volume for the first three hours was 1,030,000 shares.

Steels posted a scattered list of fractional advances to form industrials' strongest section. Constructions, liquors and retail stores also drew firm support but papers, agricultures and manufacturing companies slipped.

Western oils were mixed. Calvan Consolidated, Dome Explorations, Royalite, Sapphire and Trans Empire strengthened while Calgary and Edmonton, Canada Southern, Central-Leduc and Peace River weakened.

Base metals showed strength as Mackeno, Mindamar, New Calumet, Osisko, Quebec Manitou, Sherrit-Gordon and United Keno Hill turned upward.

Senior golds showed little trend. A scattered list of leading junior producers and prospects posted moderate advances. Holding companies dipped.

The exchange's 1 p.m. indices showed industrials up .35 at 320.06, golds up .78 at 93.45, base metals up .50 at 190.67 and western oils down .18 at 138.75.

Official forecasts issued by the Dominion public weather office in Toronto at 9 a.m. today.

Synopsis:

Relief from southern Ontario's heat wave is on the way. A disturbance which developed over Kansas Sunday night has gathered enough energy during its northeastward course to draw the cool air southward into its wake. As this centre of low pressure moves across the southern half of Ontario today, the cool weather which the north country has monopolized for so long will finally move into the lower lakes regions tonight. Afternoon temperatures in southern Ontario on Wednesday will be 10 to 15 degrees lower than today's maximum readings.

Regional forecasts valid until midnight Wednesday.

Eastern Lake Ontario, Haliburton regions:

Variable cloudiness clearing Wednesday morning. Scattered showers or thunderstorms this afternoon and this evening. Hot and humid today, cooler Wednesday. Winds southwest 15 today, north 15 Wednesday. Low tonight and high Wednesday at Trenton 65 and 75, Killaloe 65 and 70.

Summary for Wednesday—Mostly sunny and cooler.

Toronto Girl Winner In Beauty Contest

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—The three-day carnival held on Bridge St. by the local Rotary Club wound up on Saturday night with a beauty contest in which 'Miss Campbellford' 1952, was chosen.

The beauty queen this year is not a local girl, but hails from Toronto and spends much of her time in the Campbellford area during the summer months. She is 18 year old Barbara Bruce.

Barbara was chosen from among five contestants and was presented with a number of prizes.

BOAT RACES

The motor boat races in the canal drew a large crowd of spectators. A couple of spills added to the thrills and, John Palmer in class B2 had his motor ruined when his boat capsized on a turn. The Rotary club evidently forgot to provide a rescue boat in the event of an upset with the result that anyone who did upset was forced to remain in the water until after the race.

Palmer was picked up by another racer, Ronald Sproule of Consecon. George Stafford of Campbellford also got a ducking and had to swim for shore.

The result of the boat races were as follows:

Class A—Frank Foley, Belleville 1, 1.

Class B—W. Vaughan, Belleville 1, 1. F. Foley, Belleville 2, 2. W. Thompson, Aleliasburg 3, 3.

Class C—R. Sproule, Consecon 1, 1. N. Seward, Campbellford 2, 2. W, Vaughan, Belleville 3, 3.

In the draw for a television set, a refrigerator or a deep freeze, Miss Campbellford 1952 drew the wining ticket from a large drum at the close of the evening and the lucky winner was Percy Bland of Campbellford. He decided on the deep freezer.

'Clean Up' In Korea Impossible–Rocky

HALIFAX (CP)—Brig. John M. Rockingham said last night a "clean up" in Korea was impossible.

The former commander of Canada's 25th brigade, addressing a combined service club luncheon, said a drive to the north would lengthen United Nations communication and supply lines, while shortening those of the enemy.

"It would also mean coming in closer range of enemy air bases and reinforcements, at the same time moving farther from our own.

The United Nations could do most good by continuing to resist aggression," he said.

Car Out Of Control One Killed, Three Hurt

New Brunswick Holds Election On Union Issue

FREDERICTON (CP)—The date for a New Brunswick general election—possibly the first in Canada with union recognition as the main issue—may be announced today.

Premier J. B. McNair said last night that at a cabinet meeting today he will recommend immediate dissolution of the Legislature and issuance of writs for an early election.

Mr. McNair, declaring that his government will not recognize an international union as bargaining agent for public servants of the province, named this as the issue.

DECISION MADE

The announcement resulted from a decision last month by most maintenance employees of the publicly-owned New Brunswick Electric Power Commission to quit work starting this Thursday unless the government recognizes their union, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (T.L.C.-A.F.L.).

A two-month interval before polling day was hinted by the Premier, who said: "No interest will be permanently prejudiced by a further delay of two months (in settlement of the union recognition demand)."

He said a shutdown of power commission operations would be disastrous for the province, and the government intended the service to continue.

If any Commission employees stop work Thursday "they will, in our view, have separated themselves from their jobs and voluntarily discharged themselves from the service."

TO MAINTAIN SERVICE

In that event, the Commission would take the "necessary steps to man the plants and keep the system operating."

The province has been governed by Liberal administrations for the last 17 years. In the last election, June 28, 1948, Liberals were returned to power with 47 seats. The other five went to Progressive Conservatives.

Present standing in the 41st Legislature: Liberals 48, Progressive Conservatives 5, vacant 1.

Mr. McNair, 62, has been premier since 1940 and has served longer in that office than any other New Brunswick Premier except Hon. A. G. Blair, 1883 to 1896.

Langford-Holt said it was "a cause for dismay that millions of people living behind the Iron Curtain believe, as they do, that he speaks on behalf of the Church of England in this country, and there lies the danger."

The Dean himself declined to comment this morning on a published report that he met secretly with U.S. Communists to plan a propaganda drive among Church of England clergymen.

The New York Herald Tribune said in a copyright story written by Herbert Philbrick, a former undercover agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation, that the meeting took place in Boston in 1948. Philbrook wrote that he attended the meeting himself.

Steel Peace Talks Break Off

Two-Hour Session Fails To Bring Any New Solution

PITTSBURGH (AP) — New steel strike peace talks ended today with industry and United Steelworkers C.I.O. in disagreement but standing by for further word from the White House.

After a two-hour session, President Philip Murray of the union and Vice-President Joseph M. Larking of Bethlehem Steel issued a joint statement saying they are still in disagreement.

Presidential assistant John R. Steelman arranged the talks. He acted after a round of week-end discussions failed to settle the dispute, now in its 44th day.

President Philip Murray and Arthur J. Goldberg, general counsel, head the union negotiating team. The industry is represented by two Bethlehem Steel Corp. officials—Vice-President Joseph Larkin and John H. Morse, general counsel.

PRICE RISE REFUSED

Coincidental with setting up the peace talks, the Office of Price Stabilization tossed a minor bomb by rejecting appeals of three steel companies for price boosts ranging from $5.50 to $6 a ton—Weirton, Armco and Pittsburgh Steel, which are operating under new contracts.

Steelman spent Saturday talking prices with officials of United States Steel Corp., bellwether of the industry, and was reported to have given assurance of an increase in steel prices. The industry pinned its hope for price relief on a promise of an increase averaging $5.65 a ton.

Industry's last offer at the week-end sessions was not disclosed. However, it is believed to call for what one industrial spokesman termed "a watered-down" version of the modified union shop which was made part of a separate agreement the union signed with Pittsburgh Steel.

A union shop requires all employees to join the union. The Pittsburgh Steel version stipulates that all new employees must join but can drop out between the 20th and 30th days of work.

OFFER 24.6 CENTS

The wage proposal made by the companies calls for a 24.6-cent-hourly pay package.

The Wage Stabilization Board, when it was trying to avert the strike, recommended a 26½-cent package and a union shop as terms for a new contract.

Police Hold Trio In Robbery

MONTREAL (CP)—Police today held two men and a woman in connection with an alleged attack and robbery in downtown Montreal last night.

The arrests followed a complaint by Felix H. Clarke, 57, that he had been robbed of $110. Clarke said he met a 27-year-old woman in a night club and, after having a meal, went to her room, where two men hiding behind the door attacked him.

Arrested were Henri Beaudry, 25, Lucien Ladouceur, 24, and his wife. The Ladouceurs, police said, came to Montreal from Ontario a week ago.

Planned Increases

Under this formula rates were set on a basis calculated to allow the C.P.R. a surplus of $46,600,000 a year after fixed charges, dividends and taxes were met. The companies said today that, under current conditions, the Canadian Pacific would fall short of the allowable earnings by $6,144,000 this year.

The further nine per cent was described in the application as necessary to provide a return of five per cent to the C.P.R. on its net railway investment. The investment figure has never been determined finally but is claimed by the company to be roughly $1,000,000,000.

FOURTH INCREASE

The proposed double-barrelled general increase of about 16 per cent would be the fourth in the post-war series that started in 1948. They are applicable on approximately half the railways' $900,000,000 a year freight business.

The latest increase was one of 17 per cent, largely to cover costs of the wage-hour settlement in the 1950 dispute with the unions that culminated in the general rail strike of that year. The final 4½ per cent of that boost was granted by the Transport Board last Jan. 25.

The board exempted coal, coke and potatoes from that increase, adding these to the already-exempted grain traffic in the west and certain types of other traffic which normally are exempt.

SEPARATE APPLICATION

The railways' request for increasing the rates on grain in the west was made in a separate application from the one for the general increase. The board had made an exception for domestic grain in the west in all the post-war cases.

In the last previous case, the railways asked that they be allowed to raise these rates, which have not been touched since 1921. But the board advised them to bring in a separate application—the one filed today.

There was no immediate estimate of the dollars-and-cents ammount of the proposed grain increase. However, the railways said that basing the grain rates on the Ontario-Quebec charges would leave them lighter than if they had been increased by the general hoists.

Defence Headquarters Bulge As Department Expanding

By DOUGLAS HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's defence headquarters, bulging with a population of 5,800 servicemen and civilians, is scattering sub-units into other Ottawa buildings in a drive to find space to work properly. Expansion since Korea has brought on the crisis.

Three or four officers working in a room meant for one, some doors kept locked because files must be piled against them, some rooms burdened until there is hardly space to pile anything more —these are marks of the overcrowding that is forcing the exodus.

The exodus, going on for some time, is continuing and involves hundreds of persons.

There have long been tentative plans to build a "Canadian Pentagon," a Canuck version of the huge United States defence headquarters.

Defence Minister Claxton recently told the House of Commons, however, there are no immediate plans to build it and agreement has not yet been reached even on a site. The scattering of the existing headquarters is the temporary solution.

Headquarters is mainly concentrated in three so-called temporary buildings erected during the Second World War in the heart of downtown Ottawa. The buildings, now linked by indoor passages, have been in a good state of repair, are fireproof and closely guarded.

INCREASED BY 1100

At the time Korea erupted in 1950, they contained about 4,700 servicemen and civilians and efforts have been made to keep the growth at headquarters as small as possible. The growth to roughly 5,800 is actually considerably less than the proportionate 100-per-cent growth of the forces as a whole in that time.

But the expansion of 1,000 to 1,100 came on top of space conditions which already were not too good.

Because of the necessity to maintain close guard over secrets and the difficulty of doing so in a scattered headquarters, the exodus is involving mainly sub-units where important secrets would not be involved.

The Defence Department has already taken over three floors of one new office building, four floors in another building and considerable space in a third. A spokesman said: "There will probably have to be more, as the need arises. . . We could move hundreds more and still be crowded."

The situation is reminiscent of wartime when various defence units were scattered around Ottawa outside the central headquarters.-

Charged In Shooting

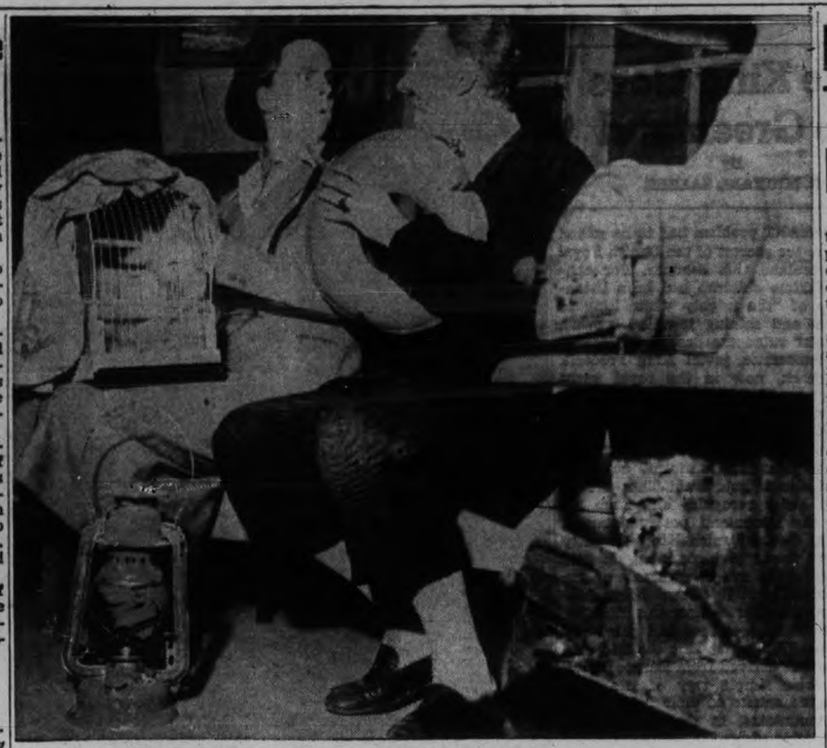
SIMCOE (CP)—Charges of attempted murder and wounding were laid yestreday against 45-year-old Morley Sheppard of Kelvin, 15 miles northwest of here. Sheppard is accused of wielding a shotgun in an attack on his wife early Saturday. He fired two shots, one of which wounded his 10-year-old daughter, Marlene.



BY THE POT-BELLIED STOVE of the old-fashioned station waiting room in which a train-load of stranded people had to spend a corpse- and ghost-strewn night, the fat-headed English traveller Teddie Deakin shocks prim and proper Miss Bourne by his capers and silliness. # Ghost Train Thriller Chills Crowd On Hot Night

The best antidote in town this week for heat and frazzled nerves is "The Ghost Train," the Summer Theatre's current offering. It's chilling, it's thrilling, it's funny, it's sentimental. It's Drama with with a capital D fashioned a generation ago. And as the Summer Theatre plays it straight and strong, with bags of tricks up their sleeves and Peter Mews to caper across the stage as the mad dog of an Englishman, it's wonderful entertainment.

This reviewer went to the theatre rather glumly opening night (a crowded house, by the way). The evening was hot; the play, which he knew by repute to be inconsequential, seemed to offer small recompense for sitting through it. He was prepared to take a dim view of the play. But he abruptly and happily changed his notions.

SUSPENSE AND TRIPE

The play opened on an excellent set, which was immediately applauded; an old-fashioned station waiting - room. Within three minutes the comedy and suspense were established, and I venture to say that everybody in the audience forgot the heat, as I did. There was too much doing on the stage; the bits of tripe thrown across to the audience were too choice to miss; the dime thriller exalted into a $1.25 chiller was engrossing. One forgets the heat with such stuff to gulp.

"The Ghost Train" could be bad and boring with a poor company or faulty directing (if, for instance, it were not played with conviction). With all its guns and talents on stage and behind it in full blast, the Summer Theatre recreated the stuff of the boards on which box-office successes have been made since Marlowe's time.

INFECTIOUS COMIC TALENT

Peter Mews, with his fluent flair for the comic, gave the production his buoyancy and bounce in the principal role of the Englishman, Teddie Deakin. His is an individual comic talent, fresh, easy and infectious, as we saw last year in "The Red Peppers." His happiness in such a role is communicated to the audience.

But it was not a one-man show. It was a notable demonstration of a very good and talented team putting together a play without apparent strain and in the finest tradition of repertory companies, but with more spunk and sparkle than most.

Thus it is invidious to mention individual players, but I would like to remark that Patricia Moore, as Peggy Murdock, the bride of a few hours, was charming and lovely; and that Jerry Campbell as her husband, Charles Murdock, had an attractive competence to emphasize his versatility in other plays this season. Both newcomers have previously had "character" parts. Ron Bailey, the bewhiskered ancient of station-masters, had an effective role, but his unfolding of the story of the train that ran from nowhere to nowhere when it shouldn't could have been more spine-tingling.

BIG STAGE EFFECTS

Stage effects were thunderously good. This is a play for the whole family — but the youngest and eldest should be left at home if they are susceptible to nightmares. If the audience was not scared by the curtain scene of Act II, it was at least astounded. The building throbbed with it.

The play was directed by Michael Sadlier. Set was designed by Peter Mews and scenes painted by Bill Zaharuk. Here is the cast: Richard Winthrop, Bill Needles; Elsie Winthrop, Kate Reid; Saul Hodgkin, Ron Bailey; Charles Murdock, Jerry Campbell; Peggy Murdock, Patricia Moore; Miss Bourne, Barbara Hamilton; Teddie Deakin, Peter Mews; Julia Price, Betty Leighton; Herbert Price, Ted Palmer; John Sterling, Gerry Sarracini; Jackson, Ian Clark.

19 To Be Tried On Spy Charges

ATHENS (AP)—The aviation ministry today confirmed press reports that 12 officers and men of the Greek Air Force and seven civilians will be tried by a court martial on charges of forming a Communist cell inside the Air Force.

They are further charged with being implicated in acts of sabotage which resulted in the destruction or damage to several military aircraft early this year.

Greek newspapers last April said a large-scale Communist conspiracy of infiltration and attempted sabotage had been discovered in the air force. The government clamped a ban on such reports.

The newspaper Kathimerini said one air force officer, fearing arrest, escaped to Communist Albania in a U.S.-supplied training plane.

Milk Shortage Trucks Afield For Supplies

Silverwood Dairies are using the equivalent of one million pounds of sweet cream or milk daily in supplying their ice cream customers over an area from Ottawa to Sault Ste. Marie.

They are also going 100 miles afield to make up a recent shortage in the Peterborough district's flow of milk. In that particular they are mainly drawing on the Napanee area, J. E. Weir, manager of Silverwoods, said today.

Nearly six weeks of dry weather, with persistent lack of rain, converted an incipient season of surplus to more or less shortage around the province.

HAD EXCESS

It may be recalled that lush weather early in June was accumulating milk at many dairies. Some of that first wave went down the sewer after every other outlet had supplied normal demand. Dairy farmers were becoming jittery and the whole industry was perturbed.

That was the first week of June, but when the sun settled down for a summer without ample rain, the overflow of that beginning of the season began to dry up all the way back to the pastures.

"As a matter of fact," Mr. Weir said, "the dairy picture is spotty. You can't say there is an overall provincial excess of milk, but there are areas of present shortage. Peterborough has become one of them, and that is why we had to go out and get extra supplies for our requirements at the peak of summer."

Farmers gravitated from two extremes this season, the prospect of a summer of surplus milk if the rains of 1951 arrived as copiously again, to the recent prolonged dry period, with slackening of the milk yield in the Peterborough district.

That is the main reason why Silverwoods have had to go as far east as the Ottawa area for sweet cream.

Meanwhile demand for ice cream has mounted steadily, and shipments from the Aylmer St. plant have been distributed to Toronto, Ottawa, Sudbury, North Bay and as far west as Sault Ste. Marie.

Foreign Office Sees Signs Jap Agreement On Facilities

TOKYO (Reuters)—First signs of an agreement on Japanese facilities for Commonwealth troops in Japan were reported today by the Foreign Office.

A statement said Commonwealth troops will be able to use United States security force facilities here under an agreement at present being worked out.

Informed sources said Japanese negotiators had accepted that a joint committee should work on the principle that the Commonwealth could have "what it needs."

The Foreign Office statement said questions concerning criminal and civil jurisdiction, the use of special military currency, foreign exchange controls and other technical matters were being studied by committees.

Negotiations between Commonwealth representatives and Japan began July 7. Commonwealth countries want provisions similar to those governing U.S. troops in Japan, including jurisdiction over troops.

Thieves Strip Auto Of Tires, Radio, Battery

COBOURG (ENS)—Stolen on July 1 by thieves who rigged up a jumper wire behind the ignition lock, a car owned by Dorland Roberts of Cobourg was recovered over the weekend hidden in some bushes five miles north of Kingston.

It could hardly be called an automobile when discovered because the thieves had stripped it of tires, tubes, radio, battery and the generator. The car was stolen while parked at the side of the hotel, which Mr. Roberts operates, and the ignition was locked at the time.

Knocked Down By Car Boy Suffers Bruises

COBOURG (ENS)—Five-year-old David Randall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Randall, of Cobourg, was struck by a car Monday when he became confused while crossing the highway on King St.

The little fellow was on his way to the beach and thought the way was clear until he saw a car coming. He ran back instead of continuing on his way and was knocked down by the automobile. He picked himself up and ran home, uninjured except for some bruises. The accident was not reported to the police, although the driver stopped.

Temperature In 80's, Cobourg Sweltering

COBOURG (ENS)—Temperature was around 80 Monday which for Cobourg is sweltering heat and most of the people talked about the weather. Out in the rural sections, away from the tempering effect of Lake Ontario, it was really hot, around 90. One of the largest crowds on record took to the water on Sunday and yesterday at Victoria Park beach.

Premier Duplessis To The Polls

Despite the recent attempts made by the Duplessis Government of Quebec to show voters that it has a Cabinet, that it is a team and not a one-man government, Quebec electors tomorrow will vote for or against Mr. Duplessis. The Quebec Premier is the Union Nationale party, which he founded out of the remnants of the Quebec Conservative party in 1936, together with nationalists and disaffected Liberals. He is the government. His Cabinet ministers (whose photographs and names have been brought widely before the Quebec public in that Province's press and party campaign publicity) are puppets compared with the political master who manipulates the machinery of the party and the government.

* * *

Premier Maurice L. Duplessis is a veteran of provincial politics. He was first elected as a Conservative to the Quebec Legislative Assembly to represent his home town of Three Rivers in 1927. He has been re-elected ever since. His father, the late Judge N. J. Duplessis, was a member of the Quebec House for eight years. In 1936 his new party defeated the Taschereau Liberals. In 1939, in a contest fought largely on war issues, the first Duplessis administration was upset by Liberals under Adelard Godbout, but in 1944 Mr. Duplessis was returned as premier, after five years of incessant campaigning on issues of provincial rights, Communism and war restrictions. His government was re-elected in 1948, winning 82 of the 92 seats.

* * *

The provincial Liberal leader is Georges Lapalme, little known outside his own district of Joliette where he was chosen party leader in 1950. He has not sat in the Quebec legislature, and came to Provincial politics by way of the House of Commons, where he had held a seat since 1945. His age is 45; bachelor Premier Duplessis is 62. Judging from the amount of advertising and other publicity which the Union Nationale party has been doing in the campaign, and the number of speaking appearances Premier Duplessis has been making, Premier Duplessis believes himself to be faced by a good competitor for office. There seem to be too, strong undercurrents against the Duplessis Government, which the party is trying to arrest.

* * *

Although one-man government in Quebec is not a new thing, nor are intensive party patronage and evidence of graft new, the Duplessis forces are having to overcome a feeling rather general throughout the Province that trafficking in political favours has been unusually heavy, even for Quebec, and that Premier Duplessis and his henchmen have been ruthless in penalizing those who do not favour them, prodigal of favours to firms and party hacks who will support Union Nationale.

* * *

The Union Nationale government has, in a period of expansion and prosperity, capitalized on this shrewdly and efficiently. It has developed roads and industry, and provided for the economic expansion of the Province. The Duplessis administration has presided over an era of prosperity unmatched in Quebec's history — and the province has the smallest per capita debt in Canada. On this record Mr. Duplessis again goes to the polls tomorrow. He is likely to be successful again, though probably with a reduced majority. What are the issues? They seem to be entirely on how much government money each candidate can get for his own riding by way of roads, new public buildings and grants to farmers and fishermen. Premier Duplessis himself attends to the industrial and financial leaders of the population — largely English-speaking. His promises to them can be very different from his nationalistic French-Canadian utterances on hustings on the wrong side of the tracks — in lower Montreal constituencies, for instance.

Physiological Indignity

We are sorry to bring the subject of bedpans into the editorial columns where they have never, to our knowledge, penetrated before. But we have hated the beastly things for many years, and we believe that many others share our dislike; therefore we hasten to spread the news that Dr. Harvey Kellog, head of the Battle Creek Sanitorium in Michigan, says that they are bad for sick people and should be avoided. Any patient who can possibly be moved, or who can move himself, to an ordinary toilet, should do so, he says and includes post-operative patients and people resting in bed with heart conditions on his advice.

We shall not give all Dr. Kellog's reason's for his decision; they are of a medical and technical nature. It is enough that he says that bedpans are harmful to sick people; he also says that they inflict "physiological indignity" upon those who are compelled to use them. Dr. Kellog, you can say that again, and we shall hire a string orchestra to accompany your words of wisdom. You have said what we have been saying for years, but as we have no medical standing, and are merely a physiologically victimized patient, nobody has paid any attention to us.

Bedpans are inventions of the devil and we have never been able to discover why they are so popular with the nursing profession. We hope that Dr. Kellog's words will carry weight, and that the knell of the bedpan has been rung.

One Touch Of Nature

One touch of nature, Shakespeare tells us, makes the whole world kin. And where is that touch of nature more surprising, or more agreeable when found, than in an official note from a civil servant? So often those gentlemen write as though they were not merely of a different clay from the rest of mankind, but positively at war with it? But a pleasant exception comes to our notice.

A manufacturer of a sweetened popcorn sought to have his product exempted from the tax on candy, because he said his product was a breakfast cereal. The Tariff Board examined his claim and refused it, but to their refusal they tacked on this note:

> Giving to the phrase "cereal breakfast foods" the usual and ordinary meaning that should, other things being equal, be employed in construing a taxing statute, it is difficult to be fully persuaded that popped-corn (sweetened or not) falls within that category as known today to the general public. A few years hence, the situation may have changed and, since the language is a living thing, official views may have to change as well. But that time is not yet. Moreover, since an important — and, perhaps, the major — use of the particular product at issue is to cater to the sweet-tooth of humanity, we cannot but conclude that it falls within the ambit of a section of the Act so obviously broad and comprehensive as "... confectionery that may be classed as candy or a substitute for candy."

This note is neatly phrased, and it suggests that the Board speaks from present experience about a present situation, which may change with time; the usual governmental attitude that a decision, once made, must last until earth decays and the heavens are consumed in flame, is absent. We think this worthy of note and congratulate the Tariff Board on a nice admission of human feeling and human fallibility.

You May Be An Anthropometrist

A man who displays an unusual interest in the shapes of women is not necessarily a monster to be watched by the police; he may simply be an anthropometrist—that is, a student of the average height, size and weight of the various races of the world. We have been reading about an anthropometrist named Brooke Wilson, an Englishman who has measured more than 7,000 of his countrywomen. He finds that while makers of ready-to-wear clothing have assumed for some years that the average woman is 5' 6" tall, she is really nearer 5' 4", and forty per cent. of women in the United Kingdom are smaller than 5' 3".

This is of interest because of the widespread belief that the people of Europe and North America are much bigger than their ancestors. This is partly true, but it seems that we are not, on the average, as big as we think. The notion that the modern girl is bigger than her mother, and much bigger than her grandmother, rests in some degree upon the fact that her mother and grandmother did not wear such high heels, or wear them so often; when the modern girl takes her shoes off, she is often rather a small person.

Anthropometry has been applied to the women of the U.S.A., and they also appear to be much shorter, on the average, than is usually thought, much heavier, much shorter in the leg, and much wider around the hips. Fashion models are chosen among tall, slim girls because they look best in stylish clothes, but they are not representative of average womanhood.

Anthropometry is applied to men, as well, but the results are not so interesting because men do not appear to vary so greatly in figure from generation to generation. Upon the whole, we are a little larger than our ancestors, but it is wrong to assume that they were shrimps. Unusually tall men were about as common a thousand years ago as they are today.

NOTES AND COMMENT

A girl has grown up when she stops making faces at boys and begins making faces for them.

In Canada, we read, there is a bathtub for every six persons, ranging from the high-toned Ontario record of five to a tub, toward the Newfoundland score of thirty to a tub. But what we would really like would be some figures on the actual use of all these tubs. The obvious paper to make a survey is Saturday Night.

The King Goes To Greenland

By E. MICHAEL SALZER

AN IMPORTANT problem had to be solved to ensure the success of the Danish Royal visit to Greenland this summer. For centuries the Eskimo children had been listening to tales of "the mighty white king in purple gown and shining jewelled crown", who from afar ruled the destiny of Greenland. But democratic, jovial King Frederik IX of Denmark, now in the royal yacht "Dannebrog", on his way to tour his colony has never worn the crown and mantle. Instead, he will set foot on the island, where in parts time had stood still for thousands of years, in Admiral's uniform, complete with plumed hat and gold braid. Thus Greenlanders will easily recognise him from his picture on the Greenland postage stamps. Though loyal to the Danish King, devoutly Christian and eager to learn from all that Western civilisation can offer, many of the eighteen thousand native Greenlanders (descended from the North-American Eskimos who immigrated there a thousand years ago at about the same time as Eric the Red and his Viking sailors arrived from Europe) have maintained their simple way of life, still believing in the spirits of their inaccessible ice-crusted mountains, in the weird cures of their "medicine-men" and in the tales of mighty kings and bounteous queens from the West.

✧ ✧ ✧

GREENLAND, four times as big as France, and almost wholly covered by a crust of ice 3,000 feet thick, lies nearer to the North Pole than to any populated area, being 1,840 miles by air from La Guardia airfield, New York, and 1,440 miles from Copenhagen. Yet today it is coveted by the great powers as one of the world's most vital air bases. Northern Greenland stands half way on the shortest route between many of the principal western and eastern hemispheres, within a few years from now it will be the Gander of the northern air route between New York and Shanghai, San Francisco and Moscow. Careful mapping of the vast area, regular weather forecasts from all its varying coasts and permanent airfields carved out of the ice and rocks, have been prepared by technicians and scientists.

Until a few years ago Greenland was merely an Eldorado for scientific explorers; now it has become a vital pawn in the strategic layout of modern airwar.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE RECENT RUMBLINGS of the Soviet war machine in the Baltic, Soviet espionage in Northern Sweden, the frequent notes to Norway about the Svalbard islands, the mysterious cruises of Soviet warships and fleets of modified trawlers through the Oresund northwards, Soviet pressure on Finland—all these are portents of the shifting of the limelight of the cold war to the Far North. Every new American airfield on Greenland, often adjoining the turf-huts and sealskin tents of some isolated Eskimo settlement, causes a new Soviet move elsewhere in the Arctic regions. Russia is obviously eager to exploit the Northern route to the West. Iceland and Greenland bar the way.

✧ ✧ ✧

COURAGEOUS SCIENTISTS of many nations, mostly under the leadership of Denmark's leading Greenland expert, Professor Lauge Koch, have tried to uncover Greenland's mysteries; they prodded the ice-crust and the barren rocks to delve into nature's own ice box for the remnants of flowers and animals, that foreshadowed the birth of man and of our world today. Recently these scientists startled the experts with the discovery of the "fourlegged fish", hitherto the "missing link" between fish and quadruped, which they found embedded in Greenland stone. And, incidentally, this expedition also hit upon some rich deposits of lead and zinc in the same area of East Greenland.

✧ ✧ ✧

THUS THE ISLAND, hitherto a costly investment for its masters, promises to pay a dividend. A joint Danish-Swedish-Canadian company has been formed with fifteen million Danish kroners as starting capital, with private capitalists and the respective governments as partners, to exploit these huge finds. Fifty-five per cent. of the stock is held by the Danes, with the government as principal stockholders, thirty per cent by some of the leading mining companies of Sweden, and fifteen per cent. by the Canadians. This summer a pioneering party of one hundred and fifty men, headed by a Canadian mining engineer, will arrive by air on Ella Island and will then travel by small coastal boats and later on short-legged, tough Icelandic ponies, to establish a winter camp. They will act as the "guinea pigs" for the mining engineers to be transforred to Greenland later on—provided the mining and the transport of the ore can be made practicable. Shipping can reach Greenland's shores during the few weeks of summer only, and the miners will have to live largely like the Eskimos, adding polar bear steaks, seal, ptarmigan and Arctic hare to their imported stores of tinned food.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT SUCCESS has already been achieved in the thriving cryolite quarries (an important raw material in aluminium protecduction) and in the coal mines. Today the mountains of Greenland reverberate with the throb and whirl of mining drills. The face of the coastal regions is changing, as is the face of the native Greenlander, which seems now more European than Red Indian or Mongolian. In North Greenland the Eskimos still live as they did centuries ago, but in the South their brothers are progressing rapidly. Their industries—whaling, fishing, mining and trapping—are beginning to pay for modern schools, hospitals and public libraries (but as yet no restaurants). The people have abandoned many of their former ways, and only on Sundays do the women still wear their traditional embroidered costumes. In the south-west regions they rear cattle in modern stables (although they still milk the cows from a traditional standing position); they keep sheep, weaving the wool on ancient looms; they belong to trade unions and vote for their own deputies.

✧ ✧ ✧

FOR CENTURIES Greenlanders were aware of the presence in Disko Bay of the world's biggest shrimp and prawn beds; but only when Danish scientists hit upon them by accident four years ago did they begin to realise the wealth that lay there for them. Now, quick freezing plants and canning factories turn the seething shoals into dollars. The Greenland shark, once the mortal enemy of the fishing Eskimo, is now hunted from swift motorboats; its liver is used for oil production, its skin is exported to Europe, and the meat is dried to provide food for the sledging parties in the North.

Everywhere in the island ancient practice contrasts with the modern methods that are rapidly brushing aside the heritage of centuries. Yet most of the mysteries that are Greenland remain hidden beneath the ice crust, from which scientists one day expect to draw a wealth of ore and coal; but until man has mastered these glacial defences the treasures of the land will remain hidden.

A POSTER from Wurzburg, Germany, celebrating this month in honour of the Irish missionary Saint Kilian who in the seventh century brought Christianity to that part of Bavaria. (See below)

Irish Saints Christianized Germans

(IRISH INFORMATION OFFICE BULLETIN)

LAST WEEK, the German city of Wurzberg, on the river Main, commemorated the restoration to the city of the relics of its bishop and martyr, and apostle of eastern Franconia, Maurus Kilian, of Ireland.

The old university city of Wurzburg, now the episcopal see of Bavaria, is the capital of the province of Lower Franconia, and Kilian came there in the seventh century bringing the gospel of Christianity. Where or when he was born in Ireland is not known, but ancient tradition has it that he was of princely parentage. At an early age he became a monk and attained such renown for his piety and learning that soon he was consecrated Bishop.

Following the example of many of his compatriots before him, Kilian decided to go to the continent of Europe on missionary work, and, with some companions, left his monastery, and Ireland, which he was never to see again.

The missionaries sailed until they reached the mounth of the Rhine, and, sailing up that river, they came to where it is joined by the river Main, up which they journeyed, disembarking at Ascaffenburg, where Kilian established his first foundation on German soil. From Ascaffenburg, the missionaries continued until they reached Wurzberg, then a comparatively insignificant ducal capital, consisting of a feudal castle with its surrounding tenantry. The ruler of the community was Duke Gozbert, and when Kilian had succeeded in converting him to Christianity the townspeople quickly followed their ruler's example.

Encouraged by the progress of his mission, Kilian and his Irish companions crossed the Alps to Rome in 686, and were received there by Pope Conan, who detained them for two years, preparing them for the establishment of a regular ecclesiastical foundation at Wurzburg.

✧ ✧ ✧

DURING THE ABSENCE of the missionaries from Wurburg, their work there received a serious setback by the marriage of the Duke to his brother's widow, Galeina. Kilian, on his return, insisted that as the marriage was not, in the Church's eyes, lawful the Duke must immediately separate from Galeina. Gozbert promised to comply, when he returned from the military expedition on which he was just embarking. No sooner had he gone, however, than Galeina set about avenging herself on the missionaries for their interference. She hired two assistants who fell on Kilian and on two of his fellow-workers, Coloman and Totman and beheaded them. The murderers secretly buried the bodies together with the holy men's books in a common grave. This was in the year 689.

A poor woman named Burgunda had, however, seen the murder and the secret burial, from a place of hiding and, years later, on her deathbed, revealed the details of the crime.

When Gozbert returned, he sought out the three missionaries. During his fruitless search, the story goes, one of the murderers took his own life, crying out that he was consumed by burning fire since the commission of the crime. Soon afterwards, the second mureder went mad and ran about the streets confessing his complicity in the crime. He became delirious, and died, as died also Galeina, the instigator of the murders.

Years afterwards, as a result of the information given by Burgunda, St. Burchard, Bishop of Wurzburg, with approval of Pope Zachary, ordered public veneration of the relics of the three martyrs; and the church of Neumunster, erected to receive the relics in 752, was dedicated to Kilian, Coloman and Totman. In 1042, a splendid cathedral was built in Wurzburg, and remains of the Irish saints were removed there, where they still rest, the heads being preserved in silver shrines.

This year, the twelve hundredth anniversary of the recovery of the remains of Saints Kilian, Coloman and Totman, the civic authorities in Bavaria held special celebrations on the saints' feastday—the 8th July.

Besides being patron saint of Wurzburg, Kilian is also honoured in other German and Austrian towns. At Mullagh, in the Diocese of Kilmore, his reputed birthplace in Ireland, a church was dedicated to him in 1857. In St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, there is a stained-glass window depicting his martyrdom and the baptism of Duke Gozbert. Other churches in Ireland also honour the saint, and in America there are many churches and schools dedicated to his name.

Letters To The Editor

PAVING ROMAINE ST.

Sir: I read with interest your report of the problem of paving Romaine St.

I believe that my neighbours are paying their taxes promptly and why our street is in such a horrible mess, is beyond me.

We get no rest all day. Could you rest, with the pot-holes so large, that the city buses, Outboard Marine and Peterborough Lumber trucks have to drive up on the sidewalk in places in order to get down the street? It makes it real nice for the children, and I don't believe our dear City Council will give us what is coming to us, until one or more of our kiddies are killed or hurt by some of the speedy drivers that bounce along at high speeds.

Mr. Editor, I don't care if the road is to be paved next week, I feel that the pot-holes should be filled now. Yes, right away.

I would like to point out, that if any of the City Councillors had had a grain of sense, the cost of improvements such as paving, etc., would come from a central fund and not penalize the poor sucker who happens to live on the street that they wish to pave for bus and truck convenience and for the rush hour speeders, flying low on their way home to lunch.

As a citizen, I ask our City Council for immediate action on the large and deadly pot holes on our street. Come on fellows, put away the golf clubs and let's have just one good move.

A ROMAINE STREET RESIDENT

HOT WEATHER TIP

Sir:

I'll open up the icebox!
Escape this awful heat!
Now how do you think I'll do it?
Why—I'll refrigerate the sheets
And when the sheets are stiff, and cold
So very gaunt and thin I'll give a very Special jerk and heave the mattress in

FRED HORN

IS WELDON AN AMERICAN?

Sir: Your editorial, "International Incident In Peterborough" plus the letters received by you from irate citizens have been read by me with great interest. Naturally I read Weldon's letter and I feel it is a duty to come to the rescue of my fellow Americans at this time. First of all, is he an American? Can we be sure of that? As his letter is indicative of Communism of which I know a little, like Weldon, their chief aim at this time is to sow the seed of hatred between our two great countries. Weldon knew what he was doing at this time, when the tourist season is at its height, and it will be a great pity if the citizens of Peterborough will pay back into his hands. His type of American exists, but I can assure you that for every one of his ilk, there are ten who love and admire Canada; and even though the American dollar is at a discount they feel just as I do, that they receive more than their money's worth in the kindness and friendliness offered to them by the Canadian People. At this time, when the world is bristling with confusion and pent-up emotions, a man of Weldon's calibre is a menace to society. Only clear thinking on the part of both Canadian and Americans can control his rabble rousing. You are to be congratulated on your editorial, Mr. Editor, I am one of those fortunate people who enjoy the privileges and friendships of both countries. I thrill just as much on seeing the Union Jack at full staff as I do on seeing the Stars and Stripes as I well know that under these two great flags. Democracy still exists and is being paid for every day in far-flung battle fields by the fittest.

In democracies we have a free press—the privilege that a rabble-rouser like Weldon enjoys and takes advantage of to spread his venom. But I'd still like to make him prove he is an American.

Communism is at work, and his letter has all the ear-marks.

He is a little toad in a big pond, but his propaganda can be very dangerous, and I can only trust that the good citizens of Peterborough and surrounding country will overlook his insults and not give him or his cohorts any chance to stir up antagonism or hatred between our two great countries.

Thank you, Mr. Editor,
MARY H. WOODS.

AN AMERICAN ANSWERS WELDON

Sir: I would like to answer the letter of J. C. Weldon, from the stand point of an American who has been visiting Canada regularly for twenty-one years.

I believe one reason why we enjoy Canada is the unfailing courtesy and kindness of Canadians to us over the years, especially in Peterborough.

As far as Peterborough goes, we look on it as a second home, and think it is a very wonderful city.

We have found very good and very poor restaurants in Peterborough, like all towns in the United States. However, we have never been treated in any way but courteously in any Canadian restaurant.

We have stayed in many Canadian Hotels and Motels, including the Empress and the new North-Court Motel and have found their prices and service compare favourably with any in the United States, in a town of this size.

I believe Canadians should charge exchange on their money, as they were on the wrong end of it for a good many years and I believe it may be a good lesson in humility for many Americans.

Our home is in Cincinnati, Ohio, a city noted for being as free of gangsters as any large American city, but believe we have more gangsters in Cincinnati to the square yard, than Peterborough has to the square mile.

Then to get to the so-called rotten politics of Canada. I think that is the all-time low in accusations from an American. I have been trying to trade Truman to the Canadians for a broken lacrosse stick, but haven't been able to make a deal. The best proof that your politics are better than ours, is the premium we are paying for Canadian dollars.

I would like to make a bet that J. C. Weldon is a Truman Democrat.

In other words, we like Canada, Canadians, Peterborough, and all it stands for, and wish to apologize for the ignorance and ill-breeding of J. C. Weldon. Small loss if he never returns to Canada. He must be a small-souled individual, indeed, to miss the beauty of Peterborough and the surrounding country, and waste his time complaining about the restaurants.

Sincerely yours,
ROY. J. GRUMBINE

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

So Jesus came again into Cana of Galilee, where he made the water wine. And there was a certain nobleman, whose son was sick at Capernaum. When he heard that Jesus was come out of Judea into Galilee, he went unto him, and besought him that he was at the point of death.

Then said Jesus unto him, Except ye see signs and wonders, ye will not believe. The nobleman said unto him, Sir, Come down ere my child die.

Jesus saith unto him, Go thy way; thy son liveth. And the man believed the word that Jesus had spoken unto him, and he went his way. And as he was now going down, his servants met him, and told him, saying, Thy son liveth.

Then enquired he of them the hour when he began to amend. And they said unto him, Yesterday at the seventh hour the fever left him. So the father knew that it was at the same hour in the which Jesus said unto him, Thy son liveth: and himself believed, and his whole house. (John 4: 46-53.)

Olympic Shells Delayed In Toronto

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HELSINKI (CP) — Word from Tom Alison in Toronto that Canada's Olympic sweep-oared shells have been delayed in Toronto has struck hard at the Olympic team oarsmen.

Allison, equipment manager for the Olympic rowing team, said in Toronto last night the flight of the Royal Dutch Airlines plane carrying the shells from Montreal to Helsinki has been postponed 48 hours. He added the airline now wants $5,000 to fly the shells over, instead of the $3,564 quoted last week.

It has been expected the shells would reach Helsinki tomorrow. Now it will probably be Friday before they arrive and are cleared through customs.

LATEST SETBACK

The setback is the latest in a series Toronto Argonauts and Hamilton Leanders have experienced since they learned last week that their boats sent to Europe for their use had been wrecked aboard ship in a North Atlantic storm.

Team manager Fred Carter has cabled Alison that if the replacement boats are not here by Friday, it will be too late and the crews will finally be convinced they will have to use Swedish boats when the Olympic rowing starts July 20.

Canadian Group Expects Receive Shells

By JACK SULLIVAN

HELSINKI (CP)—An air of expectancy gripped the Canadian Olympic camp today as the oarsmen awaited arrival of new sweep-oared shells from Canada.

Two shells arrived by ship from Stockholm yesterday.

The Canadian shells are being rushed by air from Toronto to replace those battered to pieces aboard ship during an Atlantic storm. Their lack has handicapped the training of Canadian oarsmen for the Olympic rowing scheduled to start July 20.

The oarsmen and scullers wasted most of yesterday due to the late arrival of the two sweep-oared shells by ship from Stockholm late in the day. However, the Leander and Argonaut crews managed a two-hour workout.

A front-page spread in the Helsinki papers showed the twisted mass of sculls and sweep-oars on the Helsinki wharves—the debris of the Canadian shells wrecked in the Atlantic storm.

The Canadians are receiving sympathy from all competing countries over their misfortune. Tom Pearne, Canadian Minister in Stockholm, has written a letter of thanks to newspapers in that city for the efforts of the Swedish Rowing Association and various rowing clubs to help out the oarsmen.

---

The feminine track competitors have been going great guns in training with the exception of Shirley Echel of Toronto, one of the brightest hopes in the 80-metre hurdles. She missed training yesterday for the third straight day because of knotted leg muscles which are causing some anxiety.

She's expected to resume training today, however. The tiny sprinter, the most photogenic on the Canadian team, has had her picture appearing almost daily in the Helsinki newspapers.

Alice Whitty of Vancouver, who placed first in the Hamilton Olympic trials with a high jump of five feet, yesterday made the best practice showing of her career, leaping just over five feet, one inch. Officials figure she'll wind up in the first six.

See Little Chance Any Canadian Will Win Winnipeg Golf Classic

By FRASER MACDOUGALL

WINNIPEG (CP)—Can a Canadian win the 1952 Canadian Open?

Even Canada's own golfers say they haven't a hope of overcoming tournament-hardened Americans in the $15,000 72-hole classic opening tomorrow, at the Winnipeg St. Charles Club.

Sheer weight of numbers favors the invaders. The official draw, issued last night, shows 148 golfers in the field—71 from Canada and 76 from the United States plus one competitor from South America, Robert Divicenzo of Buenos Aires.

The U.S. pros are sharpened by their year-round tournament competition. Canadian pros say they have to concentrate on teaching and other club duties and haven't the time to develop the concentration and skill needed for tournament play.

CANUCK WON IN '14

Last Canadian to win the event was Karl Keffer of Ottawa in 1914. Only break in the steady round of U.S. victories came in 1946 when Bobby Locke of South Africa captured the title with a record score of 268 at Toronto.

Lock's record seems in little danger this year over the deceptive par-72 St. Charles course where the competitive record is 67, shot two years ago by Wally Ulrich of St. Paul, Minn., one of the entries in this week's event.

Consensus is that a score of 274 to 276 will be enough to take home the $3,000 first-place prize.

Defending champion Jim Ferrier of San Francisco headed a list of top-flight Americans who checked in yesterday.

Tommy Bolt of Durham, N.C., shot a six-under-par 66 for the best practice round of the day. Stan Leonard of Vancouver, one of Canada's main hopes, went around in 68.

ACCURACY ESSENTIAL

If Ferrier can get his putter to work he may be the first man to win the Canadian Open three times in succession. The course is made to order for the transplanted Australian who plays every shot with studied deliberation. Not long—it will play at 6,377 yards—it calls for accuracy rather than length off the tee, backed up by good putting. But on the U.S. tournament circuit this year, Ferrier's puttee has not been working in its accustomed style.

Two other former champions are listed in the draw—Dutch Harrison, 1949 winner, and Lawson Little, 1936 champion.

The field is cut to low 100 and tied for the third 18-hole round Friday and to low 60 and ties for the final Saturday.

Here And There In Sports

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Prime Minister Urho Kekkonen of Finland predicts that the stars of the 1952 Olympic Games will be Bob Mathias and Mal Whitfield of the United States and Emil Zatopek of Czechoslovakia.

It could only happen in Finland—a Prime Minister so well posted he can deliver authoritative opinions on sports. It is no accident. Dr. Kekkonen in 1924 was Finnish high jump champion at 1.85 metres.

"I think every Olympic track record, with four exceptions, probably will be bettered here," he said in an interview in Helsinki yesterday. "Finland will be lucky to win two championships, the javelin and marathon."

Mathias, from Tulare, Calif., is the defending Olympic champion in the decathlon and the world record holder. This is a 10-percent test of all-round skill and stamina.

Whitfield is an Ohio State Negro who won the 800-metre event in 1948 at London and is out to retain his championship and add the 400-metre title to it. Zatopek, the world's best distance runner, may try to win the 5,000 and 10,000 metres and marathon. He won the 10,000 at London in 1948.

The four Olympic records that Dr. Kekkonen thinks will stand up are: 100-metres, :10.3, Eddie Tolan, U.S., 1932, and Harrison Dillard, U.S., 1948; 110-metre hurdles, :13.9, W. F. Porter, U.S., 1948; broad jump, 8.06 metres—26 feet, 5 5-16 inches—Jesse Owens, U.S., 1936; and hop, step and jump, 16.00 metres, Naota Tajima, Japan, 1936.

Bowlers Score Two Victories

NOTTINGHAM, England (CP)—Canada's touring bowlers headed into the centre of England today after recording two victories against seven defeats in an 11-day swing through Scotland.

The 30-member lawn bowling team, now about halfway through a three-month program of matches, sightseeing and civic entertainment, completed its Scottish tour last week and then headed across the border to Carlisle and Newcastle-on-Tyne.

The two Canadian victories in Scotland were at Broughty Ferry near Dundee, where the tourists won 118-84, and at Glasgow, where the score was 102-78. Losing matches were played at Portobello, Stirling, Edinburgh, Aberdeen, Dumbarton, Motherwell and Ayr.

K. B. McKellar of Toronto, captain of the touring team, hit the front pages with a speech he made in Carlisle. McKellar, a British manufacturers agent in Canada, said at a civic welcome Britain's famous textile companies are still favorably known in Canada, "but a matter of no little regret is that your standard of workmanship and examination is slipping."

Pre-Olympic Tryouts Start In Basketball

Canada Downs Romanian Team 72-51

HELSINKI (CP)—Canada's Olympic basketball team today defeated Romania 72-51 in their second-round elimination contest. Canada yesterday defeated Italy 68-57.

The Canadians overpowered the speedy but awkward Romanians mainly on the work of towering Harry Wade, the six-foot, four-inch centre from Tillsonburg.

Wade roved under the basket throughout the game, using his height to advantage and tapping in nine field goals. The Romanians ran into trouble trying to guard him and he was awarded 12 free throws. Wade made eight of them good.

SECOND VICTORY

Romania was never in the game after the first half, when it trailed 28-21. Mihai Naghv racked up 14 points for the eastern European team, which was playing its first game in the pre-tournament qualifications. Romania got a bye in the first round.

Canada has now won two games, and seems sure of one of the six places left open in the 16-team Olympic tournament starting July 23.

In the 1948 Olympics Canada placed ninth in the basketball competition.

Behind Wade's point total of 26 was Bob Phibbs, a Tillsonburg teammate, with 12. Other scorers: Glen Pettinger 9, Woody Campbell 7, Bob Pickell, 5, Bill Pataky 4, Carl Ridd and Bill Coulthard 3, George Wearing 2, and Roy Williams 1.

Russian Soccer Team Takes On Bulgaria At Olympics

By BEN PHLEGAR

HELSINKI (AP)—Soviet Russia enters Olympic competition tonight for the first time.

On the soccer field at Kotka, a bare 32 miles from the Russian border, the husky All-Star team from Moscow will meet their friendly neighbors from Bulgaria. The match is one of nine preliminaries to the genuine Olympic soccer competition, which begins Saturday.

The game probably will be a good one even though the Soviets make a habit of mopping up on their eastern European allies in sports. The Russians are a prime favorite to win the Olympic soccer event. Bulgaria, however, played this same team to a 1-1 draw in a recent practice game in Moscow.

RUSSIANS TAKE SPOTLIGHT

The Russian show will steal the Olympic spotlight away from Helsinki even though full-scale Olympic competition opens in field hockey in this clean, modern city this evening. Switzerland plays Austria and Finland meets Belgium. Field hockey will complete all its matches up to the semi-finals before the official opening of the games Saturday.

In the other soccer games tonight Yugoslavia will meet India, Hungary will play Romania, Poland will tackle France and Denmark will face Greece.

The preliminary basketball competition, designed to chop an original entry of 23 down to 16 by the time the Games open, runs into its second day of double elimination.

CHINESE DISPUTE UNSETTLED

While the competition was going on, the Chinese situation continued to fizzle like a damp firecracker. Both Nationalist and Communist China want to play, but they face a long battle in the International Olympic Committee before they can get permission.

The I.O.C. does not begin its meetings until tomorrow and the preliminary tournament may easily be completed by the time a decision is made.

Burtol's started the senior city finals in the Girls 'Softball League with a 7-3 triumph over Ashby's at the Bowl last evening. M. Gillen led the Burtol batters with two in four attempts, one being a homer. B. Rumball also hit for the circuit. M. Hawthorne and A. Anderson shone afield. M. # SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Milt Dunnell of the Star remarks: "The Olympic trials at Hamilton were the biggest outdoor show the spiked shoe people have had in four years. But we'd have to guess fewer than 7,000 people attended the two performances. There couldn't have been 5,000 on hand for the afternoon show, and a good portion of them left after the draw for the TV set. Sagging interest among the people who pay at the gate is reflected in the preference of the athletes. The kids like to take part in the sports that attract the bands and the cheer leaders — not to mention the professional contracts."

* * * * * *

Yes, we have been noticing for the past year the falling off in gate receipts for most sports. Senior lacrosse crowds are holding up fairly well, though down a bit from last year. There has been a big slump in interest here in baseball, softball, football and hockey. The latter in particular has been poor, since there are few counter attractions in sports during the winter months and the puck game used to draw well. Money must be tightening up or mayhap there's the fear of a possible depression coming — anyway, folks are not nearly as free with their dough as a couple of years ago. This is quite marked in athletic attractions.

Young Petes Show 'Em

Intermediate ball clubs around this part of the province aren't taking too kindly to the showing put up lately by the junior baseballers from Peterborough. These Lakeshore teams didn't expect the Young Petes to win a single game in this schedule—yet the local lads have won three recently, beating Colborne twice and Lindsay once. As well as coming mighty close on several other occasions. They'd sure get a kick out of beating the leading Bowmanville team at eight tonight here, though that's quite a job. Not many clubs in the circuit can pluck the Roses. However, odd things do happen in baseball. Should be quite a tussle this e'en.

* * * * * *

Quinte columnist grinds this item out on his mill: "The Redman had better start hiking up their baseball britches at once. Championships are not won on reputations, and they're a long way from being out of the woods yet. Peterborough is showing signs of strength, as is Kingston. It is anybody's league yet and, while the competition is getting keener, the Reds had better give up any ideas that the title is to be had by merely going through the motions." He says in their last game at Kingston, Mouse Bush of the Reds threatened Umpire Pointer with a bat and is alleged to have hit him with his fist ere Umpire Reason tossed him out of the game. Gunner Whitehill was suspended a game for less than that.

Baseballic Petes Rollin'

That was a fine senior ball game at Riverside last e'en as the Petes resumed their winning ways to knock off the leading Quinte crew 5-3. Puts 'em in a tie with Kingston, and the K's are here at 8:30 tomorrow (Wednesday) night for an important one. The Petes will carry on if they get the fan support, but they've been drawing slim crowds to date and running well in the red. Yet they're playing good ball. Had the hurling and fielding last p.m., plus some timely hitting in a close contest. Their nifty bunts paid off in the last of the seventh as they came from behind on smart work and swell baserunning. Yes, it was good ball all the way against strong opponents. They promise to take the K's on the morrow, too.

Burtol's opened the Girls' Softball League senior city finals last e'en with a 7-3 victory over Ashby's. Neat twirling on both sides, but the victors went better afield and bunched blows in a couple of frames for the verdict. Haven't heard how long their series is, but imagine they meet again tomorrow. Marines began their intermediate semi-final series with a 12-2 triumph o'er Cobourg in the other half of the twin bill. This is probably a best-of-three series, since Belleville and the loser of the senior series will also be in the intermediate sawoffs. These teams likely tangle again Wednesday night.

Becker Fired As Manager Of Toronto Maple Leafs

TORONTO (CP)—Joe Becker was fired early today as manager of Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League and Burleigh Grimes was appointed as his successor.

Owner Jack Kent Cooke announced the change a few hours after the fourth-place Leafs dropped a 10-inning 8-4 decision to Ottawa Athletics.

Grimes, one of the last of the spitball pitchers for Brooklyn Dodgers in the 20s and 30s, managed Toronto for two seasons and part of a third, leading the Leafs to their last pennant in 1943.

Cooke said Grimes has left his post as a scout for New York Yankees and will fly to Ottawa to take charge of the Leafs for tonight's doubleheader against the Athletics.

The Leaf owner said Becker's salary will be paid for the remainder of the season and that he will offer the deposed manager a front-office job.

Frank Colman of London, Ont., will be retained as playing coach.

Becker had been manager of the club since the start of the 1951 season.

Marines Gain First One Over Cobourg

Marines trimmed Cobourg 12-2 at the Bowl last night to open their intermediate playoff series in the Girls Softball League. E. Whittaker pitched five-hit ball, fanning 10, and she had good support. Marines got 13 safe hits, as Cobourg booted a couple in a fair fray. The visitors got both their runs in the eighth.

Reynolds Leads League Pitchers

NEW YORK (AP)—Allie Reynolds of New York Yankees is the American League's most effective pitcher today although he holds only a slight edge over Philadelphia's Bobby Shantz and Mike Garcia, Cleveland's hard-working righthander.

Earned-run averages through games of last Sunday disclose that Reynolds has allowed only 22 earned runs in 136 innings for a 1.46 average. Allie has an 11-4 record.

Shantz is close behind the Yankee ace with 1.65, followed by Garcia at 1.67. Bobby, a 15-game winner, has permitted 29 earned runs in 158 innings while Garcia, with 13 victories and six setbacks, has given up 3 earned tallies in 162 frames.

In the National League, lefthander Curt Simmons of Philadelphia Phillies, making a strong comeback after nearly two years in the army, boasts the lowest earned-run average, 2.03. Robin Roberts, another of Steve O'Neil's hurlers, is next in line with 2.24. Simmons has allowed 21 earned runs in 93 innings and Roberts 42 in 169.

Quakers Triumph

Quakers edged Norwood fastballers 6-4 in a nifty encounter at Quaker Park last night. They got two runs the first time up, adding three in the third and one more in the fourth. Norwood scored four in the third. They had eight hits to 11 and two errors against three for the winners. Althouse led the losers at bat with three for four, as Hillier got two in three for Quakers. Two hits also were gained by Sargent, Nolan, Ash and Prescott. Teams:

The losers got one each in the first and third and two apiece in the fourth and fifth. Play was close enough, but walks figured in a number of the markers. Teams:

B'nai B'rith: Bradley, Pagett, Huill, Smith, Brierly, Bloom, Evans, Staves, Elliott, Peters.

Post Office: Maher, Smith, Reed, Loucks, Moore, Wallwork, Willshaw, Coombes, Thirnbeck, Wilson.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Arthur Fagg, Kent professional, scored 244 and 202 not out against Essex in a county championship match concluded 14 years ago today at Colchester, England, to set a world record in first-class cricket. It was the first—and only time to date—that double-centuries in consecutive innings had been recorded in the same match.

Brampton Boys Take Win In Junior O.L.A.

Brampton juniors edged Peterborough 11-9, Monday night at Miller Bowl in one of the stiffest lacrosse battles seen this year. The season's best crowd to date, witnessed the hard fought duel, in answer to the appeals made recently to come out and see the type of lacrosse dished up by the younger fry.

A strong fourth period drive by the visitors, spelled defeat for Lou Vitarelli's boys as, sparked by Jack Bionda, (who scored three and seemed as hard to stop as Concher, in the late stages) the boys from the flower town rattled five tallies past Hickson against goals by Bob Allan and Rog. Smith, to wipe away a 7-6 deficit and win by a whisker. It was anybody's game until Floyd Smith whistled home an insurance counter at 15:50 in the finale after the teams had battled tooth and nail for over 65 minutes of gruelling two-way action, with little to choose between the strong rivals.

EARLY LEAD

Filter Queens took a 4-1 lead in the fast first frame, held a 5-4 edge at the half-way mark and drove doggedly to maintain their proportionate margin at the three-quarter stop. But the visitors proved a little better in the fourth to eke out the necessary margin of victory. For the winners, Bionda scored five and had two assists; Floyd Smith tallied twice; while Woods, Laidlaw, McCann and Caruso each dented the mesh once. For Lou's fighting boys, Bev Groves and Bob Allan each sank a pair, the former aiding on one as well; Rog Smith set up three; Steve Morrissey, Bob Curtis, Rock Batley and Roy Mullins each fired a single bullet while Carl Brioux and Frank Farley garnered assists. Credit was due all hands however, on both teams. The game was essentially clean with but nine penalties, five to Brampton.

Brampton: Goal, Dodds; defence, Woods, Savage; centre, Smith; wings, McLoughlin, Russell; rover, Watkins; alts., Caruso, Watson, Hilson, Blair, Laidlaw, McCann, Bionda.

Peterborough: Goal, Hickson; defence, Groves, Brioux; centre, Smith; wings, Curtis, Mullins; rover, O'Reilly; alts., Batley, Fitzgerald, Allan, McIlmoyle, Morrissey, Daniels, Farley, Nicholls.

Referees—Lou Vipond and Alex Edmunds.

Notwithstanding the extremely hot weather the boys turned out well to play in the second and third rounds of the club singles. The next round will be the quarter-finals—when the committee sets the date—we'll pass it along.

We expect, in a day or two, to have the draw for the provincial playoff games. There are six pairs entered in the doubles, one entry in the singles and none at all in the rinks.

Tomorrow night mixed rinks, draw from the board at 7:30 o'clock.

Friday night—Men's trebles, draw from the board also at 7:30 o'clock.

Petes Beat Redmen, 5 To 3 In Nifty C.O.B.L. Fray To Tie Kingston In Second

Beating Belleville Redmen 5-3 here last night, the Petes climbed into a second-place C.O.B.L. tie with Kingston Monarchs. Strategy paid off in the seventh inning when they came from behind with a three-run drive on bunts and a few timely clouts to capture their third straight victory. Lefty Bill Dadson replaced Phil Clancy on the home mound to open the eighth inning, while Johnny Mowat went the route for the Quinte crew. Dadson led the Petes at bat with one for one, while Joe Lowrey got two in four tries, and Arn Dugan smashed out a triple. Mowat and Bill Strathan topped the visitors at the plate with two for four each, Ralph McCabe clouting a double. A running catch by Lowrey and pickups by Freddy Garvey and Bill Edger were defensive features in a keen contest.

WENT GOOD

Clancy was in fine slab form till the seventh inning when the Reds banged in three runs, one of them unearned. He had allowed but three hits till then and no walks, while fanning six. Dadson hit for him in the seventh and finished strong on the mound. Mowat threw good ball, too, but was beaten by the four cagy clouts in the seventh. His support was perfect, while the Petes had two minor bobbles afield.

The homesters scored one in the third inning when Lowrey singled and stole second, racing in on a blow to centre by Edger. They made it 2-0 in the sixth when Garvey hit to left, moved up on an out, and tore in on Young's bingle to right. Dugan's triple to left with none out in the fifth was wasted as he died on third.

TOOK THE LEAD

Belleville evened the count and went a run up in the first of the seventh. With one away, McCabe doubled to left. Reeves was safe on an infield error, McCabe holding second. Semark grounded in front of the plate and Menzies threw McCabe out at third, Reeves taking second on the fielder's choice. Strahan's hit scored Reeves and put Semark on second. Mowat singled to send in Semark, and Gilmore's blow scored Strahan.

Pagett singled in the last of the second to start the Petes off. Dadson beat out a bunt and Lowrey did likewise to load the sacks. Edger squeezed a run in with a perfect sacrifice. Garvey was safe on a fielder's choice as Lowrey was thrown out, but Dadson scored, and Menzies' hit to centre sent in Garvey to make it 5-3. The box score:

Assign Police Guard To Protect Spahn

CHICAGO (AP)—A letter threatening pitcher Warren Spahn of Boston Braves prompted police yesterday to assign a detail to guard the star hurler during his three-game stay in Chicago.

Police said the letter apparently was inspired by the June 8 injury of Frank Baumholtz, Cub outfielder. Baumholtz suffered a broken right hand when hit by one of Spahn's pitches.

The letter was sent to Spahn in Pittsburgh, contained a newspaper clipping of the Baumholtz injury and was unsigned, police said.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

The most compelling figure in Olympic Games trials anywhere—perhaps in the games themselves—will be a blind man.

There's something heart-catching about the blind, their struggle against the unkind and tragic blows of Fate that have robbed them of the opportunity to see the physical beauties and the color of a very wonderful world. And there's something even more poignantly gripping and profoundly impressive in the struggle of those in the dark to maintain some parallel with the life they cannot see.

So we believe that an almost blind athlete, who has completely lost the sight of one eye, and the other seriously affected, offers a most heroic figure among the great athletes of this continent who will compete for places on the United States Olympic team.

The gallant athlete in question is Bill Bangert. He finished fourth in the shotput feature of the National Indoor track championships held at Madison Square Garden recently. He put the 16-pound weight 52 feet 10¼ inches, which was one-quarter of an inch better than his title-winning toss in 1945. Jim Fuchs, world champion, won with 56 feet, 3⅛ inches.

The remarkable part of Bangert's feat was that the almost sightless athlete had to be led to the putting ring where, of course, he was on his own.

Amazingly, this blind young giant's recent effort was better than any Olympic record prior to that of the London Games, when W. M. Thompson won with 56 feet 2 inches. In that event the great American athlete, Fuchs was third with a put almost exactly the same as Bangert's 53 feet, 10½ inches.

The mighty Ralph Rose, four times U.S. national champion and twice Olympic winner, could not do as well as this sightless boy has done. Rose's best was an even 51 feet.

Bangert's determination and tremendous courage in the face of a disheartening physical condition, are typical of his entire life—in business, sports. Before his eye-sight failed, he was a varsity football player as well as shot and discus star at Missouri University and later at Purdue. He reached the national amateur heavyweight boxing final. He made a success as a road-builder. He even did a good job as a singer, but it took too much time from business.

The world will wish this gallant soul well in his battle for Olympic fame. Indeed the world admires all athletes who, despite physical handicaps, make their way well along the athletic trail. But those who live in the twilight of vision far below the normal are the most compelling of all, and it is amazing how, in several varieties of sport, they have risen above a deficiency which might be thought insurmountable.

Athletes whose eyesight is below normal dot the baseball picture. There are a dozen be-spectacled stars in baseball, in the major leagues, several in the minors. They are by no means blind, of course, but their eye-sight is not good. Yet they have overcome that handicap. Several players in major hockey have worn glasses. Hal Laycoe of Boston Bruins is one. When Canadiens won the Stanley Cup in 1946, one of their stars was the whirlwind "Dutch" Hiller, a little bit of a be-spectacled player who could really fly, but whose defective vision forced him to wear heavy glasses.

Royals Beat Out Rochester In 9-4 Triumph

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Montreal Royals today are enjoying their biggest lead of the International League season. But they have five more games coming up with second-place Rochester and they'll have to keep winning as they did last night to stay that far in front.

The first contest of the lengthy series saw the Royals come up with a five-run ninth to break a 4-4 tie and win 9-4.

In other games, third-place Syracuse, only one-half game behind Rochester, whipped Baltimore 13-2; Ottawa topped Toronto 8-4, and Buffalo beat Springfield 10-3.

MAURO HOMERS

Carmen Mauro led off the Montreal ninth with a solo homer and an error, a wild pitch and four safeties followed as the roof fell in on Wings starter Jack Faszholz, the loser, and reliefer Jackie Collum.

Art Fabro, who hurled two scoreless relief innings, got the win. In addition to Mauro, Walt Moryn connected for Royals and Steve Bilko and Lou Ortiz for the losers.

Syracuse got a five-hit pitching job from Jack Griffore as they picked up 15 themselves off three Baltimore hurlers. League-leader Roy Weatherly blasted his 16th homer for the Orioles. Loren Babe, Hank Workman and Fenton Mole had round-trippers for the Chiefs.

Ottawa also went on a homer splurge to rout Toronto ace Johnny Hetki, although reliver Jess Dobernic was the loser. A grand-slam by Johnny Metkovich broke a 4-4 stalemate in the last of the ninth. Earlier Lou Limmer apd Kirk had four-baggers for the winners. Joe Murray, in relief, won his sixth against three losses.

Bobby Mavis singled with the bases loaded in both the first and second innings as Buffalo scored four times in each frame over Springfield.

Tigers Defeat Athletics 12-8

HAMILTON (CP)—Hamilton Tigers last night downed St. Catharines Athletics 12-8 in a scheduled Ontario Lacrosse Association senior A fixture.

Jack Dorney was top man for the Tigers, banging in five goals in a game that was marked by hectic moments. Both St. Catharines coach Joe Cheevers and Hamilton trainer Bud Minet were expelled from the park for arguing midway through the game.

They'll Do It Every Time

Leagues Change Methods In Scoring

By JIM KENSIL

NEW YORK (AP)—It's been a baseball maxim for years to say American Leaguers go for the big inning while the National boys are content to play for the one run.

But now with the display of power hitting by the senior circuit players in the last few All-Star games and with the current home-run and runs-batted-in totals showing the American League leaders trailing the National, one begins to wonder.

MARION'S VIEW

Marty Marion, 1951 St. Louis Cardinal skipper and for the last five weeks manager of St. Louis Browns, views it this way:

"Leagues don't mean anything. The ball players are what count. If in the past the American Leaguers consistently went for the big inning, it was because they had the material.

"Take us, for instance. We're an American League club, but we haven't the power to go for the big inning. We have to play for the one run."

Marty says he's too busy right now trying to find out what's wrong with the Browns to be bothered about the National League. But he agrees that the N.L. dominance in homer and runs-batted-in leaders shows the loop holds a significant edge in power.

However, the slim shortstop doesn't think any team in the National can compare with New York Yankees.

"Not even Brooklyn. The Yanks may not have the sluggers they used to have or may not have as many long-ball hitters as the Dodgers, but they have the balance. They're more balanced than any other club."

Name Gerry Brown Coach Of Generals

OSHAWA (CP)—Gerry Brown, veteran performer of the American Hockey League Hershey Bears, yesterday was appointed coach of Oshawa Generals of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A circuit.

Brown will replace Larry Aurie, the former Detroit Red Wing star. His appointment is in line with Boston Bruin policies. The National Hockey League club has taken over sponsorship of the Generals.

OLD STAR DIES

George C. Wagner, 92, St. Louis Browns shortstop in 1883-84, died at Okawville, Ill., Sunday of infirmities. His 1883 contract, which will go to the baseball Hall of Fame museum at Cooperstown, N.Y., called for a salary of $175 a month.

Say Parker Belongs To Winnipeg Giants

WINNIPEG (CP)—Curly Haas, business manager of Winnipeg Giants in the Mandak Baseball League, said yesterday that pitcher Tom Parker is Giant property and will stay that way.

Brantford Red Sox of Ontario's senior Intercounty League is irked because Parker left two weeks ago, apparently to see his mother before a delicate eye operation, and promised to be back.

Haas said Parker, who played for Giants last year, had merely renewed his contract.

FEDEROFF TO TIGERS

Detroit Tigers yesterday recalled second baseman Al Federoff from their Buffalo farm club in an effort to bolster an infield weakened when the regular Tiger second baseman, Jerry Priddy, broke his leg July 6. Federoff currently sports a .291 average.

Yanks Bow To Tigers 8-2 As Washington Clips Indians

By JOE REICHLER, Associated Press Sports Writer

Cleveland and New York, the titans of the American League, clash at Yankee Stadium tonight in the first game of a vital five-game series with first place at stake. The Indians can wrest the top rung from the Yankees if they win all five games. trail by 3½ games.

At the same time, Chicago's third-place White Sox and Boston's fourth-place Red Sox meet in the first game of a three-game series at Fenway Park.

All four contenders suffered surprising defeats by second-division clubs yesterday.

YANKS LOSE 8-2

The Yankees bowed to Detroit's tail-end Tigers 8-2; Washington whipped the Indians 15-4; St. Louis Browns thrashed the Red Sox 7-5 and Philadelphia Athletics edged the White Sox 2-1.

In curtailed National League activity, Brooklyn maintained its 5½-game advantage over New York with a 6-0 triumph in St. Louis after the giants had vanquished the Reds 6-2 in Cincinnati. Rain postponed the scheduled Phillies-Cubs game in Chicago. Boston and Pittsburgh were not scheduled.

Cleveland has won three of four in New York this season. All three triumphs came in the opening series here last May. The Yankees have captured four of six in Cleveland.

The Indians will be bolstered by the return of Luke Easter. The big Negro first baseman was recalled from Indianapolis yesterday and ordered to join the Indians in time for tonight's game. Luke was sent down June 30 "to regain his confidence and batting eye." He was hitting .208 at the time and had been guilty of numerous fielding miscues.

BATTING IMPROVES

In his first five games with the American Association club, Easter batted .385, hit four home runs and drove in seven runs.

Dave Madison hurled eight scoreless innings for the Browns yesterday but was batted out of the box in a hectic ninth when Boston got its five runs. Dick Gernert hit a three-run homer.

The Yankees gave one of their poorest exhibitions of the season against Detroit, committing two errors, handing out six walks and leaving 15 runners stranded.

Carl Erskine turned back the fast-moving Cardinals with three hits as he recorded his third shutout and his ninth win for Brooklyn.

Bobby Thomson and Whitey Lockman cracked four hits apiece to help the Giants down the Reds as Jim Hearn picked up his 10th victory.

Try To Halt Costa Playing For Montreal

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—A court order restraining Elmer H. Costa of Haledon from playing football with Montreal Alouettes was issued yesterday, but Costa was already on his way to Canada.

Judge Haydn Proctor issued the restraining order on the application of Green Bay Packers of the professional National Football League, who said Costa had a contract to play with them. The court ordered Costa to show cause July 22 why a permanent injunction should not be issued barring him from playing with anybody except the Packers.

Tri-Service Hospital Recommended

OTTAWA (CP)—Construction of a tri-service hospital in Ottawa as a step towards greater integration of the medical services of the three armed forces is understood to be among the important recommendations of a committee which recently studied the Defence Department's medical setup.

START OF PROGRAM

The report of the four-man committee, headed by Dr. G. E. Hall, president of the University of Western Ontario, was presented to defence headquarters recently.

The report is understood to see a tri-service hospital in the capital as the start of a program of getting personnel of the three forces working together in what would be not only a hospital but a training ground.

Eventual establishment of other tri-service hospitals elsewhere in the country also is believed to figure in the recommendations.

At present military hospitals are operated by one service which, however, does not prevent men of other services being treated there.

Vet Hitchhikes Across Ocean To See Folks

LONDON (CP)—Probably few Korean veterans think of hitchhiking across the Atlantic while on 30-day leave in Canada, but that's what happened to Gnr. Charles Bailey of the 2nd Field Regiment, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery.

After serving 13 months in Korea, Bailey went home late in May. Arriving in Vancouver entitled to a travel warrant good for any destination in Canada, he went to St. John's, Nfld., hoping to hitch a ride from there to the Rhondda Valley in Wales, home of his mother, father, brothers and sisters.

The services proved co-operative and a few days later Bailey boarded an R.C.A.F plane at Dorval airport, headed for London airport along with a group of trainees on a routine operational training flight. Now he's in Ferndale, Wales, with his family.

A native of Wales, Bailey joined the R.A.F in the Second World War but was dishcarged when found to be only 15 years old. When the war ended, he joined the merchant navy, settled in Saint John, N.B., and worked for a time in Montreal and Toronto.

In Korea, Bailey served as a singals assistant to foward observation posts. He saw action in the Han River crossing and in the battle of the Imjin River.

Williams Certified Bargaining Agent

TORONTO (CP)—Arthur Williams, assistant Canadian director of the United Construction Workers' Union (A.F.L.-C.C.L.), announced yesterday the union has been certified as baraining agent for workers in the Canadian Industries Limited nylon plant at Maitland, four miles east of Brockville.

Plan To Cut Expense Of British Museums

LONDON (Reuters)—The government last night pushed through by a vote of 220 to 177 a plan to cut the expense of Britain's art galleries and museums.

In a last-minute concession, the government announced that the treasury will reconsider the proposed cuts if they actually force museums to close.

The Labor opposition had charged the government with imposing the heaviest restrictions in history on the culture centres to save only 30,000 pounds a year.

Fire Sweeps Paint Shop

WELLAND (CP)—Damage in excess of $60,000 was caused yesterday when fire swept the J. C. MacIver and Sons paint and decorating shop in the west-end business section. ## To Conciliate Dispute

TORONTO (CP) — Negotiations between employees and nine Ontario pulp and paper companies will be heard before a conciliation board, it was announced yesterday. The 13,000 employees, members of 12 unions, are asking a 20-cent-an-hour pay increase. Basic rate now is $1.30. Negotiations, under way since the old contract expired May 1, broke down Friday. Operations are continuing under the old agreement.

Paris Celebrates Bastille Day In Gay Spirit

PARIS (AP)—Parisians danced and sang yesterday around the great metal column which is all that remains of the grim old Bastille prison whose capture 162 years ago touched off the French revolution.

Bastille Day—France's national holiday—was celebrated both here and in French possessions overseas.

Through the brilliantly-lit capital there were fireworks, dancing in the streets and gay parties

The country put much of its military might on display in a parade of 13,250 soldiers, 220 tanks and military vehicles which poured down the wide Champs Elysees, from the Arc de Triomphe to the Place de la Concorde.

The procession was reviewed by President Vincent Auriol.

Says Miss Italy Doesn't Like Her

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—"Miss Universe" said yesterday "Miss Italy doesn't like her. "I don't know why," she added.

Blonde Armi Helena Kuusela of Finland, who won the title recently at Long Beach, Calif., was commenting on a statement by the Italian entry, Giovanna Mazotti, 19, who said the contest was "rigged" in favor of Miss Finland as an Olympic Games publicity stunt.

Miss Kuusela, visiting an uncle here, said:

"Ah! I remember Miss Italy very well. . . She didn't like me. I like her anyway."

She said the contest had nothing to do with the Olympics, where she will greet the athletes.

Two Men Win Bravery Awards

OTTAWA (CP) — A Montreal lieutenant and a Milltown, N.B., corporal of the 1st battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, have won gallantry awards for action during a patrol sortie in Korea, the army announced last night.

Lieut. Allan Peterson, 30, of Montreal and Petawawa, won the Military Cross.

Cpl. Arthur Irvine Stinson, 21, second-in-command on the patrol last May 31, won the Military Medal. He was wounded in the action.

The assault was on a hill in front of the area occupied by "A" company of the R.C.R., and was carried out by Lieut. Peterson and 22 other ranks. Two patrols previously had failed to do the job.

Lieut. Peterson was cited for "outstanding leadership, courage and utter disregard for personal safety." Cpl. Stinson's citation mentioned his "leadership, courage, initiative and dash."

For service in Korea, members of the 25th Canadian infantry brigade have received 105 awards. One has been awarded the C.B., one the C.B.E., three the D.S.O., six the O.B.E., one the M.B.E., seven the M.C., six the D.C.M., 22 the M.M., four the B.E.M. and 54 Mention-in-Dispatches.

"We've got our telephone!"

Another 800 families in Peterborough have been calling their friends to say: "We've got our telephone." That makes more than 11,000 homes now enjoying the friendliness and convenience of a telephone—an increase of 60% in the past five years.

To serve our new customers, an extensive addition has been made to our dial equipment in the telephone building on Hunter Street. A further installation, to be completed next year, will provide service for another 20 homes in the rural area.

This expansion of Peterborough's telephone service is part of our program to provide telephones wherever community growth demands it.

FALLING PLASTER

Nobody was injured when a quantity of plaster fell today in the registry office of the County Courthouse. However, it made a mess of the vault and part of J. R. Corkery's office. Clerks said today that this is a summerly occurrence. The plaster apparently gets damp from the humidity and falls off.

TWO GRASS FIRES

Firemen were called out for two grassfires Monday afternoon. One was on a vacant lot, owned by Central Mortgage and Housing, behind 538 Rose Ave. The fire burnt itself out. Later in the afternoon there was a grassfire at the rear of 516 Sherbrooke St. It was put out with a garden hose.

NEED CADDIES

Caddies are wanted for the ladies' golf tournament Wednesday at the Peterborough Golf Club. Play is for the Marjory DeGraw Trophy and will attract some of the top talent among lady golfers of the province, including the champion, Mary Gay. Stan McBride asks caddies to report at eight for the all-day competition.

INVESTIGATE FIRE

The Ontario Fire Marshal's department is sending an investigator to try to establish cause of the fire in which Mrs. Fred Harran lost her life when the summer hotel owned by her husband in Caesarea burned to the ground early Sunday morning. All that is left from the fire is a pile of blackened rubble.

THORNCLIFFE WINNERS

Jimmy McIntyre was on the gig behind J. J. Crowley's Jimmy Forbes, winner of the fourth heat of a mile at Thorncliffe Monday. Time for the mile was 2.14, and the Peterborough standard-bred paid $5.50. McIntyre also drove Gadabout, winner of the last heat Saturday, a mile, in the good time of 2.09 3-5. The mutuel ticket was for $9.80. The Peterborough entry, Aprilway, was second at $4 even.

WATER AFFINITY

Chemong lake seems to have an attraction for rain. Last week when Peterborough went with only a drop or two of rain, the lower end of Chemong was nearly drowned under a downpour. And Monday about supper time high winds brought a good shower of rain to Bridgenorth on the lake, but you could count the number of the rain drops that fell in Peterborough on the fingers of one hand.

Sgt. J. K. Smith Appointed To Local O.P.P. District

Sgt. J. K. Smith is the latest appointee to the O.P.P. staff at No. 8 District headquarters here in Peterborough. He replaces Sgt. Lloyd McClure who was transferred to Sudbury.

For the N.C.O.s it was a case of switch-about. Sgt. Smith comes here from Sudbury where he has been for the last three years.

Altogether Sgt. Smith has been in the O.P.P. some 15 years. His continuous service began in 1937; several years previous to that he served briefly with the O.P.P.

He is a native of Hamilton but has had most of his police experience in No. 4 district with headquarters at Niagara Falls. He was there eight years, at various times stationed in Niagara Falls itself, Hagersville and Cayuga.

Other places Sgt. Smith served on detachment were Lucan, Caledonia, Tilbury and Toronto. He went to Sudbury three years ago, serving under Inspector J. A. Stringer, now in Peterborough, and under his successor in Sudbury, Inspector Price Morris.

Sgt. Smith was made sergeant in 1949 and he got his corporal's stripes more than two years earlier.

He is married and has a son of school age. At present he is looking around for a house or apartment before he sends for his family.

Firemen Squelch Lakefield Blaze

Prompt action by the Lakefield volunteer fire brigade Monday afternoon prevented a serious fire from catching hold at the Lakefield Creamery. As it was, the blaze was extinguished in less than 45 minutes.

Damage will be several hundred dollars.

An overheated chimney started a fire in the rafters directly over the furnace. From there the flames spread horizontally and got through the roof in one place.

As the two pumpers drove up, the volunteers could see the single tongue of flame coming out of the roof. Under the direction of Deputy Chief William Hamblin, they laid hoseline and rapidly brought the fire under control.

Preliminary work in snuffing out the blaze was done by the employees. They seized a garden hose that was already connected (used for washing the floor at the creamery) and played it on the burning rafters.

Township's Share Of Assessment Jumps

Monthly meeting of the North Monaghan township council was held Monday night at the county courthouse.

The following accounts were passed for payment: expenses collecting dog taxes $24.60; roads and streets $1,506.52; printing and postage $75.68; schools $2,500; relief and welfare $42.23; compensation for sheep killed by dogs $123 (including fee paid livestock valuer).

Equalized assessment for Peterborough county showed that North Monaghan's share had increased by more than $80,000, Township Clerk Bruce Johnston pointed out.

Council set the date for the court of revision for added assessment. Appeals on the last six months' assessment, dating from July 1 to December 31, will be heard in the Peterborough County courthouse August 11, 7:30 p.m.

Couldn't Swim Youth Drowns

PORT HOPE — Nineteen-year-old Bruce Goodman, a non-swimmer, drowned Sunday afternoon in the Ganaraska River two miles north of here. The youth lost his grip on a log and slipped into a hole.

Two women swiming nearby pulled him almost from the water only to have him slip from their grasp and sink out of sight.

The youth, whose home is in R.R. 2, Port Hope, was riding on the water holding onto a discarded railway tie. Mrs. Edward Goss, of Toronto, said she saw the youth lose his grip, but did not realize at first he could not swim.

TRIED TO SAVE HIM

Mrs. Paul Casey, a sister of Mrs. Goss, and Mrs. Harvey Boughen attempted to save Goodman from the river.

He resisted their attempt to save him, and almost dragged Mrs. Boughen under.

Mrs. Goss in the meantime had telephoned the Port Hope fire department. They responded and brought their inhalator and dragging apparatus to the site of the tragedy, about half a mile from Highway 2A.

Fireman Jack Mitchell stumbled over Goodman's body in about six feet of water, and with the aid of other firemen brought him to shore.

Inhalator treatment was started, but Goodman failed to respond, and he was later given heart stimulants by Dr. E. L. Wrathall, who attended him. These were not effective.

Plan To Build Big Army Camp

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's biggest army camp, one that may eventually absorb an area half the size of Prince Edward Island, will be constructed in New Brunswick, it was learned today.

The green light is expected to be given shortly for the preliminaries to a start on a multi-million-dollar base that will give Canada for the first time a camp large enough to train formations larger than a brigade.

Because official publicity only hampers negotiations for purchase or expropriation of land, there may be no official announcement for some time. However, it is understood the last obstacles now are being cleared for the big deal.

Because of fears that land values will soar, every effort is being made to keep the chosen area a secret.

The ideal area has been described as one about 50 by 20 miles or 1,000 square miles.

Stand Easy

NEWTON ABBOT, England (CP)—Army officials have sent a letter to Bert Eggbeer, 80, apologizing for their "unfortunate mistake." Eggbeer had received papers calling him up for service.

City Spending For Half Year Lag Estimates

$603,682 Spent; City To Get Grant Amounting To 1 Mill

Expenditures directly under the control of the council were substantially less than the estimates, at June 30, the half way turning point of the year, as reported to Mayor Waddell by City Treasurer A. S. Couper, Monday.

Total spending for the first six months amounted to $603,682.83, leaving an unused balance of $735,181.84 from the $1,338,864.67 appropriations for 1952.

Mayor Waddell received in the mail today a cheque for $9,192.36 from the National Trust Company, Toronto, as a further payment from the estate of W. G. Morrow toward the cost of the new city hall. That sum will probably be credited against the debentures that have been authorized to cover the actual cost of the municipal building, its site and furnishings, on the one hand, and the amount of the late Mr. Morrow's bequest, on the other.

GRANT COMING

His Worship had further intimation of a prospective grant, announcement of which should be published later this week, equivalent to one mill in the 1952 tax rate.

"That is an unforeseen contribution," Mayor Waddell said. "If we had known when the tax rate was being set, it was likely to be made to the city, we could have set this year's rate at one mill less."

(It will affect the final statement of the year, appearing as a credit.)

"However, I know the members of the council will be grateful that this money is to be forthcoming. It is for the credit of a special department, and I think the full announcement should come from them."

Some of the larger items in the six months' financial review indicating excess of credit in the balance of the appropriations for the entire year were:

DETAILS OF SPENDING

Board of Works: Spent $131,030 of their appropriation of $270,900; leaving $139,869.10.

Administration of Justice: Payments $20,606.14; leaving $25,-393.86 credit.

Fire Department: Spent $74,-071.84 of it appropriation of $158,-500; and have $84,428.16 left. Arbitration of the 1952 wage agreement is still unsettled.

Health Department: Spent $23,-599.48; credit balance $27,861.

City Hall maintenance: Spent $10,491.17; balance $16,936.

(Interest charges have amounted to $15,567, an overspending of $567.)

The miscellaneous account: Spent $25,906.75; remaining credit $6,093.25.

Parks, hospital landscaping, etc.: Spent $33,581.99; appropriation $66,000; credit $32,419.01.

Police Department: Spent $73,-072.22; appropriation for the year $160,247.50; credit $87,175.28.

Property committee has spent only $1,139.47 of its $15,000 appropriation.

Public Library: Spent $30,000; appropriation $48,300; credit $18,-300.

Recreation Commission: Spent $8,146.84; credit $7,946.91.

Suburban Area: $20,000 appropriation; cheque to the county has not yet been issued.

Garbage collection, etc.: Spent $45,435.24; appropriation $95,890; credit $50,454.76.

Welfare: Spent $23,130.12; credit $15,769.88.

Civic Hospital: Paid $149,546.49; appropriation for the year $259,-060; remaining credit $109,513.51.

Catholic School Board: Paid $49,201.56; requisition $80,750.76; credit $31,549.20.

Belleville Builds Second Firehall

BELLEVILLE—Belleville's second firehall will be built by the S. R. McRory construction company at a contract price of $74,-281, council decided Monday at a special meeting. Only two tenders were received, and the McRory one was higher by $441.

McRory was awarded the contract because, as council said, a "moral obligation" was owed the contracting firm. Last year when the firehall was first planned, McRory was tentatively awarded the contract, but could not go ahead because there was no site available. As a result, the firm lost money.

Site of the new firehall will be in the east end of the city, east of the old county home property.

TEMPORARY ROAD BLOCK, and a soft one, was set up on Highway 45, three miles east of Roseneath on Monday afternoon when a load of timothy and alfalfa tipped across the road after the wagon had broken its reach. Farmer Bruce Trotter and helper were hauling the load down the highway from a field to their barn when the accident occurred. Most cars, like the one above, could squeeze by between the wagon and mail box.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Five Amateurs Believed Near Gold Strike

CALEDON, Ont. (CP)—Five amateur miners working on a hill near here believe they are within six feet of solid gold.

They have gone down 54 feet in the limestone subsurface during the last four years of spare time mining. They're confident of finding gold at a depth of 60 feet.

Tales of gold in the area began more than a century ago when a visiting Indian is said to have left the area many times with nuggets in his possession. A local farmer trailed the Indian to an underground passage, but there the Indian vanished. No trace of gold was found.

Later a 15-foot mine was dug but work ceased when a large underground cavern looked too forbidding.

Today's participants in the venture include two sons of Hugh Jackson who 45 years ago bought the property; Mrs. Hugh Macdonald, and Charley Campbell, a Victoria farmer.

Now a fifth partner, Harry Logan of Glen Williams, has introduced dynamite and compressed air to speed the work.

Rotary Hears Of Red Prisoners

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—Rotarians and guests from other service clubs in the town heard an address by Squadron Leader Wood of Trenton air station. S/L. Wood entitled his speech "Pattern for Aggression", and in it he gave a first hand account of Russian treatment of war prisoners during the last war.

In April, 1945, Mr. Wood was, along with about 16,000 other allied officers, a P.O.W. at a place called Lukenwalde, about 40 miles south of Berlin. On the 21st of April the P.O.W.s were liberated by the vanguard of Soviet forces under the command of Marshal Koniev. At that time, everyone was wild with joy and the result was a wholehearted resurgence of good will and comradeship towards Russia, Joe Stalin, the Red Army and anything else displaying the Red Star.

The feeling of good will was short-lived when the prisoners realized they were not free at all. Repeated requests to be repatriated were to no avail. British and American government officials and high ranking officers tried hard to have the prisoners freed but failed.

Mr. Wood explained in detail the various steps taken by the Russians in their efforts to antagonize the men and related various incidents, which, he said, when compared with present day situations and happenings in Korea, fall into a definite pattern for aggression begun many years ago by Red leaders.

Franklin Linton introduced the speaker.

Heat Brings Sewage Odor But Much Weaker Than '51

South-end residents are breathing much more easily this summer. For years, hot weather has meant a return of the sickening stench from the city sewage plant that put everyone in a bad mood. Aside from its unpleasantness, the odor was a menace to health, residents who lived in the area charged. It made living in the vicinity practically unbearable and council was constantly bombarded with a deluge of complaints.

Last November, major alterations on the plant were completed and since then, much of the offensive smell has been eliminated.

After passing through three basic stages, where the water content of the sewage is reduced by passing it through settling tanks, it is then pumped into two large digesting tanks where it is further concentrated by heating it and the resulting sludge is drained off and carted away in a tank truck.

The extreme heat of the last three weeks has brought up the problem again to some extent and residents as far away as McKellar St., have experienced some discomfort from unpleasant odors at night.

100 PER CENT BETTER

However, one woman who "put up with the stench for 25 years," finds the new method "a decided improvement." "It is a hundred per cent better than former years," she said today. Although there is still some smell, mostly at night, there is no comparison with former years."

The resultant liquid is still 95 per cent water and is drained off and hauled away in a tank truck by Leonard Withers who has a contract wtih the city to remove it.

Much of the 125 cubic yards of sewage sediment he hauls away weekly is dumped on Mr. Withers farm in the country. District farmers may be missing a good soil conditioner by not making use of the sediment because, acording to city engineer A. E. Chalmers, it has "an excellent humus value."

One farmer who used it on a clover field this year is reported to have had an exceptionally heavy hay crop.

FERTILIZER VALUE LOST

The cooking process "takes much of the fertilizer value out of the sewage," according to Mr. Chalmers and the plant produces 50,000 cubic feet of methane gas daily. This is the part of the sewage which contributes most of the smell and when it is burned off, the residue is decidedly less offensive.

The plant was first started with an oil burner but as soon as gas began to be produced, an automatic control cut off the oil burner and the methane gas produced by the heating process is used to heat the sewage which in turn produces more gas. In fact the gas is produced much faster than it can be used and is burned into the atmosphere through a burner on the roof which ignites automatically when the gas pressure reaches a certain poundage.

WOULD COST TOO MUCH

Mr. Withers removes the settlings for 50 cents a cubic yard and Mr. Chalmers considers this method of handling it much more practical and inexpensive than if the plant were equipped to reduce the sewage to a dry fertilizer.

There are plants which do this, but Mr. Chalmers says it would have cost another $250,000 to have installed the necessary equipment here.

One of the largest such plants in North America which reduces its sewage to fertilizer and markets it under the trade name of milorganite is in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. Mr. Chalmers says he understands that if the city had it to do over again, they would not have installed the costly equipment required to do the job as it is proving to be too expensive to operate.

For nearly three months after the plant here started last fall, it was not necessary to remove any sediment from the digestion tanks, as the digestion process is very slow. Then, too, there is not as much sediment as engineers who designed it first estimated, because it is being reduced to a more concentrated form than the concentration they used for their calculations.

BURN SEDIMENT

When Toronto's new sewage plant gets into operation, the sediment will be incinerated and disposed of completely, because due to the quantity involved, it would be impossible to transport all the fertilizer that would be produced, if it were handled in that manner, Mr. Chalmers says.

Other municipalities who have sewage plants either dispose of the residue as Peterborough is doing, by letting someone take it away under contract, Mr. Chalmers says, or the corporation does the job itself. However, the majority have found it best, he says, to start out the way Peterborough is doing and then may eventually handle the sewage residue themselves.

Worker Falls 30 Feet Breaks Back

Vertebra Fractured Condition Said Satisfactory

Joseph Condon, 23, is in St. Joseph's Hospital today with a fractured vertebra and concussion, suffered Monday afternoon when he fell 30 feet to a concrete floor after a scaffold broke.

His condition was described today as satisfactory.

Condon, a leading aircraftsman in the R.C.A.F.'s medical division, is on 42 days' leave at the home of his mother, Mrs. Joanna Condon, 650 Rogers Street. He is stationed at Claresholm, Alta.

He has been working recently on the addition to the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co., glazing steel sash.

GRABBED ROD

Thomas Glover, 23, of 493 George Street, who has worked with Condon for about four years was on the same scaffolding, but was unhurt. He grabbed the rod which controls the opening and shutting of the windows, and climbed to safety by a ladder.

"I didn't realize it had happened until I was hanging there, holding on to the rod and I saw him on the floor," Glover said.

Dr. William Blastorah, who examined the X-rays taken of Condon, said Condon had suffered a compression fracture of one vertebra in the lower spine, concussion and a lacerated scalp.

Workers who witnessed the fall said Condon seemed to land on his feet, and was hit on the head by one of the planks that formed the scaffolding. Condon was conscious while being taken to the hospital, and was quickly given sedatives to ease his pain.

Glover said he must have grabbed for the rod as a reaction, "because I don't remember doing it. Then I climbed through the window and down a ladder on the outside of the building."

Glover could offer no reason for the scaffolding breaking.

New Steel Offer Unsatisfactory

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A spokesman for the United Steelworkers (C.I.O.) reported today striking U.S.W. leaders regard the steel industry's new peace offer as unsatisfactory.

Company executives tossed the 43-day old walkout into the union's lap during the week-end by saying they had made suggestions for ending the work stoppage and were waiting for the union's answer.

No formal answer has been forthcoming. But a union source declared:

"I think it's obvious what our reaction is—unsatisfied."

The union declined to confirm reports Murray is debating summoning his wage-policy committee here about Thursday or Friday to make the formal decision against accepting the undisclosed company offers.

Charge Painter With Slaying In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—An argument that flared up when an attractive government employee walked nude into the living room of her apartment, apparently unaware a man was painting it, is believed to have led to her murder.

The victim was Codie A. Whitman, 39, whose fully-clothed body was found in a bedroom closet of her apartment yesterday, two days after her murder. Police have charged Harry Clifford Porter, 24, an airman attached to the 1025th air force squadron, with her death.

STORY IN FRAGMENTS

Police report this is the story they have pieced togher:

Porter apparently had taken the job of painting the apartment to pick up some extra money. He entered Miss Whitman's apartment Saturday and began painting.

Apparently not knowing Porter was there, Miss Whitman walked nude from her shower into the living room. Angry words followed, and she went into her bedroom.

Porter told police she kept opening her bedroom door and he kept shutting it, and later she came out and "jumped" at him. At this point, he said, he suffered a dizzy spell, and remembers nothing until he saw her lying on the floor, dead. He then picked up her body, he said, and moved it into a bedroom closet.

Porter was arrested when he returned to the building last night to continue painting.

Warkworth Man Oldest Mason Dies At 97

The funeral for Thomas Baker, 97, Toronto, and formerly of Warkworth, who was believed to be the oldest Mason in Ontario, was held in Gravenhurst Monday.

Mr. Baker was a member of Percy Lodge No. 161, A. F. and A. M., for 75 years.

Born in Stirling, he was a descendant of United Empire Loyalists. In the early '80's he set out for British Columbia with his friends, Major A. B. Rogers and William Fernie.

Rogers discovered the Rogers' Pass through the Selkirk Mountains in B.C. a few years later, enabling the building of the C.P.R. to the coast. Fernie founded the B.C. town bearing his name. Mr. Baker set up a trading post at Kootenay Ferry, B.C., trading with the Indians. When the C.P.R. started building through the mountains, Mr. Baker worked with the railroad men until the completion of the pass.

Returning to Warkworth, he opened a general store. In 1912, he moved to Toronto and was a manufacturing agent until his retirement in 1927.

He was a member of the United Empire Loyalist Association. He attended his son's church, the Old Davenport United Church, although he was a member of the Church of England.

A great reader, fisherman and hiker, he enjoyed all his hobbies up to his last illness.

He leaves two sons, J. G. Baker, Toronto; the Rev. A. E. Baker, Stirling, and three daughters, Mrs. P. Klinkert, Alexandra, Virginia; Mrs. J. Forgie, Toronto, and Mrs. A. F. Ruttan, Muskoka.

Reaches Gibraltar On Ocean Crossing

CASABLANCA, Morocco (AP)—British authoress Ann Davison has reached Gibraltar on her attempt to be the first woman to cross the Atlantic alone in a small boat.

Reports reaching here today said the 38-year-old widow sailed her 23-foot yacht Felicity Ann into harbor there yesterday, 19 days after she left Vigo, Spain. Mrs. Davison sailed from Plymouth, Eng., May 18, hoping to reach the United States.

She and her husband tried to make the crossing in a 70-foot ketch three years ago. The ship was lost and her husband was drowned.

Eskimo Woman Bitten By Dog, Plasma Asked

TIMMINS (CP)—An urgent appeal for blood plasma for an Eskimo woman, severely bitten by a savage husky dog Friday, was sent out Monday by St. Mary's Hospital.

Twenty-year-old Mrs. Mary Samwillie was flown 850 miles from Port Harrison on the east coast of Hudson Bay. She was so badly bitten that the Moose Factory Island hospital there had no facilities for looking after her.

A doctor here said it was a wonder she lived through the ordeal. She is reported in fair condition.

DAGENHAM, Essex, England (Reuters)—A three-week strike of 10,000 workers at the Briggs automotive bodies plant, an associate of the Ford Motor Company, ended here today.

Anti-Cigarette Leaguers Split $1,500 At Banquet

KITCHENER (CP) — The Kitchener police department's Anti-Nicotine League has wound up its second year of operations with 10 members netting about $150 each.

The group, vowing abstinence from tobacco, contributed the price of a pack of cigarettes each day to a fund. A small dinner marked splitting of the financial melon.

After two years of successful operation, it appears the informal organization is suspending operation until September at least.

"We proved that we can do without tobacco and that's what we wanted to do," a member said today.

A few officers who joined last year with fervent vows to quit smoking fell by the wayside during the year and lost their stake in the fund.

Biggest loss apparently was $18.40 by an officer who weathered the first year without tobacco but slipped during the second year's operations.

Report Fire Toll Still Uncertain

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—Punctuated by explosive bursts of flame, fire raced through the old Pioneer hotel yesterday, levelling the three-storey structure in two hours and leaving at least one person dead.

Police Chief Floyd Clower listed five persons as missing and said eight were in hospital with burns. Clower said the toll may go higher as firemen start probing the ashes. He said only 180 of 250 persons registered had reported in to police headquarters 20 hours after the fire had died down, despite urgent radio and newspaper pleas.

The one listed victim was identified as Bill Vanderpool, an Alaska freight lines employee who died in hospital of burns.

Don't Expect Anyone To Be Named On First Ballot For Democrats

By RELMAN MORIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Democrats today were busy tacking up signs, making predictions and generally building up a full head of steam for the Presidential nominating convention that opens next week.

This is a multi-candidate convention, wide as the great open spaces.

Consequently, it is full of question-marks. About the only points of agreement are that:

1. Nobody is going to be named on the first ballot, or even on an "early" ballot.

2. Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee will hop out in front at the start.

3. Somebody is going to get a powerful lift from President Truman, and all the candidates are looking hopefully toward the White House for a sign.

NO TRUMAN FAVORITE

If the President has glanced with interest in the direction of any of the several front-runners, there is no indication of it here. The most any camp can announce is that Truman isn't opposed to their man.

Senator Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma said last night her is certain "the President is not against me."

Senator Richard B. Russell's camp says he has 300 convention votes—it takes 616 to win the nomination—and a solid chance to win "around the 10th ballot."

Kefauver refused to divulge his strength.

Kerr told reporters he has a minimum of 150 first-ballot votes.

These are not the only major Democratic candidates.

BARKLEY A CANDIDATE

Vice-President Alben Barkley is another. Headquarters has been established for W. Averell Harriman of New York, director of the Mutual Security Administration.

Meanwhile, rumors about Governor Adlai Stevenson of Illinois were still haunting the corridors.

Stevenson says, almost every hour on the hour, that he doesn't want the nomination. There is a report that the President no longer is trying to persuade him.

But another story has it that the Illinois delegates are marshalling for a draft-Stevenson drive next week.

Shortage Of Cars Reported In Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—The closing of several automobile manufacturing plants in Ontario due to the United States steel strike has caused a shortage of cars here.

Peterborough Man Directed Aerial Spray Attack To Save New Brunswick Forests

From Bud Worm City in the heart of a 300 square mile forest area of Restigouche country, New Brunswick, Ken Elliott, a former Peterborough man, successfully planned the largest aerial spray attack on spruce budworm ever attempted in the world.

For a recent forestry graduate, only a few months out of university, the assignment was quite a challenge. However, the large scale operation to save 194,000,000 acres of forest from the insects which destroy the foliage of softwood trees went off according to schedule and preliminary surveys indicate it was highly successful.

During the weekend, Mr. Eliott, an entomologist with the federal department of agriculture's division of forest biology at Sault Ste. Marie, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Elliott, 595 Chamberlain St. In an interview, he outlined the part he played in the $500,000 blitz attack on the budworm which is the largest single project of its kind ever carried out from one airfield in one season.

100,000 A TREE

Last summer, an examination of some trees in the forest revealed that the bud work population was very heavy. As many as 100,000 of the saw-toothed insects were found on an average height 80-foot balsam.

It was obvious that within another year or two at the most, thousands of trees would die as the result of insect damage unless something was done and aerial spraying with insecticide was the only answer to the problem.

An agreement was reached between the New Brunswick government and the International Paper Co., which leases timber rights on the forest area, whereby the province would pay one-third of the cost, and the company would pay the remaining two-thirds.

The federal government agreed to provide technical assistance in the way of biological studies and Mr. Elliott was loaned to the company as consultant.

That was last November and until the spraying started on June 14, he had a busy time, planning every phase of the project, except procuring the aircraft.

Both the location and size of the area to be sprayed brought up Special problems that had to be overcome.

SET UP TOWN

Living quarters had to be erected for the 150 pilots, technical assistants and spray consultants. An air strip was hacked out of the forest because light aircraft had to be used on account of the wide variation in elevation of the different sections.

The temporary settlement which grew up around the air strip was named Bud Worm City by the personnel engaged in the operation.

Work on the airstrip was started on November 15, and most of the construction was completed by Christmas except grading and rolling.

The roads in that part of the province are so bad in spring, that all supplies, including 200,000 gallons of insecticide, 40,000 gallons of aviation gas and 10,000 gallons of ordinary gas had to be brought in during the fall and winter.

NEW TYPE SPRAY

It also brought up the problem of finding a spray material that would not deteriorate during extreme cold weather. A new type DDT spray dissolved in a hydrocarbon solvent was tested by Mr. Elliott in the department of agriculture laboratory in Ottawa and in proved to be satisfactory for the job.

One of the most important aspects of the job was that of spray assessment — determining how much spray fell on an area — in order to find out if enough found its way into the trees to kill a substantial percentage of the insects.

Here again, Mr. Elliott had to develop a method to suit the job. The only method that had been used previously was to distribute glass plates throughout the area. The spray would filter down through the forest and form a film on the glass, permitting an analysis to be made to find out if the operation had been successful.

However, over an area of 300 square miles, this system was impractical. The glass plates would have been heavy and dozens of extra men would have been required to distribute them, because one man could only handle a few such plates and could not carry them very far.

While attending a conference at the United States department of agriculture research centre at Beltsville, Maryland, Mr. Elliott hit upon the idea of tinting cardboard sheets with an oil soluble dye.

He was invited to use the department's laboratory facilities there and found a suitable dye and decided that a glossy surfaced paper would be best.

PUT OUT SHEETS

The idea was to distribute the sheets throughout the area, then when the spray droplets fell on them, the base of the spray would dissolve the dye, causing it to run out to the edge of the paper.

At intervals of 110 feet, 22,000 of the dyed cardboard squares were distributed throughout the area in lines three-quarters of a mile apart, at right angles to the paths of the planes.

Weather was the big question mark as far as success of the operation was concerned and for a time, it looked as if rain would prevent the job from being finished. However, it was started on June 14, and finished on June 29.

The budworm goes through six larval stages and can only be killed with a contact spray when it is out in the open and it is only vulnerable for about three weeks during its life cycle. The spraying began when 20 per cent of the estimated budworm population was in the fifth larval stage (caterpillars about three-quarters of an inch long) and was finished when all but four per cent had passed through this cycle.

LITTLE MISSED

Two pilots in observation planes kept close watch on the spray aircraft as they flew back and forth across the 43 different blocks which the area was divided into by Mr. Elliott, and it is estimated that only two per cent of the entire area was missed, which is "excellent plus as far as coverage is concerned," according to Mr. Elliott.

The aircraft could only operate for two or three hours a day in good weather, because as soon as the wind reached six miles an hour, or in the heat of the day, when the sun's heat set up ground air currents, they had to stop because the spray would be blown away, rather than settling into the forest.

Some difficulty was experienced in obtaining suitable aircraft, because there are no spray contractors in Canada who could handle a project of this size. Four were obtained from different private firms in this country and the 20 others were owned by a firm in Takima, Washington, which rented its planes and supplied the pilots.

Although the job of collecting the sample cards to find out how much of the spray settled on the forest has not yet been completed and it is not known what percentage of the insects were killed, Mr. Elliott said preliminary surveys indicate that bud worm mortality was high and that the blitz spraying was highly successful.

With the first big achievement of his forestry career behind him, Mr. Elliott, a former P.C.V.S. student and graduate of forestry from the University of Toronto, is looking forward to taking a post graduate course in forest entomology at the University of Western Ontario in London, Ont., this fall.

Police Come Across New Kind Of Hot-Rods

TORONTO (CP) — Police here thought they had seen everything in the way of hot-rods until they halted vehicles built and operated by Derek Lund, 14, and Bill Carter, 15. They consisted of single-cylinder engines, salvaged from pumps, wheels from express wagons, several wooden two-by-fours and a few slats of wood.

The miniature blitz buggies had no brakes. The drivers dragged their feet to stop.

383 GEORGE ST. PETERBOROUGH DIAL 5887

NINETY-TWO YEARS OLD on Monday was Mrs. Estella Johnson of Smithfield, between Trenton and Brighton. At present visiting her daughter, Mrs. Ernest Jeffrey, 754 Stewart St., Mrs. Johnson shows she is still able to crochet without glasses. Although a little hard of hearing, she continues as best she can the life of hard work that she claims is the formula for a long life.—(Parks Studio Photo)

Mrs. Estella Johnson At 92 Keeps Busy With Needles

Trim and spry at 92, Mrs. Estella Johnson still knits, reads, crochets and embroiders without her glasses.

Mrs. Johnson, who lives at Smithfield between Trenton and Brighton, is visiting her daughter here, Mrs. Ernest Jeffrey, 754 Stewart St.

On Sunday, a day ahead, with all her near family present, she celebrated her birthday, and Monday was joined by a cousin and old friends, Mrs. Samantha Barker of Stirling. Mrs. Johnson came originally from Sydney township, three miles west of Stirling.

Her husband, Manford Johnson, was a carpenter, and died 25 years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson spent their entire married life in Smithfield.

HARD WORK

Her formula for a long life is not as simple as it sounds: There's no particular trick to it; just hard work and keeping busy."

Did 92 years seem a long time to her? "No. Time goes on and you hardly know it."

She looked back over the years to a day when today's easy drive from Stirling to Belleville was a hard haul over rugged roads and log bridges across the Moira river.

As woman of the house, she washed and sheared the sheep, carded the wool and spun it to yarn on a wheel;

When the many modern household aids now available were so far away that no housewife ever dreamed of them.

Two of her five children are living: Mrs. Ernest Jeffrey (Nellie), and Earl Johnson of Windsor. There are six grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Does Sun-Dress Reveal Beauty Or Blight?

How are your neck and shoulders standing up to the limelight now that you are wearing sun frocks and swimsuits? They should add to your beauty rather than cast a blight over it.

It is surprising how many women leave their necks out of their regular beauty routine. Necks are on show all the time, and an unbecoming neck can spoil the look of even the prettiest face. So, every time you cleanse your face, see that your neck receives the same treatment.

Of course, this is even more important if your neck is at all lined. You'll need a good skin-food, and this should be massaged in with the backs of your hands. Use an upward, hand-over-hand movement, and bring your hands right up to the point of your chin. A few seconds of smart slapping will complete this treatment.

Slapping the skin of the neck with a wad of cotton wool soaked in mild astringent lotion is most helpful. Splashing with cold water (especially under the chin) is another routine worth practising as it helps to brace up the muscles.

Don't worry if the skin of your neck and throat seems to be coarser and darker than the skin of your face ,as this is not at all unusual. However, you can improve appearances quite a lot by bleaching packs and also by some gentle friction. For the latter, use a fairly soft brush and a superfatted soap.

NOW THE SHOULDERS

Let's take stock of shoulders. If your problem is that of dingy appearance, the treatment won't take too long for you can use much the same treatment as for the neck—a bleaching and toning pack and plenty of work with a lightly bristled brush. Be wise in your choice of soap—a medicated one is best for the back and shoulders—and get up a really good lather with it. You can camouflage blemishes, moderately well with a calomine lotion which will also help to heal them.

Beware of dandruff. This is quite often the cause of blemishes on the back and shoulders. It's a good idea to cover these areas when you are brushing and combing your hair, or small particles of dandruff may infect your skin.

As far as sunbathing goes, remember that your shoulders are particular danger points and tend to burn very quickly. So protect them with your pet cream or oil and treat yourself in gradually, allowing a slightly longer sunbathe each time. And put a light wrap around your shoulders when they have had their daily ration of sun — even if your face can stand more of the hot rays.

LORD OGILVY — 26-year-old son and heir of the Earl of Airlie, goes shopping with his fiancee, Miss Virginia Ryan, 19, in London. Their engagement was announced a few days ago. They met three years ago at a dance in London's Savoy Hotel. The Queen personally congratulated the couple at the recent Londonderry-Leicester Ball. Miss Ryan is a great-granddaughter of the late Thomas Fortune Ryan, the famous American financier.

School-Free Days Spent Happily With Safety Too

How are you spending your school-free summer? Are you letting the days slip idly by, or have you put the precious time to profitable use?

There are actually many things for you to do, even if you stay home, visit the zoo, go on picnics, swim in the nearest pool, or just putter around your room.

Perhaps you'd like to change your old bureau into a modern dressing table. And what about the clothes closet? It might be fun to paint or wallpaper it.

Whatever plans you make, however, be a wise girl and play safe. Don't try to crowd too many activities into one day. You'll spoil all the fun if you are always exhausted.

Be sure you get enough sleep. Just because you are on vacation doesn't automatically mean that you should keep late hours consistently. Of course, watch your exposure to the sun, and don't be a daredevil in the water.

It you can't swim, keep out of small boats, or wear an approved life preserver. Rocking or splashing in a canoe is dangerous and could cause the craft to tip over.

You'll enjoy a much happier vacation if you use your common sense, and follow the simple safety rules set down for you.

Rice, Snap Bean Top-of-the-Stove Quickie Special

This quick cooking vegetable features a trio of family favorites: rice — green beans — tomatoes. Their wonderful flavors combine as they cook together and the result is . . oh so good!

Stir the easy recipe together in a hurry. Then dish up the steaming goodness of a wonderful rice dish and enjoy some vegetable eating that is pretty exciting to the taste buds and special enough for company.

INGREDIENTS

3 tablespoons fat
1 small clove of garlic, sliced in half
½ cup uncooked rice
2 cups snap beans, cut
2 cups tomatoes, drained and cut up
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 cups water

METHOD: Melt the fat in a skillet or saucepan. Brown the garlic and the rice in the fat, stirring occasionally. Discard the garlic. Add the beans which have been cut into halves lengthwise and then cut into 2 inch pieces. Add the tomatoes, salt, pepper and water. Mix well and bring to a virgorous boil. Lower the heat, cover with a lid and cook until rice and beans are tender. Stir occasionally to prevent sticking and add additional water it necessary. Almost all the liquid should be absorbed when the dish is done. (Makes 6 servings)

Program Ends Vacation School

LAKEFIELD — (ENS).— Vacation School held at the United Church here closed with a special program on Friday to which parents and friends of the pupils were invited. A brief worship service opened the program, with Carol Archer of London reading the 100th Psalm and Agnes Fraser leading in prayer.

Children of the primary class, under the leadership of Mrs. W. H. Fife, Mrs. George Graham and Mrs. Theo Down, sang two hymns and concluded their part of the program with a poem spoken in unison.

The beginners' class contributed "The Wind Song" with actions, a story, a portion of Scripture, and a "Good-Bye Song." They were taught by Mrs. J. Keller, Mrs. E. Parks of Sudbury, Mrs. Roy Farrow, Miss Betty Jane Rath, and Miss Anne Archer of London.

Junior pupils, whose special study was about the disciples, were the last class on the program. The books of the New Testament were recited by Fred Glover and Cathie Tozer who also was a visitor from Toronto. Another visitor from Detroit, Suzanne O'Brien, then receited the books of the Old Testament. The names of the disciples were repeated by Marie Northey and Donna Farrow gave the names in verse form. "The Beauty of Jesus" sung by the juniors, concluded their part of the program. This group was taught by the Rev. W. H. Tonge, assisted by Mrs. A. W. Newson and Mrs. John Bell.

The offering was received by Harry Jakins and Shirley Abrams and will be forwarded to the Institute for the Blind.

Attendance certificates were then presented to pupils who had attended at least 60 per cent of the classes by Mrs. S. A. Grylls.

PICNIC BURGERS

It's time again for Sunday picnics.

Try picnic-burgers for your first cook-out of the season. Make them up before hand and you'll have time left for fun.

Beat 1 egg slightly in large bowl with fork, add 1 pound ground beef, 2 tablespoons fine dry bread crumbs, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon thyme, few grains pepper and dash of garlic salt (optional); mix thoroughly. Divide into 8 portions, press together firmly, roll with fingers on waxed paper until 5 inches long. Wind spiral of bacon around each roll, lapping it over ends. Broil slowly 8 to 10 minutes, turning to brown evenly. Serve in split frankfurter rolls. Makes 8.

SMALL POPULATION

Make "Kabobs" For Lip-Smacking At Picnics

Pork and beans with Kabobs of canned luncheon meat or chunks of frankfurter make a lip-smacking dishful for a backyard picnic. Empty a can of pork and beans into a small casserole. String cubes of meat on skewers, alternating with thin slices of onion and/or pickle. Spread mustard between chunks. Brush all with oil. (Instead of skewers, you can use small green branches from bush.) Place kabobs on top of beans; cover and bake at 400 deg. F. for ½ hour.

In all probability the greatest single force in adult education is Your Newspaper. When you completed your formal education some years ago, the event was celebrated as your Commencement. It was then that you really commenced to learn. From that day to this you have learned constantly from Your Newspaper. Deep within you, even though you may not have thought much about it, you realize this and appreciate it. That perhaps is why you'd rather miss a meal than your newspaper. For well you know that any and every issue may bring you a tip, an idea, a suggestion, a thought—either inspiration or information that you can put right to work and keep it working for you the rest of your life.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Remember That Cheese Is Good Protein

All the time I am meat conscious—serving meat to my meat-hungry family even if I have to wear last year's summer sandals split at the sides. (That's a little bit dishonest—it's because I haven't time to go downtown to buy a new pair—even at $1.98.) And I know you too are meat buyers and servers . . . but the topic of today's gossip is cheese. Cheese is a rich protein—as good as meat in many cases—and a sight less expensive.

We should for health's sake and variety's sake eat cheese at least once per week as a main ingredient for a meal. I'm giving you some recipes today that are so enticing and so satisfying that your hungry family will compliment you on your cleverness when you serve them.

Corn enters into this little act too, in a souffle that is basically cheese. I do not think that souffles are insipid but some of your husbands will, but this Cheese and Corn Souffle is a real masculine number.

CHEESE AND CORN SOUFFLE

Make a thick white sauce by melting 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, stirring in 4 tablespoons flour, then 1 cup milk, until thick. Add 1 cup drained whole kernel corn and ½ lb. chopped or shredded sharp-flavored but soft cheese (or cheddar—it doesn't matter) and ½ cup soft breadcrumbs. Beat 3 egg yolks and add them. Beat until stiff the 3 egg whites with ⅛ teaspoon cream of tartar and ½ teaspoon salt. Fold the cheese mixture into them. Pour into buttered large casserole. (This puffs up easily double its original size.) Stand in pan of warm water to depth of 1 inch. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 50 to 60 minutes. You must be ready to serve this at once. I have the family at the table when I bring this in for it soon subsides, and I like them to see it while it's puffy. If you must have meat place strips of bacon over top just 10 or 15 minutes before serving time.

JULY VEGETABLE FRITTERS WITH CHEESE SAUCE

Mix together ½ cup cubed cooked carrots, ¾ cup each undercooked green peas, and well cooked green beans. Sift together 1 2-3 cups sifted flour, ¾ teaspoon salt, 2½ teaspoons baking powder. Beat 2 eggs well and add ⅓ cup milk to them. Add half of the dry ingredients to the egg-milk mix then all of the vegetables. Sift over remaining flour mixture and fold in. Drop from tablespoon into hot deep fat and fry about 4½ minutes, turning once. Serve as soon as possible after all are done. Keep warm the fritters that are done first on paper towelling in warming oven. Serve with

Cheese Sauce: In top of double boiler melt 1½-lb. package spready cheese with ⅓ cup milk, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and ¼ teaspoon mustard. Stir until smooth. More milk may be added if you want to stretch the sauce—but remember this can comprise the total protein ingredient of your meal if you use enough cheese.

EMEM'S MACARONI AND CHEESE

Boil ½ lb. macaroni in 1 quart salted water 25 minutes, drain and rinse in cold water. Pour into buttered casserole. Make a sauce by melting ¼ cup butter or margarine and stirring in ¼ cup sifted flour, then 1½ cups milk, until thick. Add ⅓ lb. grated cheddar cheese and 1 teaspoon salt. Pour 2/3 of this sauce over the macaroni and stir it down into the macaroni. Pour remainder of sauce over top; sprinkle top generously with more grated cheese. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for about 30 minutes or until top is flecked with brown and whole dish is bubbling. Serve this with a bright green vegetable and a salad. It is excellent to make early in the morning of a hot day—bake at the last minute, after you come home from anywhere, and serve out on the porch.

Remember girls, to keep cheese in the front of your minds when shopping.

DOROTHY DIX

Girl Advised To Give Up Smoking

DEAR MISS DIX: I have run into a very difficult problem with my boy friend. I am 19 and have known this boy for over a year. When we began to go steady he asked me to stop smoking and became very angry when I didn't. I couldn't stand arguing so I told him I would stop, only to find that it was impossible. I then began smoking behind his back. I knew [illegible] told him what I had been doing. We have been arguing constantly now and he says he will have to give me up unless I stop smoking. I feel if he really loved me he wouldn't get so upset over a little thing.

GRETA.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: This may seem like a trivial matter to you, but it is over just such seemingly small items that many marriages break up. Since your friend feels so definie on this point, it is up to you to make the concession and break the habit. It can be done. To make a happy marriage is worth the exercise of a little will power, don't you think?

✧ ✧ ✧

LONLELY DIVORCEE

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a schoolteacher, 35 years old and divorced. Since my religion precludes remarriage, I'm very lonely on weekends when other people are going places. Church work occupies quite a bit of my time, but there is still much left for loneliness. Wouldn't it be a good idea for women in my circumstances to band together in a group to solve this problem? I heard some time ago of an organization called Divorcees Anonymous, and wonder if you know anything about it?

M. R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I have never heard of a group such as you mention, but agree that it would be a fine idea. Why not scout around yourself and see if you can't find enough women in similar positions to form such a group?

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am getting married shortly and my future wife lives in another state. Since we're being married in her home town, I wondered if it would be proper to send invitations to my relatives here, adding a note to the effect that we realize they won't be able to make the journey for the wedding. The distance is great, and I wouldn't want them to feel obligated to make it.

A. D.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: A note such as you suggest might also be taken to mean that you don't want them to make the trip. Better omit it. You will probably have a chance to discuss the problem with your relatives personally, in which case you can explain that their absence will not cause hurt feelings, though you will be delighted if they can make the trip. It really isn't too long a journey in these days of rapid transportation and perhaps some of them will be glad to make the effort.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: A year and a half ago my husband and I came to this country from Europe. I am now 22 and have been married five years; I have a daughter 4. My husband is quite a bit older than I, and I am not very happy with him. He is a very sick person and, in the months he has been ill, I have found someone for whom I care more. Do I have a right to ask for a divorce now or should I wait until he is better?

L. Y.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Among the American customs it will be well for you to learn is that one does not desert a sick husband — or any other member of the family in trouble. Also, Hollywood publicity to the contrary, one does not trade husbands as casually as you are planning.

The mere fact that a husband is ill does not provide adequate reason for divorce in any of these United States — even the most liberal.

6—In Memoriam

BROWN—In loving memory of Miss Lillian, who passed away eight years ago, July 15, 1944.
What would we give her hand to clasp,
Her patient face to see;
To hear her voice, to see her smile,
As in the days that used to be.
But some sweet day we'll meet again
Beyond the toil and strife,
And clasp each other's hand once more
In heaven that happy life.
—Ever remembered by family.

MORDEN —In loving memory of my wife, Mabel Morden, who passed away July 15, 1948.
Gone is the face we loved so dear
Silent is the voice we loved to hear.
Too far away for sight or speech
But not too far for thought to reach
Sweet to remember her who once was here
And who though absent is just as dear.
—Sadly missed by husband, J. A. Morden and family.

Rebel Tribesmen Seeking Arms

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Official sources reported today that rebel Karen tribesmen fighting Burma's government have gone to Formosa for arms aid from Chiang Kai-shek and his Chinese Nationalist Army.

These sources said a Karen delegation led by Saw Shwe, a tribal chief, was flown to Taipeh, the Formosan capital.

The Karen rebels recently have suffered severe reverses from government troops.

Chinese Nationalist irregulars in north Burma previously have been reported supplying arms to the Karen rebels.

Suggests Britain Ease Military Conscription

LONDON (AP)—A pacifist member of Parliament suggested today that Britain ease or repeal military conscription.

Emrys Hughes, Labor member, said the time has come to change the national service act "in view of the large number of trained soldiers now available."

British youths now are called up for two years' training.

Hughes said he will ask Prime Minister Churchill Thursday to give the House of Commons an idea "when he proposes to introduce legislation repealing or modifying conscription."

MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—Korean armistice negotiations resume tomorrow after a two-day recess called suddenly by the Communists in the midst of crucial secret talks on prisoner exchange.

United Nations officials offered no clue as to the significance of the break in discussions.

The U.N. Command and Communist truce delegations began secret talks July 4 in an effort to break the deadlock over prisoner exchange.

Danube Open To Austrians After 12 Years

VIENNA — (AP) — Pleasure steamers, jammed with happy, singing crowds of Austrians, sailed up and down the Danube river to Vienna this weekend for the first time in 12 years.

The Johann Strauss and the City of Vienna, two double-decker all-day steamers, sailed on the "Red Danube"— that part of the river under Russian control—as a result of a sudden goodwill gesture by the Soviet Army.

For seven years since the war, river traffic between Linz, in the United States' zone of Austria, and Vienna, in the middle of the Russian zone, has been at a virtual standstill.

The reason was that the Russians threatened to confisciate all the ships of the Danube Steamship Company, claiming they were former Nazi property. The company did not allow its ships to sail from Linz into the Soviet zone.

But recently the Russians relented, for their own secret reasons, and promised to allow the passenger ships to sail freely without seizure.

Sunday morning the two ships began a regular pleasure service through the famous Wachau valley, where King Richard the Lion Heart of England was imprisoned.

Austrian officials said they hoped that the Russians may soon permit a resumption of freight transportation on that part of the Danube flowing through the Soviet zone. It would open new possibilities for the Austrian economy.

Find Woman's Body Lying Under Tractor

Soldier In Tears At Fiancee's Death

WITH 1ST MARINE DIVISION, Korea (AP)—Pte. Ronald Leo broke into tears today when he learned that his fiancee was shot to death on the Columbia University campus in New York City yesterday.

The marine said he could not think of anyone who would have wanted to kill his fiancee, Eileen Fahey.

"Everybody liked her," he said. "I don't know of anyone who would want to do a thing like that."

Leo said he and Miss Fahey had planned to marry when he returned home.

U.S. Clergymen Urge Queen To Fire Dean

LONDON (AP)—A group of United States Protestant clergymen arriving in Britain today said they had written the Queen urging that something be done about the "red" Dean of Canterbury.

Dr. Carl McIntire of New York, president of the International Council of Christian Churches, said he sent a telegram to the Queen telling her that the "pro-Communist propaganda of Dr. Hewlett Johnson is hurting the cause of Christianity and freedom."

The 78-year-old Dean returned from China last week with claims the Americans are using germ warfare in the Far East.

The U.S. clergymen are en route to the conference of the I.C. of C.C. in Edinburgh next week.

Attorney-General Sir Lionel Heald told the House of Commons yesterday that he could find no evidence to support a member of parliament's suggestion that Johnson be tried for treason.

Uses Razor In Robbery

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A razor blade was the weapon used in the robbery of William A. Sullivan in his home at midnight last night, police were told.

A 30-year old suspect was arrested a short time later.

Sullivan said he met the man in Victoria Park and invited him to his house for a drink. There the man went to the bathroom and returned with a razor blade.

He forced Sullivan to his knees, robbed him of $50, then forced him to accompany him—at razor edge—while he ransacked the house.

Reject Ford Bid For More Materials

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government today rejected Ford Motor Company's bid for a bigger share of materials parcelled out to the auto industry.

The decision by the National Production Authority represents a victory for the Chrysler corporation, which would have lost its No. 2 rank had Ford won out. General Motors is first.

In its appeal filed last March, Ford claimed it lost about $250,000,000 under N.P.A.'s system of dividing up materials.

4,000 Ford Workers Idled In Shortage

Production is being scheduled on a day-to-day basis.

The U.S. steel strike began June 2.

Foil Escape Plot

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Keepers foiled a well-planned escape plot yesterday—at the zoo. ## Receives 4,000 Children

Doctor Explains Granting Of Pension Fund

WINDSOR (CP)—Dr. P. J. G. Morgan, medical superintendent of East Windsor Hospital, said yesterday the hospital's board approved a pension fund payment on his behalf because he worked for the institution from 1931 to 1944 "for practically laborer's wages."

He told a provincial government commission investigating the affairs of the 350-bed institution for incurables that the board felt a $43,000 payment made in relation to his own back service with the hospital was justified. Until 1942 he was listed as a part-time hospital employee.

Because he received less than $20,000 from 1931 to 1940 and contributed out of this "a good deal" of equipment to the institution and because of his long hours of work, the board felt he deserved the pension.

Dr. Morgan said he habitually works 16 hours a day at the hospital. The inquiry is continuing.

A BIG INDUSTRY

Ice cream production in Canada in 1951 aggregated nearly 25,500,000 gallons.

THEY LIKE IKE—During the height of the Eisenhower demonstration, the Convention Hall in Chicago looked like this as cheering, whistling, parading, banner-bearing delegates jammed the aisles.

Record Vote Expected In Que. Election

QUEBEC (CP)—All indications pointed today to a record vote in tomorrow's Quebec election.

The month-long campaign, one of the most widely publicized and with heavy attendance at meetings, seemed destined to produce a popular vote that would outstrip the 1,509,971 ballots cast in the last election in 1948.

With an increased population, the list of registered voters—2,248,516—is more than 211,000 higher than the 2,036,576 eligible to vote four years ago. In that contest, approximately 74 per cent exercised their franchise.

Party leaders and the more than 200 candidates supporting them concentrated today on wind-up meetings as active campaigning moved toward the shut-down hour at midnight tonight. The leaders moved into their home constituencies for final platform appearances.

Voting hours tomorrow are 9 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. EDT.

LEADERS AT HOME

Premier Duplessis, leader of the governing Union Nationale party, tours his Three Rivers riding, where he is in a two-man fight with J. A. Mongrain, mayor of Three Rivers and a Liberal candidate.

Georges Lapalme, leading the Liberals in a drive to get back into office, confines his activities to Joliette, where he is up against Labor Minister Barrette in another two-cornered contest.

The Union Nationale, which knocked the Liberals out of office in 1944 and repeated their victory in 1948, held a 71-seat house majority when the Legislature was dissolved May 28 last.

This was the standing in the 92-member chamber:

Union Nationale, 81; Liberals, 8; Nationalist, 1; Independent, 1; vacant, 7; total 92.

The total of candidates this time is 234, far short of the 312 in the field in 1948 and the 337 who ran in 1944. Two parties which contested those elections are not running this year. They are the defunct Bloc Populaire and the Union des Electeurs.

Have No Motive For Slaying At University

NEW YORK (AP)—A mystery gunman invaded busy Columbia University yesterday to kill a lovely young blonde, day dreaming over her boy friend's letter from Korea.

The slayer, a slim, young six-footer, fired six shots at Eileen Fahey, 20, a secretary for the American Physical Society, which has a ninth-floor office on Columbia's campus.

The gunman walked out of the office, the weapon still smoking in his hand. He stopped just long enough to tell several persons:

"I just killed a girl. Call the police."

NO MOTIVE

Detectives were at a loss for a motive. They could only suggest that some secret admirer may have slain Miss Fahey in a fit of jealousy.

Her brother, Frank, 18, was shot to death five years ago in a teen-age street battle. His slayer went to a reformatory but since has come out on parole.

Miss Fahey came to work clutching three letters from her boy friend, Ronald Leo, a Marine in Korea.

She had never even been out with another boy.

She settled down in the office, sipping a glass of orange juice and mooning over the first of the three letters, the only one she had opened.

Girl 14, Comes Home, Missing For 4 Days

TORONTO (CP) — A four-day hunt by police and relatives for Marie Sweetman, 14, ended during the week-end when she arrived home on her own accord. Marie disappeared after she went to a theatre one night. She explained that she was afraid to go home because she was late.

Snookie Loses Baby

Top C.I.O. Leader Calls Eisenhower Rank Amateur

By ROLAND EVANS, JR.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A top C.I.O. leader today termed Dwight D. Eisenhower, Republican Presidential candidate, a "rank amateur" in the field of civil government. He said that on major domestic issues Eisenhower would be a "prisoner of his own advisers."

Joseph A. Beirne, a C.I.O. vice-president and head of 300,000 communications workers, said in an interview before leaving for the Democratic Presidential convention:

"Eisenhower has unquestionably been a great military leader, but if he is elected President he will be helpless on the great domestic issues facing the country, such as the Taft-Hartley labor law, civil-rights legislation, federal aid to the states, and others.

"He will have to depend completely on his advisers in making domestic policy decisions, rather than making up his own mind."

Beirne, a member of the platform committee at the national Democratic convention, is sometimes regarded as a possible successor to President Philip Murray.

LONG OPPOSED IKE

Some segments of organized labor have been fighting Eisenhower for months. The C.I.O. has been a staunch supporter of Democratic candidates.

But the other and larger labor confederation, the A.F.L., has a Republican heritage.

Actually, observers say the term "labor vote" has little significance. Organized labor does not vote in a hard bloc no matter how strenuously its political leaders may work for a candidate.

C.I.O. opposition to Eisenhower was first evident last November at the C.I.O.'s convention in Atlantic City. Emil Mazey, a member of the C.I.O.'s Political Action Committee and secretary-treasurer of the United Auto Workers, said that supporting Eisenhower as President would be buying a "pig in a poke."

Orange Church Parade Held At Millbrook

MILLBROOK (ENS)—The annual county church parade of the Orange lodges of East Durham was held Sunday evening to St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Millbrook. They were addressed by the Rev. A. A. Chote, who told of the origin of the Orange order.

It was formed to safeguard the reformation principles and had as its motto "Equal rights to all, special privileges to none." The original charter was drawn up by Bishop Burnett in Exeter in 1688. Mr. Chote said that democracy was built on the same spirit of tolerance expressed in the Orange motto. Throwing aside tolerance would be of the greatest help to the spread of Communism. Two of the precepts of Protestantism the Orange lodge stood to defend were justification by faith and the priesthood of all believers, that is that all could go directly into the presence of God in prayer.

Scripture lessons were read by Percy Hamilton of Millbrook and by Alex. Carruthers of Garden Hill, county chaplain. Lodge colors were received by Mr. Chote from William Wiltshire of Ida. Under the direction of Mrs. G. A. Spicer the choir sang "Lord, I Believe."

The parade was led by the Fallis Line boys' and girls' flute and drum band. Among the lodges represented were: L.O.L. 309, Port Hope, L.O.L. 321 Otonabee, L.O.B.A. 244 Peterborough, Juvenile lodge 136 Peterborough, L.O.L. 40 Cavan, L.O.L. 79 Millbrook, L.O.L. 421 Carmel, L.O.B.A. 1066 Millbrook, J.O.L. 253, L.T.B. 516 Port Hope, L.O.L. 853, L.O.L. 385 Garden Hill, L.O.L. 1022 Bethany, L.O.B.A. 1207 Bethany, L.O.L. 159 Tamworth.

Among those in attendance were County Master Thomas Staples of Bethany, Deputy County Master William Bateman of Bailieboro, Past County Master Ken Moncrief of Millbrook, Harry Cunningham of Peterborough, district master of Cavan, Noel Beardsley of Port Hope, county treasurer, and Mrs. A. E. Lunn, right worshipful director of ceremonies in the right worshipful Grand Lodge of Ontario East.

Demand Papers Publish A Retraction

ST. JOHNS, Que. (CP)—Premier Duplessis said last night newspapers which carried a Liberal party advertisement alleging that two Eastern Townships lumber operators became "millionaires in seven days" face libel unless they publish a retraction.

Speaking at a meeting here in connection with next Wednesday's provincial election, the Premier, who is attorney-general in Quebec, said the advertisement dealt with the exchange of Crown lands in the townships and cutting rights on this acreage. He said the advertisement appeared 10 days ago.

The advertisement was published in a number of French-language dailies and weeklies.

NOT MENTIONED

Mr. Duplessis said the transactions took place more than two years ago, and "we have had two sessions of the Legislature since that time but our opponents failed to mention the matter in the house."

"They waited until the last moment to make these dishonest charges."

He said the exchange of land had been carried out with the approval of the Department of Lands and Forests and the Department of Colonization in an effort to provide suitable land for colonists wishing to settle in the Eastern Townships.

Just Out Of Prison 2 Women Start Fires

Only minor damage was caused and no one was injured.

Suggests Law Should Be Tested

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Garson believes that federal laws against obscene literature should be tested in the courts before being termed unenforceable.

Mr. Garson put forward his position in a letter read last night at a meeting of a committee of the Ottawa archdiocese council of Catholic Parent-Teachers associations.

The present law is enforceable, his letter said. "None of those who have said that it was unenforceable have shown that they have invoked it and have failed to secure a conviction because the law was unenforceable."

The Minister's letter was in reply to one from the P.T.A. committee which has been campaigning against obscene literature. The committee's letter had quoted Ontario Attorney-General Porter as blaming inadequacy of present sections of the Criminal Code for the present situation in curbing undesirable books and magazines.

NO SUBWAY THIS—The picture above was taken down in San Antonio, Tex., and at first glance it looks as if the city is getting a new subway. On the contrary, instead of being a subterranean tube, "the subway" is the high-flying upper deck of the XC-99 (pictured below), the Air Force's cargo version of the B-36 bomber. Operating out of Kelly Air Force Base, the giant freighter routinely carries 100,000-pound loads of high-priority cargo. It is 182 feet long, has a wingspan of 230 feet and, in three years of operation, has carried a total payload of 8,000,000 pounds.

ON PROVING GROUNDS, Army's new Patton 48 medium tank climbs over three-foot wall with ease.

New Patton Tank Brings Up To Mark With Enemies

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

NEWARK, Del. (NEA).—America's tank program since the Korean War started comes closer to meeting original goals than any other major part of the big armament buildup.

Revelation by the army here that wass production is now under way in the Chrysler Delaware plant on the brand new medium Patton T-48 climaxes this program. The new Patton's revolutionary features are also expected to put U.S. ground forces in front of other nations in quality tanks for the first time.

In a few months a total of five major tank plants will be in operation in the country. And the most significant aspect of the whole program is that these new plants will be capable of increasing output many times in case of the need for total mobilization. Creation of such reserve facilities is the essence of the present overall buildup of the services.

Co-operation of the big automobile firms with Army Ordnance engineers has been a big factor in making all of this possible.

✧ ✧ ✧

Chrysler started from scratch after the Korean outbreak to aid the army in the development of the new medium T48. And details of a new heavy, the T-43, will soon be revealed. It will also be produced in this new plant.

In Cleveland, O., the Cadillac company has been turning out the lighter Walker Bulldogs in great numbers for many months. And the Ford and Fisher Body plants have been contributing to the general program by turning out hulls and turrets in mass production.

HALT MAKESHIFT

As soon as construction of the new Pattons increases, work on the interim T-47 will be halted. The T-47 is a makeshift combination of improved turret and hull, which the army started producing in its Detroit Arsenal plant soon after the Korean war started.

The T-47 was a gamble that paid off. It is better than anything the army had during World War II, but falls far short of the new Patton's performance. However, it did give the army an improved tank when it was badly needed.

✧ ✧ ✧

U.S. tanks have been consistently inferior to Russian and German tanks in several respects. They didn't have big enough cannons. Their armor plating wasn't thick enough. And they were too tall, making too easy a target.

However, U.S. tanks have always been superior in speed and maneuverability. And the T-48, in an amazing demonstration of its abilities, proved that those advantages have been retained, plus adding the other features.

It weighs between 45 and 50 tons. Speed is a secret but it goes fast and travels on an especially wide track which makes it good for swampy or wet ground.

The turret, which turns completely around fast and easily, is cast in one piece. That, and the one-piece cast hull are unique in the T-48.

✧ ✧ ✧

NEW CANNON

Special equipment also keeps the big gun trained on the target, once aimed, in spite of rough terrain it might be moving over. The high velocity 90 mm. cannon is designed with an easily replaceable lining which can be changed in the field.

An improved 50 calibre machine gun mounted on top is designed for reloading and firing without the gunner being exposed.

Its designers boast that you can't lay a foot rule flat anywhere on the hull or turret. This curving surface deflects shells which are fired at it.

Inside, it is roomy and comfortable, and automatic driving mechanisms make it extremely easy to handle on any kind of road or terrain.

These general, improved features are being incorporated in most of the new family of tanks being produced.

NATURAL PROTECTION

A hedgehog may roll from great hights without injury by rolling itself into a ball, bristling with spines.

Should Change With Times Says T. J. Carley

Progress in Canada by moulding institutions to fit changing needs was urged by T. J. Carley, speaker at the Rotary luncheon meeting Monday.

Mr. Carley discussed the two frequently used phrases, our way of life, and, back to normal times, —their meaning and significance today.

He suggested that the normal times that are referred to when speakers use this phrase might relate to the period between 1900 and 1913. He chose the small Ontario towns and villages as the most likely site of a pattern and gave a humorous and comprehensive outline of the kind of life led in these communities at that time.

JUST NOSTALGIA

However Mr. Carley claimed that yearnings for a return to this kind of life could only be classed as nostalgia. People would not be satisfied to live in the same way today.

He referred to developments in communications and other fields which have ushered an entirely new kind of life, which have changed needs and tastes.

However he pointed out that changes which have come about by these developments have not been adequately taken care of in parliamentary and institutional progress.

He referred to the tendency in Canada to elect a government with an overwhelming majority, which left no effective opposition. And criticized the present system of courts, resulting in pile-ups of court cases which are rushed through in court sittings of two or three weeks.

When speaking of our way of life there should be no looking back.

Look to the future, he concluded. If this is done developments and reforms will come as they are needed.

Mr. Carley was introduced by J. K. Hughes and thanked by Sandy Fleming.

Hollywood Bowl Changes Policy, Eases Finances

By BILL BECKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Hollywood Bowl, which barely staggered through its 30th year last season, tonight opens its 31st season of symphony under the stars with high hopes and sounder fiscal policy.

The new management, in the belief that good music should be as inexpensive as good baseball, has lowered the price of the moonlight bleacher seats to 50 cents. The reasoning is that 10,000 persons at four bits a head are worth more to the bowl's continued well being than half-filled general admission seats at $1.

In all, the great outdoor amphitheatre seats 20,000. The other 10,000 include the regular boxholders and music patrons who can afford to shell out from $1.50 to $3.50 per ticket.

NEED "LITTLE" MONEY

But, as any impressario can attest, if you don't keep the little money coming, your dead—even in a venture so allegedly highbrow as classical music.

The Bowl found that out last year when a disastrous opening week production of "Die Fledermaus" drew an average of less than 5,000 persons a night. The lavish production lost an estimated $50,000 and forced the Bowl to shut down and reorganize.

Artists rallied to donate their talents for most of the remaining 1951 season. With Jascha Heifetz and Yehudi Menuhin fiddling for free and Bruno Walter, Dimitri Mitropolous and others conducting gratis, the Bowl managed to recoup some of the loss. Average attendance was over 8,000 by season's end.

But it remained for the general public to toss $80,000 into an emergency fund to complete reorganization of the project.

This season symphony concerts will prevail on Tuesdays and Thursdays, with Saturdays devoted to Pops.

The top draw every year is the Gershwin concert, which is expected to pull another 20,000 crowd July 26.

Six nights of ballet will provide a mid-summer break in August. But the meat and potatoes will still be served up by the Los Angeles philharmonic.

Fine Silent About Meeting

TORONTO (CP) — Louis Fine, chief conciliation officer for the Ontario Labor Department, said today he is not yet in a position to comment on a negotiation meeting held last week with officials of unions and companies of the pulp and paper industry.

The 12 companies and nine unions have been negotiating for a new contract since their old one expired May 1.

Since then they have been continuing under that agreement pending a new settlement.

Mr. Fine said he may be able to comment on the situation later this week.

Blame Que. Gov't For Long Strike

ASBESTOS, Que. (CP)—Jean Marchand, secretary of the Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor, said last night the 1950 strike of Eastern Townships asbestos workers would have been settled in two months instead of four except for the Quebec government.

Addressing a workers' "political guidance" meeting three days before the Quebec provincial elections, he said the workers have an opportunity to "obtain vengeance for the unjust attitude" of the government in that strike.

"Do not misunderstand our intentions," he added. "We would not hesitate to address such reproaches again to governments of any political color deserving them."

Charge Eisenhower Harms Western European Unity

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oscar Ewing, federal security administrator, charged yesterday that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has hurled "a virtual napalm bomb at the delicate structure of western European unity."

Ewing referred to what he said was a remark by the Republican Presidential nominee that the French government is dominated by atheists.

"Ike's statement is not only tactless but explosively dangerous," Ewing said in a statement. He added that Eisenhower made the comment "after spending 20 months under the direction of President Truman in building up European defence and European peace."

"Already reports are coming from Paris that French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman will have to resign as a result. Schuman is a noted Roman Catholic lay leader. He originated and nurtured the present plan for a united Europe. He has weathered a number of French cabinet changes and now gets hit below the belt by Eisenhower."
